The disgraceful performance put on by the Chicago Seven during their court trial which has taken several months, has come to a screeching halt and it is obvious that remorse has set in now that they are about to be sentenced. The jury has found them guilty and within the next couple of days or weeks the judge will pronounce their sentences. Already most of the group had to be sentenced for contempt of court by Judge Hoffman, a man who had the gall and fortitude to handle a group of this ilk. The actions of this group was an open defiance of the law of the land and the dignity of the court. Can you imagine anyone here calling a judge a pig and getting away with it. Well, they didn't get away with it either. The jury has found them guilty of crossing state lines to invite rioting. This trial should take some of the sting out of those individuals who deplore the 'establishment', and we shouldn't be hearing from these individuals for quite some time to come.

Student rioting has broken out practically all over the country once again. Many of the students demands have been met but now they want more. In fact they seem to want to control the institutions in toto. This we cannot allow. These buildings were bought and paid for by our predecessors and benefactors, and ourselves, and we are still paying to operate them and we should have the say and authority to do so. The movement has spread to secondary education and Baltimore City has its hands full right at this moment. Firm action is needed and must be taken if we are to maintain our public education system.

The Baltimore newspaper strike continues almost into its second month and there are no signs of it breaking. We have missed these papers and the strike is hurting the economy of the Baltimore area. It could very well wind up that the increases demanded could force the newspapers out of business. After all, the papers have a competition struggle with television, radio, shoppers' guides, etc., and the amount they can afford to pay out is limited. Let's hope that the situation can be resolved without losing any one of the two papers that exist there now. In many cities, newspapers have been forced out of business by rising costs and in many instances there is only one paper available. We don't like to see a situation like this and there should be another paper in existence for mere diversification of opinion. Let's get those presses rolling, Baltimore!

There's been some dangerous activities by youngsters in the area recently, and unless it is terminated great harm could come to them and other individuals. Several weeks ago some youngsters were believed to have been tossing heavy objects from the first Gettysburg overpass down onto moving traffic. Several windshields were broken and a number of people injured. It is believed the guilty ones are youngsters as a number of bicycles have been seen in the area while the trouble has been going on. Anyway, the incident of several weeks ago was soon forgotten. However this week the activity was resumed and more people were injured and cars damaged. Someone could be injured fatally by this sort of action and it must be stopped. Bicycles were again seen near the scene this week. I think it would be advisable for parents of children in the area to check out the whereabouts and activities of their children before someone does really get into trouble.

3-Car Collision On Rt. 97 West

Two persons were injured in a three-car accident on Md. 97, one mile west of Emmitsburg at 11:38 a.m. Saturday, according to State Police.

Police said a 1968 sedan operated by Robert Lewis Otto was preparing to make a left turn westbound on Md. 97 and crossed into the eastbound lane.

Two eastbound vehicles, a 1963 sedan operated by Suzanne M. Trobaugh, Waynesboro, Pa., and a 1961 sedan operated by Mark Andrew, Emmitsburg, attempted to stop, police said, but the Trobaugh car struck the rear of the Andrew vehicle forcing it into Otto's car.

Mrs. Trobaugh was treated and released at Annie Warner Hospital in Gettysburg, police said.

A passenger in the Andrew car, Goldie Leona Andrew, was admitted to the hospital for observation.

Police charged Otto with failing to drive on the right side of the road.

Mount Wins Two Out Of Three Games; Play Loyola Here Saturday

The Mount St. Mary's basketball team lost its third contest of the season to nationally ranked Old Dominion Saturday, 61-59.

The Mountaineers stuck mainly to their five starters throughout the contest which have carried them to a 16-3 record. Old Dominion is ranked 7th currently in the small college weekly poll and have a record of 19-2.

Bob Sutor led the Mounts both offensively and defensively. The 6'9 cager scored 19 points on six field goals and seven free throws. Sutor also managed to capture 21 rebounds.

Bob Riley and Lou Grillo supplied the rest of the Mount's power, scoring 18 and 15 points respectively. Riley and Grillo also combined for 23 rebounds out of a total 56.

The Monarchs came down with a total of 43 rebounds. Tom Noble led the home team with 16 in that department.

Noble also led the Monarchs on offense with 16 points. Three other home team players reached double figures: Cox with 13, Cole 14, and Twardzik collecting 12.

Both teams used very little substitution after the Mount had time and time again cut down Old Dominion's five point halftime lead.

The Mounties shot 30 per cent from the floor while the home team pumped in 39 per cent. Both teams found the range at the foul line as the visitors connected on 73 per cent compared to 74 per cent by the winners.

Tom Leonard Elected To Group

Dr. Thomas M. Leonard, chairman of the History department at Saint Joseph College, has been elected to two professional organizations for listing in their 1970 directories. They are "Outstanding Young Men of America," Chicago, and "Personalities of the South," sponsored by the American Biographical Institute, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Dr. Leonard is a 1959 graduate of Mount Saint Mary's College and earned his M.A. in American Foreign Policy in 1962 at Georgetown University. He received his Ph.D. in June from American University, Washington, D. C.

A native of Elizabeth, New Jersey, Dr. Leonard has been chairman of the History department since 1968. He also is a professional lecturer in the graduate program at Western Maryland College, Westminster, Maryland.

Power is not to be regarded as conferring privileges, but imposing serious obligations.

Mount St. Mary's rolled over Western Maryland, here Monday, 83-54, for its 17th victory.

The Mountaineers chalked up a 21 point lead in the first half despite the substituting of over half their first string players for more than four minutes before the half.

In the second half the Mounties found little resistance to their powerful, towering, offense and completely pulled out of the lineup their whole starting team. The Mounties outscored the visitors in the second as every home team player reached the scoreboard.

The Mount's Lou Grillo was in the contest long enough to become the game's leading scorer with 18 points. Austin Leonard also reached double figures for the Mountaineers with 12 points.

On Wednesday evening, the Mountaineers trounced the visiting Cardinals of Catholic University, 76-61, with Grillo again leading the way with 26 points.

The win was the 18th for the Mounties against 8 defeats, and puts them in first place in the Northern Division of the Mason-Dixon Conference.

Saturday night, Loyola, one of the three teams to defeat the Mounties, will face the Phelanians here in the final home game of the season. Game time is 8:00 p.m.

The Mason - Dixon Conference tournament will begin next Thursday in the Salem Civic Center at Roanoke, Va.

Homemakers Club Wins County Membership Drive Award

Emmitsburg Homemakers Club is awarded first prize in the 1969 County Membership Drive. Mrs. William Ledbetter, Club Director, is shown presenting the award of fifteen dollars to the Club President, Mrs. Luther Cregger.

