Most Anything At A Glance - By Abigail -

That easy to take somewhat mild weather we have been experiencing so far this winter is still with us but Old Man Winter let us know this week that he was lingering in the shadows and we would see more of him later on. Twice in a week we have had measurable snowfall, each time about three inches, however the stuff didn't lay very long, either time. As if to make it authentic, official winter arrived Monday and along with its coming came about three inches of snow, some of which might possibly ringer long enough to give us some semblance of a white Christmas.

The appearance of the Square was beefed up somewhat this week when the four trash containers there were refurbished and a brand new coat of bright yellow paint was applied. We are indebted to our local Veterans of Foreign Wars for this little gesture of civic pride . . we needed an uplift.

Things have been relatively quiet on the Space Front since that giant $200 million firecracker blew up and fell into the ocean several weeks ago. They are going to try it again though, and on January 31, three astronauts will once again be winging away towards a moon landing . . . and I suppose another load of moon rocks for posterity.

A quick glance through the Chronicle this week will show you a myriad of well-designed Christmas Greeting advertisements. This is the only way most of the merchants can express their annual wish for a Merry Christmas. It is physically impossible for them to greet everyone individually so their best bet therefore is through the media of your local paper. I urge you to read them over, some of the verses manifest the friendly feeling of the merchant for you, his friends, and patrons .. . Others simply express a religious emotion for the occasion while still others simply say, with warm expression, Merry Christmas.

As the pre-Christmas period fades away and we are about to enter into the real Christmas holidays, let me take this opportunity on behalf of myself and the staff, to wish you

MERRY CHRISTMAS FOLKS!

Prospects For Silver

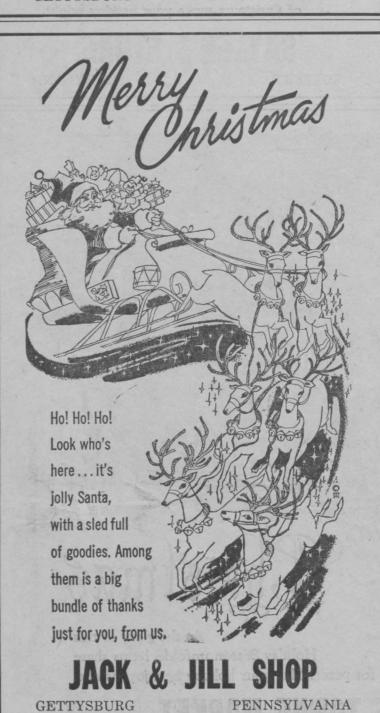

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., December 20, 1970. The U.S. Government withdrew from the silver market on November 10, 1970, after 194 years of buying, selling, and using the precious metal. In recent years the government has been an important supplier of silver. Since industrial consumption far exceeds mine production, there is a production-consumption deficit of silver (in 1969 the U. S. deficit amounted to some 107 million ounces). This has been filled primarily by the weekly sales of silver through the General Services Administration. With this important source now eliminated, it is obvious that re-term, there is considerable difference of opinion as to how far the advance will carry. In view of the production-consumption deficit and the elimination of the weekly Treasury sales, it would appear that the price is poised to move dramatically higher. One line of opinion, however, feels that a significant price increase is not imminent Proponents of the latter theory point to the large supplies of above-ground silver which exist in warehouses and vaults, in the form of artistic and ornamental items, religious objects, coins, etc. Some think this supply will be sufficient to prevent any important hike in the price of silver in the near future. At What Price?

While there is no easy answer of how much of this supply will become available to the free market and at what price, the Research Department of Babson's Reports believes that silver prices will probably have to go considerably higher over the intermediate term before large quantities of the hidden hoards are attracted to the mar-ket. First, a significant volume of above-ground silver may not be available even at substantially higher prices. For example, many religious objects and artistic items will be held regardless of the market price of the precious metal.

Second, we feel that a certain amount of silver-like goldis being used as a store of val-ue and will continue to be retained as long as paper currencies lose their worth. Finally, it is doubtful that holders of the total that could be obtainable will be quick to bring it to market in any sizable quantity now that Treasury sales have ceased, — a development many silver holders have long awaited. Rather, we expect that once prices start to move up-

Twenty - two accounting majors have found employment in their field. Their average pay is $10,109. Sixteen graduates are now teaching, at an average salary of $6,973.

Five members of the class of 1970 are involved in social work. Two are case-workers in the state of Maryland, one is in public health, one is in vocational rehabilitation, and one is working with VISTA.

