Now that the proponents of the right to vote at 18 have won their point, why not go all the way to making them first-class citizens and lift all the restrictions? The argument, as put forth by the politicians was, if they have to fight at 18 then they have the right to vote at 18. Let's go the other way and stop calling them minors at 18. Then again why not let them partake of alcoholic drinks at 18, or be responsible at 18 for any damages they might incur in an automobile accident, etc.? And finally, since they are so mature in the ways of the world, banks should bend over backwards to take their loans without the signature of their parents. Perhaps now that the State Legislature is back in session, maybe some joker will introduce a bill that will guarantee the above privileges to the 18-year-olds which would grant them full first-class citizenship, and not just voting privileges.

There is rumbling around that postage rates could be increased once again and this would mean that first class letters would rise to eight cents per mailing stamp. Seems as though the Department is not paying its own way. Well, for that matter just what segment of the nation's business has been paying its own way? Your airways, ship lines, agriculture, you name it, have been subsidized by the Government for many years now, so why the loud clamoring for the Postoffice Department to operate in the clear? It would appear that the Postoffice Dept. has been singled out as the whipping boy for the sins of so many others and that mail users most undoubtedly will be called upon to help carry the deficit created by so many Government subsidized businesses these past years.

Pollution of almost everything seems to be our No. 1 enigma these days. You can hardly pick up the paper unless you read of some new form of pollution. For the past several weeks now it has embraced the fish industry and from what I have read I am not sure I will ever eat another piece of seafood. Most of the ocean fish are polluted with deadly mercury, we are told. The build-up is terrific and the human body cannot throw off the metal or its effects. It just keeps compounding in your body year after year until it's fatal, I guess. In the past several years we have had so many food scares that we question the pureness of almost everything that we stuff in our mouths and are beginning to wonder just how we have managed to survive to date. Our whole ecology has been set topsy-turvy and about all we can do about it is just sit back and wait for the Government to shut-up or put-up final evidence that would be conclusive one way or the other. . . . Either we eat it or we don't.

I received my annual notice from the Mayor of Fairfield that the Christmas lights in Fairfield will be taken down on or about January 16. This friendly little reminder is sent to me as the aftermath of a visit there several years ago, in March, and I was surprised to see the Christmas lights still dazzling in the sunlight. Naturally I mentioned the subject in this column. Ever since then I have received an advance notice as to just when the lights will come down. . . . And I might just be there to check it out too, buddy.

Miss Fitz Wed To Joseph Welty

Miss Kathryn Elaine Fitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry David Fitz, 900 W. Main St., Waynesboro, Pa., became the bride of Joseph Sandkuhler Welty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Welty, 423 W. Main St., Emmitsburg, in a double-ring ceremony performed at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, Waynesboro, Pa., on Saturday, January 9, 1971. The Rev. Charles Procopio performed the ceremony during a Nuptial Mass. Thomas Rocks, Waynesboro, was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose an Empire gown of classic simplicity styled in candlelight satin. The circular chapel-length train and the bodice and hemline of the gown were accented by small appliqued flowers. The bride's mother designed and created her daughter's gown. The bride carried a bouquet of white mums, white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Jean Fitz, Waynesboro, was her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a pink velvet Empire gown with a matching bow headdress. The bridal attendants included Miss Yvonne Welty, Emmitsburg, sister of the groom; Miss Maryann Lesso, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Miss Judith Neely of Washington, D. C. Their gowns and headdresses were of cranberry velvet styled like the honor attendants. Miss Jessica Ann Fitz, Waynesboro, sister of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a miniature gown identical to the other attendants. All carried firsides baskets of pink, cranberry and white mums.

Best man was Edward Adelsberger of Emmitsburg. Ushers included John Sherwin and Ray Baker of Emmitsburg and Robert Eckert of Taneytown. The ring bearer was Master Vincent Welty, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Chestnut Logs, Waynesboro.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of St. Maria Goretti High School, Hagerstown, and a 1970 graduate of St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg, receiving a B.A. in History. She is presently a claims administrator for the Social Security Administration in Baltimore.

Mr. Welty is a 1967 graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg and will graduate from Mt. St. Mary's College this June where he expects to earn a B.S. in Economics. He plans to attend Law School in September. Presently he is employed as assistant manager of Charmita Restaurant.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will reside at 85 Carroll View Ave., Westminster, Md.

Mount Professors Are Studying At Oak Ridge

William G. Meredith and Waldemar Palatis, of the faculty at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, are two of 21 participants from colleges and universities in 17 states now attending a three-week topical institute on "Environmental Aspects of Radiation Sciences," which began in Oak Ridge, Tenn., January 4.

The institute, which continues through January 22, is being presented by the Special Training Division of Oak Ridge Associated Universities (ORAU), in cooperation with the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. ORAU is a non-profit educational and research corporation of 41 colleges and universities in the South, operating under contract to the AEC and other federal agencies.

Included in the program are lectures, discussions, and laboratory exercises, emphasizing fundamental concepts of radiation and its detection as well as specific environmental aspects of nuclear energy and radiation, including nuclear power, nuclear medicine, and agricultural, industrial, and research applications of radioisotopes.

Purpose of the program is to enable faculty members in the natural sciences to enrich their own teaching, through the introduction of course content in areas of great importance in terms of current and future problems of modern society.

Band Schedules Important Meeting

A very important meeting of the Emmitsburg Municipal Band will be held in the Band Room at St. Euphemia's School on Wednesday, January 20, beginning at 7 p.m.

It is urgently requested that all members of the band, color guard, majorettes and acrobats, be present at this most important meeting beginning at 7 p.m. sharp.

