Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

The Firemen's Financial Drive continues folks and while form letters requesting your donation have been mailed out three weeks by now, less than half of the goal of $7,000 has come through the mails. As I said last week, the Firemen will lend a hand to do almost anything in the community, free of charge, and all they ask in return is a little monetary assistance once a year when this drive is conducted. The firemen don't get the money. Actually you receive your own money back again indirectly by getting protection and lower insurance rates. Your money goes to purchase necessary equipment . . . not pay wages. So, with this thought in mind folks, let's cut down on the leg work these fine laddies are forced to do when you forget to send in your contribution. Let's get 'em in today, please!

The Frederick County Commissioners are to be congratulated on their fine effort to try and hold the line on the tax rate and if they are forced to give a little, it wasn't because they didn't try hard enough. In this day and age when budgets of every department are skyrocketing, the County Commissioners pared with a sharp knife. There was a lot of wailing and gnashing of teeth and the din and clatter that rose from some departments, viz., the School Board and the Teachers Assn., rose as high as the atomic bomb mushroom cloud. Once again the teachers have turned to the students for sympathetic reaction and some headlines and editorials appeared in several county papers decrying the fact that the fat old County Commissioners had cut the budget so adversely that it would be absolutely necessary to discontinue athletics in the school system, and if this didn't get to the heart of the people, then it was stressed that our so-called "quality" education would suffer. With all this howling going on, the Commissioners had no one backing them but they stuck it out and I think this is commendable and manifested that the Commissioners were interested in that little old forgotten man who pays all the bills . . . the taxpayer. Don't worry folks, you'll have your sports, just wait and see!

It has been hot and dusty at the Little League field and as you know they are playing baseball there several nights a week. There used to be a water line to the diamond, but something has happened, there is no longer any water available and the kids are getting thirstier and thirstier. I have been told that the Town Council has been informed of this situation for several months now but no action has been taken. I don't actually want to be drawn into these affairs but when my attention is called to them I can't resist the challenge. Therefore my dear Town Council, the kids are getting thirstier as the weather gets hotter. Will you please see that they get water or will poor old Abby have to be mobilized as a water bucket boy?

Multiple Collision In West End Costs Thousands

Damage spiraled into thousands of dollars Sunday evening at 7:27 following a bizarre chain-reaction accident in Emmitsburg which demolished three cars, severely damaged two others and damaged two homes, one extensively.

Three persons were injured, none of them seriously.

Emmitsburg police gave the following account of the mishap: A driver identified as Joseph L. Barnhart, Dillsburg R1, entered the western limits of Emmitsburg on Rt. 97 "at high speed" and smashed head-on into a 1969 Buick being operated west by William P. Flohr, Waynesboro. The Flohr vehicle then collided with a 1966 Dodge driven by Susan Harrison, Sabillasville, Md.

Meanwhile, the Barnhart 1964 Chevrolet struck two parked cars owned by Elum Ross, Ft. Ritchie, and Victor A. Wishaar, Rocky Ridge. The Ross vehicle, a 1958 Chevrolet, was hurled into the home of Donald J. Long, 517 W. Main St., with the Barnhart vehicle coming to rest against the home of Robert L. Joy, next door at 515 W. Main St.

Removed to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, by the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance were Flohr, treated for multiple abrasions and a fractured toe and released; his wife, Flornece, 66, placed in the intensive care unit in satisfactory condition suffering from fractured ribs, cerebral concussion, plus abrasions and contusions, and Barnhart, lacerations and contusions, released.

Police Chief W. H. Filler reported that the Barnhart, Flohr and Ross vehicles were demolished, while the Harrison and Wishaar vehicles sustained damages of $350 and $300 respectively. Damage to the Long home was set at $200, while that to the Joy home "should be in the thousands," since one entire wall was extensively caved in.

Musical Stars Coming Here For Carnival

Voted country music's number one new singing team, Carl and Pearl Butler have found the magic combination which clicks both on personal appearances and records. Recording for the first time together, their recording of "Don't Let Me Cross Over" appeared in charts all across the country and went on to be named the number one song of the year. The couple will be in Emmitsburg at the Carnival, Tuesday evening, June 2.

Serious, hardworking Carl has come a long way operating on the old-fashioned theory that an entertainer should give the very best performance possible. He played his first show date at the age of twelve, picking for a square dance and singing between the sets. This was the kick-off of what now totals thousands of personal appearances, radio, and television shows throughout the world. Nearly twenty years after that first performance in Knoxville, Carl received an invitation to become a regular on the Grand Ole Opry.

MSM Yearbook Honors J. J. Dillon

The 1970 issue of Pridwin, Mount Saint Mary's College yearbook, has been dedicated to Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr., veteran faculty member who was named executive vice president of the college just a year ago.

The student editors said it was "with unfathomable pride" that they were announcing their decision to honor Dr. Dillon, who "has shown himself to be a man of conviction, who is not moved by the title of his position, but by the awesome responsibility of it."

Dr. Dillon was named executive vice president of the college last June by the Board of Trustees, with responsibility for managing internal affairs. He had been a member of the English department for 29 years, serving as its chairman for many years. He has served on most of the college committees, including the academic council.

This is the text of the dedication as published in the 1970 issue of Pridwin, the Mount's student yearbook:

"With unfathomable pride the editors of Pridwin '70 dedicate this publication to Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr. Past history records Dr. Dillon as a member of the Mount faculty for thirty years.

"It is the near past, however, which warrants the presentation of this dedication. Dr. Dillon came to the forefront, one year ago, as a master of reason while serving as chairman of the Tripartite Committee. Seeking an end to the student boycott his position was not the student position, but it was a fair position.

"Confidence in his actions was demonstrated when the Board of Trustees appointed him Executive Vice President. During his relatively short tenure in this office, Dr. Dillon has shown himself to be a man of conviction, who is not moved by the title of his position, but by the awesome responsibility of it. This dedication is our vote of confidence that Dr. Dillon will perpetuate 'Spes Nestra'."

The sale will be held in lieu of the June 22 meeting.

