Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

It seems sort of incongruous to me that the electric companies should be appealing to the public to cut back on consumption of electricity when all year long they have been advertising and asking the public to consume more and more of their product. Buy an electric appliance, the advertising goes. It continues on to say cook the clean way . . . use electricity. Then the final appeal . . . Building a new home? Better heat it electrically. It all sounds good, and it seems to work out okay, for many people, but just when you are frying in the middle of a heat wave the electric companies begin imploring you cut down on your fans, or, run that air-conditioner at half speed, or better yet, be patriotic and shut it off. It all boils down that they have done a good job of selling but can't keep up with production so now we are threatened with a gigantic power blackout. Boy, you just can't win!

Regarding air pollution and the great emphasis being placed on it these days. I was amused at a news release issued last week by the State Roads Commission that it was doing everything possible to check air pollution and that even the contractors on construction jobs were ordered to take strict precautions to keep the air clean. "We will use all the clout we have available," says the story. But it isn't hard to see that the bragging is thin-skinned. All you have to do is drop in on any road building project going on in the County and you can see the "cats" purring happily away as the black smoke rolls from their stacks.

Well it looks as though the County Commissioners have about closed in on the budget for another year and for most of us the results were gratifying, while otherwise didn't take too kindly towards it. It looks almost dead certain that there will be no tax raise this year as far as Frederick County is concerned. This certainly is welcome news, especially after Emmitsburg and Thurmont taxpayers had just undergone a reassessment which in most cases resulted in a 30-50% increase. This alone would be a sizeable burden to bear, but had the Commissioners increased the rate also I am afraid the burden would become unbearable. Vile implications were made verbally and in printed form against the Commissioners if they cut the various bureaus' budgets. The silent majority did not express sentiment either way and the Commissioners were on their own the whole way through the battle, but way through their guns and they stuck to their guns and certainly if any of them seek re-election they will have the support of most of us taxpayers who are deeply indebted to them for the valiant battle they waged in our behalf. If you have been reading the papers lately you will see that most small towns and cities have been able to hold the line on increased budgets, so why should it be so tough, or impossible for the County to hold the line. If people would stop demanding every little service or nicety that is concocted by some agile mind, then it would be much easier to control budgets.

15 & 97 Crash

Two Arlington, Va., sisters were hurt when their car was involved in a collision at the intersection of U. S. Route 15 and Maryland Route 97 in east Emmitsburg, at 8:30 o'clock last Friday morning. Treated at the Warner Hospital was Mrs. Hannah Davis, 59, driver of one of the cars and her sister, a passenger, Miss Dolly Lankerd, 55, both of Arlington, Va.

A Mt. St. Mary's College student, Joseph Healey, 22, was examined at the hospital and released. A hospital spokesman said that Mrs. Davis suffered a left arm injury while Miss Lankerd was treated for a lacerated forehead. They were removed to the hospital in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance. ## Lauds Conduct Of Students

To The Parents and Faculty of the Class of '70, St. Joseph's High School:

We had the privilege a short time ago to chaperone the Senior Class for a 3-day trip to New York. We're writing this now to let you all know how proud we were of the group and how proud you, their parents and teachers, must be of them. We received many compliments on their behalf from people in New York on the subways, buses, streets and the hotel. They commented on their good manners and their appearance as well.

Your seniors at St. Joe's were, and we're sure will continue, to be a very good reflection of Emmitsburg, "their town", and their school, St. Joseph's High School. Thank you once again, Class of '70, as we said before, for letting us share with you in what we hope will always be a happy memory.

Town Pledges Support To Teen Age Center; Other Business Transacted

Support for a Teen Age Center was promised by Mayor Samuel C. Hays and the Board of Commissioners at the regular monthly meeting of the Town Council held Monday evening in the Town Office. Chairman of the Board J. Norman Flax presided with a full board in attendance.

Mrs. Julius Siske, appearing before the board, asked the Council's assistance in helping get a Teen Age Center started. The Board said that if and when such a project got established it would cooperate 100%. Commissioner Eugene Myers explained that the local Sportsman's Club was interested in such a project and would lend assistance.

The Town Clerk's financial report for May was read and approved. Mayor Hays announced that the Town clean-up was still in effect and that daily workmen were being deployed on the streets and alleys in an effort to make a thorough clean-up campaign and asked the public's support. The Mayor also stated that he has been trying to establish ownership of some property located on and near the Town's watershed but that the ownership was not definitely established so far.

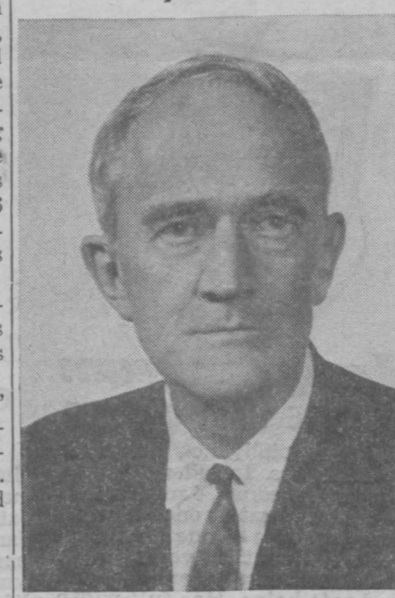

Police Chief W. Henry Filler's monthly report showed that 10 criminal arrests had been made and 17 motor vehicle code infractions handled. The condition of some of the streets and alleys was discussed and it was decided to inspect those that had not been repaired or resurfaced last year. Also discussed was the water line to the Little League Field which is no longer in use. It appears that somewhere along the line, a contractor working in the area might possibly have severed the line. For several months now, a contractor engaged by the C & P Telephone Company has been working in the area and it was decided to check out the situation with him.