Quail populations throughout Nebraska are up by about 25 percent over last year, according to results of a whistle count survey conducted last summer. Most significant increases were in north-east and north-central Nebraska, with gains of 91 and 65 percent respectively.—Sports Afield.

Brute Ladies Hold Meeting

The January meeting of the Ladies of Brute' Auxiliary took place on Monday evening, January 11, at 8:15 in the Council Home with 21 members in attendance. President Lois Hartdagen presided.

The chaplain opened the meeting with prayer followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Correspondence was received from Sister Mary Joseph of the Emmitsburg Lifelong Learning Council to advise the auxiliary of a meeting.

Lois Hartdagen will follow - up on the procedure the auxiliary is to take concerning the Heart Fund. A donation for the use of the Mother Seton Hall for the Wig Show was approved. The president announced that the 1971 dues are now payable.

It was voted to have a food sale around Washington's Birthday. The sale will be held on Saturday morning, Feb. 13, starting at 10 a.m. at the Emmitsburg Fire Hall. Loretta Sprande volunteered as chairman with Marty Austin, Nancy Danner, Dolores Davis, Lois Hartdagen, Frances Rosensteel and Joyce Rosensteel, assisting. The committee will notify the auxiliary members for donations.

Initiation ceremonies were then held with Marty Austin, Agnes Otterson and Rita Stahley initiated as new members.

The monthly drawing was held and Laura Greco's name was called for $8 but was not present. The next meeting will be held on February 8, at 8:15 in the Council Home. Frances Rosensteel and Virginia Sanders will be in charge of refreshments. The chaplain closed the meeting with prayer, after which refreshments were served in the social room.

Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. David Cummings, Marietta, Ga., announce the birth of a daughter on January 11. Mrs. Cummings is the former Mary Oster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oster, Emmitt Gardens. This is the couple's first child.

CYO MEETING TONIGHT

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock, the CYO will hold a business meeting in St. Euphemia's Hall. This is a very important meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. C. Richard Cox of Baltimore, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Theresa Ann Cox, to Mr. Michael Joseph Byard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Byard, Sr., of Emmitsburg.

Miss Cox received a B.A. degree and teaching certificate in business education from Notre Dame College of Ohio. Mr. Byard received a B.S. degree in Behavioral Science from Mount St. Mary's College where he is presently working as an admissions counselor.

An April wedding is planned.

Brute Council Plans Open House

For those committed to religion and patriotism, the great challenge today is to deal effectively with the new dangers which threaten both our country and our church. It is a special challenge for such a society as the Knights of Columbus. The duty of responding to this challenge falls heavily on the shoulders of the Knights because they have the numbers, the organization, the Christian insight and the leadership potential to help combat and overcome these perils.

This is the theme underlying the current membership recruitment campaign being conducted by Brute Council No. 1860, Knights of Columbus in Emmitsburg. Qualified men in the area who may be interested in joining the Knights of Columbus are invited to an Open House in the Council Home, 9 East Main Street, Emmitsburg, on Thursday evening, January 21 at 8 p.m.

Recalls Anniversary Of Capture

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Twenty-six years ago, January 5, 1945, I was captured by the German SS troops at Gamshire on the Rhine River. About 60 of our Co. L, 232 Inf., 42 Division, were captured on that day. We held them off for about eight hours but the number of them was too much. They had about 500 against our 60-100 men. I was a prisoner for four months.

I can feel and I know what the prisoners are going through with in North Vietnam and I hope all of them soon get home.

Lions To Hear Exchange Students

Four members of the Glade Valley Lions Club were guests at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in Mt. Manor Restaurant, President J. Ralph McDonnell presiding. The visitors were introduced by Lion Steiner Smith of Glade Valley.

A communication was received from Lavale Dorsey, Cumberland, seeking support of his nomination for District Governor, but no action was taken at this time. Program Chairman J. Norman Flax was asked to invite two foreign exchange students living in Frederick County at this time to speak before the club at an early date. The students are from Brazil and New Zealand. The reports of Secretary William H. Kelz and Treasurer Floyd L. Lewis were approved as presented.

A number of names of local individuals who are potential members, was approved during the meeting.

Norman Flax, chairman of the Kiddies' Christmas Party, gave a report on the affair held Dec. 19 and reported it highly successful. A complete and final report will be given at a future meeting, Flax said.

MOTHERS' MARCH TO AID LOCAL DIMES DRIVE

The Mothers March will again be sponsored in this area by the Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658, for the 1971 March of Dimes.

In giving to this worthwhile cause you will support research seeking causes and cures for birth defects that strike more than 250,000 American babies each year as well as supporting prevention programs against Rh blood disease, German measles, and other causes of birth defects.

Tuesday evening, January 19, between 7 and 9 p.m. is the time designated for the volunteers to call upon you. Please give to the following collectors who so generously are giving their time:

North Seton, Dixie Vivaldi and Lois Hartdagen; South Seton, Rita Byard and Gloria Martin; East Main, Connie Topper, Ann Bushman, Nancy Danner and Shirley Little; West Main, Dolores Ray, Phyllis Joy and Ethel Hoke; DePaul, Mary Theresa Hollinger and Mary Theresa Miller; Federal Ave. and Federal Hill, Ev. Ott and Mary Topper; Frailey Road and Mountaintop Road, Etta Mae Norris and Isabelle Baker; Emmitt Gardens, Ann Marie Koontz and Betty Ann Baker; and Lincoln Ave., Phyllis Joy.

Please turn your porch lights on to signify that you are one that cares and will donate to this worthy cause.

Couple Observe 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Kelly, 22 West Main St., recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. The couple was married December 27, 1930 in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Rectory, Thurmont, by Fr. Curran.