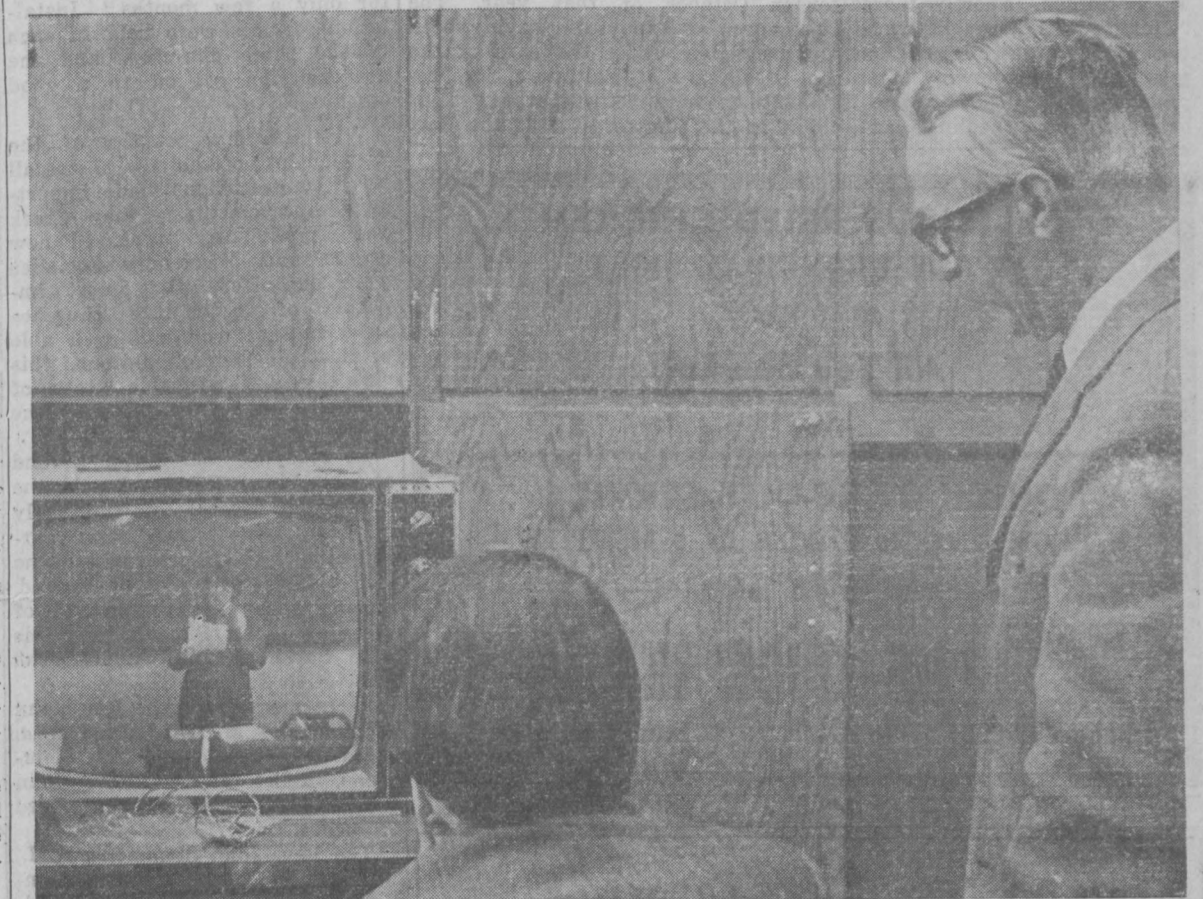

In spite of zero temperatures and icy roads, twelve members attended the January meeting of the Emmitsburg Homemakers Club which was held at the home of the President, Mrs. Luther H. Cregger. This was a planning meeting for the new year, keeping in mind the theme for 1970, "Helping Others." Dues were paid and the new program books were distributed.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the reading of the Historian's report of the Club's activities in 1969, when the club, under the successful management of the president and the directors, was awarded first prize in the County membership drive when 15 new members were welcomed into the Club. We are very proud of this achievement and we all look forward to the programs for the year ahead to help us learn more ways and new ideas in developing other skills which will enable us to reach more realistic goals in our homes and also in our social and cultural spheres molding us into better homemakers of the future.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Feb. 26 at the home of Mrs. William Ledbetter, Taneytown Road, when the food and nutrition chairman will give a demonstration on "Cooking Less Expensive Meats."

Mount Teacher Trainees Observe Their Work On Television

Michael J. Gallagher sits thoughtfully, watching videotape of his just-completed practice teaching session. Joining him for this personal critique is Gerald C. Orosz, chairman of the education department at Mount Saint Mary's College.

Mount Saint Mary's College students studying to be teachers are now seeing themselves as others see them, thanks to new television equipment obtained under a matching grant from the U. S. Office of Education. Student teachers are videotaped while practicing teaching in an electronic teaching laboratory. One camera is focused on the student-teacher. The other is aimed at the student audience. Afterwards, the student-teacher reads written evaluations from his fellows, and compares them with what he sees and hears of himself and his audience in action on the TV monitor during a playback of the videotape.

Chamber Commerce To Publish Data Brochure

The regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday evening in Mt. Manor Restaurant, President Jane Bollinger presiding.

The Beautification committee was authorized to replace one of the pine trees on the Square which is showing indications of dying. The tree, when replanted, will be shifted to another location.

Rev. John King, C.M., and Eugene R. Rosensteel, chairman of the recreation committee, plan to give a report at the next meeting of the group.

Sister Margaret Hickey, chairman of the brochure committee, submitted a rough draft of the planned brochure which will publicize Emmitsburg. After considerable discussion of the paper the committee was authorized to proceed with having the brochure published.

CYO Entertains Senior Citizens

Saint Valentine's Day was properly celebrated Saturday evening at the Senior Citizens Center, when a group of the CYO, delightfully entertained in honor to the club. A program of music, singing and dancing was given by various members of the youth group, with Johnny Hollinger acting as efficient M.C. After the program, refreshments of punch, coffee, cake and other goodies, was served and a thoroughly delightful social hour was enjoyed. It is to be very much regretted that more Senior Citizens did not attend, due to the snow which continued to fall; they don't know what a splendid affair was missed.

The Senior Citizens surely appreciate the thought and effort expended by the members of the CYO who planned the beautiful gesture to the club. It is an event which will be long remembered and enjoyed in retrospect. Thanks a million to the youth group who spanned in such a gracious manner the Generation Gap!

Tuesday evening, February 17, at six o'clock, members and friends of the Senior Citizens Club held as their regular meeting night, a covered dish dinner where everything in the way of delicious food was furnished by the club members.

The March 17th meeting will consist of films—one titled, "War in the Middle East", about Israel—another yet to be chosen as the one on Grandmother Moses was booked some place else.

Scout Cookies To Go On Sale

Girl Scouts will sell cookies from February 26 to March 11 this year. Can spring be far behind?

The annual cookie sale is a major source of income for the Central Maryland Girl Scout Council, which comprises most of Maryland west to and including Frederick County. Profits are used largely for camp development and maintenance and grants to girls who otherwise would be unable to participate in Scout activities.

Scouts who sell the cookies learn how to keep their records, handle funds, and meet the public during the sale—which fits into the foundation elements of Scouting "Troop Management," "Health and Safety," and "Citizenship." Troop cookie commissions are part of the troop budget, often earmarked for a special trip or for camping. Adult volunteers handle all phases of the sale, with Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts actually selling to the public.

Mrs. William Beheler will again be coordinator for the Monocacy Area, with Mrs. William Willhide the manager in this area.

The Girl Scout Council of Central Maryland is a member agency of the U.A. For further information call 662-5106, Tuesday thru Friday from 10-2.

Taneytown Man's Car Demolished

Frederick County Backgrounds

By Samuel Carrick

Membership at Piney Creek in 1824 Under date of March 28, 1869, the Emmitsburg Session (Tom's Creek) reported to the Presbytery that the Taneytown Presbyterian church, having become vacant by the resignation of the Rev. W. B. Scarborough, had applied to them, and also to Piney Creek, for a part of the time of the Rev. Isaac M. Patterson. Shortly thereafter "a union was happily formed between the three congregations, by giving Taneytown afternoon preaching on each alternate Sabbath, thereby healing an old breach and augmenting the pastor's salary." This arrangement was continued for some years.

By the reconstruction acts of the General Assembly of 1870, the churches of Emmitsburg (old Tom's Creek) and Piney Creek were detached from the Presbytery of Carlisle and connection with that of Baltimore. They were first represented in the latter body in October of that year. The church at Taneytown having been previously under the care of the Presbytery of Baltimore, its "relations were not disturbed."

In the summer of 1873 the Rev.

Mr. Patterson resigned his pastoral charge in order to accept a "call" to the church at Milford, New Jersey. By this act, the three churches were once again without a "resident minister."

The Rev. William Simonton was constituted pastor of the three congregations in December of 1873. On this occasion, unlike others, "the vacancy had lasted for only a few months." Installation services were held in each of the three churches, and the new relation got off to a good start.

Within a few months of the "settlement" of the new pastor all three congregations made important improvements. Piney Creek and Emmitsburg purchased new organs and Missionary Societies were organized. But, most important of all, the three churches were free of debt and well able to meet all their obligations. This "healthy and desirable state of affairs" has continued into the present day.

In studying the burial ground at old Piney Creek church the names of several of the early ministers, who served this parish, attract the interest of all who visit this historic plot of ground. Among these are the graves of the Rev. John Slemmons and his wife, Sarah (Dean) Slemmons. The inscription follows:

2. In memory of the Rev. John Slemmons, A.M., Died June 1814, Aged 80 years. Also Sarah Slemmons, Relict of the Rev. John Slemmons, Died June 2, 1823, Aged 75 years.

The Rev. John Slemmons, A.M., was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania. His parents were emigrants from the north of Ireland. They were strict members of the Presbyterian church. The son was graduated from Princeton College and was licensed by the Presbytery of Donegal in 1762 or 63. Shortly thereafter he was unanimously called to the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church on the third Saturday of November, 1764. He also received calls from Tom's Creek (Emmitsburg) and Piney Creek about the same time. At Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on May 8, 1765, the Presbytery desired the young minister to make a decision respecting the calls under consideration. After due thought and deliberation, "he gave up that from Piney Creek and Tom's Creek." Not being "clear" with respect to the call from Lower Marsh Creek, the Presbytery "recommended him to come to a determination as soon as he can in that matter."

Finally on the 23rd of May, 1765, Mr. Slemmons declared his acceptance of the call to Lower Marsh Creek, and was ordained and installed by the Presbytery of Carlisle, on October 30th, 1765. Like all the early ministers, the Rev. Mr. Slemmons worked "long and hard." He frequently supplied Tom's Creek and Piney Creek, both before and after his "settlement" at Lower Marsh Creek. His "relation" to the latter church was dissolved in 1774. He was pastor of Slate Ridge and Chanceford at the time of the organization of the Presbytery of Baltimore in 1786.

There is a fairly reliable tradition that Mr. Slemmons gave up his active career in the ministry because of ill health. He bought a farm in the vicinity of Piney Creek church, above the Mason and Dixon Line, and there spent his later years. This probably accounts for his grave and that of his wife in the Piney Creek churchyard.

Mrs. Slemmons was the daughter of the Rev. Joseph Dean, a co-laborer of the Tennessees. Mr. Dean and his immediate family are interred in the church burial ground. Two brothers and a sister of the Rev. Mr. Slemmons, as well as the children of one of the brothers, are interred in the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian graveyard.

According to an old record (Session) the following were members of the Piney Creek Presbyterian church in January of the year 1824.

The four Elders at that time were Alexander Horner, John McAlister, Samuel Thompson, and James Barr.