Patrick B. Boyle, appearing before the Council, inquired about the Town's Peddlers' License and if the ordinance was being properly enforced. The Board said it would check out the matter with the Town's attorney.

Mayor Hays presented the annual Town Budget for approval. The Budget was discussed and revised and the Mayor and three Commissioners voted to accept it while Commissioner Flax abstained from voting. Permission was given to John Reeves to install a gas tank on his property. Paul A. Keepers addressed the Board concerning flooding of the cellar of his home. The Board said it would check out the situation and take remedial action if necessary. Commissioner Myers reported he had been asked by Fire Chief Guy McGlaughlin, to inspect the Town's fire hydrants to ascertain if all were serviceable. It was agreed to have Commissioner Flax check the hydrants with representatives of the Fire Co.

Edward D. Storm Announces Candidacy For Maryland State Senate

Preston Lane, Jr., when many progressive policies were adopted, including the school improvement program which brought Maryland from 45th position among the states to 5th in the nation. Our modern highway system was begun, the Bay Bridge was started and the Brunswick Bridge was authorized. He was an early advocate of Home Rule and was unusually active in modernizing the Code of Public Local Laws. He initiated legislation resulting in the reduction of income tax on the first $500 of investment income in order to help older persons with small incomes and he also was instrumental in changing the tax forms to provide for the use of the old "short form" by many more taxpayers than could previously use it. He supported the program of sharing state taxes with local governments in order to keep down the local taxes on real estate and he made a special effort to use the radio and press to keep all citizens informed on the issues considered by the Legislature.

From 1959 to 1961 he served as Trial Magistrate and then was appointed by Governor J. Millard Tawes to the Public Service Commission serving until 1967. In 1964 he became Maryland's representative on the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Com-

Mammoth Parade Scheduled For Saturday

All roads lead to Emmitsburg Saturday afternoon when the Mammoth Parade will get under way. Congressman J. Glenn Beall will be the Grand Marshal for the event which is expected to draw thousands here. Parade Chairman Eugene Myers stated this week that well over 100 various units such as bands, floats, drum and bugle corps, majorettes, etc., would vie for the $1100 in prize money to be offered the winners.

The Parade will get under way promptly at 2:30 p.m. and it is estimated that it will take nearly two hours to complete the parade route. The Emmitsburg Police Dept. has announced there will be no parking anywhere on West or East Main Street in Emmitsburg after 1:00 Saturday afternoon. Parking will be banned from the Doughboy in West End to Boyle's Store on East Main St.

The Parade will form at the Doughboy in West End and proceed down Main Street to Boyle's Store where it will turn right and head for Community Field where the week-long Carnival sponsored by the Indian Lookout Conservation Club is being held. Spot drilling by the bands and other units will be permitted this year from the judges' stand at the Fire Hall to the Square. There will be no parading on North or South Seton Ave., Federal Ave., or DePaul Street, this year, so those interested in seeing the spectacle will have to be present on East or West Main Street to see the units go by.

The Parade is being hosted by the Vigilant Hose Company, as is the Annual Frederick County Volunteer Firemen's Assn. Convention which is being held in Emmitsburg this year.

The Carnival has been playing to excellent crowds since last Friday evening. Wednesday was the first inclement weather experienced and the rain cut heavily into the attendance. The affair will continue through Saturday night when the Parade winners will be announced.

Top-notch entertainment has been booked for the two remaining nights, Friday and Saturday.

Frederick County Backgrounds

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Pupils At The Thorndale School
 A hundred years ago, more or less, education was not the easy matter that it is today. Private schools or academies were the rule rather than the exception. Young ladies of the better families were usually sent to one of these institutions of learning where emphasis was laid on the gentle accomplishments of being a "perfect lady" with a thin layer of academic studies to round out their so-called education.

Thorndale School, located east of Taneytown, Maryland, was the home of the Birnie family but it was also a private academy for young ladies—organized and run by the Birnie sisters. Because of its excellent reputation it drew pupils not only from the immediate neighborhood but also "boarding students" from distant points. As stated in last week's column the original record book of this institution is still in existence and through the courtesy and kindness of two Birnie descendants a copy has been made and the list of students is being included in this series.

According to a fairly reliable tradition there was another private school at or near Taneytown. This one was run by the McKinney family. Several young ladies, residents of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, or vicinity, attended this institution. Unfortunately there is no additional data available at this time.

November 1844—Maria Tyler, Frederick, Md.—Left Oct. 1846.
 Note: The Tylers were prominent residents of Frederick and were members of All Saints Episcopal church. The early members of the clan were interred in that churchyard but when lack of space made it necessary to discontinue burials in the old graveyard and Mount Olivet cemetery was established, the Tyler graves were removed to that place and are still to be found in the "old section" of that burial ground.
 November 1844—Sally Breckenridge, Frederick, Md.—Left Oct. 1846.

November 1844—Maria Breckenridge, Frederick, Md.—Left Oct. 1846.
 November 1844—Ellen Brown, Baltimore, Md.—Left Oct. 1845.
 May 1844—Martha Stone, Baltimore, Md.—Left Oct. 1844.
 November 1844—Annette Harvey, Baltimore, Md.—Left April 1846.

November 1844—Akmina Grosh, Baltimore, Md.—Left Oct. 1846.
 September 1844—Eliza C. Watts, Carlisle, Pa.—Died Jan. 7, 1845.

Note: The Watts family was an old and outstanding one in the Cumberland Valley of Pennsylvania. Prominent men and women added luster to the family annals. Many of the Watts graves are to be found in the "Old Graveyard" at Carlisle, Pa.

November 1844—Virlinda (?) Beall, Cumberland, Md.—Left April 1848. Was absent one session—Died August 1849.
 May 1845—Mary Ott Ritchie, Frederick, Md.—Left Oct. 1846—Died November 2, 1847.