The Kellys were guests of honor at a surprise open house given by the children, James R. Kelly, Hagerstown, Mrs. Lamar Green, and Mrs. James Mackley, both of Emmitsburg. Many friends and relatives were present to help them celebrate the occasion. They were the recipients of many lovely gifts from those attending and also from those unable to attend.

Mr. Kelly is employed at St. Joseph's Provincial House where he has been employed for the past 50 years. Mrs. Kelly is also employed at St. Joseph's Provincial House where she has worked for the last 38 years.

Adult Classes To Start At Seton Center

Seton Center in Emmitsburg announces that a new twelve-week course in Adult Education is now starting. Classes meet twice a week on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m., in the Adult Education Room of the Center.

Subject matter includes basic reading, writing and arithmetic skills taught at a beginning level but with an adult orientation. Classes are also offered for more advanced students who wish to continue and upgrade their education and who may aim eventually to take the High School Equivalency Examination.

Classes, which are sponsored jointly by the Center and the Frederick County Board of Education, are open to all adults in the area without charge. Classes are small and informal and practically all classroom materials are provided free. Every effort is made to work with each student on his individual level. Interested persons may register by calling Seton Center, 447-6185, and asking for Sister Mary Joseph or Sister Grace. Students will also be registered before classes begin, at 6:45 p.m. on Monday, January 18 and Wednesday, January 20.

Seton Center is the former Mother Seton School located just south of Emmitsburg on Business Route 15.

George T. Keech, Baltimore, Real Estate Broker, formerly of Creagerstown, underwent major surgery, Oct. 5, 1970, at Bon Secours Hospital, Baltimore, is doing nicely and expects to return to his business activities in the near future.

VFW AMBULANCE

Mrs. Lucille Deatherage and George Devillis, Emmitsburg, were transported this week to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, via the VFW ambulance. Drivers were Paul Humerick, James Kittinger and Michael Boyle.

WILL OBSERVE WEEK OF PRAYER LOCALLY

The Emmitsburg Community Ecumenical Service for the Week of Prayer For Christian Unity will be at Incarnation United Church of Christ on Sunday, January 24, at 7:30 p.m. The Reverend Eugene R. Ackerman, Pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of the Taneytown - Emmitsburg Charge, will preach the sermon at the service to which all Roman Catholic and Protestant members of our local churches are invited. The theme of the service will be "Fellowship of the Holy Spirit". The Sunrise Singers of St. Joseph's Church will provide the special music for the service. This service will mark the fifth year of the observance of the National Week of Prayer for Christian Unity by all of the churches of Emmitsburg.

There will also be an informal Ecumenical Panel Discussion in the auditorium of St. Joseph's High School on Wednesday, January 27 at 7:30 p.m. A Fellowship Hour with light refreshments will follow this informal program as well as the worship service on Sunday at Incarnation Church. Plans for the observance of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity were made by the local clergy in cooperation with the Worship Committee of the Emmitsburg Council of Churches. The following churches are participating in the observance: St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Trinity and Tom's Creek Churches of the United Methodist Charge, the United Presbyterian Church, and Incarnation United Church of Christ.

Mount Cagers Snap 7-Game Losing Streak

In his 17 years as head basketball coach at Mt. St. Mary's College, Jim Phelan has never had a losing season and has never lost more than four games in a row. So, it would not be unreasonable to expect that Phelan might have gritted his teeth at least once or twice during the past five weeks.

During those five weeks, Phelan's basketballers played seven games and lost seven games. In the process, their season's record sagged to 2-8. The streak finally ended Tuesday night when the Mount overcame a two-point half-time deficit to wipe out Washington College of Chestertown, Md., 85-65.

Phelan remained calm during the losing streak. "I knew from the start that this would be an off-year," he says, "and I knew that this string of road games (the last eight games, and the next two, are away games) would be especially rough. We've had an injury or two and we've lost a couple of games that, with a couple of breaks, we could have won. But when you're on a losing streak you just don't get the breaks."

There have been bright spots during the disaster. The play of the Mountaineer freshmen has been outstanding. Kevin Kane, a guard from Philadelphia, and Joe Molinaro, a forward from Pittsburgh, are doing exceptional jobs as starters and backup guard Al Rochetti and substitute forward have looked real good in reserve roles. Phelan also singles out the play of veterans John Novey, who just rejoined the team this month and Austin Leonard, who played a big part in Tuesday's victory over Washington.

Now that they have snapped the losing streak the Mountaineers would like to do something about getting back over the 500 mark. The squad is also pointing to the Mason-Dixon Tournament at the end of the season.

Phelan reports that team morale, which had been down, was given a big boost by Tuesday's victory. He is hoping that this rejuvenation plus improved team play plus more experienced performances by his freshmen will combine to get the team moving in the right direction.

To increase its ore reserves, a major activity of any mining company, International Nickel in '69 explored for nickel on some 35,000 square miles of land throughout the world. The company spent a record $19,896,000 on exploration, compared to $17,028,000 in 1968, which had been a previous record.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fitz, Emmitsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sherry A. Wortz, to Cpl. Samuel D. Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Page, Niagara, North Carolina.

Miss Wortz is a 1968 graduate of Emmitsburg High School, and is employed by Freeman Shoe Co.

Cpl. Page is a graduate of high school in North Carolina, and is in the Marines, stationed at Camp David, Thurmont, after a tour of duty in Vietnam.

VFW Auxiliary To Cater Wedding

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658, was held at the Post Home on Thursday, Jan. 6 at 8 p.m., with President Gloria Martin presiding. There were 14 members present.

Thank-you notes were read from members and others who were remembered with gifts during the Holidays.

Plans were discussed for the Mother's March for Polio which the Auxiliary will conduct on Tuesday, Jan. 19 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Donations were voted to March of Dimes and toward remodeling of the kitchen at the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids.