The Lions voted a $10 donation to the local Little League. Treasurer Floyd L. Lewis announced that at the June 8 meeting, a film, produced and distributed by the Gulf Oil Co., would be shown. President Sewell reported that Harry R. Lippy will be District 22-W's candidate for District Governor at the annual convention in Atlantic City next month. Beginning Monday night there will be entertainment provided every single night of the week and a wonderful array of television, radio, and recording artists has been scheduled throughout the week to keep both the young and old entertained.

Numerous games and entertainment will await the public every night and as usual delicious sandwiches and refreshments will be on sale.

Eugene Myers, general chairman, said the Mammoth Parade scheduled for Saturday, June 6 at 2:30 p.m., will be one of the largest in the history of the town. Over 100 units have signed cards signifying their participation in the parade and it very easily could run anywhere from one and a half to two hours in length. The Vigilant Hose Company will host the Parade and Annual Frederick County Volunteer Firemen's Assn. Convention which will be held here.

Over $1100 in prize money awaits the lucky winners of the Parade and these winners will be announced Saturday evening. The Parade will form as usual in West End at the Doughboy, only this year the line of march will be revised. The Parade will start at the Doughboy and proceed down Main Street to Boyle's Store where it will turn and head for Community Field. There will be no parading on South or North Seton Ave., Federal Ave., or DePaul Street this year. Units wishing to spot drill will be permitted to do so from the judges' stand at the Fire Hall to the Square.

Traffic will be managed during the Parade by the Emmitsburg Police Dept., assisted by Maryland State Police and Fire Police. The grand marshal of the Parade will be Congressman J. Glenn Beall.

Judge Barrick Receives Fellowship

Judge Samuel W. Barrick has received a fellowship to attend the National College of State Trial Judges for a month-long session in July, 1970.

The National College is permanently established on the University of Nevada Campus at Reno. Founded in 1957, the original concept was to form a college "of Judges, for Judges and by Judges." This concept is as true today as it was in the beginning. The faculty, which is taken from the ranks of the Judiciary, is composed of nationally prominent persons in related fields which are of ever-increasing importance to the trial judges.

Judge Barrick stated: "I am extremely pleased to have this opportunity for a broad exchange of ideas with other Judges who sit on our nation's general jurisdiction courts. Judges from Maryland who have attended this course have praised it highly. In order to keep up to date, the study of law must be a continuing experience. Although this will take considerable time and effort I am sure it will be very helpful in improving my ability as a trial Judge."

Frederick County Backgrounds

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Odds And Ends

In any given historical and genealogical study there are always some loose ends to be "gathered in and added to the whole." This being the case and with the desire to make this series as complete and comprehensive as possible the following facts must be included at some time or other in order that this column can be used for a general "this is what actually happened" source.

In the notes on the Longwell family—the date of the marriage of John K. Longwell to Sarah H. McKaleb was given but in the published notice the name of the officiating minister was omitted. The complete record is as follows:

"Married, May 6, 1840, by the Rev. Robert Smith Grier, Mr. John K. Longwell to Miss Sarah H. McKaleb, both of this County."

Note: John K. and Sarah (McKaleb) Longwell, together with some of their children and other descendants are interred at the Piney Creek Presbyterian churchyard.

Now for some notes from the records on the Crapster family—as follows:

1. Married, August 30, 1852, Name of minister not given), Mr. John H. Crapster to Miss Sarah A. Grammer, both of this County.

2. Married, June 24, 1852, by the Rev. Mr. Hanuk, Mr. Thomas Shipley to Miss Eveline E. Crapster, both of this County.

3. Married, December 29, 1843, by the Rev. Mr. Collier, Mr. Gustavus W. Crapster to Miss Sophia Simpson, both of this County.

The above records are given in the hope that they will assist in completing family genealogies or be of some assistance in compiling charts for membership in patriotic organizations.

One of the most "numerous" families buried at Piney Creek is the Birnies. Thanks are due two Birnie descendants who made available for this series not only a family genealogical chart but also most interesting data on the School for "Young Ladies," known as "Thorndale," founded and conducted by members of that family. It was located on the family estate of that name located a short distance east of Taneytown, Maryland. The original record books of the school, unfortunately minus several pages, is still in existence and its value, both historically and genealogically, cannot be estimated. With this in mind the roll will be given as originally "set down" in the careful and methodical "hand" of one of the original schoolmistresses.

The first date given is the time the pupil entered the Seminary—the last the time of her departure. Place of residence is also included and, in some cases, a bit of additional data. The record follows:

List of pupils in the Thorndale Seminary.

Commenced November 1837.

November 1837—Elizabeth M. Key, West River—Remained 3 years.

May 1838—Sidney Hughes, Baltimore, Maryland—Left April 1840.

September 1839—Mary Winder, Baltimore County, Md.—Left October 1841.

September 1839—Sally Winder, Baltimore County, Md.—Left October 1841.

November 1839—Margaret Darby, Virginia, Left November 1840—married and died in the year 1841.

November 1839—Ann Crawford, Baltimore, Md.—Left Nov. 1840.

November 1839—Elizabeth Crawford, Baltimore, Md.—Left Nov. 1840.

August 1840—Mary Jones, Baltimore, Md.—Left April 1847.

November 1840—Catharine Wells, Annapolis, Md.—Left April 1847.

May 1840—Sarah Harry, Hagerstown, Md.—Left April 1847.

May 1840—Catharine M. Harry, Hagerstown, Md.—Left April 1847.

June 1840—Emily M. Bevan, Baltimore, Md.—(No further data).

November 1840—Ann Hill, Hagerstown, Md.—Left April 1843.

May 1841—Josephine M. Stone, Baltimore, Md.—Left Oct. 1844.

May 1841—Elizabeth Riemann, Baltimore, Md.—Left Oct. 1843.

May 1841—Alverde Manso (?), (Residence not given)—Left May 1842.

December 1841—Rebecca Falls, (Residence not given), Left, October 1841—Died 1851.

May 1841—Sidney Winder, Baltimore County, Md.—Left October 1841.

May 1842—Ellen Carey, Baltimore, Md.—Left May 1842.

May 1842—Elizabeth Barny—(No further data).

November 1842—Susan Waters, Frederick, Md.—Left Nov. 1843.

November 1842—Mary Jane Ege, Taneytown, Md.—Left Nov. 1843.