June 1845—Betty McConkey, Baltimore, Md.—Left April 1846.
 Nov 1845—Isabella Ray, Annapolis, Md.—Left August 1846.

November 1845—Mary Ray, Annapolis, Md.—Left October 1846.
 November 1845—Effie Murray, Southampton County, Va.—Left October 1846.

November 1845—Elizabeth Zeller, Washington County, Md.—Left October 1846.

November 1845—Ann El Zeller, Washington County, Md.—Left October 1846.

May 1846—Penelope Maring, Bruceville, Carroll County, Md.—Left October 1846.

May 1846—Mary Campbell, Baltimore, Md.—Left Sept. 1846.
 May 1846—Nannie Wolgornutt, Washington County, Md.—Left October 1846.

May 1846—Mary M. Wells, Annapolis, Md.—Left April 1847.
 May 1846—Agnes Wells, Annapolis, Md.—Died July 1848.

August 1846—Catharine Ray, Annapolis, Md.—Left Oct. 1846.
 November 1846—Narcissa Hoffman, Harper's Ferry, Md.—Left October 1847.

November 1846—Margaret

Scholl (Place of residence not given)—Left October 1847.

November 1846—Ann Crawford, Marsh Creek, Pa.—Left Oct. 1848.

Note: Ann Crawford, of 'Marsh Creek', was the daughter of John S. Crawford and the grand-daughter of the Rev. Dr. William Paxton. Her mother was a daughter of the Rev. Dr. Paxton and her grave is to be found in the Paxton lot in the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian churchyard, west of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. Ann Crawford became the wife of the Hon. Edward McPherson and both she and her husband, together with several of their children, are interred in the old McPherson plot in the Evergreen Cemetery at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

Note: Mary Watson was probably a daughter of the Rev. James Watson, the minister, during this period, of the Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian church (now known as the Gettysburg Presbyterian Church). The family lived in the old manse, since torn down, on East High Street, Gettysburg.

November 1847—Anne Fahnestock, Gettysburg, Pa.—Left Apr. 1849.

Note: The Fahnestocks were prominent citizens of Gettysburg and the Fahnestock Store was a landmark in the town for many years. The Fahnestock graves are to be found in the old section of the Evergreen Cemetery, Gettysburg.

November 1847—Jane Smyser, Gettysburg, Pa.—Left April 1849.

Note: Jane Smyser was a daughter of the Hon. George Smyser, prominent citizen and banker of Gettysburg. This girl was a direct descendant of Matthias Smyser, the pioneer ancestor of the family, who settled in York County, Pennsylvania, early in the eighteenth century. The Smyser graves are also to be found in the old section of the Evergreen Cemetery, Gettysburg.

The listing of the names contained in the "roll book" of Thorndale Academy will be continued in this series next week.

Auto Accessories—Safety

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., June 4, 1970—In recent years there has been increased emphasis on auto safety in terms of equipment, directed toward both the protection of the occupants riding in an automobile and the reduction of costly casualty losses due to accidents. The current auto crusade can, of course, be attributed in large measure to the book "Unsafe At Any Speed" by Ralph Nader. His campaign has been responsible, either directly or indirectly, for 28 mandatory safety-equipment items presently being installed during assembly.

There has been time already to prove that safety equipment can save lives and reduce bodily injury as well as cut back casualty costs. Hence, while the consumer ultimately pays for the increased costs of this equipment, the savings in total casualty losses could eventually check the spiraling inflation of insurance costs. While the furor over auto safety is not a big plus factor in terms of profits as far as auto producers are concerned, it does have definitely favorable implications for certain auto equipment producers. Stopping On Time

One area of safety that has been stressed and is still under careful scrutiny concerns braking systems. Anti-skid devices developed by Kelsey-Hayes and now available as optional equipment, while Bendix Corp. has adaptive braking systems for heavy-duty trucks utilizing a special purpose computer. A recent requirement has been the dual-master cylinder and the option of front brakes employing a disc-brake system. Research is now being carried on toward development of an automatic braking complex which can be operated by either an electronic sensor or even a mini-computer. Borg-Warner has an air-skid control system using an electronic sensor-electronic-logic module, which is activated electrically for trucks and tractor-trailers. Because of the sharp increase in the number of registered cars and trucks, these devices have sizeable markets, in both the original equipment and the replacement parts fields.

Bodily Safety

In the line of safety from collision impact, Eaton Yale & Towne has developed the autoceptor, which is an auto crash restraint arrangement. It is in the form of a protective device commonly referred to as the "air bag," which inflates instantaneously upon impact to cushion the driver from the steering wheel, dashboard, and windshield. Almost immediately after the collision, the air bag deflates so that the driver will not be pinned behind the wheel.

Government Involvement
The federal government, thru the Department of Transportation, has placed orders for the development of an automobile which will be safe for the occupants even when crashed into a concrete wall at 50 mph. At the same time, the car eventually produced must also be capable of rolling over at 70 mph with the passenger compartment remaining intact. It is from the testing involved in such instances that design changes will sooner or later be formulated. In the past, federal and state authorities have spent vast sums on roadbuilding. From now on, the hitherto neglected factor of safety will come into play.

Future Outlook

Although some of the aforementioned safety inventions produced by auto accessory firms appear to have excellent potential, it must be kept in mind that the outstanding auto companies probably have the ability to manufacture most of these items themselves. Nevertheless, because of the increasing outcry for safety equipment and the unwillingness of some states to wait any longer for at least minimum requirements, the Research Department of Babson's Reports expects the firms here-mentioned to take advantage of their advanced technology to participate in the "boom for safety" now under way.

