For those parents who have been worrying about dope conditions in Frederick County, an excellent opportunity will be afforded on Monday evening to hear an expert on dope investigation give a talk on the subject. The New Frontier Women's Club has acquired the services of State Trooper Carl Harbaugh, special investigator, and he will give a talk at the VFW building, second floor, Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. You, the public, is cordially invited to hear the talk. In fact, you are urged to attend. Corporal Harbaugh is an expert in this field and he has acquired the "tools of the trade" and will display them and explain them to you. He will describe the symptoms and other effects that will enable you to determine whether or not your child or loved one has fallen a victim to this despicable, health effecting habit. You've heard a lot of talk about school children in the county using marijuana, heroin, hash, LSD and other methods of "taking a trip". Let Corp. Harbaugh tell you the facts and how you can combat the use of these devastating drugs that are destroying the health and character of quite a few members of the younger generation.

Well October has come and gone and as was expected, it was another dry month. About two inches of rain fell during the period and this was one inch short of average for the month. For the first 10 months of this year, approximately 29 inches of rain fell and this is also about seven inches short of our yearly average. Almost every year it seems, the rainfall diminishes and it gives something to think about.

There's been a rash of broken windows in town for the past week and at least a dozen display windows in stores have BB holes in them. It appears that the culprit just rides up and down the street and snipes at the windows. It is very disconcerting to store owners, and private residence owners, and it is hoped the guilty party can be put out of circulation before some one actually gets hurt. Should you observe any such action that you might think of a suspicious nature, it is your moral obligation to inform the authorities. Let's break it up folks!

By next week most of the Christmas savings checks will be distributed and then Christmas shopping will begin in earnest. Already the mails are jammed with junk mail advertising just about everything in sundry. The TV stations, radio stations and newspapers are slowly getting into the act, but before you know it, Christmas will be upon us. Are you ready?

Slightly Injured In Car Mishap

An estimated damage of $150 was caused by a hit-skip driver when his vehicle rammed the rear door of a 1960 Chevrolet, operated by Mrs. Mary Ann Hahn, R1, Emmitsburg.

The mishap occurred on Friday evening, Oct. 31 at 9:15 p.m. when the Hahn vehicle was parked on the road shoulder of Rt. 97 and Tract Road intersection. The unknown driver's car hit the Hahn machine's right door. Mrs. Hahn and three children who were passengers in the car, were treated for slight injuries at the office of Dr. George Morningstar. Town Officer Richard V. Etzler who investigated, said charges are pending.

VFW AMBULANCE

Mrs. John Stonesifer, R2, Taneytown; Mrs. Diane Pryor, Thurmont; Mrs. Mary Williams, R2, Fairfield; James Harner and Sharon Sharrer, Emmitsburg, were transported this week to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, via the VFW ambulance. Mr. Clarence E. Hahn was taken to the hospital, treated, and returned by the vehicle. Drivers were James Kittinger, Michael Boyle, Paul E. Humerick and Thomas White.

County Needs For Water, Sewerage Aired

Comprehensive water and sewer plans for the northern portion of Frederick County were the subject of a public hearing Tuesday night at Catoctin High School in Thurmont.

This was another in the current series of hearings to air the proposed Comprehensive Water and Sewer Master Plan for Frederick County.

Benjamin Beavon, president of Beavin Company of Baltimore which prepared the master plan for the Frederick County Planning and Zoning Commission, discussed at the session the sections of the plan which affect Emmitsburg, Thurmont and the surrounding areas.

Beavin mentioned in his presentation a proposed amendment to the master plan categories which would allow exceptions within categories in hardship cases. This amendment will affect categories throughout the county, he said.

As originally designed, there were five air-tight categories included in the plan. The first three would not allow septic tanks or wells while the fourth would allow septic tanks and wells under temporary conditions, and the fifth would utilize them near non-development areas.

The proposed amendment, Beavins said, resulted from discussions at previous hearings in which it was pointed out that exceptions could arise within an area included in an air-tight category which would virtually require the confiscation of land where a hardship case exists.

Under the amendment, a community or sanitary district can declare an area a hardship case under terms of "current changes" where the plan does not apply.

Under the provisions of the master plan, both Emmitsburg and Thurmont would primarily use existing sewer systems, adding on to them or building new ones close by as the need arises.

Beavins commented that this is a long range plan aiming for total development of the area in a hundred years.

According to Beavon, plans for future use of water in Emmitsburg would utilize Toms Creek with a new treatment plant to be constructed in the area. Wells and Rainbow Lake are currently the main water supply for the town.

Thurmont water, Beavins said, will in the future come mostly from impounds and wells in addition to the Sixes Bridge dam project which, when completed, will serve that area.

Numerous sewage treatment plants are proposed for smaller communities in the northern section of the county. Plants are proposed to be built on Friends Creek one half mile south of the Pennsylvania line, and on the Cat Tail Branch where it intersects with Lake Monocacy, which will be formed by the Sixes Bridge Dam.

Other plants are planned on Double Pipe Creek where it meets the Monocacy, on the Monocacy at Hunting Creek Valley south of Creagerstown, on Fishing Creek, one half mile south of Lewistown and on Upper Owens Creek one mile east of U. S. 15.

Beavins predicted tremendous growth in the northern part of the county, estimating an increase from the 1967 census figure of 3,293 to 4,498 by 1980, 7,448 by the year 2000 and 106,000 by 2070. This estimate is in line with other figures which show that the county is now at only five per cent of its total development.

The main direction of questions concerned the financing of water and sewer projects, with Thurmont Commissioner William Benjamin asking if county taxpayers will have to finance preliminary engineering plans for systems within sanitary districts.

County Commissioner Charles E. Collins, who was present at the meeting, answered Benjamin by saying that the county would finance part of the project but that this would be strictly a loan to be paid back by the sanitary district when it begins to collect front foot assessments.

Beavins added that the federal government will pay approximately two-thirds of the costs of the engineering study.

Concerning financing through federal or state aid, Collins de-

Rt. 97 Overpass Bids Opened; Construction Soon

Work on relocated U. S. 15 in Frederick County is moving forward as the State Roads Commission announced bids on construction of a bridge to be located slightly north of Md. 97 near Emmitsburg.

The bridge will channel traffic from existing Md. 97 over U. S. 15, according to the district engineer Thomas E. Mohler. The three-span bridge, totalling nearly 250 feet, will be built on a site approximately .06 miles north of the existing intersection.

Apparent low bidder was Dewey Jordan, Inc. Frederick, with an offer of $165,495. Construction is tentatively scheduled to begin before the end of this year, according to Mohler.

The bridge is designed to increase the safety of the intersection which has been the scene of several fatal accidents in the past few years.

The roads department is currently working on plans to dualize U. S. 15 from Frederick to the Pennsylvania line. Right of way was acquired several years ago and construction may begin within the next two years, according to plans of the SRC.

District 4 participated in the celebration of the Mass at Pangborn Council, Hagerstown, Wednesday. Rev. Carl J. Fives, chaplain, celebrated the Mass. Deputy Grand Knight George L. Danner reported that Don G. Giannini, a member, has been hospitalized. Danner also reported that the Halloween masquerade party held last Saturday, was a social success.

Parked Car Hit On Main Street

David L. Mercer, 24, Thurmont R1, was charged with reckless driving after hitting a parked car in an accident on W. Main St. (Md. 97) in Emmitsburg early Sunday morning.

Maryland State Police said the accident occurred when Mercer lost control, at a curve, of the car he was driving east on Md. 97, striking a parked car on the south side of the roadway. The parked car is owned by Charles T. Knox, Emmitsburg.

Damage to Mercer's 1960 car was estimated at $250. Damage to Knox's 1968 car was estimated at $200.

Tfc. Paul Crutchley investigated.

Accidents in homes cost more than 28,500 persons their lives in 1968, reports the Insurance Information Institute.

BS in accounting from Baltimore College of Commerce, and an LL.B. from the University of Baltimore.

Cecil, who succeeds Harold F. X. Schwartz of Washington, says he can trace his ancestors back to a John Cecil with the first English colonists who landed in 1650 in what is now Maryland's St. Mary's County.

Ira L. Goldman of Harrisburg, Pa., has been elected vice president of the Mount Saint Mary's Alumni organization. A 1933 graduate of the college at Emmitsburg, he helped organize a Harrisburg alumni club in 1964 and now serves as its president.

TB Seal Sale Chairmen Named

Ira C. Rice and William A. Simmons have accepted the responsibilities of the Christmas Seal Campaign for the third year.

In accepting his duties as the county chairman, Mr. Rice stated that he had become aware of the increasing number of cases of emphysema and in reading an article recently released by the Dept. of Health Education and Welfare, learned that respiratory diseases rank first among all disease categories as a reason for doctors' office calls. The lung cripples are hitting the very heart of the home and the community by disabling men and women in the most productive years.