Note: Undoubtedly Mary Jane Ege was a daughter of, or related in some way or other, to Andrew Ege who married Margaret Ann McKaleb. According to the dates she apparently entered the Thorndale School the year after the death of Margaret Ann (McKaleb) Ege. Also, it will be noticed, she was a resident of Taneytown, Maryland.

November 1843—Mary E. Atlee, (Place of residence not given)—Left April 1846.

Note: The Atlees, originally from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, can boast a Maryland "branch". They left their native state and settled, quite early, in what is now New Windsor, Maryland.

There are many Atlee graves in the Presbyterian churchyard of that town. It is reasonable to assume that Mary E. Atlee was a member of that family.

November 1843—Martha J. Albert, (Place of residence not given)—Left April 1846.

November 1843—Elizabeth Owings, (Residence not given)—Left October 1845.

November 1843—Maria Smith, (Residence not given)—Left October 1845.

November 1843—Agnes Day, Baltimore County, Md.—Left May 1845—Died December 1845.

November 1843—Eugenia Hall, Baltimore, Md.—Left Aug. 1844.

May 1844—Ann Gaither, Frederick, Md.—Left July 1845.

May 1844—Jane Gaither, Frederick, Md.—Left July 1845.

November 1844—Maria Tyler, Frederick, Md.—Left Oct. 1846.

The notes pertaining to Thorndale School, the Birnie enterprise, will be continued in this series next week.

Almost any politician can explain to you, in great detail, why he is just the man the people need.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias
U.S. Senator

The Blackmun Nomination

I am sure every American is glad that the struggle, over a year in duration, to fill the Supreme Court seat vacated by Abe Fortas is now over. We should be particularly happy not only that the struggle is over but that a victory has been won—a victory which cannot be claimed by any single party to this long struggle because it is a victory for the American people and for the concept of the high quality which is absolutely necessary on the Supreme Court.

In a sense, of course, it is a victory for President Nixon in that his nominee, Judge Harry A. Blackmun, has been confirmed by the unanimous vote of the Senate. In a sense, it is a victory for the Senate because its insistence on high quality has been answered with a man of high quality. But the real victory is the victory of the American people. They will gain not only in the seating of Judge Blackmun on the Court but also in the fact that this long struggle over the Supreme Court vacancy placed emphasis on quality which will not be overlooked by presidents in future years. So, Judge Blackmun, by his scholarly ability, his human warmth, his judicial record has already set a benchmark for the bench. I think this emphasis on quality will be the most lasting asset which the nation gains from the struggle to fill this post on our highest court.

But there is also the very human side of Judge Blackmun's elevation to the Supreme Court. I would like to tell you a little bit about the judge as I saw him during recent days. Because the people of Maryland have been very generous to me and have made me a member of several legislative bodies, I have had an opportunity to hear many witnesses who appear before the committees of the legislature. But seldom, if ever, have I seen a man appear before a legislative committee who was able to reveal more of his own character than Judge Blackmun. I don't believe that I have ever heard testimony more poignant or more revealing.

Judge Blackmun, by way of explaining his views, introduced us into his own family circle. He revealed an understanding of the mood of the American people through his understanding of his own children. He expressed a confidence in the youth of America by explaining his confidence in his own daughters. I think that all of this was relevant and important and I think it played a part in the fact that there was not a single dissenting vote in the United States Senate against Judge Blackmun's appointment to the Court.

People have said to me, "What's the difference between Judge Blackmun and Judge Haynsworth and Judge Carswell? Is the difference that they live in different parts of the country?" I say, "No, that is not the difference." Whereas Judge Haynsworth was reluctant to discuss his financial affairs and the involvement of his personal financial affairs with cases on which he was sitting, Judge Blackmun was open and volunteered information which was not even requested. This is a very different attitude and I think it's very revealing of the difference in the men.

Judge Carswell's record of judicial error was two and one-half times greater than that of the average U.S. district judge, which is in sharp contrast with Judge Blackmun's reputation for judicial ability and scholarly legal opinions.

The question which ran through my mind during the entire struggle to fill the vacancy was: "Is it better to let history record unwise appointments, or to oppose unwise appointments in an effort to get the best man to fill this vacancy?" Judge Haynsworth and Judge Carswell will soon be forgotten, but Justice Blackmun and his opinions will long be remembered, as will the President who nominated him.

Local Scouts

Visit Washington

On Saturday, May 23, the Boy Scouts went to Washington, D. C., to take the Lincoln Trail Hike. This hike is sixteen miles long and covers seven important places in Lincoln's history. The boys started walking from the Lincoln Memorial, and continued on to Ford's Theater, Peterson House, where Lincoln died, the White House, Fort Stevens, the Battle-ground Cemetery, and Anderson House, which was Lincoln's summer White House.

Upon completion of the hike, the boys are allowed to wear the Lincoln Trail Award Medal. This medal is purchased by the boy at a cost of $2.75. Each Scout must also read a book on Lincoln's life and full uniform must be worn during the hike. The Scouts ate their lunch and rested weary feet at Meridian Hill Park. Along the streets on the second half of the trail, the boys saw hundreds of 17-year scouts.

The Scouts wish to thank the drivers, Raymond Baker and Verne Ray for their cooperation on this trip. They would like to see more parents cooperate and help on coming trips.

Senior Citizens

Plan Bus Trip

Tuesday, June 16, the Senior Citizens Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Public Library. The Library Board and Librarians issued an invitation to the Club to make a tour of the Library to observe all the equipment and services rendered the public by the association. After the tour, the Club will repair to the Senior Citizens' Center for refreshments. This should prove to be a most interesting and informative trip.

It is hoped that all Club members will avail themselves of this event.

July 2, 1970, the Senior Citizens Club will make a bus trip to the Kutztown Festival. All those desiring to make the tour will call the Center to make reservations by June 23, 1970. Members may either carry a lunch with them or take advantage of the many places available at the Fair to sample the well-known Dutch food to be obtained there. The price of the tour is $4.50 and $1.00 for entrance to the event. The time of departure and return will be given later in this column.

The August meeting of the Club will be a picnic at St. Joseph's picnic grounds. More of that later.