Blood Platelets' Role In Organ Rejections Studied

A hitherto unnoticed substance released by transplants, a substance that produces a chain reaction leading to rejection of the donor organs, has been detected by University of Cincinnati researchers. Blocking agents (drugs) are being tried on the substance to determine whether its destructive role in organ rejection can be controlled. Subcellular blood elements called platelets seem to play an important role in the rejection process: In massive quantities they accumulate in vessels of the transplant, plugging the vessels and preventing nutrition-carrying blood from reaching the organ. A substance that causes the platelets to clump has been found in transplanted organs. Man's safe return from his first voyage to Mars will depend in part on the results of research being conducted at Louisiana State University. A team of chemical engineers is searching for the best heat shield to protect the spacecraft from the high temperatures it will encounter as it re-enters the earth's atmosphere where friction between the capsule and the atmosphere will result in temperatures of some 25,000 degrees F. The heat shield itself will reach about 6,000 degrees F. Because of this, a different and more sophisticated heat shield than is used in the Apollo missions to the Moon is needed.

The big-volume welding markets in the '70s will continue to be those that are basic to the industry, such as steel fabricating and the automotive industry, reports ARC Products, Hanover, Pa. Use of welding in desalination plants, oceanography and the piping of nuclear power stations will grow, but each of these is a special area that will not generate large volumes, the company said.

Man probably descended from a primate that used its limbs for grasping and hanging in much the same way that the South American howling monkey now does, says an anatomist at the University of Chicago. His theory is based on the fact that the muscle structure and bone-muscle relationships of the human hip are more similar to the hip of the howler than to the hip structures of any other type of primate.

Water is the only common chemical compound or mineral that occurs naturally in three distinct phases: gas, liquid and solid. This was first recognized by Thales of Miletos, Greece, about 2,500 years ago. It has been called the "mirror of science" because of its importance in science and human affairs far beyond its ordinary daily uses.

Veterans 65 or older with non-service-connected disabilities, and who do not draw pensions, are still required to certify that they are unable to pay for VA hospitalization, but no longer have to disclose financial details to enter a VA hospital.

DRUG ADDICTION

Whenever I talk with Maryland parents, a subject which inevitably comes up is drug addiction and the fact that all of our children are exposed to the temptations of narcotics. Parents want to know what society and government are going to do about drug addiction and the conditions of life today which put narcotics within the reach, not only of college students, but also of high school students and even in some cases elementary school students.

I'm glad to be able to report that the Senate has taken action to bring drug problems under control. The Senate Judiciary Committee of which I am a member, recently reported to the Senate a comprehensive drug control bill which embodies the best thinking of the Nixon administration and the Committee. I'm hopeful that the Senate will schedule an early debate on this bill and that its provisions can be enacted into law very soon. The drug problem is not a new problem. We have made a number of attempts to increase the ability of the Federal government to control it over the past several years. As a member of the House Judiciary Committee, for instance, I was active at the time that the three separate drug control agencies of the Federal government were finally combined into one more effective single unit which could deal with the various aspects of the drug traffic.

The drug bill now pending in the Senate is one which I think will further increase the effectiveness of drug control officials throughout the country. In the first place, the bill attempts to classify the many dangerous drugs, some of which are presently not classified and which are in the hands of both those who need to possess them for medical reasons and of those who have them illegally. Classification of drugs makes it possible to identify those which have legitimate uses and to shape and administer a drug control program. If we don't know what is dangerous, obviously it's impossible to make adequate provision for dealing with it.

The bill empowers the Attorney General of the United States to take new initiatives in drug control. For example, it provides for administrative inspection of all controlled premises. That is, wherever the government has licensed a manufacturer of drugs and narcotics for proper purposes, the premises on which the manufacture or the possession is actually taking place must be open to the inspection of law enforcement officials to make sure that none of the legally produced drugs are moving into illegal channels. We have provided for the closest liaison and the constant advice and counsel between the Attorney General and the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare so the Justice Department will have all the medical and scientific knowledge available to make judgments. Perhaps more important than anything else, we have provided for a continuing study of drugs and what they do to the human body. As we gain more knowledge about drugs, we will be better equipped to deal with this modern scourge of mankind.

Farm Bureau Seeks Members

The Frederick County Farm Bureau has reached a new all-time high in paid-up membership with 950 members.

Eugene Myers, Thurmont, membership chairman, has no doubt that Frederick County's self-appointed goal of 1,000 members in 1970 will be met in the near future. Some districts have been slow in reporting. There are members and potential members who haven't paid up yet in all districts. This goal was announced by Leon B. Enfield, county Farm Bureau president, at the membership drive kickoff in Baltimore. Enfield is state membership chairman. A champion jouster as well as dairy farmer, he staged a tableau based on the colorful state sport featuring the campaign's slogan: CHARGE!

State membership is also at an all-time high: 9,429 paid-up members compared to 8,657 at this time last year.

"As farms decrease in number," said Mr. Enfield, "Farm Bureau membership rises. That's good, because our emphasis is on better understanding between producers and consumers. The Farm Bureau opposed Government subsidy payments except to low income farmers. Few city people realize this. The headlines are made by the actions of smaller radical farm organizations operating mostly in the middle west and west."

Who Did What At Kent State?

The death of four students involved in mob riots at Kent State University near Cleveland on May 4 gave leaders of the Communist apparatus in the United States a mighty mobilization "cause" and they can be expected to exploit it to the limit. Their big demonstration on the Ellipse adjacent to the White House in Washington five days later was an open display of their strategy of disruption, rioting, and revolution: first, to bring about unconditional withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam; and, second, to paralyze the normal functioning of American society for ultimate Communist takeover.

The story of Kent State has not been told. The Communists two years ago chose this mid-America school, with its more than 20,000 student body drawn mainly from the "middle class," to set a pattern for campus disruption, involvement of non-Communist students, and takeover. They began early in 1968 with their SDS and other revolutionary groups, to create campus strife with non-negotiable demands. The revolutionaries were a mere handful of students and former students. With the approval of the Student Affairs Council, and the Faculty Senate, President Robert I. White formulated a strategy for controlling the expected trouble—the setting up of a protective force including Campus Police, Kent City Police, Sheriff forces, and the Ohio State Patrol, and instant recourse to injunction procedure against the troublemakers.