The following were listed as members of the congregation — Alexander Horner, Elder, Sarah Horner, John Horner, Eli Horner, Robert Thompson, Mary Thompson, Elizabeth Thompson, Ann Thompson, Eleanor Thompson, Andrew Walker, Ann Walker, Robert McCreery, Ann McCreery, Maris McCreery, Sarah Horner, James Horner, James Black, Jane Black, Philip Heagy, Esther Heagy, Jesse Guinn, Margaret Linah, William Walker, William Stevenson, Peggy Stevenson, John McAlister, Elder, John W. McAlister, Betsy McAlister, Mary McAlister, Elizabeth Henry, Frances Weems, Jane Cornell, Margaret Paxton, William Paxton, Carolina Harris, Jane McCreary, Elijah Baldwin, Matthew Galt, Mary Galt, Elizabeth Galt, Susan Galt, and Rebecca Galt.

Abraham Linah, Sterling Galt, Margaret Galt, Samuel Galt, Mary Galt, Mary Jones, Elizabeth McCreary, Thompson McCreary, Samuel Thompson, Elder, Archibald Clingan, William Clingan, Elizabeth Clingan, Hugh Thompson, Margaret Snyder, Elijah Baldwin, Elizabeth Baldwin, Mary Baldwin, Kizech Baldwin, Rachel Miller, Sarah Drummond, James Smith, Sarah Smith, ---(?) Alison, Martha Alison, Mary Ann Alison, Isabella Barr, James Barr, Elder, Margaret Barr, Sally Barr, Mary Cornell, Esther Cornell, and Sarah Galt.

The list of the 1824 membership of the Piney Creek Presbyterian church will be concluded in this series next week.

The historical and genealogical study of the Piney Creek congregation and burial ground will be continued at the same time.

Antique Show

To Benefit Church

Enthusiasm is epidemic as plans are finalized for the third annual Antique Show and Sale sponsored by the Sodality for the benefit of Holy Redeemer Church, Saul Road and Summit Ave., Kensington, Maryland. The event is scheduled for Friday, March 6 from 1 to 10 p.m., Saturday, March 7 from 12 to 10 p.m. and Sunday, March 8 from 1 to 6 p.m.

An antique buff in her own right with enviable collections of Blue Canton and Rose Medallion, Mrs. Gilbert Gude, wife of the U. S. Congressman from Maryland's 8th District is serving as Honorary Chairman and will preside at the opening ceremony Friday, March 6 at 1 p.m.

Twenty-five dealers from New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland, including the Eastern Shore and the surrounding metropolitan area will present their wares. They have been carefully selected with avid and casual collector or the curious browser in mind. Not only Millady with her collections of glass and china and objet d'art of American, European and Oriental origins, of furniture and furnishings of silver, jewelry and trinkets but the oft forgotten, despite swelling interest in collecting among men — "man"triques have been planned for presentation.

A "something new" for this year's show will be Antiques publications on exhibit and sale for those wishing to begin or extend their library on the fascinating subject of Antiques.

The "Early Lighting" exhibit presented by Colonel and Mrs. E. S. Goepfer, Mt. Vernon, Va., is a special treat planned for show-goers. Early lighting was a flickering flame by which man could see, work or read before Edison developed the incandescent light bulb in 1880 thereby figuratively "Lighting the world." It is a so-journ into history and a unique field for the collector taking one back to pre-historic times in its evolution.

For many years Colonel and Mrs. Goepfer have had an avid interest as collectors of items with which the colonial American lived and worked and which were used to develop this country. This has led them to their specialization of American country furnishings, kitchen equipment, hand tools and lighting devices and associated equipment from the 18th and early 19th century. They are ardent students of American History and members of Maryland and Kentucky Historical Societies. Colonel and Mrs. Goepfer will be available at the Holy Redeemer Antique show to discuss or answer questions concerning the history of early lighting and lighting devices.

The ladies of the Sodality will proprietor the Lantern Inn—Ye Olde Sandwich Shoppe—an oasis of refreshments which will feature home baked desserts in a variety to please every taste.

13 Die On State

Roads In Week

Thirteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the survey published by the State Police. Four of those killed were drivers, three were passengers, and six were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths, speed in six, and "driver error" in eleven.

"Each year a number of fatalities occur because inadequate precautions have been taken to insure safety while a disabled car is being repaired just off the roadway," commented Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the State Police.

"When you have a flat tire or mechanical failure, pull as far off the traveled portion of the road as possible. Put up warning flares. Be sure the car won't drift or move. Before you start to work, check any other factor which might cause a hazard in that particular situation.

"Remember, also, not to become so absorbed in the repair work that you forget about the flow of traffic near you."

The Drugs Of Disaster

If a force conspiring to destroy the United States were to succeed in trapping our today's generation of youth — ages 12 to 30 — into the use of marijuana and other mindwarping and lethal drugs, it could virtually sit back and await the certainty of national collapse . . . 10, 15, 20 years hence. The leadership heirs to our once upward-thrusting Western Civilization would be brainless and impotent.

Has it happened already? Well, it has begun to happen. The trap already has caught a third of our youth generation. The problem poses, undoubtedly, this nation's gravest challenge. The identity of the force or circumstance which wrought the impending disaster is of vital importance (and we will explore it) but the even more vital fact is that we still have a chance to salvage the already wrecked portion and restore health to the whole of American society . . . if we are worthy of our heritage . . . if we are worthy as leaders of the human race . . . if we make ourselves worthy of God's grace.

Toward Destruction
"When we look to the history of civilization," said President Richard M. Nixon as he warned the nation on the magnitude of the drug abuse problem, "we find that those civilizations that have turned on a broad, general basis to drugs, and particularly when that af-fiction reaches the leader classes of those civilizations, those civilizations inevitably lose their spirit. They go down. They are destroyed. This is what happened. The question is: Is it going to happen to America?" The President was speaking to the Governors of the 50 states, their wives and their children in an extraordinary Washington conference on the drug menace. He reported, with "deliberately cautious statistics," that 8 million people in the United States use marijuana . . . one third of all college students of the nation . . . 16 per cent of the nation's high school pupils. He said: "The problem is not limited to any region of the country or any segment of the society—it hits the young as well as the old, and is indeed a national problem."

An Educational Campaign
The President asked the 50 Governors, and specifically their wives and children, to return to their respective states and begin a campaign to expose particularly to the younger generation of Americans, the true facts about all forms of drugs and their short-range and long-range effects in the months prior to the President's "drug menace" conference and his public statements on the national danger, our National Education Program staff had been gathering information on the problem. We have made it one of the major commitments of our nationwide educational program in 1970. Our Annual April Freedom Forum will be devoted to the Drug Abuse problem. Meanwhile, we are using the full force of our communications facilities to mobilize an aggressive educational force on dangerous drugs. The first requirement is to achieve an understanding of narcotic and other dangerous drugs, then rally your friends and neighbors — and especially children of all ages — to aid in the dissemination of the true facts.

Art Linkletter Enlists

Art Linkletter, whose talented daughter Diane, 20, became a victim of LSD and died, a suicide, has enlisted in the nationwide educational program.

"While I said at the time of my daughter's death," he told the 50 Governors, "that she was murdered by the people who make and distribute and push LSD, I meant, of course, that she was the victim, the unwitting, innocent victim of people who push all kinds of drugs and who are not criminal characters; they are my children. Because the greatest pushers in this country today are the missionaries who have tried LSD and marijuana and barbiturates and who will even sell their own personal possessions to give the chemicals to their friends because they are convinced that it is a wonderful way; as (The LSD Messiah) Dr. Timothy Leary has said, 'It is a way to turn on, tune in and drop out.'" This, Mr. Linkletter said, is the crux of the problem: Youth's desire to be with the "tuned in" generation. We agree. So we must somehow get across to 40 million young Americans that "in—with drugs" is a "trip" to self-destruction and that life offers a great challenge.

Davis Elected To National Society Of Fund Raisers

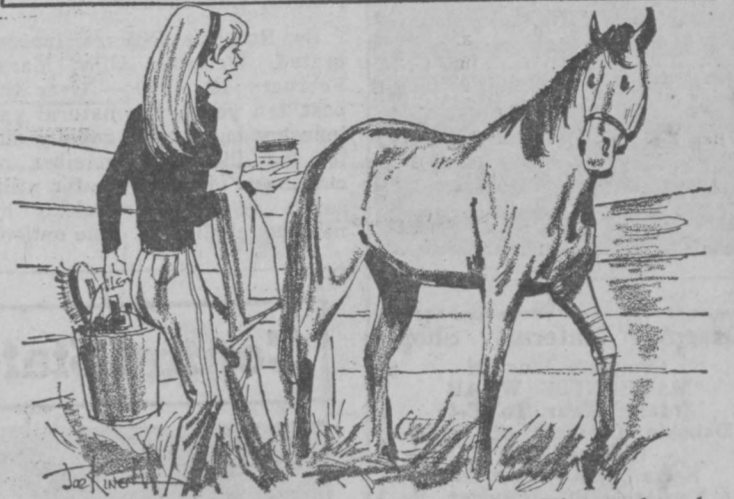

A. Vernon Davis, director of development and public relations at Mount Saint Mary's College, has been accepted for membership in the National Society of Fund Raisers. As a member of the society's Washington/Baltimore chapter, he will be associated with other professional men and women who are responsible for seeking voluntary financial support for non-profit institutions and organizations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. Davis, who joined the Mount Saint Mary's administration in July 1968, is also a member of the American College Public Relations Association, American Alumni Council, Public Relations Society of America, Sigma Delta Chi journalism society, and the National Headliners Club. He was director of public relations for Fairchild Hiller's Aircraft Division before coming to the Mount. Earlier he worked 20 years on the news staff of the Hagerstown Morning Herald. Mr. and Mrs. Davis and their two children live at 730 Weldon Place in Hagerstown.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

A Dream Horse

Practically everyone who has enjoyed the vicarious ownership of a race horse provided by a $2.00 pari-mutuel ticket has dreamed of owning his own horse. And, for practical reasons, most of us dream of a Thoroughbred the likes of Chicot.