The following names were proposed and voted upon favorably for membership: Wanda Wantz, Connie Fisher, Kathleen Garrett, Dorothy Joy, Arlene Martin, Ann Etheridge, Evelyn Wantz, Mary Jane Spalding, Paula Orndorff, Agnes Miller, Ethel Grimes, Josephine Little, Joyce Orndorff, Carol Hahn, Mary Shoemaker, Margaret Stull, Edith Click, Betty Lupinski.

Plans to cater a wedding on Feb. 23 were approved.

Dolores Henke's name was called for the door prize but was not present. Refreshments were served by Susan Sanders and Nancy Topper.

MISS ANNA E. ANNAN

Miss Anna Elizabeth Annan, 96, Emmitsburg, died at the Pope Convalescent Home last Thursday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. She had been a guest there for 10 years.

A native of Emmitsburg, she was the daughter of the late Dr. Robert L. Annan and Alice C. Motter Annan. Her early education was in Emmitsburg and she later graduated from New Windsor College. She was employed 35 years at the District of Columbia court in Washington where she resided until her retirement when she returned to Emmitsburg. She was a member of the Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Amelia H. Annan and Miss Elizabeth M. Annan, both of Taneytown. Funeral services were held on Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. Eugene R. Ackerman officiating. Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery, Emmitsburg. Pallbearers were Samuel Hays, Charles Linn, Dr. William H. Carr and Noah Bankard.

Senior Citizens To Meet

The next regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club will be held Tuesday, January 19, 1971, at two o'clock. Bring prizes for bingo. Come prepared to have fun!

There will be a business meeting at ten o'clock a.m. at the Center on Monday, January 18, 1971, of the Official Board.

J. Ward Kerrigan has been transferred to Michael Manor Convalescent Home, Gettysburg, Pa.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By SAMUEL CARRICK
 The Rev. Dr. Charles Reinwald Before continuing the data pertaining to Elias (Tom's Creek) Lutheran church of Emmitsburg there is a mystery pertaining to the town (Emmitsburg), going back to the era before the Civil War—that thus far has defied solution. Perhaps one or more of the readers of this column could throw some light on the subject.
 Before, during, and after, for a few years at least, here lived in Emmitsburg, on a site located near or on the present office of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, a widow named Elizabeth Elliot. The given name of her husband is not known at present and his grave has not been located in any of the burial grounds in the neighborhood. However, it is quite possible that his resting place was never marked —or—the stone originally placed could have yielded to time—or vandals.
 During the "War Between the States", or the Civil War, Maryland was a divided state. Many of its citizens sympathized with the South—many were slave owners. Be that as it may—Elizabeth Elliot was an ardent believer and supporter of the Confederacy. She could not go to war but she played an important and active role in the struggle. Her home in Emmitsburg became a refuge for spies or agents of the South. Here they were hidden and cared for until such time as they could escape within their own lines. According to a fairly reliable tradition the famous Confederate espionage agent, Mrs.
 Greensleeves and her daughter—after the former was released from the old capital prison, Washington, D. C., stayed with Mrs. Elliot for some time. Shortly thereafter the spy and her child were drowned in the Atlantic Ocean off Cape Fear—in an effort to escape a

Union patrol and board a Confederate gunboat.
 After 1875 Elizabeth Elliot's name disappears from the tax lists and it is not known whether or not at that time, she died or sold her property and moved to another locality. After this date she "disappears into thin air" so to speak.
 It is interesting to note that the late Robert W. Chambers, historian and novelist, mentions Mrs.
 Elliot and her activities in his book, "Operator No. 13". His account is accurate, according to the few records available, and the novel, although an old one, is most interesting and informative.
 Now to return to the biographical notes pertaining to the Rev.
 Dr. Charles Reinwald, one of the most beloved and respected pastors of the Elias Lutheran congregation.
 "The Rev. Charles Reinwald attended the public schools of his home town (Duncansville) and later the Academy at Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania. After teaching for three years at Bennington Furnace he entered the Academy at Gettysburg in 1880. In 1881 he entered Gettysburg College from which institution he was graduated in 1885. The following September Mr. Reinwald entered the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary. He graduated some three years later, and on September 9, 1888, was ordained to the ministry of the Lutheran Church.
 "The first pastorate of the Rev.
 Reinwald was at Braddock, Pennsylvania, where he labored for well over four years. During his ministry at Braddock a new church edifice was built and the congregation flourished. During these years he also served a congregation at Turtle Creek, Pennsylvania.
 "Mr. John Berry and his family, who were friends of Dr. Reine-wald, and had entertained him when he was ordained, were living in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, at the time of the great flood. When Dr. Reinwald heard of this disaster, of May 31, 1889, he started immediately to offer his help in the work of succoring the afflicted. He arrived in Johnstown in time to assist in distributing the first supplies that reached the stricken city. He spent five days in this work and found there a college friend, Reuben M. Linton, afterwards editor of the "Somerset Democrat", now deceased.