St. Joseph's H. S. To Graduate 28

The senior class of St. Joseph's High School will join for the baccalaureate Mass at St. Joseph's Church, Emmitsburg, on June 7, 1970. The Mass will be offered at 8:30 a.m. by Rev. John King, C.M., pastor of the church. Father King will deliver the sermon at this Mass.

A Communion Breakfast will be prepared for the graduates by the junior class mothers. Mrs. John Hollinger will be chairman of this affair. The breakfast will follow the baccalaureate Mass and will be held in the high school cafeteria.

Graduation ceremonies will be held in the evening at 7:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium. Monsignor George D. Mulcahy, rector of Mount Saint Mary's Seminary, will preside. The greetings will be delivered by Denise Marie Smith of the graduating class. Rev. Harry Kuhn, C.M., of St. Joseph's Church, will read the roster and Rev. Harry J. Flynn of Mount Saint Mary's, will be the guest speaker.

The members of the high school glee club will render two numbers at the closing of the ceremonies.

Open-Air Burning Explained By Chief

Fire Chief Guy R. McLaughlin of the Vigilant Hose Co. this week explains the new rule for open-air burning.

The Chief says that to do any kind of open-air burning, in town or out in the County, you first must call the Frederick County Health Dept. 662-1101, Extension 58, and give them at least 48 hours' notice as to when you wish to burn and the Dept. will send out a man to check with you as to what you wish to burn, and if okayed, the Dept. will then issue you a permit. Mr. Rhodes, of the Health Dept. advises that under no condition would they allow burning on a damp or rainy day.

The Fire Chief advises that if you wish to burn, please DON'T call the Emmitsburg Fire Co. . . . Call the Health Dept. The Emmitsburg Chief advises that the Fire Dept. must have a permit to burn anything, even on a drill, so they are in the same boat, or situation, as the rest of the citizenry.

CAR FIRE

The Vigilant Hose Co. extinguished a $75 fire in the auto of Mrs. Frances Bittle, Bullfrog Rd., near the eastern edge of Emmitsburg at 11:30 a.m. Monday. Fire Chief Guy R. McLaughlin said the fire apparently originated in wiring around the battery of her 1966 Ford Thunderbird. Mrs. Bittle was driving her auto on Route 97 when the fire broke out, Chief McLaughlin said. Firemen used dry chemicals to put out the blaze.

Long-winded talkers are today out of their age.

NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

"To The End Of Civilization?"

No foreign force on earth poses a greater danger to the future of America than the spread of drug abuse—the soaring epidemic of marijuana use in the junior and senior high schools and the colleges of the country, the multiplying use of the more powerful and perhaps more addictive drugs such as LSD, Heroin, the Amphetamines and the Barbituates, and the inability of law enforcement to halt the evil traffic. These are the words of one of the nation's most experienced Federal agents in the service of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs—James R. Bland. He spoke as the most authoritative "resource" person on our drug abuse forum held in Little Rock on April 23—with nearly 3,000 youth leaders from the schools and colleges of Arkansas in attendance.

"Dr. George Wahl, of Harvard, a Nobel Prize-winning scientist, theorizes," said Agent Bland, "that we have a 50-50 chance to avoid nuclear war within our lifetime. Our chances for survival can be increased only by clear, positive thinking uncontaminated by mind-altering drugs. Young and old must join in a common effort to remove this cancerous growth from our society and, further, to devote our talents, our resources, toward reversing the forces that could lead to the end of civilization.

Dry Up Market

Mr. Bland was lending his weight to the overwhelming consensus at the Forum that young people, adequately informed on the true nature of Marijuana, LSD and the other dangerous drugs, provide the nation's best hope to turn off the fantastic and frightening flow of drugs across our country. The remedy, everybody agreed, is to dry up the market—through education on the dangers involved in drug experimentation and use.

Only a lack of knowledge, he said, could account for the fact that "so many young people today use LSD when, after 20 years of clinical research in over 2,000 scientific studies, results indicate that LSD is one of the most dangerous and unpredictable drug known to man. Thousands of LSD users are annually admitted to the mental wards of hospitals. Its damage to chromosomes—causing the birth of "monsters"—is another indication that probably soon will be confirmed."

Marijuana, Then Heroin

Agent Bland, Deputy Director in the New Orleans office of the Federal Narcotics bureau, was even more alarmed at the epidemic spread of Marijuana and its luring of youth into Heroin use. "Conservative estimates," he said, "place the number of Marijuana users at 8,000,000. It took five years to get from colleges to high schools; it has taken just two more years to get into junior high schools. We have cases now of 7-year-olds smoking Marijuana. An 11-year-old girl is in the mental ward of a New Orleans hospital after eating cookies containing Marijuana—given to her by her younger brother. The cancer of Marijuana has spread from the cities into suburbs and small towns. It is in the very bloodstream of too large a segment of our youth. Riding with it is a sea of opium addiction, Heroin.

"Heroin addiction will accompany or follow Marijuana in a significant number of cases," he said. "I express this conclusion out of a background of long experience in enforcement and drug education." He said that while many "public figures" discount the danger of Marijuana: "Eight out of every 10 Heroin addicts I've talked to in the last 10 years started their drug career with Marijuana."

Young Leaders Needed

The know-it-alls, he said, "say there is not enough scientific research in Marijuana, and I agree. But there is enough evidence today to conclude that Marijuana is a dangerous drug possessing a potential harm both to the user—physically and mentally—and to our society. It is mind-altering and unpredictable; and it can produce the same or similar effects as LSD. Both are hallucinogens.

He said that the Mafia, which dominates the Heroin traffic, is not involved in Marijuana. He told of vast profits from Heroin: A kilogram of opium from a Turkish farmer sells for $350 on the black market. By the time it reaches the U. S. as Heroin it can be cut and packaged into from 80,000 to 160,000 dosage units selling on the market in New York or San Francisco for $1,250,000.00. Heroin smuggling is the richest illicit traffic in the world—and most of it pours into the U. S. The Federal Government is expanding its enforcement personnel and is working on programs to cut off the production in Europe and Asia. But only the citizenry of the nation, through education and dedication, can stamp out the horrible evil. The National Education Program expects to carry this message into 12 or 15 midwestern states this summer at seminars for young leaders.