Chicot had run four times and won twice as a 2-year-old for the George D. Widener Stable before being sold for a song (as prices for Thoroughbreds went in 1969) to Thomas W. Reardon, who recalls, "They sold him to me cheaply and I knew he had a hole in him. We built a little paddock adjoining his stall at the farm at Colt's Neck (near Wilton, Connecticut) and gave him time."

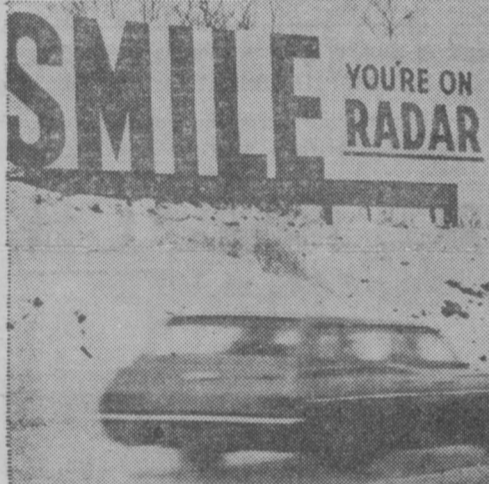

It was almost two years later and Chicot was four when he made his first start a winning one for Reardon. Time and tender loving care provided by Reardon's daughter June, who had grown up with horses, had paid off. One season when Reardon was laid low by illness, June took over the training of Chicot. Over six seasons the mended Chicot started 37 times in the Reardon colors and was off the board only eight times. His 19 victories during that period included stake races. Early last year, Reardon figured Chicot had earned retirement. However, the son of Tom Fool missed the races and, alone at the farm, went "off his feed." So, as a 10-year-old, Chicot rejoined the Reardon Stable at Monmouth Park last summer and added another victory, four seconds and a third to his record, bringing his total earnings to $179,122 of which $157,072 was for the Reardons.

Get Ahead In Your Job

Here Are Seven Ways To Get A Raise

Turn out more work? Beat your deadlines? Of course. Come up with an idea that earns or saves a tidy sum for the company? No doubt about it — you're in line for a raise if you do any of these things. But, how do you do it? If you're already doing a good job, how can you do a sufficiently better job to make the big difference?

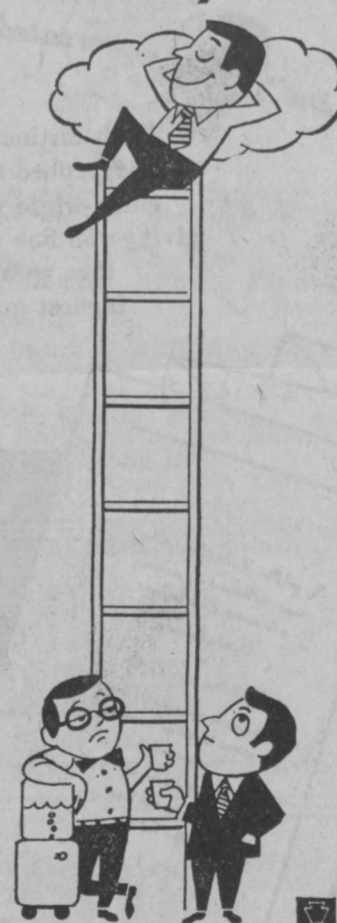

These seven steps, taken in many a successful career, may help.

1. Listen with both ears. Speech experts estimate that the average man hears only half of what's said to him! By getting all the facts the first time around, you avoid costly mistakes and time-wasting back-tracking. A busy boss prizes the employee who has to be told only once.

2. Become an idea man. It's easier than many people think. Be observant! That's the first step. Be skeptical that the "tried and true" way is always the best! That's the second. Train yourself to pinpoint areas of waste, inefficiency, needless complications in your daily work routine. Form the brain-storming habit: write down as many solutions as you can think of, drawing on everything you know from your own experience and from what you have observed. Many of the best "new" ideas are simply adaptations of procedures that have worked in other fields.

3. Recognize your failings. It's fine to have faith in your abilities, but it may be equally profitable to understand what traits are blocking your path to success. What does the boss most often criticize about your work? Would certain tasks be easier if you were better organized or more highly trained?

4. Know your boss's job. So that one day when he moves up to a higher slot you'll be a logical candidate to succeed him. Also, if you know your boss's job — understand the duties of all the other people who report to him, and how he coordinates their efforts — you'll have a clearer perspective of your own job. You'll understand his problems and pressures, and how to be most on how much knowledge you can draw upon. Also, seek to acquire skills that will make you more promotable; a working knowledge of accounting, for example, will probably make you a lot more valuable to your company, no matter what type of business it is, or maybe you should consider preparing yourself for a transfer to a growth area such as accounting where the demand for qualified people exceeds the supply.

Wonder if you have an aptitude for that kind of work? Write the Information Department, International Accountants Society, Inc., 209 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill. 60606, the largest and oldest home-study school in America teaching accounting and allied subjects exclusively, and ask for an accounting aptitude test. There's no charge and you can take the test at home and score it yourself.

7. Know what courses of action to avoid. You may earn a raise as much for what you don't do as for your more positive accomplishments. Bombarding the boss with questions is not a sign of alertness; ask only the questions that are strictly necessary to get the job done. And then do it to the best of your ability and don't voice qualms or doubts even if you have them. As Donald R. Morrison, President of International Accountants Society, Inc., points out, "Companies can always find lightweights to do the easy jobs. What they look for are men and women who eagerly take on the hard job."

Is there a co-worker who "gets your goat"? Avoid voicing your sentiments, even if justified. Bosses hesitate to promote even an able man if they feel it will cause friction in a department — and you may find yourself passed over in favor of someone who has the reputation of getting along with everyone.

Follow these seven positive steps toward making a good job performance better, and you will find that you have promoted your own interests and raised more than your hopes for getting ahead.

What joy and triumph, after all, to be sincerely honored by the ones we loved

Natural Gas Industry

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., February 19, 1970 — Over the past ten years, the natural gas industry has grown rapidly due to the increasing number of customers and the greater utilization of gas, particularly by new gas appliances. The outlook for 1970 and beyond is for continued good grains.

Favorable Prospects

This year natural gas sales are expected to advance in line with the projected five-year norm of 6% per annum. By 1975, the industry expects that it will have added another 7-10,000 new gas customers to its utility lines.

Gas air conditioning and total energy systems are expected to account for a fair portion of the anticipated increase. Gas air conditioning sales to commercial establishments are a particularly bright spot. Another potential market for the gas industry is the natural gas powered automobile.

Some Handicaps

Currently the money market is the foremost problem facing the natural gas industry and is likely to remain so for the near term. The high cost of new borrowings is squeezing profit margins of most companies. With the prime rate at 8½%, many of the pipelines are really feeling the pinch, as interest costs are actually higher than the rate of return that is allowed the industry by the FPC. To alleviate some of the pressure, an increasing number of companies are seeking FPC permission to up their rates of return on plant investment.

New Avenues

Because this is a regulated industry, and because the tight money situation is a particularly burdensome problem, many of the natural gas pipeline and transmission companies are becoming diversification-minded. In an attempt to broaden their earnings bases and use their huge internally generated cash flows more profitably, they are actively seeking entry into other industrial areas.

For example, Tenneco, which has been particularly aggressive in diversifying in late years is now often classified as a conglomerate. This company, the nation's largest pipeline operator, is now in real estate, banking, chemicals, oils, plastics, life insurance and ship-building. El Paso Natural Gas is another very well-diversified company. In addition to serving the far western market with natural gas, it also has interests in oil and gas production, petrochemicals, copper mining, phosphate agricultural chemicals, and plastics. Other leading pipeline companies, most of which have achieved some degree of diversification, include Texas Eastern Transmission, Texas Gas Transmission, Southern Natural Gas, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, Northern Natural Gas, Mississippi River Corp. and Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line.

Market Action

As might be expected, natural gas pipelines that have turned to diversification have received the greatest degree of investor attention in late years. Natural gas distributors, which for the most part have been slow in widening their sphere of activities, have not been as popular with the investing public. The price action of the stocks of both the pipelines and distributors is influenced to a considerable degree by political factors, changes in money rates, and developments in the field of rate regulation. The last two areas particularly affect the pipelines.