Last year 22 new cases of TB were reported in Frederick County. They are now under treatment. The Mobile X-ray Unit provides service for annual chest X-rays and is helping to keep TB under control. We hope everyone will support the X-ray program and the other services of the TB-RD program through the use of Christmas Seals, said the county chairman.

Last year $4,008 was used for Chest X-rays and other community services—$4,097 was used for health education in industry, the schools and for the general public in acquainting them with the serious effects of respiratory disease and the hazards of smoking and air pollution. Abstracts, clinical notes, films, filmstrips and literature were made available to medical and other professional personnel to help them keep abreast of the changing trends in the treatment of respiratory diseases. Since emphysema is the fastest increasing of all diseases on record today, 22% of our income is being spent in research on this disease to determine newer and more effective means of treatment and rehabilitation, stated the county chairman.

Senior Citizens Bazaar Saturday

"The time has come," the Walrus said, "to speak of many things; Of Autumn sales and sealing wax and cabbages and kings," to misquote "Alice in Wonderland." This is just where one will be, upon attending the Autumn Bazaar, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club at their home on Center Square, Saturday, November 8, 1969, from 10 a.m. on.

Patrons and friends will be amazed at the wonders to be found for sale: clothes toys, gifts, food to carry home or consume there, fruits, and vegetables, flowers and plants!

Education Week To Be Observed

American Education Week will be observed at Emmitsburg School November 10 through 14. Parents and patrons are invited to visit the school any day during the week. An assembly observing Veterans' Day will be presented by the students November 11 at 2 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

One in every 107 cars registered in the United States was stolen in 1968, reports the Insurance Information Institute.

Veterans Urge Support Of Nation's Vietnam Policy

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658 of Emmitsburg, this week called on all community organizations to join with the VFW in "Operation Speak Out" which is a program designed to encourage the "silent majority" to show their support of the government on the Vietnam question the week of November 9-15, which includes November 11, Veterans Day.

Speaking on behalf of Post No. 6658, Commander Thomas Saylor said: "Vietnam Moratorium Day last October 15 has given the world and especially Hanoi a distorted view of the true feeling of the majority of the people in this country. It is the belief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars that the majority of the people in this country do support our men in Vietnam and the position of our government.

"It seems tragic that there are those in this country who support the position of Hanoi while American servicemen are daily being killed by troops of Communist North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. It is time that the silent majority let their will be known publicly. For this program to be effective and reflective of the community mind, it is my hope that all other civic, fraternal, patriotic, labor, religious and other organizations here will join with us and make this a true community effort."

Commander Saylor also stated that Raymond A. Gallagher, VFW Commander-in-Chief, is calling on all other national organizations to join with the VFW in this undertaking.

Girl Scouts Plan Busy Year

The Emmitsburg Girl Scouts are in full swing for another year. We are very fortunate again this year to have girls from St. Joseph College. The girls helping are: Nancy Nugent, Mary Ann Coleman and Susan Solopok with the Brownies. Ann O'Brien, Sue Kock and Anna Patrick are helping with the Juniors with Mrs. William O'Toole as leader. Miss Kathy Brodrick is helping Mrs. Chalos. Misses Andy Miller and Debbie Houston are helping Miss Heisch with the Cadets.

Miss Leah Hosenbock is interested in starting a Senior Troop. There will be a meeting at St. Joseph College in the student union building, Monday, Nov. 10 at 7 to 8:30 o'clock to discuss the possibility of getting this started. It would really be a great opportunity for the older girls in the community if we could get this started. Please give your support and if you know any interested girl, have them come to St. Joseph's that night.

Troop 1316 Girl Scout Troop 1316 with leader, Miss Joy Heisch, has started again. At our third meeting October 13, we elected the following officers: Patrol leaders, Connie Wivell, Cathy Wivell and Phyllis Davis; asst. Patrol leaders, Anna Antolin, Debbie Goulden, and Cathy Stoner. Finance managers, Betsy Field, Bonnie Staub and Franny Field; recorders, Connie Boyer, Rosemarie Staub and Beth Little; treasurer, Bonnie Gore, and scribe, Bobbie Jean Staub.

On October 6, 1969, Troop 1316 took a hike to Kump's Dam. We were divided into two groups. Each group did different things. We had hamburgers, french fries, applesauce, pickles, cucumbers and somesores, a favorite dessert. We hope more girls will join the Girl Scouts.

The Miraculous Medal Novena is conducted every Monday evening throughout the year at St. Joseph's Church, and always draws a good attendance. It is confidently hoped that this Solemn Novena will attract many who are unable to attend every Monday night, in addition to those who have been faithfully participating in this devotion.

DAY CARE CENTER OPEN HOUSE

Open House will be held at the Seton Center on Sunday, November 9 from 3 to 5 p.m. We would like you to visit our Day Care Center, which was opened on November 3.

Town Meeting Held; Routine Business Handled

All members of the Town Council were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners held Monday evening, President of the Board J. Ralph McDonnell presiding. Also present was the town's attorney, Fred Bower.

Paul Glass, John Glass and Howard Price appeared before the group to discuss cutting timber on Town property, define rights-of-ways and to determine the price of any lumber cut. Charles Linn asked the Council to lay a new sewer line to his property on Fraily Road as the present one was not satisfactory. Council agreed to clean the present line. Mayor Robert A. Seidel read a bid of $105 from a concon to re-finish the floors in the Town Office, and Council voted to have the work done.

Patrick B. Boyle inquired of the Council why a book of the Town's ordinances was not kept in the Town Office for public information and use. He also challenged the legality of purchasing and installing water meters by the Town which termed the project as capital outlay, and which Mr. Boyle maintained was not included in the annual budget.

In other action taken at the meeting the Council voted pay for extra deputies used over Halloween, to contact the Vigilant Hose Company relevant to erecting the Christmas lights after Thanksgiving and agreed to purchase a 3-M copying machine for office use. Rev. W. Ronald Fearer commended the Police Dept. for its fine work over Halloween and the Board gave the Department a vote of confidence. Chief W. Henry Filler presented his monthly report and asked the Council's opinion on unpaid parking meter tickets.

Council asked the Public Works Dept. to remove a tree stump on the Ernest Shriver property on E. Main St., and voted to bill its insurance company for four broken parking meters, two broken fire hydrants and two broken windows in the sewer plant. A thank-you letter from the Parish Council of St. Joseph's Church expressing its appreciation for a water faucet which has been installed at the new cemetery and also for a street-light recently erected at the Rectory Grove on DePaul Street.

The Town Fathers commended Chief Filler and his assistants for the excellent work they were doing in minimizing loitering and car racing on the Town streets. A letter from a Baltimore concern interested in locating here was received, however a large building was required and Council informed the concern that no building was available here at this time.

St. Joseph's Church Schedules Novena

On Sunday, November 9, a Solemn Miraculous Medal Novena will begin at St. Joseph's Church, in Emmitsburg. It will be conducted by Father John Hummel, a Vincentian Father, a member of the Miraculous Medal Novena Band. He is completely occupied with the preaching of Novenas all over the United States, and comes highly recommended. Father Hummel will preach at all the Masses in St. Joseph's Church, on Sunday morning.

The Novena services will be held each evening at 7:30, from Sunday, November 9, through Monday, November 17, inclusive. Services generally are about 45 minutes in length, which leaves plenty of time for all other evening activities.

A most cordia invitation is extended to the entire community to come out for all or any of these special services.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob E. Baker, Tract Road, have returned home after visiting Mr. Baker's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Baker, McGregor, Texas.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By Samuel Carrick
"The Patterson Brothers"
In his "History of Western Maryland," Thomas Scarf writes as follows regarding the church—first known as Tom's Creek.

"The present Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church was formerly known as Tom's Creek Presbyterian Church. The Lower Marsh Creek, Piney Creek, and Tom's Creek once constituted a trio of congregations usually served by the same minister.

"According to tradition all three congregations originated in the little rural community just north of the Maryland line, where services are said to have been held as early as 1730. The group migrated later and formed the three congregations mentioned above.

"Some years before the founding of Emmitsburg, a thrifty colony of Scotch Presbyterians located themselves near Mason and Dixon's line, in what was then York (now Adams) County, Pennsylvania. These men and women soon crossed the border into Frederick County, Maryland, and built a church on Tom's Creek Hundred about a mile and a half from the infant town of Emmitsburg.

"The old record, incomplete, shows a close connection between the three congregations (Lower Marsh Creek, Piney Creek, and Tom's Creek). The Rev. John Slemmons, who was called to Lower Marsh Creek in 1746 also preached at Piney Creek and Tom's Creek. He also assisted at the installation services of the Rev. Hezekiah Balch as pastor of Tom's Creek on October 16, 1775.

"The records show that in October, 1780, forty members of Lower Marsh Creek congregation signed a petition asking that it and Tom's Creek be united so as to form the same pastoral charge. The proposed union was effected the following April with the concurrence of Tom's Creek."