Thirteen of the class of 1970 are engaged in military service of some kind. Five are enlistees, three are draftees, and five are with either the Army or Marine Reserves or the National Guard. Scheerer estimates that many of the unresponding graduates are serving or preparing to serve in the military. He also feels that military obligation has temporarily prevented a significant number of graduates from attending graduate school.

NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM Searcy, Arkansas

Uncle Sam-A Cripple! The primary purpose of the Government of the United States is to protect the lives of the people-their lives, their property, their freedom. Within the United States this function of Government has broken down. In Washington the other evening, the hotel clerk told me not to walk the streets of the District of Columbia (downtown Washington) after dark. Protection of my person, my life, could not be provided. To a greater or lesser degree this protection has broken down all across the nation. The forces that have made our cities into jungles unsafe for law-abiding citizens are criminal forces motivated by avarice or revolutionary zeal;

one motive aids the other. The blame for the failure of Government to protect its people against the marauders must be charged to the American people themselves. We have permitted law and order to disintegrate. In a national atmosphere of permissiveness, criminals in some instances have been glorified and cast in the role of heroes. The breakdown of our internal security parallels, alas, the detrioration of our national defense in a world torn by violence and fraught with catastrophic events.

Breakdown Measured In Washington in recent days, we've had an opportunity to dig deeply into both breakdownsthe failure of our policing agencies to cope with rising crime in the streets, bombings, burnings, riots, the ambushing of police and firemen, the takeover of university buildings, chaos in our educational system: and the almost unbelieveable fall of the U.S.A. into an inferior military position internationally while Soviet Russia begins to dominate the world.

It is unfortunate that America's 200 million people could not have been present in the House of Representatives the recent evening when white-maned L. Mendel Rivers, Chairman of the powerful House Committee on Armed Services, made the most important Congressional presentation of his 30 years in Washington; or at the hearings in the Senate auditorium when machine guns and other guerilla warfare equipment seized from revolutionary cadres was displayed and witnesses told of the rising strength of an "Army of Liberation" being mobilized to overthrow the nation. None of this was adequately reported by the news media, newspapers, AP, UPI and television. "Frightening Peril"

Listen to Chairman Rivers, certainly one of the best informed men in the world on the comparative military strength of the U. S. and Soviet Russia:

"The fears that I have are those that must be shared by every American regardless of his political or social philosophy or his economic status. All Americans have been given the blessed and priceless heritage of freedom-a freedom which I ardy . . . We not only have a common concern, but a common and frightening peril . . . My words today are intended as much for the members of the other body (Senate) as they are for you, and, perhaps more importantly, they are intended for the American people. For in the last analysis, it is the American people who stand to lose everything if we fail to discharge our awesome responsibilities in respect to our national

For a solid hour, Chairman Rivers cited irrefutable statistics no America's and Soviet Russia's armed might, showing our nation falling behind and being overshadowed militarily. In this and subsequent columns we shall report the major items. The plight of our weakening military position must be understood by the American public and a determination to build and catch up with the Soviets must be cried out over the roof-tops in every American community! Question On Survival defense."

"The leaders of the Kremlin." said Chairman Rivers, "are now evidently unimpressed by both our military capability and our national determination to survive is suspect requires no elaboration. The dissident voices in our nation who would destroy the very fabric of our society are being interpreted by the leaders in the Kremlin as the voices of the American people." (I heard this from Pentagon sources too.) Chairman Rivers said the Soviet Union is now one of the world's two leading sea powers -and possibly already the leading power. Its swiftly expanding Navy recently conducted the first world-wide Naval maneuvers in history. The Soviet Navy is beginning to dominate the Mediterranean, extend its might into the Indian Ocean, and into the fartherest reaches of the Atlantic and Pacific. "Soviet submarines and warships equipped with missiles," Chairman Rivers noted, "now operate off the coast of the United States, as well as in the Caribbean and off the coasts of Africa and Southeast Asia."