Enemy Offensive

The Communist SDS and the Black United Students (BUS) combined and struck the university on November 13, 1968, seeking to disrupt the recruitment visits of police departments. President White said: "Campus tensions were on the fringe of large scale disorders for several days. Unfortunately some aspects of the confrontation was distorted in the public press. . . . Toward the end of the Winter quarter it became clear that the University would be the target for planned disruptions." Planned disruptions occurred that spring—on April 8 and 16, and May 22.

President White said: "The SDS is an enemy of democratic procedure, of academic freedom, and of the essential university characteristics of study, discussion, and resolution. There has to be dismay over the extent of advocacy of property destruction and violence on our campuses, coupled with threats of personal harm."

Communists At Kent
During the April (1968) rioting at Kent (in which there were arrests, damage, arson, injury to police), self-identified Communist Bernadine Dohrn, SDS national official, appeared on campus to further incite the revolutionaries. In a fiery speech, she called for "radical change through revolution," and said the students needed to carry guns. "I would murder for self-defense, or for revenge in a sense," she said. She distributed an SDS pamphlet entitled: "The War is On at Kent State." Mark Rudd, who was later to lead devastating attacks on Columbia University, went to Kent State to apitate revolt. Other revolutionaries hurled threats against Kent.

Kent State has been in a turmoil since then. There have been many uprisings led by SDS and their comrades, "confrontations" in which laws were broken, police attacked. Usually fewer than 10 per cent of the student body were involved in the rioting and attacks, with clubs and bricks, upon police forces. After 62 arrests, a student-faculty plebiscite gave the Administration and its stern but inadequate policies an 80 per cent vote of approval.

"Kill Your Parents!"
But Kent State had been marked as a target by the Communists. When they gathered at Oakland (Calif.) last July to push plans for a Communist "Liberation Army" within the U.S.A., Kent State was spoken of as an example of sustained revolutionary activity. In the preparation for the long series of outbreaks leading up to National Guard firing into a menacing, brick-throwing, club-wielding and perhaps gun-firing mob, buildings were burned, property otherwise destroyed, laws were wantonly broken. Jerry Rubin, revolutionary firebrand convicted for fomenting riots in Chicago, was at Kent State at the beginning of the trouble this spring—April 11. He told 1,000 students (according to the Associated Press): "We have to disrupt every institution, break every law, we've got to all become criminals." He called for a revolution to overthrow the government, and he challenged his student audience to "kill your parents"—as a first step toward the "liberation" of America's youth.

A clear-headed examination of the mob attacks upon law and order at Kent, after Rubin's incitations, gives an entirely different picture than the one being beamed to America by major TV and news agencies. Next week we will document each law-breaking activity of the mob at Kent which preceded the firing upon the mob.

Almost Total Eclipse

It has frequently been noted that all Thoroughbreds (and The Jockey Club is registering some 22,000 annually these days) are traceable to either the Darley Arabian, the Byerly Turk or the Godolphin Barb. The day may not be far off when all will trace to one of these, a horse named Eclipse, a descendant of the Darley Arabian.

As things stand today, some 90 per cent of all Thoroughbreds are traceable to Eclipse, the remainder going back to Matchem, a grandson of the Godolphin Arabian or to Herod, a great, great, grandson of the Byerly Turk.

It might be a different story had it not been for wise counsel and a jockey named Jack Oakley for whom the somewhat obstreperous

Eclipse took a liking. Bred by Duke of Cumberland, unpopularly known as "The Butcher" because of his ruthless suppression of the 1745 Jacobite Rebellion, Eclipse was sold at the dispersal of the Duke's horses, going for 80 guineas to John Wildman who was a meat dealer, if not a butcher. It was Wildman who almost had Eclipse gelded. A colorful horseman named Dennis O'Kelly bought a quarter interest in Eclipse following his first sensational race and before Eclipse raced again he had bought "the other three legs" for an additional 1,000 pounds. Eclipse was not alone unbeaten in 26 starts but was, according to historians, never extended. He was to sire 344 winners before dying of colic at the age of 27 in 1791.

Deacons To Be Part Of Priestly Service

Men called to the permanent diaconate will assume many of the responsibilities of priests, under new religious training programs being developed according to the directives of Pope Paul VI and of the Second Vatican Council.

According to Rev. William W. Philbin, Executive Director of the U.S. Bishops' Committee on the Permanent Diaconate, "The programs broaden the base for which men can be called to offices of service in the church; as in New Testament times, the ministerial priesthood, serving the entire priestly people of God, will include not only bishops and priests but also deacons."

In very recent years, many Catholic parishes have enjoyed the services of the young deacon, still training for the priesthood but experiencing pastoral life in a transitional role as deacon. By contrast, permanent deacons, rather than moving towards the priesthood, will remain committed to service distinctive of the order of deacon.

The permanent deacon will preach, assist at and conduct liturgical functions, baptize, distribute Holy Communion, and witness marriages. His teaching functions may include—beside preaching—directing or helping in religious education programs, instructing prospective converts, and preparing couples for marriage.

Most distinctive of a deacon's functions will be service, in particular the service of charity. This may include counseling, visitation of the sick, hospital work, and work with prisoners.

According to Father Philbin, "The deacon will have no monopoly on Christian service; but he will be a living sign and sacrament of the service of others that God asks of all Christians, whatever their life vocation."

The service of a permanent deacon will not necessarily be full-time. Most of the training programs being developed are geared to men who remain with their families and in their secular professions even during the training period. Such programs are found in Detroit, Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Hartford, San Antonio, Galveston-Houston, and Des Moines.