 "During the troubles at Homestead, Dr. Reinwald was at Braddock and from there witnessed the burning of the barges containing the Pinkerton men. It may well be said that he witnessed history in the making.
 "The Rev. Mr. Reinwald assumed the pastorate of Elias Lutheran church in Emmitsburg, Maryland, on October 13, 1892. In 1897 this church celebrated its centennial, the services lasting four days. The congregation at that time made many improvements in the church property, and put in new memorial windows, pews, and carpets. In all of this the pastor was a leading and encouraging spirit.
 "Dr. Reinwald has been for the last two years, president of the Lutheran Synod of Maryland.
 He is interested in all that concerns the good of the community.
 "On September 17, 1890, the Rev. Dr. Charles Reinwald, was married in Trinity Reformed (now United Church of Christ) Church, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, to Irene Danner, the youngest daughter of the Hon. Joel B. and Juliet (Buchanan) Danner, of Gettysburg.
 At one time the father of the bride was Congressman from his district.
 "At the present time (1910)
 Dr. Reinwald, in respect to service, is the senior pastor of Emmitsburg—all the churches having changed ministers since his arrival in the town.
 "In 1909 Susquehanna University conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Rev. Reinwald and the honor was both earned and deserved.
 Truly Dr. Reinwald served humanity—following in the steps of his Master."
 Dr. Reinwald died while pastor of Elias Lutheran congregation and his funeral was held in the church he had served so long and faithfully. As one of his parishioners said of that occasion—"the church was filled even to the gallery—we had lost a friend as well as a pastor."
 Mrs. Reinwald survived her husband for some years. It was she who left the Danner home, on Center Square, Gettysburg, to be a Y.W.C.A. In addition she bequeathed a sum of money for the upkeep of the institution.
 Both Dr. Reinwald and his wife are interred in the Danner plot, Area G, Evergreen Cemetery, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.
 Their graves are well marked and quite easy to locate.
 The historical and genealogical data pertaining to Elias Lutheran (Tom's Creek) congregation, its ministers and congregations, will be continued in this series next week.

Ocean City Gets New Restaurant

A group of Baltimore real estate developers have announced plans to construct a unique new Ocean City restaurant combining a rustic atmosphere with gourmet cuisine. The new undertaking, a project of Ocean City Venture, Inc., will be located at 70th Street and Ocean Highway, Ocean City, Md. Called The Golden Bull, the new restaurant is conveniently located in the ever expanding Ocean City area accessible from the new 62nd Street Bridge, scheduled to open in the summer of 1971.
 The Golden Bull, which will open in May, 1971, will offer seating for 500 in its dining rooms, and a well appointed cocktail lounge accommodating 150 guests. The 14,000 square foot restaurant will be constructed on a 250'x700' lot. The lot will allow valet parking for 150 cars and offers a perfect setting for the rustic atmosphere of the new restaurant. Architect for the project is Calvin K. Kobsa and Associates; construction of The Golden Bull is currently under way.
 The Golden Bull Restaurant will be managed by Harry C. Reynolds, previously with the Sheraton Belvedere for 19 years, nine of which were spent as General Manager. Combining talents with Mr. Reynolds will be renowned Chef Joseph Vallegant, also formerly of the Belvedere. Dial 447-6121 to report a fire.

 A New Year's Resolution
 I get such nice letters from you . . . my friends and readers . . . and so many of you ask for decorating advice, particularly about your living rooms and recreation rooms. I do think it's strange that many of you aren't more interested in living up your bedroom!
 Now that the New Year is coming, I think that would be a good resolution and one that should go right at the top of the list. We all spend so much time in our bedrooms, what with reading, relaxing, and maybe watching television or talking on the phone. Shouldn't they be as nice to live in as our other rooms?
 And there's no need to spend a lot of money perking up your bedroom. Why not do what all the chic decorators are doing? They're drapping floor-length tablefashions over round end tables, no matter what the style of the furnishings. And isn't that a wonderfully inexpensive way of disguising an old, thrift-shop find? (As a matter of fact, we like the skirted table look so much, and find it so wonderfully practical, that we've designed a marvelous little knockdown table that's just right for dressing up. Only $5—and none of the bother of rooting around the thrift shops. If you'd like one—they're a marvelous solution for bedside or end tables—just drop me a note at Bates. That's 1431 Broadway, New York 10018.)
 To dress a table in fashion, you might try one of my old favorites, Piping Rock. This heavy, ribbed cotton comes in thirteen different colors, one of which is sure to match your rug or curtains. And these tablefashions go right into the washer, then the dryer and back on your table without ironing. That's the kind of easy care that's so important in bedrooms.
 Best of all, these lovely, solid colors are beautifully coordinated with some sparkling new printed bedspreads that have the same easy-care features. There's one called Starshine which is full of animals of the zodiac in a blue and green design. And my special favorite is called Serendipity. It looks like a bright patchwork quilt. The quilted, patchwork look is part of the current fashion trend—and I guess that proves I'm not the only one who's old-fashioned!

The Indictments At Kent State
The shootings at Kent State University on last May 4 continue to be widely discussed in the news media. A Presidential Commission, which held four days of hearings, held the National Guard and student agitators equally responsible. A "report" leaked out of the Department of Justice by its Civil Rights Division concluded the National Guard was responsible. There has so far been only one thorough investigation — that conducted by a special Grand Jury of Portage County, Ohio, wherein Kent State University is located.

The Grand Jury was composed of 15 citizens of Portage County, four women and 11 men. The legal and investigative staffs of the State's Attorney General and specially appointed lawyer-investigators worked with and for the Grand Jury. More than 300 witnesses were examined. The Grand Jury also studied, checked and explored the results of all previous, less-thorough investigations, including that of the FBI. At the end of its 25 days of investigating, the Grand Jury indicted 25 persons. It found that the Guardsmen who fired into an advancing mob of rioting students did so in self defense. No National Guardsman was indicted. Those indicted were almost without exception students and former students, and faculty of Kent State.

A few were non-students who participated in the riots.

A Criminal Act: Rioting
The indictment most commonly found against the 25 was for "rioting." The second most common was for attacking firemen who were fighting the burning R.O.T.C. building which the mob had set aflame. The Grand Jury, reviewing four days of rioting, burning and sacking, on the university campus and in downtown Kent, Ohio, charged the Administration of Kent State University with the "major responsibility for the incidents" of rioting before and during the shootings.