"The two congregations united in calling the Rev. John McKnight, who was installed on the second Wednesday in November, 1783. He resigned in 1789.

"On October 1, 1782, the Rev. William Paxton became pastor of the united churches. However, in 1796 the relationship between the two congregations was dissolved and the Rev. Paxton served only Lower Marsh Creek.

"The relationship between the two churches was not always pleasant. One bone of contention was the boundary line between the three congregations. On October 24, 1764, the Presbytery appointed a committee to confer with representatives of the three congregations. This committee included the Rev. John Roan and the Rev. Samuel Thompson and Elders James Murphy and Samuel Rddy. The meeting was held at Tom's Creek. As a result the following agreement was entered into:

"We, the subscribers, commissioners of Lower Marsh Creek, Tom's Creek, and Piney Creek congregations, being met the 25th day of April, 1765, in order to treat respecting the division lines between said congregations, have agreed that a line being drawn straight from Marsh Creek Meeting House to that of Tom's Creek, a line crossing that line at right angles at the end of four and a half miles from Marsh Creek Meeting House, and extending on the one side to Tom's Creek and on the other until it intersects Piney Creek congregation, shall be the division line between said congregations, and that the division line between Marsh Creek congregation and that of Piney Creek shall be midway between the meeting houses.

"Witness our hands this day and year above written. Signed: John Alexander, William Shields, William Cochran, John McKinley, Samuel McFarren, Andrew Hart, James McKinley, William Porter."

The above sketch by one of the comparatively early historians should answer some of the inquiries pertaining to the Tom's Creek or Emmitsburg Presbyterian church.

To return to the historical and genealogical study of the old Tom's Creek burying ground—there are two graves of interest in the west end, very near those of the Annan family, that should be included in this series. The inscription follows:

1. The Patterson Brothers, John Patterson, Born 8/18/1818, Died

lice car. More than once I've thought of buying a motorcycle, just to test the law on crash helmets. My driver's license expired two years ago.

However, just because some restraints are mean and repressive, I am not galled by thoughts that man can survive—much less be happy—in a restraintless society. It is not his nature.

Two days ago CBS-TV did a photographic spectacular on the Study of Animal Behavior. It was all about sex. Wow! I hope that my children got the same lesson from it that I did; and I consider it a shame that the producers were unable to find a tribe of people, untouched by the effects of our present society, in order that my children might have been treated to an equally beautiful picture of their own animal character. This sort of sex education I dig.

It is a common and erroneous notion among many Catholics that the Church teaches sex to be dirty. Sex has an almost sacred character. It is natural; and the end product of sex i. e., the family, is equally natural. Bertrand Russell to the contrary notwithstanding, Judeo Christian civilization did not invent the family.

1/1/1904. Robert H. Patterson, Born 5/23/1831, Died 1/30/1916.

Note: John and Robert Patterson are still remembered by some of the older residents of Emmitsburg and vicinity. There are also five other marked Patterson graves in this graveyard and without a doubt some degree of relationship exists between all of them. Other later members of the Patterson clan, are buried "on the hill" in Mountain View Cemetery.

Interred in the seventh row of graves, counting from the west end, are members of the Beam-Guthrie families. The inscriptions follow:

3. In memory of Geo. P. Beam, Born April 19, 1855, Died November 21, 1917.

4. In memory of Susan G. Beam, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Beam, Born March 10, 1917, Died April 8, 1920.

5. In memory of Adam Guthrie, Born October 12, 1809, Died August 19, 1858.

Margaret Wagner Guthrie, wife of Adam Guthrie, Born May 29, 1809, Died March 3, 1894.

Margaret A. Guthrie, Born June 3, 1850, Died August 14, 1850.

John W. Guthrie, Born January 25, 1833, Died August 4, 1853.

George P. Guthrie, Born March 2, 1846, Died November 16, 1853.

Jane Guthrie Beam, Born February 15, 1836, Died August 28, 1911.

Mary L. Guthrie, Born June 3, 1834, Died May 20, 1915.

Sarah C. Guthrie, Born November 6, 1831, Died February 6, 1956.

Note: Apparently Adam and Margaret (Wagner) Guthrie were the parents of Margaret A. Guthrie, John W. Guthrie, George F. Guthrie, Jane (Guthrie) Beam, Mary L. Guthrie, and Sarah C. Guthrie, Jane Guthrie married into the Beam family and this accounts for the fact that the two clans buried their dead in the same plot.

The Gambles, interred just beside the Beams and Guthries on the north and again there might be some connection—either by blood or marriage.

The study of the burials at Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard will be continued in this series next week.

This great civilization came into existence only because the family was already there. Looking around for a pattern to more embrace institutions, civilization observed the family and copied it. Every enduring institution created since then that has ever touched the life of man, including the Catholic Church, was copied after the family. I think the church will survive "all days" because the family—which it imitates—is of the most perfect design . . . and it is authoritarian!

Yours sincerely,
Patrick McGucken, J.D.,

Cancer Drive Is Best Ever

The largest amount ever raised in a Cancer Crusade in Frederick County was collected this year, according to an announcement by the Frederick County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The local unit submitted a return of $25,899, almost $4,100 more than the $21,800 goal set for the county.

In the announcement, Crusade Chairman Francis W. Bush, Sr., expressed his appreciation to the hundreds of volunteers who worked during the crusade and made this record setting achievement possible.

"The work of these volunteers," Bush stated, "has not only set a record for Frederick County, but has also assured the local unit of being able to continue the three-fold program of research, education and service to the members of our community.

"In a county as small as ours, it is alarming to note that more than 180 patients are receiving some kind of assistance from the local Cancer Society. This includes financial assistance, counseling, transportation to treatment centers, sterile dressings, home nursing, sick room assistance, and even housekeeping assistance.

It is indeed gratifying to realize that through the efforts of our volunteers and the generosity of our citizens, we can continue the important work of patient care and the even more important work of preventing cancer and curing it through early detection."

The following volunteers served during the Crusade: Emmitsburg: Mrs. Lumen Norris and Mrs. Joseph Haley. Thurmont: Mr. M. T. Mathwig.

Coast Guard Recruiting Change

Two significant changes have been announced by the Coast Guard Academy that will affect seniors making application to become cadets.

For the first time, College Entrance Examination Board test scores will be accepted for the tests taken prior to the December 6 date, as well as the December 6 test. In years past only the December test scores would be accepted.

The second major change is in the eyesight requirement which for years has been 20/30, correctable to 20/20. Now, applicants may have a visual of only 20/40, correctable to 20/20. In addition, the Superintendent of the Academy may grant a waiver to outstanding applicants whose visual acuity is 20/100.

These changes are to a program of admissions that is unique among the nation's four military academies. There are no congressional appointments made to the Academy.

A record 55,200 persons died in auto crashes in 1968.

Appreciates Effort For UNICEF

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

The U. S. Committee for UNICEF and the Junior Woman's Club want to express their thanks to the many concerned citizens, children and adults, who contributed to the success of the 1969 Trick or Treat for UNICEF program in Frederick County.

Whatever their age, our fellow-citizens can feel very proud. The enthusiasm shown by our young goodwill ambassadors, the qualities of leadership of the teenagers who helped organize them, and the adults' generosity speak well of our town and country. While needy children and mothers in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East will ultimately benefit from the contributions made on Halloween to the United Nations Children's Fund, our own children may be considered as the first beneficiaries of the program.

They have received a fine lesson in international understanding and the example of concern and sharing set by their elders will not remain unheeded. The many residents who welcomed the UNICEF Trick or Treaters should feel rewarded by the satisfaction that comes from helping others and from the constructive activities of our children.

It is still too soon to release a final collection figure, but all signs point to a very successful harvest of pennies, nickles and dimes.

Need-To-Know About Drug Abuse:

What Are The "Up and Down Drugs" And What Can They Do? Amphetamines and barbiturates are the "up and down" drugs, usually taken in pill form. They are said to "pick you up when you're down and bring you down when you're up." For most people, amphetamines do have exhilarating effects, while barbiturates bring calming. They are powerful drugs, too powerful to play around with.

Yet too many people are doing so. No one knows how many, but the best estimates are that about 200,000—and perhaps as many as 400,000—persons regularly abuse these and other non-narcotic drugs. The case of Mary Jones illustrates the matter. It's a hypothetical case, not a real name, but it is true. Mary takes amphetamines to get going and barbiturates to put her to sleep. She does this day in and out. She takes the "up and down" pills without the supervision of her family doctor.

Mary is—or is on the way to being—a slave of these drugs, addicted to them, a "junkie" as the slang goes. What is worse, she doesn't know it. She doesn't know facts she needs to know, like these:

The "up drugs," pep pills also called "bennies" and "speed," are a group of drugs known as amphetamines. They form one-half of what is perhaps the biggest part of the drug abuse problem in the U. S. today.