Full-time programs are under way in Orchard Lake, Michigan, and Collegeville, Minnesota. In addition, Collegeville has a summer program, with continuation by correspondence during the year.

Father Philbin concluded: "The man ordained to the diaconate will be a man who has shown leadership in his service to the Church as a layman, and has been recognized and accepted by his fellow Catholics for his service to the Church."

(For more information on this and other subjects of the religious life, write: Vocation Information Center (VOICE) of Serra International, 22 West Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603)

WOMEN'S HEALTH

BY BETHAMI PROBST
Is There Any Escape?

Along with clean air, peace and quiet, a disappearing national commodity is the reassuring conviction that somewhere in this vast land there is an unpolluted community to which one might someday move.

Unpolluted, unoccupied, oases certainly exist. But an oasis with neighbors from whom you could borrow a cup of sugar? An oasis with butterfies, beaches, invisible garbage, crystalline drinking water and skies free of screaming jets?

And opportunity. For, although the great cities are easy and frequent butts of criticism, rural people flock continuously to metropolitan centers to find jobs, education and entertainment largely lacking in the back country. The 1970 census is expected to show a continuation of this decades-old trend—to the point where fewer than one out of four Americans live in rural areas.

Moreover, many rural areas have succeeded in spoiling their natural resources without enlivening their Saturday nights. Some of the pesticides and fertilizers widely used on farms pollute as surely as do cars and detergents and small towns on such filthy lakes and rivers as Erie, the Hudson, Missouri and Ohio suffer as much as do New York, Detroit, and St. Louis.

Small Towns
Lewiston, Idaho (population: 12,500) and Ticonderoga, N. Y. (population: 3,565) have air-polluting pulp and paper mills. The lettuce grown in East Helena, Mont. (population: 1,490) contains 120 times the federally allowable lead concentration as a result of waste from nearby mining companies. Reading, Pa. (population: 93,000) developed 25 cases of the deadly lung disease, berylliosis, even though smoke stack emissions only contained "negligible" concentrations of the toxic metal beryllium. Nearby chemical plants foul the air of Las Vegas (population: 120,000).

It was after all in Donora, Pa. (population: 11,131) that the nation's first "killer fog" occurred in 1948 when 20 people perished during an atmospheric inversion that gagged the city in fumes from local chemical and industrial plants.

Other once-pristine towns suffering from frequently atmospheric inversions, although none has proved deadly yet, are Denver, Phoenix, Albuquerque, Salt Lake City and Missoula, Mont. Every day an adult breathes 16,000 quarts of air. If fumes and soot cannot rise and dissipate, that makes a lot of gunk for a fragile pair of lungs.

East Or West
More than 7,300 communities are bedeviled by some degree of air pollution, according to the U. S. Public Health Service. One official says flatly that from Washington, D. C. to Boston and 100 miles inland, "there is not a square mile that is free from air pollution injury."

Nor is the West Coast in much better shape. Ecologist Kenneth E. F. Watt of the University of California at Davis points out that the nitrogen oxide build-up in his state is so relentless that light may eventually be filtered out of the atmosphere, causing mass deaths as early as 1975.

The drinking water of more than 100 cities—including such Middle American towns as North Platte, Nebr., Pueblo, Colo. and Charleston, S. C.—do not meet P.H.S. standards. Far less than half the population—only 85 million out of 200 million Americans—drink water that has received the two-stage treatment now considered minimal. More than 60 million Americans live in areas without any kind of sewage system at all.

Noise — everything from jet streams to rock music to power lawn mowers and blenders—has become the newest pollutant. Crowding—"people pollution"—has converted almost any venture outside the home into a war on nerves. And in the home, of course, there is often the internal overcrowding of large families.

If You're Human
If you breathe, drink, hear and feel, you're almost certainly affected by pollution of one sort or another. Unfortunately, evidence accumulates that pollution, which once seemed largely an esthetic blight, has become physically and psychologically harmful. A health hazard, in fact.

"The new technological man," notes Dr. Barry Commoner, a Washington University physiologist turned environmental biologist, "carries strontium-90 in his bones, iodine-131 in his thyroid, DDT in his fat, and asbestos in his lungs."

A University of Colorado lung specialist, Dr. Roger S. Mitchell, is dour: "The present environment has already been seriously harmful to our health and will be more so in the future unless something is done now."

Air pollution worsens the havoc wrought by smoking, heart disease, emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma. Emphysema, a lung disease, has become the nation's fastest-growing malady, up 500 per cent in 15 years.

Dirty Water
Although no deaths have been traced directly to water pollution, some public health authorities believe that thousands of cases of diarrhea, cramps, nausea and other gastrointestinal disturbances can be blamed on dirty water.

Sudden or loud sounds can so affect the human body that one acoustical physicist has called noise "a slow agent of death." Such disorders as high blood pressure and dependence on drugs and alcohol may be encouraged by the strain of being constantly and inescapably posted, of waiting constantly in lines, of being caught in traffic jams, of being always under a neighbor's surveillance.

Creeping Disaster
The gradualness of the saturation process, however, has slowed unease as well as counter-action, unlike an earthquake or a flood, the disaster of pollution tell which binges finally precipitate an alcoholic's cirrhosis of the liver of which extra pound finally brings on a fat man's heart attack, so no one can foretell precisely when the United States will wake up to the day when there is not enough air left fit to breathe nor enough pure water to drink.

There are no county lines to prevent pollution seepage, no boundaries, no escape. Of the entire shoreline of the United States on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf of Mexico, for instance, just 1,200 miles—a mere five per cent—are now available for public swimming, sunning or fishing. All the rest is either unsuitable, privately owned, industrialized or polluted.

Common Cause
Although each pollution problem must be attacked in a variety of ways, they all share a common cause—too many people.