Because the full text of the Grand Jury report has not been widely published, we wish to devote the remainder of this column to some excerpts which we haven't seen in print: Four Days Of Rioting

"The incidents originating on North Water Street in Kent, Ohio, on Friday, May 1, 1970, and which spread to other parts of the downtown area and the university constituted a riot. (Scores of store-fronts were smashed; property damage totaled tens of thousands; police were attacked.) We find no provocation existed for the acts committed."

"We find that the rally on Commons on Saturday, May 2, 1970, which resulted in the burning of the R.O.T.C. building, constituted a riot. There can never exist any justification or valid excuse for such an act. The burning of this building was a deliberate criminal act committed by students and non-students . . . they also set fire to the archery shed and moved from there to East Main Street on the front campus where they engaged in further acts of destruction and stoned the members of the National Guard as they entered Kent."

"The Grand Jury finds that the events of Sunday, May 3, 1970, on campus and at the corner of Lincoln Street and East Main Street in Kent, Ohio, constituted a riot. (The mob destroyed property and attacked the National Guard, Kent City Police, Highway patrolmen, and members of the Portage County Sheriff's department.) Had it not been for the combined efforts of the law enforcement agencies present, further extensive damage to persons and property would have resulted in the city of Kent."

"Kill, Kill!"

"The gathering on the Commons on May 4, 1970 (which led to the shootings) was in violation of the directive of May 3rd issued by the University Vice President . . . Those who acted as participants and agitators are guilty of deliberate, criminal conduct . . . the gathering quickly degenerated into a riotous mob . . . Those who were present as cheerleaders and onlookers, while not liable for criminal acts, must morally assume a part of the responsibility for what happened."

"Fifty-eight Guardsmen were injured by rocks and other ob-

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

People with Medicare medical insurance were reminded this week that doctor bills for October, November, and December may cover their $50 annual deductible for both 1970 and 1971.

Carroll A. Jones, branch manager, explained that the annual deductible is the first 50 of covered medical expenses accumulated in a calendar year.

But there is a "carry-over" rule that helps the beneficiary who might otherwise have to pay the $50 deductible twice in a short period of time—at the end of one year and the beginning of the next year.

Medicare medical insurance, the voluntary part of Medicare that helps pay doctor bills and other health services, pays 80 per cent of covered expenses after the first $50.

"There can be no Medicare payment until a record is made that you have met your deductible. For this reason, it is a good practice as soon as your bills come to $50 to attach them to a Medicare claim form and send them to Medicare, Maryland Medical Service Inc., 7800 York Rd., Baltimore, Md. 21203," Jones said.

Jones said that anyone needing claim forms for Medicare medical insurance or information about Medicare should call the Frederick Social Security office. The telephone number is 663-5124.

National Anthem Defended

Throughout the years, there have been numerous attempts to replace the Star-Spangled Banner as the national anthem of the United States. So it was no surprise to me when I read in a newspaper recently that opera star George London, the Artistic Administrator of the Kennedy Center, has urged that the Star-Spangled Banner be replaced. Mr. London is quoted as saying, "We are stuck with a pretty bad anthem. I have always wished that we had another national anthem." He suggested that Julia Ward Howe's Civil War song, the Battle Hymn of the Republic might be a suitable replacement for the Star-Spangled Banner which he contended is difficult for most people to sing.

I do not intend to argue with Mr. London on the musical merits of the Star-Spangled Banner, but I do feel that he is out of tune with the rest of the Nation when he says we are stuck with a bad national anthem. Mr. London's talented and powerful voice has been enjoyed by opera lovers around the world, but he sounds a bit flat to me when he suggests that the national anthem should be chosen solely on the basis of octave and range. His suggestion to replace the Star-Spangled Banner is out of tune with the mood of the Nation. An anthem must be more and the Star-Spangled Banner is and, for Mr. London's benefit, I would like to run through the scales of history to refresh him on the historical background of our national anthem.

The Star-Spangled Banner was written during the bombardment of Fort Mifflin in Baltimore during the War of 1812. Francis Scott Key wrote the first stanza of the Star-Spangled Banner on the back of an envelope while witnessing the battle. The next day at Indian Queen Inn in Baltimore he wrote out the poem and gave it to his brother-in-law, Judge J. H. Nicholson. Nicholson suggested the tune, Anacreon in Heaven, and had the poem printed on broadsides, two of which survive today. On September 20, the poem appeared in the Baltimore American. The flag that Key kept watch for till the dawn's early light was made by Mary Young Pickersgill of Baltimore. Her home has been made a national historical landmark. The flag is preserved in the Smithsonian Institution.

The Star-Spangled Banner was ordered played by the military and naval services by President Wilson in 1916, as the Nation prepared to enter World War I. It was designated the national anthem by act of Congress on March 3, 1931. In doing so, the Congress ratified what was in the hearts of the Nation's citizenry. I made this recitation to point out that the Star-Spangled Banner is more than just a song. It is an epic of the courage of our ancestors during troubled times. Key would not have been in a position to witness the bombardment of Fort Mifflin had he not offered himself as a hostage in return for the freedom of a friend who was being held by the British. So, I am not in harmony with those, like Mr. London, who would replace an epic with a song. As I stated earlier I will not argue the musical merits of the Star-Spangled Banner, but I do submit John Philip Sousa's opinion of efforts to replace the Star Spangled Banner as the national anthem. Perhaps this exposure will strike a note of patriotism in their hearts and bring them into concert with those of us who cannot sing but love our national anthem just the same.