Mathias Asks Action On Sixes Bridge Dam

Senator Charles McC. Mathias (R-Md.) has called on a Senate subcommittee to approve authorization of the proposed Sixes Bridge Dam and Reservoir on the Monocacy River in Frederick and Carroll counties.

In a letter to Senator Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio), chairman of the Subcommittee on Flood Control, Rivers and Public Works, Senator Mathias wrote: "The Sixes Bridge project alone will not solve all of the area's flood control, water supply and water quality problems by itself. It is, however, an important and urgently needed part of a comprehensive answer to the region's needs."

"This project has been strongly backed for several years by the elected officials of Frederick and Carroll counties and the City of Frederick, and by many citizens in the area involved. It is supported by the State of Maryland, which has estimated that Frederick might need the low-flow augmentation offered by this project as early as 1975," he said.

Senator Mathias noted: "many of the state and county officials supporting Sixes Bridge were involved in the long negotiations which led to the creation last year of the Maryland Potomac Water Authority, a new state body created to allocate and obtain the funds required for the non-federal share of the Bloomington Dam and Reservoir, now under construction on the North Branch of the Potomac."

This experience, he said, "will provide solid evidence of the state's understanding of local obligations in such cases and a real ability to work out practical arrangements."

"I appreciate the Subcommittee's attention to this project, and respectfully urge you to recommend its immediate authorization," Senator Mathias said.

A successful person always encounters petty jealousies, especially among his childhood acquaintances.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias
U.S. Senator

Richard Cleveland, Public Servant

One of the most serious illnesses that affects Americans is the disease called Potomac Fever. It might just as well be called Severn Fever, Hudson Fever or Sacramento Fever. It's a kind of disease which makes people believe that they have to live lives of public service and that public service can only be accomplished through holding public jobs—sometimes elective jobs or sometimes appointive jobs, a member of the President's Cabinet, a high official of state government or perhaps a member of the cabinet of the mayor of a large city.

For some reason we seem to think that public service is the same thing as public employment. But happily, this is a disease of the imagination. This is a disease which really doesn't have to exist because many Americans, in fact the great majority of Americans, make enormous contributions to America without ever having received a dollar in public pay and without ever having served a day as an official of government. One American who illustrates this point is a Marylander named Richard Cleveland.

Richard Cleveland has spent a lifetime of public service but he has done it as a private individual. He has been a trustee of several educational institutions and his own broad experience as a lawyer and as a newspaperman has contributed to the institutions that he served. He has exerted leadership in the Maryland community through being willing to take on the thankless jobs that are involved in defending the defenseless and in raising funds for public purposes such as the Community Chest. He has generated in others a spirit of public interest and of public assistance because of his leadership in this work. He has, as a private citizen, been active in the political spheres of Maryland life.

He grew up with a Democratic Party heritage but he has exercised the highest duties of citizenship by choosing carefully the candidates that he would support. One of the early candidates for whom he campaigned was Maryland's Governor Albert C. Ritchie, a contender for the 1932 Democratic Presidential nomination. Later he viewed the needs of the country as he saw them and gave his total support for the Presidential candidacy of Republican Wendell Willkie. Throughout his life he has made these decisions as a citizen and he has led others to make the same hard choice between what was, perhaps, the easy, convenient, or even comfortable way and the hard personal decision which was dictated by the requirements of the times.

We are grateful to Richard Cleveland for a lifetime of public service, for service as a lawyer and as an advocate of justice for all our people. Richard Cleveland is a leading citizen because he has been a leader of citizens and we are all grateful. But in citing his example, I think we ought to express gratitude to all those millions of Americans who through quiet lives of public service are the real leaders of this country.

Comment from the Capital —

START OF THE SOARING SEVENTIES by Vant Neff

Diplomacy has turned into a dangerous game. Witness the brazen kidnapping of the U. S. Ambassador to Brazil in the streets of Rio, in broad daylight. The abduction of our Ambassador Nathaniel Davis in Guatemala. The abrupt seizing of the U. S. Air Attaché by leftist guerrillas in the Dominican Republic. This roughhouse treatment hasn't been reserved only for Americans. How about the kidnapping and murder of the West German diplomat in Guatemala, which triggered Bonn's severance of all diplomatic relations with that country? There has been open harassment of representatives of many lands, especially in countries where the left-wing is attempting to dominate the government. Notice the difference in the way the United States deals with diplomats. They are treated like visiting royalty. Haven't we been too good-natured and too gullible far too long? There's only one way to fight fire!

Scratch a union organizer and most times you'll find a man who wants power and a cash flow. The guy organizing the California grape pickers may be an exception, but it doesn't look like it. He exhorted people to wear buttons stating, "Don't Eat Grapes." Students in Boston held a "Boston Grape Party" and dumped grapes in the harbor. Most of the grape pickers didn't care, one way or another, about unions. They were virtually forced into it. The grape growers hired non-union help. The public ate cherries, berries and oranges, instead. The boycott was a little too successful. It backfired. Now Señor Cesar Chavez, the would-be organizer, and his lieutenants, lament that it will take several years to convince people that they should resume eating grapes at all. As in most strikes, nobody won!

Can you picture a dignified Wall Streeter carrying a Teamsters' Union card? It just may be in the cards. The Teamsters, notorious for making capital of any situation that benefits the union bigwigs, have been on an organizing spree among the stockbrokers in the sacred denizens of Wall Street. So far, no luck! Dividends gained: absolutely none.

Beware the politician who promises you instant paradise. Yet almost all do. The would-be office-holder has a correction for everything. His appeals are as broad as he feels his audience will swallow. "Tell them what they want to hear" is prevalent.

I long for the dedicated public servant who will honestly admit his confusion, acknowledge the difficulty of his task, and promise to pull his oar to the best of his ability and lend his voice and vote to the best interests of all people regardless of party affiliation.

Yes, Virginia, there is another way to create a national crisis of major proportions. It is a "sick call." It is deadly, disruptive, and potentially far more destructive than a legitimate strike, because it is so indefinite. Federal air traffic controllers proved this when their "sick call" caused chaos at the country's busiest airports right at the height of the travel season. These "air sick" men, by the way, hold the key to human safety at the airport in the palm of their hands—they direct all planes in landing and on take-off. Though they maintain that they are poorly paid, it isn't unusual for a senior man to earn as much as $25,000. While this strike masquerades as wholesale airsickness, its effect on the poor public is nauseating. I wonder whether some day soon, in defense, the public won't form an equally strong society and dish out a dose of their own medicine—inconvenience, frustration, and financial loss.