That is why some of the most fervent advocates of modern, effective birth control are environmentalists, biologists and ecologists. Dr. Paul Ehrlich, a Stanford University biologist who had himself surgically sterilized after one child, notes: "Each American child is fifty times more of a burden on the environment than each Indian child" because Americans consume—and discard—so incredibly much more.

Carl Klein, assistant secretary of the Interior for Water Quality and Research, feels frantic: "We've got to move fast. We don't have enough time." More hopeful, Dr. Commoner believes we may have a generation "in which to save the environment from the final effects of the violence we have done to it."

"We are in a period of grace," he adds.

Defendants

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

This is to give notice that on the 21st day of May, 1970, a Bill to Quiet Title was filed in the Circuit Court for Frederick County by the Plaintiff against the Defendants whose addresses are unknown. The Bill alleges in substance that:

FIRST: That your Plaintiff on or about December 1, 1967, purchased a certain lot or parcel of land from James R. Showe and Barbara Ann Showe, et ux, obtaining possession to same pursuant to a certain deed executed and delivered by the latter to the former and duly recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland, in Liber 775, folio 659. The said lot or parcel of land being described therein as follows:

"BEGINNING for the same along the West margin of the Edgewood Church Road at the Southeast corner of the lands described in a deed to Thomas Preston Miller and Erma E. Miller, his wife, from Charles M. Kline, unmarried, dated March 24, 1947, and recorded in Liber No. 462, folio 42, one of the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland, and running thence in a Southerly direction by and with the West margin of Edgewood Church Road 78.0 feet to an iron pipe marker, thence leaving said Road and running in a Westerly direction 170.0 feet, more or less, to intersect the third line of the aforementioned deed from Charles M. Kline, unmarried, unto Charles Preston Miller and Erma E. Miller, his wife, dated and recorded as aforesaid, and running thence in a Northwesterly direction by and with the said third line reversed, 147.0 feet, more or less, to the end thereof, and running thence in an Easterly direction by and with the second line described in the aforesaid deed from Charles M. Kline, unmarried, unto Thomas Preston Miller and Erma E. Miller, his wife, 272.0 feet, more or less, to the place of beginning. A certified copy of said deed is hereby incorporated by reference and attached hereto as a part hereof, marked "Plaintiff's Exhibit A."

SECOND: That your Plaintiff, through mense conveyances, etc. (which will more fully appear from the certified copies of deeds filed as "Plaintiff's Exhibit B" incorporated by reference and made a part of said Bill) derives her record title from the devise of Henry Gonso who died on or about October 12, 1915, and whose Will was duly probated and recorded among the Records of the Orphans Court for Frederick County, Maryland, in Liber S.D.T. 2, folio 102.

THIRD: That, however, a deed recorded October 3, 1883, among the Land Records of Frederick County in Liber AF7, folio 479, purports to grant in fee simple, subject real estate from Henry Gonso unto Charles E. Schaffer.

FOURTH: That your Plaintiff and her privies of record title have maintained actual, open, notorious, exclusive, hostile, and continuous possession of subject real estate under said claim of title or ownership from at least March 24, 1947, using said lot and improvements as a place of dwelling.

FIFTH: That your Plaintiff is in actual peaceable possession of subject lands but that the aforesaid deed constitutes a hostile outstanding claim, though not being actively asserted, against her title interfering with her right to absolute ownership and rights of disposition.

SIXTH: By that certain mortgage recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland, in Liber 776, folio 204, your Plaintiff has mortgaged subject premises unto the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank.

The relief prayed in the Bill is substantially as follows:

"That the Court decree absolute title to and in the real estate described in paragraph FIRST herein, in fee simple with full rights of disposition of said lands and improvements and that the Court issue an injunction against the assertion by the parties named as parties defendant of any claims whatsoever by any action at law or otherwise, all subject, however, to the rights of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank under that certain mortgage dated December 1, 1967, and recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland, in Liber 776, folio 204.

WHEREUPON, it is ordered by the Circuit Court for Frederick County this 22nd day of May, 1970, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Frederick County once a week in each of four successive weeks, before the 27th day of June, 1970, giving notice to the said Defendants of the object and substance of the Bill and warning them to show cause, if any there may be, on or before the 28th day of July, 1970, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Sun Tips

Upon first exposure to the sun this summer, use your skin coloring as a guide. Those with fair skin should limit their first exposure to no more than 15 to 20 minutes of sun per side. Exposure may be increased by about one-third each day. The sun's rays are most intense between noon and 3 p.m.

Nosebleeds

Nosebleeds can occur at any age but are quite common in children. Often caused by an ordinary blow to the nose or a fall, nosebleeds can usually be stopped by having the victim sit up, and tilt his head back while applying cold, wet towels over the face, nose and back of the head and neck. Minor nosebleeds can also be stopped by pinching the nostrils together. The victim should be kept quiet and should breathe through his mouth. If bleeding is severe or prolonged, a physician should be consulted.

Ear Wax

Accumulated wax in the external ear canal is a normal secretion intended to protect inner portions of the ear from moisture, insects, and other foreign objects that might produce damage. To remove wax, periodically wipe the outer portions of the ear canal with a piece of damp cloth. Avoid using sharp instruments which can damage the ear drum. Ear wax may also be softened with a drop of olive oil or mineral oil, or may be flushed out with a gentle stream of water.

On Saturday, June 6, 1970, the Senior Citizens will serve food to the patrons of the Kraemer auction sale on lower Seton Ave. The regular monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens Club on Tuesday, June 16, at 7:30 p.m., will be a tour of the Emmitsburg Public Library, to observe all of the equipment used in the up-to-date library, such as books for all ages, slide projectors to be rented for a nominal sum, records on loan for players or to be heard by means of ear phones in the Library. All the latest and best magazines and newspapers for those interested to read at their leisure. After the tour, refreshments will be served at the Center. Poultry Law Signed By Mandel

The Maryland Poultry Products Inspection Law has been signed by Governor Marvin Mandel. It brings under State inspection poultry and poultry products in Maryland not under Federal inspection.