Feeling that the natural gas industry has attractive further growth potential and that most natural gas stocks are reasonably priced relative to current and prospective earnings and dividends, the staff of Babson's Reports recommends purchase of Florida Gas, Mapco, Southern Natural Gas, and Tenneco.

Many Errors Found On Tax Returns

Early Federal income tax returns indicate that many taxpayers are making errors in claiming adjustments to their income which may delay their refunds, the Internal Revenue Service said this week.

The term "adjustments," as used on the tax form, refers only to sick pay, moving expenses, employee business expenses, and payments to self-employment retirement plans. The total of these items is entered on line 15b of the Form 1040, the IRS said.

Some taxpayers are incorrectly reporting on line 15b, the total of their itemized deductions such as interest expense, state and local taxes, contributions, medical, or miscellaneous expenses. These deductions should be computed and entered on the appropriate schedules as provided in the instructions.

The IRS also said that taxpayers are making mistakes by including as adjustments the exemption allowances for themselves, husbands or wives, children, or other dependents. For taxpayers who use the tax table to compute their tax, the exemption allowance is already figured into the table. Taxpayers who use the tax rate schedules should make their computation on Schedule T, which is included in the regular tax packet.

To avoid errors in claiming adjustments, the IRS suggested that taxpayers read the instructions carefully and make sure they have attached the proper supporting documents.

Doctors Weigh New Studies Urging More Weight-Gain During Pregnancy

Doctors no longer advise mothers-to-be to "eat for two." But they also are re-examining the more recent dictum that a woman should keep her weight to a minimum and not exceed a gain of 20 pounds during pregnancy.

Advocates of higher weight-gain point to the findings of recent studies, including an eight-year analysis at The Johns Hopkins University, to recommend that the average gain be revised upwards to between 22 and 30 pounds. In every case, of course, a woman's pre-pregnancy weight, age, height and build must be taken into consideration and the weight increase based upon a sound diet.

When the emphasis upon low weight-gain came about, there were more potential hazards in pregnancy and childbirth than there are now and obesity often contributed to complications. Today, obstetrical medicine has made significant progress in overcoming many of these problems. As a result, closer watch is being directed to the nutrition in pregnancy and its effects upon the growth and development of the unborn child.

No Cause for Alarm

Stricter weight control often appeals to women who are extremely conscious of personal appearance and reluctant to add pounds that they fear will be difficult to lose after the baby is born. They should not be unduly alarmed by growing medical interest in greater weight-gain. Those who argue against adding only 10 or 15 pounds during pregnancy insist that it be done through a sensible eating plan and not just over-indulgence at the dining room table.

It must be noted, too, that certain conditions in pregnancy call for strident weight control. These include toxemia, certain metabolic disorders, cardiac or kidney problems and diabetes. Where these are present, a woman must follow a doctor's warnings about gaining weight to safeguard her own health and that of her child. Similarly, if a woman's pre-pregnancy weight is well above average, such as 180 pounds, dietary restrictions are extremely important. Studies that have given rise to much of the re-thinking about nutritional counseling show that when a low-weight woman, 120 pounds or less, fails to gain more than 11 pounds during pregnancy, she is more likely to have a baby with low birth weight, 5½ pounds or under. However, a small baby is not cause for concern in every instance. The average birth weight is 7 to 7½ pounds in our country.

Proper weight-gain during pregnancy is an important aspect of prenatal care and another reason why every mother-to-be should seek regular medical care.

These are some of the reasons why the medical profession is taking such sharp interest in the field of nutrition. Scientists are studying the effect, if any, that the daily nutritional level of the mother has upon the child, as well as any possible effect caused by insufficient or poor nutrition. Scientists who challenge the low-weight-gain school of thought in a normal, uncomplicated pregnancy, are of the opinion that a woman may be keeping down carbohydrate and protein levels at the time her unborn child is most in need of nutritional support.

March of Dimes Program

The National Foundation-March of Dimes, pledged to the prevention of birth defects, is concerned with every aspect of prenatal care as a safeguard to mother and child. It has launched prenatal care public health education programs and community services in major metropolitan centers and rural areas. The program emphasizes that every woman consult a doctor from the time she suspects she is pregnant. Each pregnancy is different and requires medical supervision. The best advice an expectant mother can follow are recommendations by her doctor.

Writer Critical Of Senator Tydings

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Benjamin Disraeli, Prime Minister of Great Britain in the late 1800's, convinced that the actions of governments and statesmen were seldom reasonable, instructed his ministers, "Never apologize, never retreat." Apparently Senator Joseph Tydings regards himself as a member of the Disraeli school; for he continues—full speed ahead—to foist birth control practices on a new wary American womanhood. With an election coming up, and with more than two million American women having abandoned the pill within the last 60 days, he is not slowed; he is not deterred! This is good politics? If I were a woman voter I'd have blood-in-my-eye for the likes of Senator Tydings—and all of his kind—who ever made such "meditation" respectable in the first place. Of course it's no skin from my back. Feeling as I do—that a political party, like an automobile, is little more than a vehicle for getting from one place to another—I'll likely run against him on the American Independent Ticket. All you ladies remember!

In a book review, "Ahead of Her Time," written for the Washington Post by Senator Tydings, the reviewer, concludes, "when the history of our civilization is written, it will be a biological history and Margaret Sanger will be its heroine." How frightening! The history of our civilization will indeed be a biological history, but it will be a biological history of man, not of woman. Margaret Sanger, an animal, entirely taken up with the pursuit of irresponsible sexual pleasures.

Today, with the pill in disrepute along with contraceptive device, the term "birth control" comes more and more to be equated with abortion. It is birth control... the ultimate! And, ironically, Margaret Sanger never advocated her various types of birth control; except as an alternative to abortion which she regarded as abhorrent. And so all is confusion... as will always be the case in Satan's camp! And where does Senator Tydings stand on this all important issue? Perhaps he can still redeem himself.

Every week 1000 people die on our highways; this is roughly 150 persons each day. Half of this number is attributable to drunken drivers. So, 75 persons a week die at the hands of drunken drivers. However, since half of these 75 are the drunken drivers themselves, this gives us 37 "innocent" victims each week. This is of course a frightening statistic. But look at abortion: Its toll is 10,000 "innocent" victims each day!

Tell us Senator Tydings: Where do you stand?

Patrick F. X. McGucken, J.D.

Mathias To Seek Amendment To Bill

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.), today announced that he will seek amendment of the new water pollution control legislation to guarantee full Federal reimbursement to Maryland and other states which have advanced funds for the construction of waste treatment plants.

"I welcome the Administration's new pollution control proposals and the exploration of new ways to finance our multi-billion-dollar need for better waste treatment facilities," Senator Mathias said.

Grow Spring Flowers Indoors

You don't need to wait until April or May to enjoy those spring-flowering shrubs, says Dr. Francis R. Gouin, Extension horticulturist at the University of Maryland.

If you are fortunate enough to have forsythia, winter jasmine or pussy willow growing in your lawn, all you need is a sharp pair of pruning shears and a few minutes of time.

You can shape your shrubs at the same time as you cut branches to decorate your home during these long winter days, Dr. Gouin adds.

Using clean, sharp shears, cut branches 18 to 24 inches long, but be careful to make clean, smooth cuts that will heal quickly and will not ruin the shape of the shrub.

Put the cut branches in 8 to 10 inches of warm water in a darkened room until the buds begin to show color. If the buds seem slow to open, a sprinkling with water two or three times a day will often stimulate them to open.

As soon as the flowers begin to show, trim about an inch from the base of each stem and rearrange the branches in a vase of water to decorate your home.

If you will make a clean cut such as this with your pruning shears every week, your indoor flowers should last until nature pushes them into life outdoors, Dr. Gouin says.

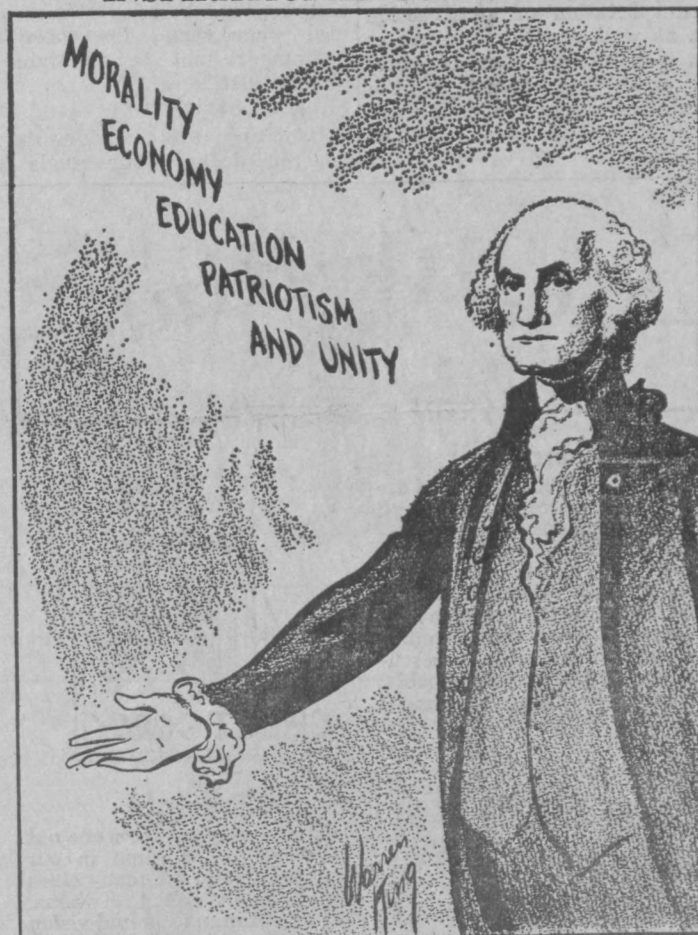

Average annual snowfall in Maryland varies from nine inches in the southern part of the Eastern Shore to 78 in the western-most parts of the State. Annual total precipitation, including rain and snow, averages about 43 inches.