Congratulations to Columbia University, Union Theological Seminary and others. "No bail to the Panthers," they said, in spite of threats, pressures and demands from militant, left-wing radicals. Why should they! The Black Panthers are admittedly dedicated to the overthrow and destruction of whatever and whomever stands in their way. Universities and other "establishment" targets, watch out!

Insurance Mutual Funds

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., May 28, 1970—The insurance industry is becoming a prime force in the mutual fund area. It is offering its policyholders the security of a fixed amount of dollars and a long-term inflation hedge from equity investments in a single package. This idea has much merit from the point of view of both the individual and the issuing company, but it is not without its disadvantages.

A Growing List

The number of insurance concerns offering mutual funds to their customers continues to increase. Some—like Aetna, John Hancock, and Lincoln National—have formed their own mutual funds; others have purchased existing fund management companies. Examples of the latter include CNA Financial and its acquisition of Tsai Management, American General taking over Channing Financial Corp., and New England Life linking up with Loomis Sayles & Co.

Some of the small insurers have working arrangements for distributing existing mutual funds. Another interesting solution to this problem was found during 1969 when four medium-sized Midwest insurers got together and jointly formed two funds with shares to be sold only through their agents. Of course, not all insurance companies are convinced that such funds best serve their policyholders. Some still prefer annuities or other specialized plans. Missed The Boat

There are important reasons for the surge into the equity field by the insurance industry. It is an effort to regain access to some of the lost savings dollars it once had. Consumers have become far more sophisticated in terms of equity markets in recent years, and the industry is trying to capitalize on this situation. It missed the boat earlier on equity-type programs. Content with the old way of doing things, it did not comprehend the dynamic impact new approaches could have on operations. The industry now recognizes the potential of packaging equity and life insurance together.

Many problems have emerged within the industry because of mutual funds. One of the biggest drawbacks has been sales forces unsophisticated in the selling of funds. Most insurance salesmen have been concerned mainly with fixed dollars, and not well versed in equity-type investing. Many had grave doubts from the start about combining mutual funds and life insurance. All had to be retrained and tested before they were qualified for their new selling stint. This often meant a loss of time, both business and personal. Nor did the problem end there. As first-year commissions are much higher for life insurance than for mutual funds, many salesmen did not attempt to sell the latter not realizing that commissions mount later on.

Also of considerable concern is the possible effect performance will have on insurance sales and lapse ratio. This could be especially troublesome with many funds starting near a market peak, taking several years to reach a level where performance can be considered good. Far is that customers will

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS

change companies for their entire insurance package because one company's fund has outperformed another. This might be particularly true for new clients where the rate difference would not prevent the switch. This could be a substantial threat because an insurance company incurs the greatest expense during the first year of a policy. Serving Their Markets

Prime market for insurance at this time is the young generation, one far more equity conscious than were its parents. Therefore, it is inevitable that the industry would serve this youthful market with mutual funds. Babson's Reports is currently recommending several such insurance companies, including CNA Financial, INA Corporation, and All American Life and Financial.

Totem Pole Benefit Tuesday At Allenberry

Richard North Gage, managing director of the Allenberry Playhouse at Boiling Springs, Pa., has designated Tuesday, June 2, 1970 as Totem Pole Playhouse Night at Allenberry. The entire proceeds of the evening's play at Allenberry will go into the building fund for the half-finished summer theater in Caledonia State Park.

The play that evening will be the hilarious farce-comedy "I'll Get My Man", which features two actresses who have appeared at the Totem Pole, Bettie Endrizzzi and Liz Council. Miss Endrizzzi played the mother in last summer's production of "Love and Kisses", and Miss Council appeared in "Strange Bedfellows", "You Can't Take It With You", and "Dinner With The Family". Like all farce comedies, the play is loaded with mistaken identities, misinformation, and the turn of a word and phrase which brings instant laughter. It is suitable for the entire family.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Putch and Mr. Richard North Gage will co-host the evening along with other Totem Pole and Allenberry personalities.

Tickets are available at $2.50 each, and a combined dinner-theater arrangement has been made for $6.45 per person. Tickets may be secured by mail, as well as in person at the Allenberry box office, or at Colony Photo Supply on the Square in Chambersburg.

Completes Repair Course

Private Edward M. Baker, 22, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Fern Baker, and wife, Margaret, live on Route 2, Emmitsburg, completed a fuel and electrical systems repair course recently at the Army Ordnance School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

During the 12-week course, he was trained in the operation and repair of fuel and electrical systems of the Army's combat vehicles, including the M-60 tank and the M-113 and M-114 personnel carriers.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

People themselves — not just their poisonous wastes — are an environmental problem. Crowding (the old-fashioned word for "people pollution") has been found to do serious physical and emotional damage to human health.

A new United Nations report on the problems of the human environment predicts a rise in the incidence of a long list of physical and social maladies as a result of urban crowding. This list includes tuberculosis, parasitosis, skin diseases, malnutrition, respiratory infections, bowel infections, venereal disease, mental breakdown, suicide, crime, and drug dependence.

We do not need to wait for these predictions to come true for evidence that crowding is a health problem. Indiana gynecologist Joseph F. Thompson reports that infant mortality among poor people is higher in crowded urban communities than in less crowded rural communities. "Poor reproductive outcome," says Dr. Thompson, "continues to be associated with relative population crowding."

Life is shortened where people are more crowded. Dr. Rene Dubos, professor of environmental biology at Rockefeller University and author of So Human An Animal states that "the expectation of life beyond age 35 has appreciably lessened during the past few years in big cities of the U. S."

Mounting Evidence

Clear-cut proof of just how crowding results in physical disease is not easy to document. But proof of the effect of crowding on personality and behavior — and on the psychosomatic illnesses that have their origin in emotional states — is mounting. Most of the evidence comes from research on animals. "There are to many similarities between animals and man," says Dr. C. H. Southwick of Johns Hopkins University, "to ignore the animal studies on crowding."