The other half of the problem are the "down drugs"—sedatives, sleeping pills, the large family of drugs made for medical purposes to relax a person.

What do the "down drugs" do? They produce a relaxing effect for most people; in normal, medically supervised doses, they mildly depress the action of the nerves, skeletal muscles, and heart muscle. In abnormal doses, the effects resemble alcoholic drunkenness.

Are these drugs addicting? The amphetamines or "up drugs" produce "psychological" dependence—a practice that can become a habit for mental or emotional reasons.

The "down drugs," barbiturates usually, are physically addicting. Some experts consider barbiturate addiction more difficult to cure than dependency upon a narcotic like heroin or cocaine.

Are these drugs dangerous to use? They have definite medical and health values if properly used under a physician's direction.

None is properly available without a physician's prescription. This is for the very good reason that their misuse or abuse can be dangerous.

Barbiturates are a leading cause of accidental poison deaths. Sleeping pills distort how people see things; they slow down reactions and responses. They are an important cause of automobile accidents.

Amphetamines misused can lead to accidental deaths and to accidents because they can distort perception, judgment, and even cause severe mental derangement.

Watch Inventory Figures

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., November 6, 1969—High borrowing costs, tight credit, impaired vigor of consumer spending, and anti-inflation fiscal policies of the federal government have all been well publicized in the past year as factors which can cause a period of business hesitancy. Indeed, at long last, the seemingly unstoppable upward climb in business has been checked, at least temporarily. After reaching a peak at mid-summer, industrial activity has crested over. Thus, attention is now swinging more toward concern that these measures which were instituted to cool down a superheated economy may precipitate a downward slide in business greater than expected. However, monetary and fiscal policies can be switched in fairly rapid order.

Cycles Of Inventory Changes

A factor which is less readily controlled is the element of cycles in business inventory holdings. Economic studies in the past have been able to establish a clear indication that business inventory policies have played a major part in determining the course of the shorter moves in business fluctuations. Buying in excess of current needs represents inventory accumulation. This type of action can not only lead business out of a recession but also accentuate the ensuing economic upswing, and even prolong a business boom.

But when manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers de-emphasize inventory accumulation or engage in an outright liquidation of swollen inventory holdings, the net result is to reduce business vitality.

Causes Of Changes In Inventory Policies

Many factors affect business inventory policies, including the business climate itself. However, expectations for near-term business are by far the most important determinant of business inventory policy. In a sense, this represents the elusive force of business confidence. Anticipation of higher levels of business can prompt businessmen to lay aside more inventories than current demand warrants. By the same token, rising prices or expectations of labor disruptions can prompt forward buying to assure adequate supplies of inventory to meet future needs.

On the other hand, apprehension concerning a possible drop-off, or even a leveling off, in business fosters more cautious inventory policies. Then, when the business dip does occur, the usual tendency is to feed on existing inventory stockpiles rather than new output, which in turn can aggravate the business letdown.

Losing Control

It is not easy for businessmen accurately to determine future inventory requirements. Seemingly unstoppable business advances have a nasty habit of habit of terminating sooner than expected, or oft-times can run longer and stronger than anticipated. But this type of deficiency can be remedied quite readily, although perhaps on a costly basis.

A far greater danger is the unintended building up of inventories. This can result from overly optimistic projections of future demand, or the resolution of a labor conflict either short of a walk-out or with only a brief tie-up. In either case, businessmen are left with greater-than-desired inventory holdings which must be reduced. Moreover, sometimes inventories can continue to build up even after cutbacks in orders are instituted, as deliveries are received on orders previously placed. This situation is especially onerous when demand also slumps.

Current Inventories Pose A Danger

During the long business up-trend which now appears to have been checked, inventory holdings seemed inadequate in most instances. Moreover, with the inflationary spiral in commodity prices, the businessman who kept his shelves heavily stocked fared very well. But now that demand has tapered off and the up-trend in industrial activity has crested over, inventory holdings could suddenly become burdensome.

Thus far, the ratio of inventory to sales has not been out of line with normal benchmarks. However, if sales should falter, adequate stockpiles could become excessive, particularly as manufacturers delivered goods which were previously ordered.

Caramel Apple Time Is Here

It's Fall again, and the appetite for apples is having its annual renewal. Although apples are now available the year around, they never taste more deliciously sweet and juicy than when the new Fall crop is in.

Fall is also time for renewal of an old apple tradition—Caramel apples! No trouble to make in on the act of their preparation. Each year at this time your food store features special cello bag packs of caramels with sticks attached and simple instructions for preparation. All you need from there is a double boiler, a spirit of fun, and you have one of America's oldest and best loved confection treats.

There are dozens of variations. As a starter for your own imaginative creations, the home economists of the Kraft Kitchens have provided the recipes for a few of their favorites. You'll find them a great idea, colorful and enjoyable, for a Halloween party, football party or just any informal get-together. They also make a great family treat for those quiet nights at home.

Here are the simple directions for Caramel Apples:

Wash and dry 4 or 5 medium size apples. In a double boiler or saucepan over low heat, melt 49 (14-oz. bag) Kraft Caramels with 2 tablespoons water. Stir occasionally until sauce is smooth. Insert a wooden stick into stem end of each apple. Dip into hot caramel sauce; turn until coated. Scrape off excess sauce from bottom of apples. Place on greased waxed paper; chill until firm. Keep in a cool place.

Variations: Dip Caramel Apples in shredded coconut, chopped nuts or crushed peanut brittle.

Arms Talks

The Administration's decision to begin negotiations with the Soviet Union on limiting strategic armaments launches the hopes of the world once again on the difficult but redemptive road to peaceful cooperation among men.

President Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers should be commended for acting on their oft-expressed recognition that the United States and the Soviet Union have a mutual interest in restricting the arms race and recording national priorities. As an observer at the 18 nation disarmament talks in Geneva, however, I became aware of another equally important consideration. Most of the disarmament talks in the past have chiefly affected the smaller nations. The Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, for example, had little effect on the military capabilities of the great powers, which could test underground, but it virtually precluded advanced development by lesser powers. Similarly, the Nuclear Proliferation Treaty in effect was designed to preserve the nuclear oligopoly. It is being signed by other nations at least in part because it also pledges the major powers to negotiate further disarmament among themselves.

I believe nuclear proliferation poses the greatest single threat of nuclear war by accident or miscalculation. The great powers have their nuclear forces under effective control; they are experienced in dealing with nuclear technology. But the primitive nuclear contrivances of small countries could become a new and unpredictable catalyst of incalculable dangers.

Yet the nuclear powers cannot expect the non-nuclear countries to accept permanent nuclear privation in the face of great power determination to steadily expand their nuclear capability. The fact is that unless the great powers move to end the arms race the lesser powers will move to join it. This damoclean reality will overshadow all the talk in Helsinki.

So I can only urge the Administration to act with the greatest sense of urgency. I would, however, at the same time offer a warning. Though agreement is imperative, it will not end the arms race unless it is accompanied by prudent strategic policies on the part of both great powers. For no treaty can be devised that can anticipate the advance of technology and channel it into peaceful uses. In the end the arms race will be disciplined not because both sides sign a piece of paper but because both sides have previously decided they have no interest in reopening the competition at a higher and more dangerous level.

We should understand that the present high level of defense spending—and the resulting disorder of our national priorities—is not caused only by our failure to negotiate an agreement with the Soviet Union. The largest surge in U.S. strategic spending—the surge that precipitated the current Soviet increases—came at the very time that the Test Ban Treaty was negotiated. Those who might normally have opposed the enormous unilateral expansion of our forces after Eisenhower's years of sensible restraint were being diverted first by promoting, then by celebrating the test ban.

Thus the importance of the treaty was exaggerated and led to the spirit of euphoria that was so rudely interrupted by the Cuban missile crisis. Meanwhile, our defense spending soared; the balance maintained by Eisenhower was upset; and the Russians massively responded with spending of their own. That is our position today. We should understand it clearly as we move ahead today.

I celebrate the new negotiations—the salt talks. I praise the Administration's decision and particularly the effective role of the Secretary of State in achieving it. But we should understand that the success or failure of the negotiations will be decided not in Helsinki or Geneva but in Washington and in the Pentagon and on the floor of the Congress where new weapons systems will be debated. It will depend on all our foreign and defense policies and on our resolution in the international quest for peace. It will take more than a paper curtain to hem in the holocaust.

The Disbelievers
J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI and probably the most widely respected public servant in the 20th century, now says, of the campus-rioting SDS (Students for a Democratic Society): "Their goal is the destruction of 'U. S. Imperialism' and the achievement of a classless society through international communism. The SDS considers the rebellious youth of our country as part of an 'international liberation army.'"