The fruit of the Spirit is... gentleness.—(Gal. 5:22).

When we give ourselves to being more loving, more thoughtful, more aware of the needs of others, we find more meaning in life. We then experience inner peace and satisfaction. Gentleness, understanding and patience are the signs of emotional maturity, and the way of supreme spiritual strength.

INSPIRATIONAL GUIDELINES

PLAY IT SAFE

ANTISEPTIC
MORE THAN 52 MILLION PEOPLE ARE INJURED EACH YEAR IN HOME ACCIDENTS. THE POTENTIAL DANGERS THAT CAUSE ACCIDENTS LURK IN EVERY ROOM.

MORE THAN 60% OF HOME ACCIDENTS OCCUR IN THE KITCHEN. MINOR BURNS, CUTS, FROM KNIVES AND GLASS ARE THE MOST FREQUENT. A SUPPLEMENTARY FIRST AID KIT SHOULD BE KEPT IN THE KITCHEN.

THE SECOND GREATEST DISASTER AREA IN THE HOME IS THE WORKSHOP. CARELESSNESS ON DAD'S PART OFTEN RESULTS IN MINOR WOUNDS. HERE, ALSO, SIMILAR MEDICAL FIRST AIDS SHOULD BE AT HAND.

ALL OF THESE CAN BE SIMPLY TREATED WITH "CLEAN 'N' TREAT". SINCE CHILDREN SEEM TO BE EVERYWHERE, AND ARE CONSTANTLY COMING UP WITH MINOR BURNS, CUTS, SCRAPES, AND BRUISES, USE "CLEAN 'N' TREAT". IT DOESN'T STING, AND PAIN IS RELIEVED ON CONTACT. WITH PAIN GONE, THE WOUND IS CLEANSED WITH A GENTLE MOTION.

For Mother And Future Engineer

America's foremost mechanical engineer never learned his trade at MIT or Caltech. What's more, he was felling trees, building bridges, damming streams and constructing homes by the time he was two years old!

Such a description could apply, of course only to the beaver. This amazing animal, the subject of mystery and conjecture for centuries, will be pictured from his own vantage point underwater as "The World of the Beaver" is telecast in color over NBC January 30, at 7:30 p.m. EST. The sponsor of the wildlife special is the Quaker Oats Company.

Scenes never before captured on film will show the beaver gathering material to build a dam, piling stones on the bottom and building upwards by wedging in twigs and branches. The viewer will act as a spectator as the beaver next constructs his lodge, skillfully arranging a "drying room," a "living room," and only underwater entrances, so that he can be safe from enemies.

As most wildlife enthusiasts know, beavers are marvelous construction and drainage engineers, as evidenced by the extensive water canal systems they build under their lodges. During the winter they store branches and bark in their larder. Then, even though there may be ice and snow above, they can swim through their canals to get food.

The beaver's role in the early days of North America could hardly be exaggerated. This versatile animal actually was the first natural resource of the whole area. Beaver skins were "coin of the realm" in Canada, for example, and the Hudson Bay Company used them as a value upon which coins were issued. A coin would bear the marking "1B" or "2B," meaning "one beaver skin" or "two beaver skins."

Beavers are perhaps nature's best conservationists. They benefit almost every living thing, from the tiny pine squirrel who can enjoy a meal in safety atop the beaver lodge to man himself who can make productive use of the rich soil that the beaver has reclaimed from rocky river beds and sparsely covered hillsides.

When the beaver has dammed up a water area such as a pond, a rich, thick, green algae grows on top of the water. When this is warmed by the summer sun, millions of microscopic cells build up into a lush green curtain that grows both above and below water, wherever the sunlight penetrates. One of the main beneficiaries of this algae are the fish in the pond, which find all kinds of food in it.

When, after several years of service, the dams no longer are required by the beavers which built them, they eventually give way and are washed downstream. But the land they fed and saved from erosion now appears, and this soil is among the most fertile in the world. Fed and nourished by leaves, algae, and parts of trees, it is highly prized by landowners.

YOUR INCOME TAX

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is one of a series on ways you can save on your income tax returns this year. The articles are written by Henry Block, president of H & R Block, Inc., America's largest tax service.

'Blue Collar' And Union Workers Eligible For Many Deductions

Persons employed in the fields of transportation and construction frequently have jobs which take them away from home overnight or longer, generally have to own and maintain special uniforms or equipment, are likely to change jobs or job locations, and usually belong to unions. All of these circumstances involve special tax deductions.

"Tax Home"

The home where you and your family live is not necessarily your "tax home." If you are employed in transportation or construction work, as well as other businesses which require considerable traveling, your "tax home" is the general area where you work most of the time and earn most of your income.

For example, suppose a construction worker lives in Madison, Wisconsin, but he spent most of 1969 helping construct an underground missile launching site near Omaha, Nebraska. Therefore, the Nebraska town is his tax home and he cannot deduct any expenses for lodging or meals while at his Nebraska "home-away-from-home."

The "tax home" definition can vary from job to job and be somewhat technical, so caution and a thorough knowledge and understanding of the law's interpretation is advised when using it.

Uniforms And Equipment

Any person required to purchase and maintain special clothing, tools or equipment for his job can deduct these costs for tax purposes. Airline stewardesses, nurses, plumbers, and others are eligible for this deduction. One stipulation here requires that the clothing "not be adaptable to general wear", and the tools and equipment "not be adaptable to general use."

Sleep Is Saving

Generally, the rules do not let you deduct your meals and lodging expenses unless you are away from your tax home overnight. But there are exceptions if you sleep while working away from home.

Often a trucker's normal work day at the wheel is 10 hours, but some trips require driving to a city six hours away and then returning to a home terminal the same day. After making his delivery, a trucker may pull up to a truck stop and rent a bunk to sleep two hours. Then he heads home again. Because he slept those two hours, he can deduct his food and lodging costs even though he was away from home less than 24 hours.

Keep A Record

If you are a transportation or construction worker and want to reduce your Federal income tax by taking these deductions, you must itemize them, and you must be ready to prove your deductions should the Internal Revenue Service question them.

The best way to provide this proof is to keep a daily "diary" of what you spend for deductible meals, lodging, special uniforms or tools, and all other expenses of your employment which can cut your tax bill. Proper proof of expenditure includes cancelled checks, hotel bills, and receipts. Keeping your expense "diary" and holding on to the cancelled checks may seem tedious at times, but it may be well worth the effort when Uncle Sam's tax deadline comes.

Special Union Situations

Many employees in American industry belong to a union which often provides them with numerous payments which must be declared as taxable income.

Labor union members can deduct their dues and initiation fees. If the union requires special assessments for pension plans or "out of work" benefits, these can also be deducted.

Strike Pay Is Income

If the union went on strike and paid strike benefits to its members, these benefits have to be declared as income, including the fair market value of food which the union may have provided during the strike.

If the union's strike - settling agreement included a company-paid group hospital plan and a vacation fund, and the hospitalization premiums are not deducted from a member's pay, he would not have to include them in his taxable income, but he would have to show any amounts he received as reimbursement for medical expenses. He would also have to include, as income, any amounts he received from the vacation fund.

Should the company guarantee, as part of the strike settlement, a certain level of annual wages for union members, and some members are laid off, any guaranteed wage payments they receive from the company would be taxable.

Company Sick Pay Plans

As provided by the 1964 tax revisions, under company-financed sick pay deduction, unless you are hospitalized. You can deduct only $75 a week for the sick pay you receive for the first 30 days you miss work because of illness or injury. You cannot exclude any of the sick pay from your income if the payments are more than 75 per cent of your normal salary.

For example, assume your normal wages are $150 a week. If you are ill 30 days and your sick pay is $115 a week (more than 75% of $150) you cannot deduct any of this sick pay. But, if your sick pay is $95 a week (less than 75% of $150) you can take a sick pay deduction of $75 a week.

If you are absent from work more than 30 days, you can deduct from your income the sick payments of up to $100 a week for the period after the first 30 days.

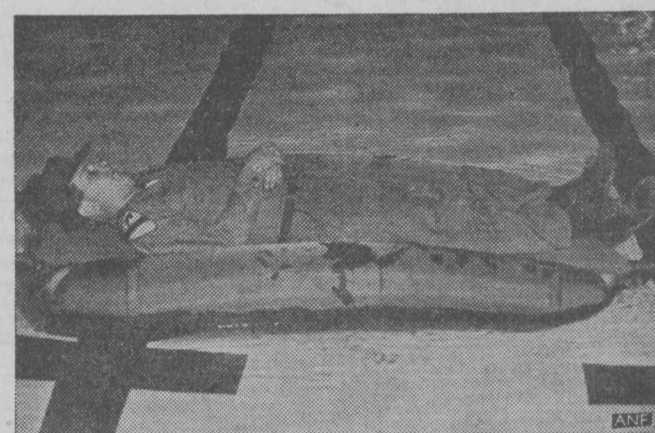

Contributions Are Deductible

In many companies, contributions for the United Fund and other charities are often withheld from pay checks. These contributions can be claimed as deductions.