A poultry inspection program is being implemented immediately, Dr. Charles P. Ellington, director of State Board of Agriculture Programs, said. Maryland poultry inspection will be carried out by the State Board of Agriculture's (MSBA) Meat Inspection Program, which has been declared by the USDA as equal to Federal inspection in Maryland. The large bulk of Maryland poultry and poultry products are already under Federal inspection. The new State inspection program puts the balance under MSBA surveillance, and "further assures Maryland consumers of wholesome, un-adulterated, properly labeled poultry and poultry products," Dr. Robert J. Lee, supervisor of the MSBA Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, said.

The state poultry inspection law, Dr. Lee points out, is modeled after the Federal law to provide inspection and standards equal to Federal inspection. ing at Community College where she also co-teaches Estate Planning with Mr. Charles M. Trubac of the State Farm Insurance Company. Miss Storm is also active in the Young Democrats, the League of Women Voters and AAUW.

The youngest member of the family is Penny Storm, who attended the University of Leeds, England, and graduated from Antioch College. Gaining valuable experience at Johns Hopkins Hospital and Cleveland General Hospital, she worked at Queen Mary's Hospital near London and taught in the local public schools until returning to school to get her Masters' Degree and earn her Ph.D. in Human Development and Child Psychology, which she expects to receive this fall at the University of Maryland.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Storm said, "I have enjoyed serving the public in many ways and capacities during the past 20 years and I hope that my record will merit public support to return to the Senate of Maryland. My broad experience in state and local affairs has given me many ideas for reform and improvement. I am especially interested in tax reform. We must make every state and local tax deductible if at all possible, so that we may save on what we have to pay to the Federal Government. Maryland is unfairly treated by the Federal Government so we must revise our state taxes in order to "strike back" and pay Washington as little as possible. Our exemption for the blind should be broadened to include the chronically ill and bed-fast patient, many of whom can stay in their own homes instead of crowding public facilities if they are given moderate tax relief.

"If elected, I will be especially interested in knowing the problems of individuals because many of my past successes have been due to helping solve personal problems with solutions which will help many people."

Campaign headquarters will be opened in Frederick and Westminster.

mission and served as chairman of that body in 1966 and 1967. He was recognized for his work when appointed to the executive committee of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners and he served as legislation chairman for that group.

In 1967, Mr. Storm was elected a Delegate to the Constitutional Convention and served in that dedicated group with his former associate, Samuel W. Barwick, who was recently appointed Judge of the Circuit Court, and another former associate, Benjamin B. Rosenstock, then president of the Maryland Bar Assn. Storm was very active in the Convention where he worked closely with former Governor Tawes and Judges Sybert and Dorsey, to retain the Board of Public Works, the State Treasurer and an elected Comptroller.

A past-president of the Frederick County Bar Assn., Storm is a member of the Character Committee of the Court of Appeals, and active in the Maryland Bar Assn. and American Bar, specializing in the Utility Section.

Mr. Storm served as attorney for the Town of Emmitsburg for 25 years during which it built its new sewer system and purchased and improved the water works. He wrote the first Code of Laws for the Town of Emmitsburg. He began work for the Mayor and Council of New Market during the time that it expanded, attacked its sewerage problems and began zoning regulations.

Active in the community, he was a charter member of and helped to organize the County Heart Assn., Community Concert Assn., Fredericktown Players, Jaycees, Frederick Counseling Services, Inc., and many other civic conservation, educational and veterans groups. He served as secretary and director of the United Fire Co. for a decade and is a member of the Lions Club, Cotillion Club, Catoctin Club, Eagles, Elks, Moose, VFW, AMVETS and American Legion. He has been a member of the choir of the United Presbyterian Church for many years and assists the choir at St. Joseph's and St. Ignatius Churches.

A widower, Mr. Storm was married to Mildred E. Raum, a graduate of Western Maryland College and a Methodist minister's daughter, who was active in Girl Scouts and, at the time of her death in March, 1968, served as president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Storms had two daughters. Mary E. is an attorney and partner in Storm & Storm. She attended St. John's College and graduated from Hood and from George Washington University Law School. She is director of Junior Clubs of the MFWC, vice president of Zonta, a director in the Frederick Organization for Rehabilitation, Inc., a member of the program committee of the Girl Scout Council of Central Maryland and active in the Bar Assn. She is the Maryland Delegate to the National Assn. of Women Lawyers and recorder for the Advisory Committee in Nursthat at least six local Knights would participate in the event and Leonard Gmeiner, social action chairman, announced another visit has been scheduled for Victor Cullen School on June 21.

Grand Knight Rosensteel gave a report on the recent convention held in Ocean City, Md. The council authorized the purchase of an air-conditioner for its meeting room.

The Grand Knight proudly announced that State Warden Paul A. Keepers has been elected as a delegate to the Supreme Convention to be held in Houston, Tex., in August.

The Grand Knight told the group of the visit to Brute Council Saturday evening by Supreme Knight John W. McDevitt, who was in Emmitsburg to address the Mt. St. Mary's College commencement. The Council held a reception in his honor and it is believed that this is the first time a Supreme Knight ever visited the local council.

The Council voted to donate $100 to the Vigilant Hose Co. financial drive and $25 to the Fireman's Parade to be held here Saturday. During the meeting the following were elected to the Board of Directors of the Home Association: George Danner, Stan McIntire, Leonard Gmeiner, Robert L. Myers, Stanley Lupinski, Carl A. Wetzel, Harry Otterson, Rev. Carl J. Fives, Clyde J. Eyler and William E. Sanders.