First and most famous of these studies is that of Dr. John B. Calhoun of the National Institute of Mental Health. Dr. Calhoun kept crowding rats together while observing them carefully. This is what he found:

—The sex act—usually a complex ritual of courtship among animals—became quick, nervous, brutal and obsessive.

—Male rats became homosexual.

—Female rats stopped building nests. They stopped taking care of their young. Some ate their own offspring; others had spontaneous abortions.

Newcomer Rats
When Dr. Calhoun introduced new young rats into the already overcrowded cages, the older males began to attack the visitors, and other rats, regardless of age or sex.

Dr. Calhoun coins a phrase to describe this degeneration—"behavioral sink." Dr. Desmond Morris, curator of mammals for the Zoological Society of London, comes up with a new phrase in the title of his best-selling book: The Human Zoo.

"Under normal conditions, in their natural habitats," says Dr. Morris, "wild animals do not mutilate themselves, masturbate, attack their offspring, develop stomach ulcers, become fetishists, suffer from obesity, form homosexual pair bonds, or commit murder." But in zoos, he says, they do.

And he adds: "The modern human animal is no longer living under conditions natural for his species. Trapped by his own brainy brilliance, he has set himself up in a huge, restless menagerie where he is in constant danger of cracking."

Link With Child Abuse
The rise in child-abuse cases noted by doctors in our country may be one measure of these grim predictions. Dr. Benjamin Viel of the University of Chile suspects that many infant deaths in his own overpopulated Latin America may be caused by human parents acting like Dr. Calhoun's distracted rats.

Dr. Viel told a recent conference that in families with one or two children the death rate for infants up to the age of one year was 60 for each 1,000 births. In families with three or four children, the death rate went up to 90. And in those with ten or more children the death rate for these infants zoomed to 300—virtually one in three!

In the United States a number of warning signals may indicate that we are being driven to distraction by our own crowding—a crowding that gets worse each year.

A few years ago a massive study in New York City found that one in five persons suffered from some mental health problem. Columbia University psychiatrist Augustus F. Kinzel suggests that our urban violence may result from a reaction to the closeness of other persons.

Alcoholic Escape

Our increasing dependence on alcohol and other drugs may be a measure of the pressures of life that come from crowding. A just-published government-sponsored study reports that more than two-thirds of the American people use alcohol. The best estimates of the number of alcoholics in our country range from four to six million. Deaths from cirrhosis of the liver have been rising steadily since 1950.

The rising toll of narcotics addiction has been reported many times over in the public press and over broadcast media.

At our present rate of pollution growth we add, inevitably, at least two million people each year. Clearly, our people pollution problem will get worse if we do not cut that growth back sharply to zero. President Nixon's chief science adviser, Dr. Lee DuBridge, calls the achievement of that cut-back "the first great challenge of our time."

But Dr. Calhoun thinks we must go farther. We should, he says, establish a situation in which our population is in "a continuous state of decline."

Technology—the source of much of the pollution of our environment—may yet save us from people pollution. With the modern contractive techniques, and with ever more modern techniques to come, we have it within our power to restrict our birth rate as sharply as we wish.

The Civil Service Commission announced recently a 39-year-old veteran—Robert L. Smith, a computer programmer with the VA—as the "Outstanding Handicapped Federal Employee of the Year."

Blue Cross

Seeks Rate Increase

Maryland Blue Cross last week applied for increases in rates for certain of its non-group programs, covering some 84,000 subscribers—about 14 per cent of Blue Cross membership.

Subject to Insurance Department approval, the adjustments, averaging 27.4 per cent, will become effective for Standard, 80/20 Co-Pay and Community Preferred programs next August 1.

The action will not affect rates of Blue Cross group programs, which are adjusted periodically on the basis of formulas approved by the department. Nor will it affect the special Blue Cross 65 and Student programs or any Blue Shield programs.

In announcing its filing, Blue Cross pointed out that the non-group programs experienced an operating loss of more than a half-million dollars in the first quarter of this year and that, because of unprecedented increases in hospital costs occurring throughout the state, severe additional losses can be anticipated before August 1.

Standard and 80/20 Co - Pay rates have been in effect since August 1, 1969, and the Community Preferred since April 1, 1969.

The current monthly rates for the affected non-group programs are $6.90 for individuals and $15.82 for families under Co-Pay,

$9.20 and $21.10 under Standard and $10.80 and $22.90 for Community Preferred. Corresponding proposed rates are $8.70 and $20.10 (Co-Pay), $11.60 and $26.80 (Standard) and $13.70 and $31.50 (Community Preferred) per month.

To do this it must be able to move in many different ways: moving from a sitting to a standing position, then to walking, from walking back to standing, and finally back to sitting. The machine must also be able to climb stairs and turn corners.

Astronomers at the University of Rochester have been "taking a star's pulse." It is the Crab Nebula pulsar named NP 0532. (Pulsars, discovered only three years ago, are mysterious sources of regular bursts of radio signals; NP 0532 is the only one that astronomers know to emit light pulses.) Just as a doctor takes a patient's pulse to learn something about the inner activity of the patient's body, the astronomers are timing the pulsar's light flashes to learn more about its inner workings.

Seek Applicants For Service Academies

Senator Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.) asked this week that all young men interested in being appointed to one of the United States military academies for the Class of 1975 apply to his office as soon as possible.

The Maryland Senator urged all interested Marylanders to initiate the application procedure by writing to his Baltimore office, 1616 Federal Building, 31 Hopkins Plaza, Baltimore, Maryland 21201. Those who have already written him need not do so again.

"I would urge young men completing their junior year of high school to consider the opportunity that is available to them to obtain a good college education while being of service to their country if appointed to a service academy," Tydings said.

"One should start the application procedure by letting me know of his interest now, instead of waiting until the fall when college applications are usually submitted," he added.

Applicants must be unmarried and never married, a citizen of the United States and at least 17 but less than 22 years of age on July 1, 1971.

The Award—a handsome bronze medal—is presented by more than 8,500 participating schools. Surveys have indicated that more than 30% of the winners have been encouraged by the Award to follow scientific careers.