FOOTNOTES: The Ninety-Second Congress will convene at noon on January 21. President Nixon is expected to deliver his State of the Union Message to a joint session of Congress on the following day. I plan to meet with Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliott Richardson to discuss reports of the possible closing of the Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore. A tour of the hospital on January 6 made it clear to me that its closing would place tremendous pressure on other hospitals in the Baltimore area to care for patients currently treated at the PHS. Attempts to change Senate Rule 22 are expected in the opening days of the new Congress. Rule 22 provides that debate in the Senate can be cut off only by a two-thirds vote of the Senate. I favor changing the margin to three-fifths.

YAF Group Very Active In State

On November 3, 1970, the voters of New York elected James L. Buckley to represent them in the United States Senate. His Party: the Conservative Party of

New York. Now it is a commonplace among all but the most unsophisticated that third parties cannot win statewide election campaigns because of the virtual monopoly held by the major parties on persons with the skills and knowledge requisite to mount an effective campaign. Buckley was able to overcome this obstacle by turning to a vast group of youthful supporters who combined the idealistic vision common to third-party efforts with genuine political know-how—not so common in such campaigns—enabling him to compete successfully with the major parties.

Whence was this youthful experience derived? According to state leaders of Young Americans for Freedom, the answer in large part lies with their organization. In support of this assertion, the young activists proudly point to the key roles played in the campaign by former YAF leaders Dave Jones and Arnie Steinberg who served as campaign manager and press secretary respectively. They also cite the very effective youth effort led by New York YAF Chairman Herb Stupp, whose operation was compared by many reporters with the 1968 youth effort for Gene McCarthy.

Encouraged by their key role in the Buckley victory—their most spectacular success to date—YAFers across the nation are now quietly laying the groundwork for more and greater victories in the future. In Maryland, YAF currently has eighteen chartered chapters with active contacts on dozens of college and high school campuses throughout the state. A full-time field representative is currently circling the state, helping young conservatives to form chapters and get active; a development which is adding greatly to grass-roots activity.

Maryland YAF Chairman Joseph F. Balducci, Jr., reports greater acceptance among the state's young people than ever before. "I am particularly impressed with the increasing sophistication of the high school students with whom I've been talking," he said. "Many of them seem genuinely interested in YAF's positions on limited government, individual freedom, the voluntary military, and—surprisingly—the need for enforcement of a just law and a strong national defense." A 1970 graduate of Mount Saint Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Balducci noted a marked contrast in attitude between today's high school and college student. "As a rule, the high school student is far more responsive to new and different ideas than his collegiate counterpart. While this phenomenon is still rather new for definitive explanation, we in YAF aren't complaining. In fact, this is probably the most encouraging development we've had in this, the best year in Maryland YAF's ten-year history."

Another encouraging development, according to state officers, is the rising number of local YAF publications. "The Alternative" at the University of Maryland, "The Libertarian" at Towson State, "The Unhooked Spirit" at Mt. St. Mary's, and several high school undergrounds in Montgomery County—these they feel constitute YAF's best means of reaching large numbers of Maryland youths in the shortest amount of time. In addition, the state organization is currently negotiating with printers for publication of a statewide "Maryland Free Press," which Vice-chairman Tom FitzSimons, a student at Walter Johnson High School, claims "will provide our peers with one decent underground paper offering genuine alternatives to the heavy bureaucratic hand of the state."

YAF is also providing youthful, articulate speakers to interested Maryland groups. Speakers are available through Speakers Bureau Director Camille Bell, Apartment 24, 3039 Q Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Forthcoming projects include a Conference on Cold-war Strategy to be held in College Park on January 16 and a conference of high school activists to be held the following day. Featured speaker for the Cold-war meet will be Dr. Walter H. Judd, the noted former Congressman from Minnesota. Ronald F. Docksai, national YAF chairman, is among those scheduled to address the Hi-YAF students.

The YAF state office is presently preparing for extensive lobbying activity in Annapolis when the state legislature convenes in January. "We intend to work for implementation of conservative solutions to problems of concern to youth," said Wayne J. Thorburn, the group's state treasurer, who worked last session as an assistant to Senate Minority Leader Edward T. Hall. High on the list of priorities will be elimination of mandatory activity fees in the state colleges and the implementation of programs to help youths kick drug habits. The group feels this latter problem is far more prevalent than many adults realize.

The group anticipates a close working relationship this session with the state legislators on their state advisory board. These include besides Senator Hall, Senators Paul J. Bailey and Robert E. Bauman and Delegates C. A. Porter Hopkins, Richard C. Matthews, and Elmer Elmo Walters. Bauman, a former YAF national chairman, is reportedly the leading Republican contender for the seat to be vacated by Congressman Rogers C. B. Morton. Other state advisors to the group include Professors Donald J. Devine, Byron C. Hall, Walter Darnell Jacobs, Z. John Levey, George D. Quigley, and Henry Sanborn; David R. Jones, administrative assistant to Senator James L. Buckley; and public-affairs expert Lee Edwards of Chevy Chase.

Prominent members of YAF's national advisory board include columnist William F. Buckley, Jr.; Governor Ronald Reagan; Senators Barry Goldwater, James Buckley, and William Brock; and actors Lloyd Nolan, Efram Zimbalist, and John Wayne.

Little Minks With Big Fashion Flair

BIG FASHION FLAIR begins with pared down minks. The side-cloped vest (above)—in Jasmine Emba natural white mink—is the kind of small fur that makes a big statement. And the sportive look turns surprisingly formal when the vest is worn over an after-dark dress. For mink that goes everywhere you do—in style—best buy is a longer jacket (below), worked in the round, below a turned-up collar, in Autumn Haze Emba natural brown. It's the length that's worth watching—has pretty over a longer skirt as it is with pants. Watch for more fuller backs like this, too.

While no one can deny that Luxury—with a capital "L"—is never more so than in a fur that doesn't stop until it reaches the floor, not everyone can afford full-length chill-chasers.