Senator Mathias Battles For Detrick

By Senator Charles McC. Mathias

'Dear Mr. Prosident . . Hundreds of millions of tax dolars have been spent over the the past 20 years to conduct chemical - biological warfare research at Fort Detrick, Maryland. Now that mission has been terminated, but the Administration and the House of Representatives have, in effect, told the American people that this government is unable or unwilling to invest the relatively modest sum of $15 mil. lion a year to operate Fort Detrick as a medical research cent-Under the Senate-passed amendment to the Labor, Health and Welfare appropriations bill, the new Fort Detrick would have undertaken a quest for solution to a number of serious diseases. Cancer research would have been a major project and that such research is needed is made evident by a letter recently sent to President Nixon. I quote: "Dear Mr. President: I sincerely pray that this letter reaches your hands, that you read it personally, in spite of the fact that every day thousands of let ters reach the White House with urgent requests or demands, praiss, or denunciations. This above all is a question, one I have been asking for a long year, one that has finally kept me awake long enough to write it down and send it to you. I am one of the millions of Americans, including all too many unaware of it themselves, suffering from cancer. In my instance, it is not in a curable form. It is a terminal, unpredictable disease called reticulum cell carcinema, affecting my lungs. I am 23 years old, a 1969 graduate of Mount Holyoke Colelge, and in general a young woman who knows what she wants, loves life and longs to fulfill freely her many ideals. One year ago, this fulfillment was postponed barely before it had begun, but I speak nevertheless as a person with a deep faith in God and in the potential of the human spirit. Thanks to God, my own spirit has enabled me to transcend the insidious, prison-like nature of this disease, my soul refuses to be cancer-ridden though the temptation to despair is often great. I must ask you a question because of what I have heard and seen at the superb hospital which is fight ing for my life as I am, the Yalo New Haven Medical Center.

"I've heard too many doctor express alarm at government cut backs in aid to cancer researc' centers, and at the inability thousands of eager young men and women even to be trained i this vital field, for the lack of sufficient institutional funds to ed ucate them. I've heard one of the country's finest hematologists say wearily, 'I have worked all my life for this; I don't see the cure but we are so close, so close.' I've seen the faces of my fellow pa tients in clinics and in wards expressing the fear that the govern- | the constructive help given us in | ment and the nation have for- our efforts to combat traffic acgotten them in the course of a cidents. I would appreciate your cruel and crucial election cam- extending our sincere thanks to

"Mr. President, I ask the question, what is the government go- sincere wishes for a happy, healthy ing to do to help us and those who dedicate their own lives to helping us? I question the nature of a political system where men who represent the people can appropriate money for missile systems, wars, industiral expansion, and more pollution at the same time sincerely promising more money for fighting poverty and illness, building neace, and ending pollution.

"I do not fee any identification with those in my generation who support anarchy and liberation and guerrilla heroes. They offer no future to reassure anyone. They can find no past history to convince anyone. At the same time, I do not attack all men who care, who share my faith in the human spirit, as radical-liberals, as a kind of blight to be totally removed from our government. I am trapped in the middle ideologically more than I am trapped in the kind of middle physically.

"I ask you the question, Mr. President, and I sit and wait for an answer from the human spirit, not from the records or the computer sheets or the past. We, millions of us, are only praying for a future and asking the question: Why can't the world's greatest nation which has so heroically conquered outer space, fight to conquer inner space as well? Mr. President, I know you bear the burden as well as the greatness of your position, but can you imagine what it is to have an incurable cancer lurking in one's inner space when life is so great and so good and when there is so much to be done in God's world?"

I am sorry to report that the author of this letter, Ann Ruth Singer, has not lived to get her answer. But her lotter must be

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: 1970 is coming to an end and with the Christmas and New Year holidays approaching I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your excellent cooperation throughout the past year.

Although many people will take credit for the highway death and accident reduction, I know that without your help Maryland's injury and death toll would be much, much higher.

I appreciate your interest and

Last Wednesday afternoon, December 16, some very thoughtful young men donated a beautiful Christmas tree and decorations from Mount Saint Mary's to the Senior Citizens Center for the holiday decorations. The gift was very timely and gracious and is greatly appreciated at the Center. Who says there are no gracious and well intentioned young people any more? Only the bad ones hit the public, but the kindness of the Mount boys should be shouted from the house top. Many thanks and a Blessed Holiday to you.

"The Skin Keepers"

When it comes to beauty aids one can hardly have too great a selection. Nevertheless, there are times when the number of bottles and boxes and tubes on the cosmetic counter can over-whelm even the most fashionconscious woman. This is par-ticularly true of skin care products. And in these times when air pollutants soil your skin and age it more rapidly than ever, regular cleansing is all the more important!

Certain types of cleansers are preferable for particular types of skin. These can be briefly described, and it would be a good idea if you kept this outline in mind as you choose your A cleansing

Another cleanser available is the type labeled 'washing cream' — this is usually preferable for a normal skin, and you may have to add water to the cream to use it to full advantage. Like any cleaner, if it is the one you prefer, it should be integral to your program.

Liquid cleansers usually have a deeper penetrating action