The State Roads Commission reports that Maryland's five toll facilities carry an average of 114,323 vehicles per day; 23,730 on the Kennedy Memorial Highway; 16,235 on the Susquehanna River Bridge; 13,369 on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge; 5,219 on the Potomac River Bridge; and 55,770 through the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

It pays to remember that every day something is being done that couldn't be done.

Tuberculosis

About 100,000 Americans are walking the streets today with active infectious tuberculosis—and they don't know it. By the time the symptoms, such as fever, weight loss, and coughing appear, the disease has reached a point where control is difficult. Because tuberculosis is so highly communicable, be sure you have an annual skin test and chest X-ray.

CHEST X-RAY

Eyesight

Poor eyesight affects one out of every five children in our country. There are many clues that suggest defective vision. An eye examination and vision test is in order if your child blinks frequently, rubs his eyes, or squints. These examinations will determine if the child needs corrective lenses or some other type of treatment.

Charley Horse

Ever wake up in the middle of the night with a charley horse or cramp in your leg? The best way to relieve such a painful cramp is to jump out of bed and stand on the cramped leg. Put your full weight on it and then vigorously rub the affected area. You'll feel the pain subside within moments.

New European Trade Melts Iron Curtain

The landscape of Europe has changed very dramatically over the last twenty-five years. My first trip to Europe, at the end of World War II when the echoes of the guns could almost still be heard, was made as a member of the U.S. Navy. In those days rationing was still in effect, food and clothes were hard to come by, and if one of the hospitable Europeans invited an American sailor in for a sandwich, it came out of the family's weekly diet. Recently I made another trip to Europe, this time to attend the German-American Conference in the German Capital of Bonn. The conference is held periodically under the auspices of the Ford Foundation. While attending the conference, I learned that in 1970 Europe is dramatically different from the devastated continent I saw twenty-five years ago.

There are a number of reasons for this difference. The massive aid given by the United States through the Marshall Plan was an effective tonic for the war-torn countries of Europe, and it's very gratifying to me to hear Europeans still talk about the Marshall Plan. They remember that the plan was one of the keystones to their success.

During my trip, I was able to get a panoramic look at what is happening in Europe through conversations with Manuel Brozio, the Secretary General of NATO; officials of the European Economic Community better known as the Common Market; the Chancellor of Germany, Willy Brandt; the foreign minister and defense ministers of Germany, and the Secretary General of the French foreign office. These talks and visits to Paris and other parts of Europe made it apparent to me that an economic revival of major proportions is occurring. The economic thrust of commercial and industrial activity reaches across the boundaries of Europe. What used to be little feudal states, intensely interested in their own culture, language and ideas, are now integral units of a much larger economic community. The construction of this kind of community has been one of the objects of American foreign and economic policy for many years and I think we can be proud that this has finally come about.

There is recognition within Europe itself of this new strength and vitality which raises interesting questions for the future not only of Europe but also of America and of our relationship with each other. One thing is apparent on a visit to Germany. The German industrial machine is humming away, is becoming a dominant force in the world, and is not at all detached or cut off from its neighbors to the east. This economic fact of life is reflected in Chancellor Brandt's bid to the East to sit down and talk about finding ways of living together and in statistics which show that East Germany is now the second best customer of West Germany. I believe this situation holds new potential for unity in Europe and for peace and security in the world. It's perfectly apparent that trade has penetrated the Iron Curtain. I think it is a realistic possibility that in the years ahead, trade in Western Europe may topple the Iron Curtain, and we may see the unified and peaceful Europe for which Americans have worked so long.

'Mysterious' Computer . . . Like a Washing Machine

Editor's Note: The computer, unheard of a generation ago, is an indispensable tool today. It affects the typical American's life in countless ways — from the food he eats to the national defense system that protects him. And the prospects for the future are staggering.

The following is the first article in a series of three that will explore how the computer works. Other parts of the series will examine how the computer is being used and what the future holds.

The computer today is veiled in mystery. Most people have never seen one, feeling it is an inscrutable "black box" whose inner workings can be understood only by the most highly trained.

Actually the computer is a relatively easy machine to understand.

It has three basic operational elements: input, processing and output. So, for example, does a washing machine.

For the washing machine, the input is dirty clothes and detergent, the processing is the washing cycle, the output is clean clothes.

Three Steps

For the computer, input is a program — the step-by-step description of the task to be done — and data.

Processing takes place when the computer uses the program to operate on the data — to perform a multiplication, for example. Output is the solution to the problem.

The computer programmer must "tell" the machine precisely where it can find information, how to arrange it, and what calculations to perform.

One powerful computer, the IBM System/360 Model 85, can multiply two 10 digit numbers at a rate of more than two million complete calculations a second — a task that would take a mathematician using pencil and paper about 38 years of non-stop work; but, like all digital computers, it performs this amazing work in terms of ones and zeroes.

On and Off

Computer components have only two possible states, just as an ordinary light bulb has two states—on and off.

In computers, "on" represents a "1" and "off" represents a "0". Various combinations of 1's and 0's can be used to represent any number or letter. This use of two numeric symbols — zeroes and ones — is the binary number system. (The familiar decimal system uses ten symbols — 0 through 9).

At first glance, it would seem a system with only two numbers would really slow down the computer. But transistors and micro-electronic circuits inside the computer permit it to handle information at lightning speeds with almost infallible accuracy.

Computer Language

Since a language barrier still exists between the user and the computer, information must first be coded into a language the computer understands — like

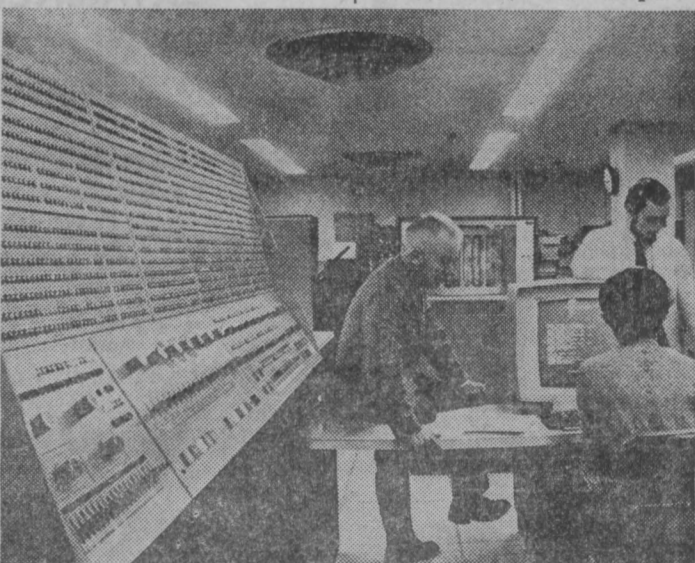

COBOL (Common Business Oriented Language) and FORTRAN (FORmula TRANslation), two of the most popular computer languages. These languages enable programmers to write instructions in words and symbols, which are translated by the machine into the ones and zeroes it understands.

After it performs its operations according to the program's instructions, the computer decodes the ones and zeroes back into letters and numbers.

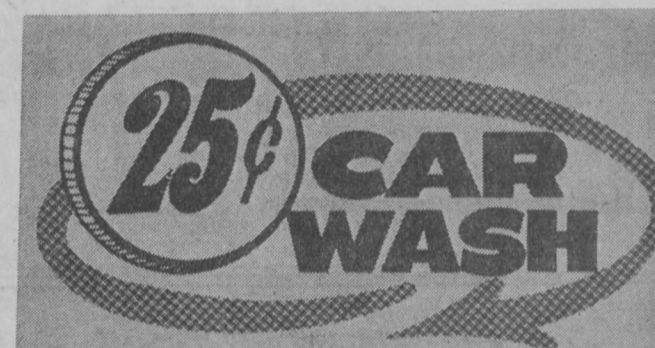

Output, too, comes in many forms — on punched cards, magnetic tapes and magnetic disks, via typewriter terminals or by a display on a cathode ray tube, which is similar to the picture tube in an ordinary television set.

One of the newest forms of communication with the computer is the ordinary printed document.

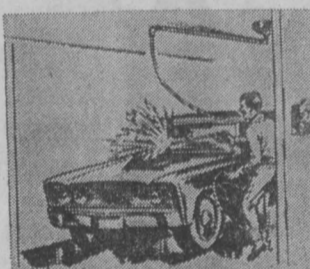

The Social Security Administration, for instance, uses a special optical character reader to speed the contents of documents prepared in over 200 type styles directly into computers.

Complex space problems are being solved with the help of this large IBM computer at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md. Circuits in the computer switch in billionths of a second.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

No Place to Hide!

There was a time, happily past, when a desperado hunted by the law might lose himself in the crowd at a race track. One such was Frank James, the less frequently sung of brother of Jesse James.