How many people in the internal security and national defense establishments of the United States government will believe what Mr. Hoover says? The incredible answer is: Not many. How many Senators and Congressmen will accept it as fact? Regrettably—only a few. How many college presidents and faculty members will believe it? Not many. How many people in the U. S. citizenry (200 million) will believe it? The sad fact is: Not many. Why are there so many disbelievers of Communism's frightening presence in America? "Brainwashed"

The answer is that the American public—and the American government in a somewhat more sophisticated manner—has been "brainwashed" to believe that any outspoken anti-Communist should be relegated to the 'crackpot' category. For at least 20 years anti-Communists have been held up to public ridicule not merely by the massive Communist propaganda apparatus in this nation but by most of the normally-patriotic communications media. In most cases the media have been victimized by cunning propagandists; in a few cases Communists or Communist dupes are writing the "news" and the "editorials."

We have irrefutable proof that what Mr. Hoover says is true. A National Education Program associate was present at the recent national revolutionary conference at Oakland, California, held to mobilize the subversive forces within America into a national "Liberation Army" to take over our nation. He recorded 20 hours of revolutionary speeches. The conference was dominated by and undoubtedly under the strict discipline of the Communist Party USA and its masters in the Kremlin, Moscow.

The New Nazi
The newly elected National Inter-organizational Secretary of SDS, Jeff Jones, told an assembly of 4,000 delegates representing 300 revolutionary organizations (chanting like Hitler's warlike Nazi hordes of the 1930s) that: "The struggle that is going to ultimately defeat United States Imperialism, the Imperialism that is affecting the people of the entire world, is going to be an armed struggle; it's going to be a struggle that's going to have to take place in the Third World against U. S. Imperialism and in the mother country (U. S.) against U. S. Imperialism. But we must be clear on how the final struggle will be waged. And we must be a part of that struggle. Students must be opening up the campuses to the working class—must be going into the working class communities, becoming part of the proletariat and must be getting ready for armed struggle." He also told the mobilizing revolutionaries that the up-risings SDS is creating on campuses are in fact actions in world revolution against the U. S. A. (not actions of reformists or dissidents). We have this voice on tape.

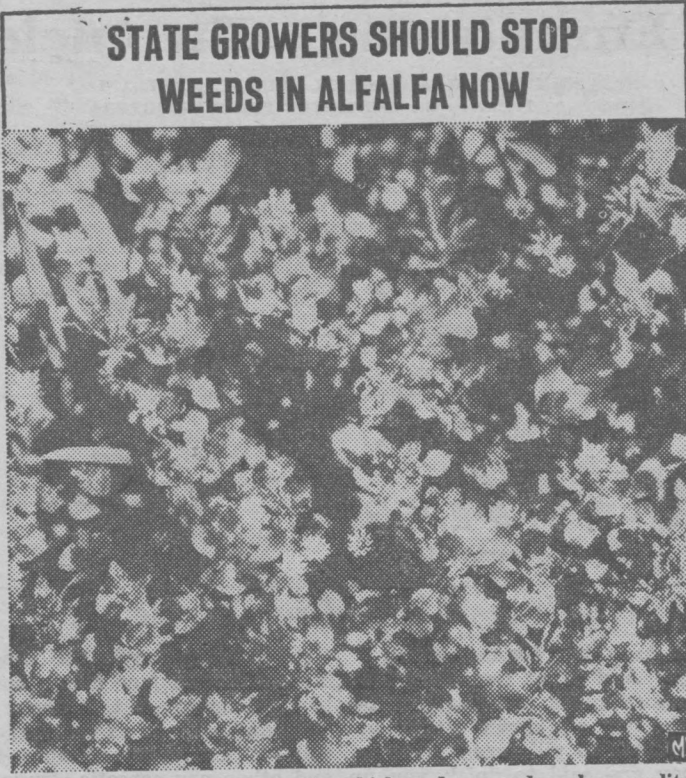

Bobby Seale, Chairman of the Black Panther Party which called the "United Front" conference, said: "We intend to fight United States Imperialism with proletarian internationalism." "Proletarian internationalism is a precise term for world Communism."

Working Through "Soviets"
The "United Front" conference mobilized women into the revolutionary "Liberation Army." Marlenee Dixon, introduced as "Doctor of Sociology, UCLA," told the comrades: "The radical women's liberation movement was created by an international revolutionary movement and is part of it. As a very great woman, assassinated by the German government as a dangerous revolutionary, Rosa Luxemburg, once said: 'The history of revolutionary struggle is the history of failure but you only need to win once.' And we shall win! All power to the people!"

The most frightening report at the conference was given by Andy Stapp, national Chairman of the American Servicemen's Union. He said ASU had penetrated every U. S. military unit with revolutionaries and was forming "Soviets within the U. S. Imperialist army." "Right now," he said, "the ASU is building an army within an army, a workers militia inside the U. S. Army and along with the Panthers and others we're going to make that revolution. Power to the people!"

All this is in our tape—"Mobilization for Revolution"—being distributed at cost to the American public.

Alfalfa infested with weeds like chickweed can reduce hay quality, cut yields. Crop experts recommend a fall herbicide treatment.

This fall more farmers are taking a closer look at herbicides to control weeds in their alfalfa. What they do now can make a difference next spring. According to crop experts, weed infestations were much heavier this year and indications are they are spreading. When this happens, hay quality is reduced, yields are cut, and life of the stand is considerably shortened. Crop specialists point out that weeds in alfalfa tend to spread fast because of the high soil fertility needed to grow the crop. Some of today's "problem" weeds — yellow rocket, white cockle, hoary alyssum, chickweed, henbit, kochia, downy brome, mustard, and cheatgrass — can take years off an alfalfa stand. While weeds are moving in they compete vigorously for soil nutrients and before you know it, they've "overtaken" the crop and it's necessary to re-plant or rotate.

But the danger doesn't stop there. While weeds won't reduce your total production of dry matter, crop experts point out that they will slash the amount of alfalfa you're harvesting. This means less protein available to your livestock and reduced milk production. Weeds also affect the palatability of the hay. Some varieties — cheatgrass, for example — can cause mouth and throat ailments in livestock. What's more, weedy hay can result in off-flavor, unmarketable milk. Add weed control to your overall crop management and these problems can be avoided, crop specialists recommend. As many farmers here discovered, an application of the herbicide Prince last fall on established stands of pure alfalfa, returned a higher quality crop this season. What does it mean economically? According to one study, for every dollar you invest in a herbicide you get $5.00 to $6.00 back. However you look at it, it adds up to growing a better crop with a lot fewer headaches!

Good Nutrition In Economy Menu

There's a "chili" twist to this favorite macaroni and cheese recipe. It's not only cool breezes that make hearty appetites call for Chili Cheese Macaroni, it's also the spicy pungent flavor of chili powder that's a perfect companion for a nutritious cream sauce.

Add new and exciting airs to macaroni and cheese by topping it with your favorite meat. Spiced luncheon meat and smoked pork butt are fine choices, or add slices left from yesterday's roast. Add buttered beans or broccoli to the menu, a salad of mixed greens, milk for the entire family, and canned pears for dessert . . . an economical and nutritious meal for the family to enjoy.

Chili Cheese Macaroni

- 1 pkg. (7 oz.) elbow macaroni
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
2 cups (1/2 lb.) shredded sharp American cheese
1/2 cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons chili powder
Dash hot pepper sauce
3 tablespoons minced chives or onion
1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives

Cook macaroni according to package directions; drain well. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour. Add milk, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add cheese and stir until melted. Add chili sauce, salt, chili powder and hot pepper sauce. Combine sauce with chives, olives and macaroni. Pour into a lightly-buttered 2 1/2-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 30 to 45 minutes or until hot and bubbling. Top with slices of browned Canadian bacon, spiced ham, or cooked pork butt. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

DON'T BE A FISHING SNOB
Fishermen should be versatile rather than stuck with only one angling technique.

By being only a fly fisherman, or only a plug caster, or just a light-weight spinning gear enthusiast, many an angler loses sight of the fact that his real goal is to enjoy his sport.

One of the best ways to unsophisticate your fishing attitude, say the angling authorities at Mercury outboards, is to go trotline fishing. This nighttime sport combines special bait fishing techniques against the feeding habits of such species as flathead catfish and channel catfish. Of course, other fish are attracted to trotlines, but catfish are the most sought species.

For those who don't know, a trotline is a length of heavy cord stretched across a river or small lake cove, to which are attached hooks on long drop lines (12-18 inches) called staging. This line of hooks is baited and then sunk underwater using rocks for weights.

The first baiting is usually at sundown. From then on, throughout the night, the trotline is "run" (checked for fish and re-baited) about every two hours. This is the most important part of trotlining; constant checking and re-baiting.

In a stream, a good place to set a trotline is the head or foot of a pool of deep water. Here is where catfish feed most actively at night.

Hooks should be staged at least two feet apart. The average trotline usually has no more than 20 hooks. Weights should carry some part of the line to the bottom.