The Bausch & Lomb Science Award and Scholarship Programs have been officially approved by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

New Books Arrive At Library

Emmitsburg is reading:

"Mary Queen of Scots," by Antonia Fraser.

"Present at the Creation," by Dean Acheson.

"The Three Daughters of Madame Ling," by P. Buck.

"In this House of Brede," by Rumer Godden.

"Jennie," by Ralph G. Martin.

"Andromeda Strain," by Michael Crichton.

New books for young people:

"River Patrol," by Roderic Jeffries. The police are mystified! How is it possible that an armored truck, complete with all the latest safety devices and alarms, can be held up and robbed with no clues to the thieves?

What is worse, the truck's cargo included the priceless Japanese Nara Buddha. Failure to recover it could result in an international incident.

Mystery readers are sure to enjoy this exciting, suspenseful, and compelling story by the author of the highly acclaimed "Against Time," "Police Dog," and "Patrol Car."

"Twin Spell," by Janet Lunn.

Twins Jane and Elizabeth Hubbard hadn't played with dolls in years. Yet an uncontrollable impulse made them buy the old doll in the window of the antique shop. Even stranger events followed.

First, Elizabeth fell and broke her leg. Soon after that, both girls dreamed the same dream.

Janet Lunn has written a hair-raising story of everyday people caught up in a series of bizarre events that lead to a thoroughly chilling denouement.

"Dave's Song," by Robert McKay. Dave Burdick was a loner, a mystery to his classmates and his teachers, involved in his own world of breeding birds, working on the Burdick poultry farm, and absorbing the works of Lorenz and Ardrey.

It was a day in the early fall of their senior year and it was a song called "Suzanne," and it was the beginning of a year of possibilities and new roads for both Dave and Kate, a year in which their lives were touched by many of today's problems and concerns—Vietnam, drugs, corruption in politics, prejudice, and individual goals and responsibilities within a changing society.

Looking beyond the clichés of the label "teen-ager" and beyond the group-think philosophy of a generation gap, Robert McKay has written a very strong, very positive novel about real people in a recognizable modern world.

Gives Scholarship Honoring Fr. Fives

Plans were announced this week by a retired New Jersey businessman for establishing a scholarship to assist New Jersey students attending Mount Saint Mary's College here.

Albert J. Benninger said he wants the scholarship to honor Rev. Carl J. Fives, associate professor in the department of philosophy, a longtime member of the Mount faculty, and a former executive secretary of the college's alumni association.

Mr. and Mrs. Benninger, who live in Bricktown, New Jersey, are the parents of Peter L. Benninger, president of this year's graduating class.

Benninger said he plans to endow a scholarship, with annual earnings to be used to help one or more New Jersey students selected by the college on the basis of need, ability and "representation of the ideals of education and the outdoors as exemplified by Father Fives."

Lutheran Women Honor Mothers

The Lutheran Church Women of Elias Lutheran Church recently honored the Mothers of their group with a covered dish supper in the Parish House. Potted plants and garden flowers were used to decorate the buffet tables and the dining area. The Invocation was given by Mrs. W. Ronald Fearer.

A brief program honoring Motherhood was presented by Mrs. Robert Hampson who presented a German lullaby and Mrs. James Small who gave several poetry selections.

Among those receiving plants during the evening were: Mrs. Richard Crum, Mrs. Charles Linn, Mrs. James Small, Mrs. Roscoe Shindlecker, Mrs. Esta Miller, and Mrs. J. Russell Wantz.

Mrs. Esther Warren and Mrs.

Charles Linn provided the dessert for the special occasion honoring the Mothers.

The June meeting, scheduled for June 9th, will be a "service hour" when the membership will conclude a three months' project of preparing leprosy bandages for Church World Service, to send to leprosy hospitals throughout the world.

New Pamphlet Explains Wills

No one prefers discussing the morbid topic of death, yet for the benefit of "peace of mind" it is wise to "plan for the inevitable" while one is able. A recent publication of a small brochure on this subject has been circulated around the County and are available at a number of banks and also the Register of Wills' Office.

The author of the pamphlet, Register of Wills Thomas M. Eichberger, considers the advantages of preparing a will. One day your assets could be $100 while the next day an accident could occur and through a suit your estate may be richer by $100,000. The fee is small for the kind of insurance it provides the testator.

A will can save the family embarrassment, misunderstanding, and perhaps ill will later. Thru a will a guardian is appointed for minor children. Your "best intentions" for your family, community, other loved ones mean nothing unless they are set forth in a properly drawn will.

With a will you can (1) provide a larger share for your surviving spouse, (2) Provide for your children according to their needs, (3) Select your personal representative, (4) You have the say—not the State—in which you reside, regarding your settlement affairs, (5) Create trusts to provide management and financial security for your family, (6) Leave a bequest or legacy to your church, (7) For an independent income for a married daughter or to protect the legacy of a son, until he has proven capable of its management, (8) Leave a bequest or legacy to your favorite charity, organization, or a devoted friend, etc.

Distribution laws are subject to change by the legislature at any time. As of January 1, 1970, Maryland law distributes property in the following way: (a) Maryland man or woman with child, children, or descendants (child includes adopted child)/Wife or husband gets one third and child gets two-thirds or children get two thirds divided equally. (b) Widow, or widower, with child, children or descendants/All to child, or children divided equally (grandchildren take their deceased parents' share, (c) Married man or woman without child, children or descendants (if parents or parent survive) / Wife or husband get one-half, mother and father, or survivor, one-half; If no parent but brothers and sisters or their descendants survive / wife or husband gets $4000 plus one-half residue; Brothers and sisters, one-half of residue divided equally (descendants of a deceased brother or sister take that share); If no parent, brother, or sister nor any descendant of them survive wife or husband get all property, (d) Unmarried man, woman, widow, or widower without children or descendants, if parents or parent survive / Mother gets one-half or father gets one-half. Should one parent survive only, he takes whole. If no parent but brothers and sisters or their descendants survive / All equally to collateral relatives within equal degree of relationship; If no collateral, to surviving grandparents equally.

The present rate of inheritance tax in Maryland is 1% lineal, 7½ per cent collateral, and no tax under $150.

Important changes in the law have become effective as of January 1, 1970.