In his autobiography, "The Life of a Horse Trainer," Frank James' brother, John, recalls that his brother's sabbatical while he was being sought for bank robbery. He found him to be industrious and reliable and he spent a knowledge, for he employed Frank James as his betting commissioner, a job of responsibility involving the handling of considerable cash.

Such could not be the case today as countless notorious hoodlums have discovered. While perhaps unwanted (at the moment) by the law, they are also unwanted on the race track and agents of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau are ever on the alert to eject such characters. Moreover, the courts have upheld the right of the race track to deny admittance to known criminals or notorious individuals whose presence was undesirable.

Thanks to the "memory bank" of the TRPB, a 24-year accumulation of carefully processed investigation reports, photos and fingerprints in the central files, field agents at all TRA tracks are prepared, and many characters seeking greener pastures after expulsion at one track are virtually met at the gate of another and sent on their way.

Census Bureau
Seeks Enumerators

Nan M. Nichols, District Manager of the 1970 Census of Population and Housing which starts April 1, today issued an appeal to residents of the area to apply for jobs as census takers.

Applicants must be 18 years old or over and citizens of the United States. They will be required to pass a selection test demonstrating their ability to understand printed instructions and do simple arithmetic. Many will need a car in their work, and if so, mileage will be paid.

Census takers will be paid on a piece rate basis designed to average $2.00 per hour, although hourly earnings will vary depending on the diligence of individuals, according to the District Manager who pointed out that some will earn well above average, while others who work less effectively will earn less. Weekly earnings for a full 40-hour week might range from $60 to more than $100, she said. The average assignment for a census taker will last from three to five weeks beginning March 30.

The Census Bureau is an equal opportunity employer. Candidates for jobs as census takers may see any of the following census representatives:

Mrs. Lois Whisner, Administrative Clerk; Mrs. Barbara Pengelly, Field Supervisor; or Mrs. Nan M. Nichols, District Manager. The phone number in Hagerstown is 797-7130.

Broadmindedness is just high-mindedness — which has been flattened by experience.

Old Lions Letter

We are the recipient this week of an old Newsletter published back in May of 1943, which was during World War II. The Newsletter was compiled and printed by the Emmitsburg Lions Club. We think it will make interesting reading as it recalls events of the times and mentions familiar names. The Newsletter, dated May 25, 1943, reads as follows:

Due to the very acute shortage of gasoline, the Emmitsburg High School Alumni will not hold their annual banquet this year. The exercises will consist only of graduation, to be held on June 4th.

The first news item this month concerns the Town Election. Joe Hoke was elected to succeed himself as Burgess without any opposition. The vacancy for Commissioner, due to Coolie Combs not being a candidate to succeed himself developed into a two-way contest between Luther Kugler and George Eyster. Luther Kugler was the winner by 65 votes. Dick Zacharias who was a candidate for Town Commissioner, withdrew when he was appointed Liquor License Commissioner for Frederick County. He takes the place of the late Paul Little of Thurmont. At last Emmitsburg did get something.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Margaret Kerrigan. She was the mother of Lion Charter President Ward Kerrigan, and the oldest living woman in Emmitsburg since the death of Mrs. Matilda Codori. Her grandson, Joseph Kerrigan, who we reported during the Winter as having enlisted in the Navy, has been enlisted in the U. S. Marines. He will be allowed to finish school before he is called for active service.

Kayo Keilholtz and Maxine Sells, of Taneytown, were married at the Methodist Church in Ephrata, Washington on Easter Monday. They will live here for the present. We also announce the wedding of Frances Kessler of Emmitsburg and Robert Lewis of Thurmont. They were married May 7th in Emmitsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Wales Rightenour are parents of a son. Mrs. Rightenour, the former Madeline Ryder, daughter of Gerald Ryder. Mr. and Mrs. Gummy (Gubby) Knox are parents of a daughter.

The following have been home on visits from the service: Louis Rosensteel, Alvey Kline, Carroll Topper and Vince Topper, Charles Peters, Francis Sanders, Bill Bushman and Ned Rhoades.

We have received letters from the following: Greta and Kayo Keilholtz, John J. Wantz, George R. Sanders, Joseph Fite, Dan Saffer, James Hahn, George Topper and Vernon Keilholtz. Leonard Kessler who is in the Navy, has also written. Sergeant Hoke of the 28th Bomber Squadron has told of his work. Greta Keilholtz says that he is still losing weight and that Dick Harner is losing his hair. Roland Sanders and Vernon Birely have received honorable discharges from the Army. Donald Lingg, who was wounded in Africa, is recuperating from his wounds and hopes to return to duty in the very near future. Vernon Keilholtz wishes us to correct the statement in the last issue that he was a lieutenant in Aviation. He is an air cadet. We wish to announce two promotions in the Navy. Ned Rhoades and Ed Combs have been promoted from Ensign to Lieutenant (j.g.). Charles Edward Rowe has been accepted as an Air Cadet and is now at Sheppard Field in Texas.

Emmitsburg High School students during the month of April purchased a total of $2,585.00 in U. S. War Bonds and Stamps.

Warner Boyle has graduated from the Officers' Command School at Aberdeen with the rank of Second Lieutenant in the Ordnance Department.

There are three air raid warning stations in the Emmitsburg District now. They are on 24 hour service and are placed as follows: Les Fox's Service Station, Rocky Ridge and on Payne's Hill near Thurmont.

Mrs. Bob Daugherty, Mrs. Edgar Wastler and Mrs. Robert Ford of Thurmont, spent the Easter holidays visiting their husbands at Camp Edwards in Massachusetts. Bob Daugherty is recovering from an attack of pneumonia there. Edgar Wastler and Bob Strine have been promoted to private 1st class.

Mt. St. Mary's College held its final Commencement last week. For the duration it will be used only for training air cadets and a large number of medical students. Gene Kraemer is stationed at Aberdeen, Jim Ling in Florida, and Jim Pryor in Alabama.

Keep the Club informed of your changes in address. The Blue and Gray Tourist Camp located on the Gettysburg road, has been sold to New York people.

Ledlie Gloninger has sold his large home known as Valley View at St. Anthony's. Mr. and Mrs. Sterling (Bud)

Peters are the parents of a son. They are located at Baton Rouge, La.

Pvt. Earl Topper was home on a ten-day furlough from Bainbridge, Georgia. It was his first leave since he was inducted last August.

Henry Pecher who was reported as missing last August, in the Philippines, is now officially listed as a prisoner in Japan.

K Of C Plans
Breakfast

Grand Knight Eugene R. Rosensteel presided over the regular meeting of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus held Monday evening in the council home.

Thank-you notes were read from Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Walter, Catocin High School, John J. Dillon, the March of Dimes and St. Rita's CCD Program. It was voted by the Council to purchase 500 book-covers published by the Knights of Columbus, for use in local schools.

The sick committee reported that Gerald N. Ryder and John L. Warthen were both still hospitalized. Leroy Baker, chairman of the St. Patrick's Day celebration, gave a progress report. Paul A. Keepers, chairman of the CC tag committee, explained the proper procedure for obtaining these tags and as membership and insurance chairman, he reported that posters had been distributed concerning the membership drive in honor of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Stanley McIntyre, chairman of the annual Communion Breakfast, reported that the affair will be held at St. Rita's Church either in late April or early May. Social Action Committee Chairman Leonard Gmeiner reported that his committee had visited at the Victor Cullen School for Boys last Sunday.

Charles L. Stefanic's transfer from the Waynesboro Council to Brute Council was voted upon favorably. Paul A. Keepers gave a report on the Awards Night, an annual event, which will be held in the near future. It was announced that Father Carl J. Fives, chaplain, would be the principal celebrant of a Communion Breakfast Mass at the Basilica in Baltimore, on March 15, at the invitation of the Maryland State Council.

Liturgical Concert
Planned

Rev. Jack Miffelton and Skip Saunders accompanied by several other vocalists will present a concert workshop in the new moods of liturgical music ranging from folk to folk rock on Friday, February 27 at 7 p.m. at Mount Saint Mary's Seminary. The public is invited to attend.

Father Miffelton and the group already have several records to their credit, the latest one being "With Strings and Drums", and they are working on a new release. Father Miffelton, a priest for the diocese of Richmond, Virginia, now stationed in Roanoke, Virginia, does most of the composing. His songs are bright, vibrant and expressive of the new attitudes in church music. He borrows from varied topics and interests to make his music relevant to peoples of today.

Skip Saunders has a television show on a local Baltimore station, using his guitar and songs to stimulate lively response.

Although the concert scene isn't really "their thing", every once in awhile they get together for a show. Their message is real, alive and expressed in a way that everyone can understand.

The February 27 concert workshop at Mount Saint Mary's Seminary will be hosted by the music department of Mount Saint Mary's College and the student government of Mount Saint Mary's Seminary.

Guidance Director

The association, comprised of representatives of colleges, universities, businesses, and government agencies, works toward placing graduates of higher education in professional jobs. The committee on which the local man will serve is responsible for screening and making recommendations to the executive board on membership applications.

Scheerer was named to his present position at Mount Saint Mary's in September 1967 after teaching for four years at St. Maria Goretti High School in Hagerstown.