Baits are the usual catfish getters such as sink bait, cut bait - fish, chicken entrails, blood bait, etc. For carp, the lads at Mercury advise that you use one piece of cotton seed cake with a hook tied to each side.

PICTURE THIS!

THEN AND NOW

Even in the days of high-laced shoes, knickers and caps, there was a camera especially for small boys—and girls. It was the famous Brownie model, originally designed as a child's camera. Because of its irresistible price, it was equally popular with adults. The popularity of this box-type camera increased the demand for film and made photography a pastime for millions.

The Brownie model introduced in 1900 had no viewfinder to sight the subject before shooting. It took six-exposure roll film, and was accompanied by a 44-page instruction booklet with chapters on the intricacies of time exposures and flashlights. It was the granddaddy of a long and popular line of cameras and a forerunner of a new model designed for the young (and the budget-minded) — the Kodak Instamatic 44 camera.

The 44 is a far cry from its early prototype. It requires few instructions and little know-how — just a willing pair of hands to drop in the film, aim and shoot. And even for small, unpracticed hands, there is no opportunity for wasteful double exposure. When a picture is snapped, the shutter release button stays down until the film is advanced. Then the shutter button pops up again ready for the next picture. The viewfinder is large and bright so it's easy to spot subjects indoors or out—even with eyeglasses. For indoor shots, the camera accepts a pop-on flashcube that rotates for four flash pictures without a change of bulbs.

The 1900 camera was a bulky box-type weighing more than two pounds; the new 44 is small, slim, weighs about six ounces and comes complete with a handy wrist-strap.

Three generations ago, a youngster's photography world was black-and-white. Today, with a camera like the 44, he can take black-and-white snapshots and, when he's ready, graduate to the wonderful world of color with snapshots or slides.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

A traditional big-game hunting camp is to most of us a pleasing and romantic sight. There is no reason why the expert's equipment cannot be owned and used by any of us, just as it is by outfitters, guides and packers. More and more keen hunters are discovering the rewards, come fall, of getting off into the high aspen-choked basins and pine-clad watersheds of our glorious mountain regions with big-time camping gear.

The number-one item of a professional big-game hunting camp is a top-quality wall tent (some call it an "A-wall") of the finest 12.41-ounce material.

Always buy a white wall tent—it will be bright and cheery inside, attractive outside and wholly desirable. A dark tent in a hunting camp is an abomination and the interior is gloomy.

A wall tent is astonishingly versatile and a wonderful shelter in cold weather. Among the wall tents' many virtues is the fact they are light in weight for the commodious living quarters they provide.

Your tent should be ordered with a sewn-in, heavy-duty, noiseless asbestos stovepipe shield. Some prefer the stovepipe rings of metal asbestos. The opening for the pipe should have an adjustable flap.

The "hearth" of your wall tent should be a genuine sheepherder's wood-burning stove. A good many of them are on the market nowadays, but you cannot go wrong with the type used by a majority of the pros—it's sometimes called an "Oregon," with built-in over and collapsible pipe that fits inside the stove for ease and safety of packing.

You'll need a constant wood supply; cut this with a saw, not an axe—it's much more practical. There are at least two dozen excellent ways to erect your wall tent. One is to use the conventional poles that should come with it. The long ridgepole goes inside; the two upright poles, one on either end; fit a length of iron rod through both the ridgepole and grommets in the tent roof. With the side walls properly staked out this makes a neat looking setup.

In true wilderness, poles are not carried—they are cut on the spot. Usually a long "lodgepole" type is thrust completely through the ridgepole of the tent's roof, through holes (alas) cut with a knife. This heavy ridgepole is then held aloft by means of two crossed poles on either end. Often two other poles, one to a side, are lashed or nailed to the "X" end poles for the sidewall ropes. This is a fetching looking outfit but it does hasten a tent's demise.

After your wall tent has been erected—preferably on level ground—and all squared away, straighten out the sod strip inside the tent and then fold a tarp sleeping area. This eliminates drafts and helps outwit insects. With this setup, plus a cleared spot for the outside cooking fire, a strong pole tied between two trees for a meat rack on which to hang game if you're lucky, you're really in business. In time, you can get a smaller tent for storage.

John Jobson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, reports that he finds no better or more practical method of living afield than with a roomy, bright, lightweight, strong wall tent and a dependable sheepherder's wood stove.

Urges Courtesy By Hunters

In the next three months nearly 200,000 hunters will, at one time or another, be in the field in Maryland seeking upland game, waterfowl or deer. Most all of their hunting activity will take place on private property.

J. Millard Tawes, Secretary, Department of Natural Resources, this week urged all hunters to observe the highest standards of sportsmanship and respect the privilege of hunting on private land. He noted, "Game is the property of all Marylanders, but this fact together with a hunting license does not give anyone the right to trespass on private property." He urged all hunters to obtain permission to hunt from landowners.

In addition, Secretary Tawes stated, "vandalism by a few individuals is a black eye to all hunters. Destruction of private property only results in posted land and poorer farmer-sportsman relations."

The Secretary asked that all hunters cooperate with landowners and obey hunting regulations in order to preserve Maryland's hunting heritage. He reminded hunters also that it is unlawful to fire a gun or other deadly weapon, or to hunt any wild animal within 150 yards of an occupied structure or camp without the advance permission of the owner or occupant.

Hunters are also reminded that it is illegal to hunt deer on private land in Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot County without written permission from the landowner. In Charles County no hunting on private land is allowed without written permission.

A free vaccination program for Frederick County children in grades 1 through 6 was scheduled to begin the last week in October. The local health department will use a privately obtained vaccine, instead of state vaccine which is in short supply. This is the same vaccine used in the schools last spring when 1,854 children were immunized against German measles, according to Dr. M. T. Schipper, head of the Frederick County campaign.

The December immunizations are aimed at vaccinating the remainder of the county school children in public and parochial schools through grade six.

Church School Holds Party

Goblins, ghosts and many other traditional Halloween figures were present on Wednesday, October 29, when the children of the Week-day Church School, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Council of Churches, assembled for their annual Halloween party at the Lutheran Parish House. Preceding the gala event, an offering for UNICEF was received. This was later delivered to St. Euphemia's Hall where all UNICEF collections were received by the sponsors of this year's UNICEF drive, St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Pupils chosen to represent the various classes of the Week-day Church School to deliver the UNICEF offering were: Arthur Staub, Leslie and Shelley Carr and Julie Eyer. They were accompanied by Pastor W. Ronald Fearer.

Mr. Ralph Kelly, Director of the Week-day Church School, presented prizes to forty children who were prize winners in the costume contest. Serving as judges were: Mrs. Ralph Lindsey, Mrs. Robert Staub, Mrs. Joseph Andrew, Mrs. Wilson Franklin, Mrs. Larue Harmon, Miss Pamela Andrew, Miss Audrey Baumgardner and Mr. Kelly.

An enormous pumpkin, furnished by the Herbert Gingell family, provided the focal attraction on the refreshment table. Serving as chairman for the refreshment hour was Mrs. Eric Glass. Others assisting in serving were: Mrs. Reginald Taylor, Mrs. J. W. Strickhouser, Mrs. William R. Fearer, Mrs. Carroll Fair, Mrs. Daniel Andrew, Mrs. Richard Crum, Mrs. Connie Hawk, and Ms. John Andrew.

Johns Hopkins Considering Women

The Academic Council of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at The Johns Hopkins University has recommended that women be added to the undergraduate student body by September, 1970. The Council's recommendation, subject to approval by the University's President and Board of Trustees, is the first step taken toward achieving coeducation at the undergraduate level at Johns Hopkins.

Since the University's founding in 1876, there has been no formal policy for admission of women to undergraduate classes. The graduate programs of the University have been coeducational since their inception, and on rare occasions women have been admitted to the undergraduate program.

The Race Between Stork And Driver

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—If clogged roads and traffic jams unpredictably delayed storks as well as people, doctors would be less tempted to try to schedule childbirths.

As it is, warns Dr. Charles Hendricks, chairman of the obstetrics department of the University of North Carolina, the chemical induction of labor is spreading.

In rural areas, where the expectant mother lives far from the hospital and where there's a doctor shortage, some overworked physicians have induced labor in more than half of their patients. In large cities, labor is traditionally induced only for medical reasons.

But now, says Dr. Hendricks, induced labor is becoming more acceptable because miserably rush hour traffic conditions between suburbs and downtown hospitals make many trips a perilous race between stork and driver.

The obstetrician believes that non-medical induction should never be done for the convenience of the doctor but is sometimes permissible for the convenience of the patient.

A Doctor's "Painful Decision"

IRVINE, Calif.—A self-described conservative, prudish doctor, living in a conservative, strait-laced, agricultural community, finds himself prescribing birth control pills for certain teenagers after years of refusing to give contraception to minors.

"I had to make a painful decision," recalls Dr. William B. Thompson, assistant professor of gynecology at the University of California at Irvine. "I spent years in Los Angeles working at a Crittendon Home for unmarried mothers. I saw four 12-year-old girls there who were pregnant and who didn't know why they were pregnant. You have to be concerned about such tragedies. I decided that my work was too late."

Better to prevent the tragedy, the obstetrician decided, than insist that a young girl endure an unwanted pregnancy before she receives contraceptive advice.

The youngest patient for whom Dr. Thompson has prescribed an contraceptive is 10½. The youngest patient in whom he's inserted an intrauterine device is 12.

It's a fact of a gynecologist's life, Dr. Thompson says, that early sexuality exists. "If a good-looking 15 year old comes into my office," he says regretfully, "I know why she's there. She is no longer a virgin."

Accolade For Carminatives

LONDON, Eng.—Hail the lowly oil of peppermint, known to the ancient Greeks and just rousing endorsed by the August British Medical Journal for its "swift and universal action" in producing burps.

Known formally as carminatives, such volatile oils as peppermint, cardamom, dill, ginger, cinnamon and cloves are used for bawling infants and "patients complaining of wind," as well as in liqueurs and as seasonings.

Carminatives, usually sold in alcoholic solutions (tinctures), are praised as "useful, pleasant and (apparently) without side-effects," producing "an almost immediate sensation of warmth" in the upper reaches of the abdomen followed within a few minutes by a well-rounded easeful belch.

Also, carminatives also appear in onions and garlic, leading to the suspicion that they may produce unwelcome heartburn. Still, says the BMJ, they "have stood the test of time well."

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

What's In A Name?

Perhaps everyone is by now familiar with the story of how the horse Spendthrift was named by Daniel Swigert for his wife upon her return to Lexington, Kentucky after a shopping trip to New York and how Mrs. Swigert's great grandson, Leslie Combs II, named his breeding establishment Spendthrift Farm, and this long before Frank McMahon bid $250,000 for Majestic Prince who was bred at Spendthrift Farm.

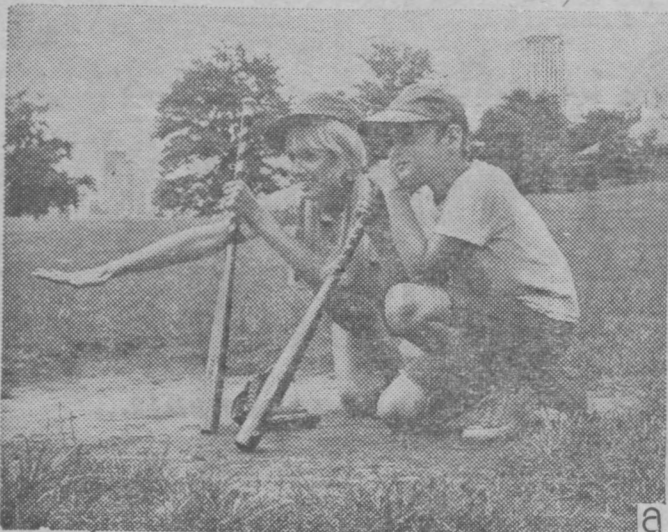

Oddly enough, Spendthrift, the horse, also figures prominently in Majestic Prince's background. The mare Geisha, great grand-dam of Majestic Prince through Raise A Native, is descended from Spendthrift who was the great, great, grandsire of Geisha's sire, Discovery.

Spendthrift was more than a pleasant family joke. He proved to be the undefeated 2-year-old champion of 1878 and subsequently was the first Thoroughbred bought by James R. Keene, who entered racing with the avowed purpose of breaking the monopoly of George Lorillard, whose phenomenal success was widely resented. For his new owner, who was himself to become something of a "monopolist" where great horses were concerned, Spendthrift won the Belmont Stakes, Jersey Derby, the Champion and, adding insult to injury, the Lorillard Stakes, and was again hailed the Champion of the season.

Time To Check Your Auto Cooling System

With fall fast approaching, motorists are reminded that it is time for servicing of the cooling systems of the more than 80 million passenger cars registered by the U. S. Motor Vehicle Bureau. Servicing of the cooling system has taken on greater importance in recent years. Engines operating at higher temperatures, exhaust emission controls and more cars equipped with automatic transmissions and air conditioning impose heavier loads on the cooling system.

According to the Antifreeze Committee of the Automotive Division of the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association (CSMA), car manufacturers have increased cooling capacity by using a chemically compounded liquid coolant with a high boiling point and by pressurizing the system to further raise the boiling temperature. The coolant will not, therefore, boil or vaporize at the higher engine operating temperatures (if the cooling system is properly maintained).

New cars have factory-installed ethylene glycol antifreeze coolant which will afford freezing protection adequate for most areas of the country and contain corrosion inhibitors to protect the cooling system. Under recommended service conditions, this antifreeze coolant will function for at least one year. The modern engine cooling system is designed to maintain efficient operating temperatures year-round with ethylene glycol solutions.

are not recommended by the CSMA Antifreeze Committee and water alone should not be used in any late model cars. If used in older cars, antifreeze and water pump lubricant should be added. This solution must be completely drained and flushed from the cooling system before the installation of antifreeze coolant.

Most coolant marketers urge a change every 12 months. They point out that the rust and corrosion inhibitors can "wear out" in a year's time. Highspeed driving or heavy engine loading hastens additive deterioration. Antifreeze Coolant manufacturers recommend that a minimum concentration of 33½% ethylene glycol (0°F freezing point) be maintained the year around in order to provide adequate corrosion protection. Adding coolant from time to time cannot fully replenish the inhibitor additives to provide adequate protection. This can be accomplished only by completely draining and refilling the system with fresh solution.

Frequent removal of the radiator cap to visually inspect the coolant level is no longer considered good practice. However, the system should be checked at least twice a year, in the spring and fall, in order to maintain proper solution concentration and appearance. If your fall check for freezing protection indicates severe dilution, then it is important that replacement of antifreeze coolant be done before the onset of the colder weather. If rust or sediments is noted at any time, then draining, flushing and filling with fresh antifreeze coolant should be done as soon as possible.

When cold, the level may be considered satisfactory if the radiator tubes are not exposed (with cross flow radiators — 3" below radiator filler neck). With a warm engine, a level of 1" to 1½" below the filler neck is suggested. Do not overfill with water as this will only dilute the antifreeze coolant. If overheating is indicated, the entire cooling system should be checked for leakage or other malfunction.

For conventional systems, car manufacturers generally recommend the following procedure when checking the coolant level: (1) Do not remove the radiator cap while the engine is hot. Allow it to cool sufficiently so that when the cap is rotated slowly to the first detent position, there is no hissing sound. Then remove the cap completely and check the level of the system.

The CSMA advises motorists to inspect hoses for cracks, peeling or obvious deterioration and replace when necessary. Tighten hose clamps securely and check water pump and thermostat housing for signs of leaks.

Have the thermostat tested for correct opening temperature. Most thermostats are stamped with the temperature at which they start to open. Check the fan belt and have it adjusted to the manufacturer's recommended tensions. Replace badly worn or glazed belts.

Flushing may be performed in the conventional manner by opening the radiator drain cock (or removing plug) and the engine block plug(s). With engine idling, run water into the radiator fill neck, occasionally accelerating to dislodge rust or scale which has formed; it may be necessary to use a reputable cleanser in the water to loosen accumulated corrosion. Caution: Never run cold water into a heated engine — it may crack the block. Let engine cool, then turn on water with engine idling. When flushing is completed, add only recommended antifreeze coolants.

County Water, Sewerage Aired

explored the "red tape" involved in receiving funds for municipal projects.

"I am very much opposed to the method the federal government and the state have set up. What right have I to say yes or no on your sewer system? It is ridiculous but that is how the law is set up," the commissioner said.

Collins pointed out that municipal projects need the approval of not only the county commissioners, but also the State Planning Commission, the Governor and the County Council of Governments.

He indicated that the procedure through which applications for aid have to go might possibly be an attempt by federal and state authorities to limit the amount of financial aid they have to pay through bureaucratic slowdown.

Library Possesses Wealth Of Material

The local library has a wealth of educational material. Included in some of the recent material added to the collection, is a study guide of courses that can be seen on television. Books on art, music and dance are among the new material. Also, in order of broadcast, which began the week of September 29, are listed some of the most popular books. One book is featured as the star and two other books are related and recommended in the program. If you own a new set or one that can be adapted for use on channel 26, we have the listing.

In addition to reading material in the library, the collection has many good records. These records are to be loaned for seven days. Some classic recordings are by famous artists such as Leonard Bernstein, Tchaikovsky, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, George Szell and Leopold Stokowski. Recently added to the collection is a Living Language set of three records that will help you learn Spanish or French. This is a complete language course, a new tested method that simplifies language study, enables anyone to learn quickly and easily. This set includes an everyday Conversation Manual and a comprehensive common usage dictionary. This should be a valuable asset to any child who has difficulty in French, Spanish, and can be learned in six weeks, with the 40 lessons complete. These records may be borrowed for 28 days.

It will be a matter of days now until the library will be the proud owner of a new stereo unit with earphones. This will enable youngsters who do not own a set to utilize the records in the collection.

Don't forget the lending service of the movie projector and screen. We also lend our new film strip and slide projector. We are asking that borrowers donate one dollar to the maintenance fund. It is quite expensive to have these projectors repaired when something goes wrong.

Since the first Veterans Administration representatives reported to Long Binh, Vietnam, in January of 1967, to give Army troops unprecedented battle field orientation on GI Bill benefits, more than 855,000 service men and women in Vietnam have been briefed.

Thurmont Bridge To Be Erected

Work on relocated U. S. 15 in Frederick County has moved forward as the State Roads Commission received bids on construction of a bridge on the highway over Maryland Route 81 at Thurmont, Regional Commissioner John J. McMullen said this week.

The 3-span bridge, totalling nearly 170 feet, will be built on a site approximately 200 feet north of the existing intersection, Mr. McMullen said.

Apparent low bidder, he said, was Wolfe Brothers Construction of Myersville with an offer of $243,332.

Asks No Hunting In Cholera Area

Due to the current hog cholera epidemic in the eastern portion of Wicomico County, J. Millard Tawes, Secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, has appealed to hunters to voluntarily avoid hunting in the area where the virus is rampant.

Tawes based his request on the recommendations of the Dept. of Game and Inland Fish and the State Board of Agriculture, Livestock Sanitary Service. Hog cholera, a virus that is fatal to hogs but harmless to man and all other animals, can be carried from contaminated areas to uninfected places by animals or humans.

Catoctin Dumps Westminster

Catoctin wound up its soccer season Tuesday, beating Westminster 3-2, behind strong play by Dave Swomley.

Swomley set up one goal, and scored two others in the win. The Cougars came back from a loss to Williamsport in the district matches for the win.

Coach George Kuhn started 10 seniors in the game in the first quarter, and a completely underclassmen lineup in the second frame, but neither combination could score. The score at the half was 0-0.

In the third period, a flurry of scoring changed that. Swomley scored, with an assist from Charley Gearhart, from about 18 yards out. Westminster came right back to tie the score.

Swomley then scored from eight yards out with an assist by Dave Wantz, the right wing. The score was 2-1. Westminster again tied the score.

The winning goal was scored on a penalty kick by Swomley.

Westminster had 12 shots, and Catoctin's shooters got away 18. Catoctin finished its season with an 8-3 record.

Corn Remedies Ancient Spells to Modern Science

Back in Elizabethan England, itinerant corn-cutters plied their trade — door to door. In their own way, they did what they could to relieve the pain of corns and callouses.

Yes, as you may well imagine, troublesome corns are nothing new. In spite of this, and even though 80 per cent of the population at one time or another has always suffered similarly, science did not turn its attention to this problem of mankind until the beginning of this century.

Just What Is A Corn? "When ill-fitting shoes exert pressure where they should not," explains William O. Elson, medical research director for the Blue Jay foot products division of the Kendall Company, "the body, in self-defense, builds up a tough, hard substance known as 'keratin' to protect against friction and pressure.

"In corns, keratin takes the form of a cone-shaped plug; in callouses, it becomes a thick layer of skin." How has man treated this problem? In ancient Greece, about 100 B. C., Hikesios of Smyrna wrote that he prepared what was probably the first corn plaster.

His teachings must have been known to only a few — For 2000 years later, man took a long step backward when a Roman "scholar" named Marcus Terentius Varro urged the following spell be used as a corn remedy: "Touch the earth, spit downward and repeat 27 times: 'Oh Earth, keep the pain, and health with me remain, in my feet!'"

A thousand years later, in the heyday of witchcraft, much stronger — and equally futile — curses were in vogue. Albert Magnus, a German sage, advised:

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Whereas, many young men of this community have fought for our nation, and some have sacrificed their lives, through services with the United States Armed Forces, in combat against many enemies, and

Whereas, those men, the war veterans of our country, have earned the respect and the tribute of every citizen who is today enjoying the freedoms of our land because of the defenders' personal loyalty, courage, service and sacrifices, and

Whereas, we can best acknowledge our appreciation and recognition of those brave men thru full participation in the special day and week dedicated to all the defenders of our land, now Therefore, I, Robert A. Seidel, Mayor of the Town of Emmitsburg, Md., do hereby urge all of my fellow citizens to fly their Stars and Stripes flag proudly and to participate in, or observe, the public Veterans Day and Veterans Week program which is to be held in our town on Nov. 11 and during the week of Nov. 9-15, 1969. Furthermore, I do recommend that all of our schools, churches, business establishments and other organizations assist the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, and its many co-sponsors, toward making Veterans Day and Veterans Week a truly outstanding patriotic observance in this year of 1969.

ROBERT A. SEIDEL, Mayor

Cars Collide On Square

A 1968 Ford Station Wagon, operated by Martin T. Golibart, 37, Emmitsburg, was damaged to the extent of $150 when it was struck in the rear by another vehicle on the Square on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 3:45 p.m.

The mishap occurred when Golibart attempted a left turn at the Square after traveling north on S. Seton Ave. While in the process of turning, Golibart's vehicle was rammed from the rear by a pickup truck, 1950 model, operated by Melvin Leroy Gilland, 41, R2, Fairfield, Pa. Damage to the truck was estimated at $50. Town Officer Richard V. Etzler who investigated, charged Gilland with failure to reduce speed and set a hearing before Magistrate Guy A. Baker, Sr., on Nov. 12. No one was injured in the mishap.

UNICEF Raises $245 Here

The "Trick or Treat for UNICEF", conducted this year on Wednesday, October 29, under the sponsorship of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, in Emmitsburg, was highly successful, from every aspect. A large group of children volunteered to do the trick-or-treating; an equally large group of adults volunteered to accompany the children through the town, to prepare refreshments for them upon their return, and to count and wrap the money collected. A grand total of $245.00 was collected. Sincere gratitude is extended to all who helped or contributed to the success of this venture.

Sixteen denominations of pure-nickel and nickel-alloy coins were introduced by seven countries in 1968 to replace silver coins.

Charity Fair Scheduled

The annual Charity Fair of St. Joseph College will be held Saturday, December 6, in the Student Center. Students will assume all responsibility for the day-long event, which will be concluded at 7 p.m.

The respective classes of students will decide the specific charity to benefit from the profits of their booths, while proceeds from the "sweepstake" feature will be given to the College Development Fund.

The event is open to the public and is expected to attract a large crowd of friends of the College, alumnae and faculty members.

Mount Schedules Famous Singers

The Serendipity Singers, known coast to coast as a "now" music group, will perform at Mt. St. Mary's College on Nov. 11.

The program, beginning at 8 p. m., will be staged in the Memorial Gymnasium and the public is invited. Admission will be free.

The Serendipity Singers, formed in 1963 at the University of Colorado, "arrived" when they made an initial appearance on Ed Sullivan's television show. Since then they have been seen on such programs as the Dean Martin Show, Kraft Music Hall and Bell Telephone Hour.

Appearance of the group will be under the auspices of the college speakers' committee.

Council Of Churches To Meet Here

The annual meeting of the Emmitsburg Council of Churches will be held on Monday, November 10, at 7:30 o'clock in Incarnation United Church of Christ. Reports from the committees from the various churches will be presented. Also during the evening, an election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. The nominating committee has been composed of the following: Mr. Charles Brauer, Mrs. Larue Harmon, Miss Leanna Franklin, Mrs. William R. Fearer and Mr. Paul Beale.

Following the evening's business session, members of Incarnation Church will serve as hosts for an informal fellowship period. Churches who are represented by the Emmitsburg Council of Churches include: Trinity Methodist Church, United Presbyterian Church, Elias Lutheran Church, Tom's Creek Methodist Church and Incarnation United Church of Christ.

If the Shoe Fits

Why don't cheap shoes fit like 'good' shoes?

'Good' shoes are made to be fitted from the heel forward, through the arch, to the ball of the foot. A properly fitted 'good' shoe does not fit the toes; it must be roomy ahead, on the sides and above the toes. With this desirable roominess up front, the arch and heel sections must fit well to keep the foot from sliding forward and popping out of the shoe. Such construction requires better, slower shoemaking and that costs money.

The other concept of a shoefit regards only the toes. The one criterion is that the toes must be at or very near the front of the shoe. The heel won't slip because a short shoe exerts enough pressure to hold it on. After a brief time, the toe-fitted shoes give enough to allow the great toes to hit the ends of the shoes. Then every walking step is crowding those toes forward with a lever action which exerts pressure that is six to eight times the weight of the child's body. This is a high price to pay for cheap shoes, and the corns and bunions that can result.