Besides, how often can you wear a maxi mink? That kind of "drop dead" pow is okay for movie queens. But for real women, fur has got to fit a real way of life.

That means practicality, along with good looks. The combination is never better than in this year's go-everywhere Emba minks... small furs, in the prettiest pales, that live the way you do. They're the "everywear" furs—best buys for women who want to combine fashion, comfort and plain common sense.

Suiting The Issue

WHEN SPRING COMES IN LIKE A LION, suit the issue with two looks that answer the what-to-wear question. One idea: the pants-and-coat suit that are having a love affair this year. Long flared pants are worn under a long-length coat—both herring-boned within an inch of their lives. Shaped softly in lightweight wool, it's a fit that's as warm as a hug. Coat details to watch: set-in sleeves, slightly puffed, deep-notched collar and a wide leather belt holding the whole look together. THE WELL-SUITED WOMAN wears the long silhouette this year. A below-the-knee length skirt zips up the front... unzips to show a length of leg at the length you want! Up front, a cropped battle jacket is the topper—double-buttoned with long puffed sleeves that are double-buttoned again at the cuffs. For more information on coat and suit looks to watch for this Spring, write for a free booklet "Coats & Suits & You" (plus a complimentary plastic shopping bag) — Union Label Dept., ILGWU, 275 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

TRENCH TRUTHS AND TRIVIA

by Vant Neff

Hospitality heave-ho: It has become the "in" thing for "on-the-outs" individuals to flee the country and seek refuge in other places. But the "host" nations have become quickly disillusioned. Some are giving the rabble-rousers short notice to leave. To wit:

- Drug cult high priest, former Harvard prof and escaped convict, Timothy Leary, was only permitted a brief stay in Lebanon. He returned to Algeria. Informants report that the authorities there would snatch at any excuse to deport him.
• The Australians refused a visitor's visa to left-wing Black American comedian, Dick Gregory, who is vociferously and vitriolically anti-Vietnam. Why? His visit there would have coincided with an anti-Vietnam protest, and the Aussies were wise enough to stifle an incendiary situation before it had a chance to blaze up into a four-alarm disaster.
• The British Government told American Yippie leader, Jerry Rubin, to get out fast, after he and his gang had shouted four-letter words on a TV show, and pulled other familiar radical tricks. The Irish wouldn't have him, either.
• No country wants known trouble-makers. With more deportation, the culprits still got off lightly. Can you imagine what would happen to them in a Communist country? Americans, we're far too lenient with these dedicated rabble rousers!

them in office. So the next time you discover that another law has been passed which gives more power to labor leaders, to the detriment of the man-in-the-street, remember that it may have been bought and paid for. This legal loop-hole is the source of union political power.

Under the guise of "promoting peace", the Russians are duping the world. At the arms limitation discussions, they demand that we cut our defense preparedness to the bone. Yet all the while aren't they themselves quietly amassing the biggest army, navy, air force and nuclear capability in the entire history of the world?

Wiser heads than mine have credited the many railroad crises that have gripped our country—including the troubles of the now-bankrupt Penn Central Railroad—in part to the archaic make-work rules and flagrant feather-bedding of the unions. Feather-bedding has been anathema to the railroad companies ever since the diesel replaced the steam engine. Now, does an engine that burns no coal need a fireman to shovel the non-existent coal? Hardly! Yet the firemen's United Transportation Union insisted that the firemen ride the trains just as they did before, and be paid for it. Costs went up. The railroad industry and traveling Americans suffered. How the firemen in their own consciences ever justified this workless "work" in our productive society, I'll never understand.

At long last, Washington is attempting to pull the emergency brake on this and similar blatant misuses of union power by phasing out the firemen's jobs as soon as they are vacated. Of course, this is the slow road to achieving the goal and meanwhile, the long-suffering public continues to foot the bill for featherbedding in the form of higher passenger fares and freight rates. However, Mr. Nixon and his emergency board deserve a vote of thanks for starting the ball rolling.

Pessimistic prediction: If we can't make certain that the Communists are not building missile and submarine bases in Cuba just 90 miles from our shores—we may soon have nothing left worth protecting.

May I remind both the "hawks" and the "doves" that the crux of the problem in South Vietnam is not who will rule, but rather, whom the people want to rule. The sanest definition of the situation yet, in my book, comes from American Ambassador to India, Kenneth B. Keating, who stated the ultimate condition for ending the war this way: "That the valiant, war weary people of South Vietnam be allowed to choose the kind of government, be it free or otherwise." I am sure that any objective person will agree with his premise.

Budget tip: That supposedly free national health insurance plan in the offing isn't "free" at all. It was dreamed up by Leonard Woodcock, mentor of the General Motors strike that put such a serious crimp in the nation's economy, in cahoots with Teddy Kennedy and other free-spending senators. Economists assert that the plan would cost the average family $1000 a year. Remember, it's your $1000 they're spending—the money will come out of your taxes, and mine! Maybe the top-rung commission set up by the United States Chamber of Commerce to delve into our country's health care needs can prescribe the right medicine. But this outrageously costly plan, as it stands now, simply isn't the best remedy, in my mind. People would have to be really sick, or rich as Croesus, to fall for it. If you don't want to spend $1000 a year for this compulsory health insurance, write to your Congressman without delay and let him know how you feel about it before the "free" plan becomes just one more bitter financial pill that you're forced to swallow.

Ironic twist: Isn't it the same young radicals who claim to be anti-war who are in the forefront of the anti-police vendetta, shouting "Kill the Pigs!" at every demonstration and protest march?

1,600 Delegates to Show 'We Care' at 4-H Congress

High point of the 4-H year for 1,600 teens is near at hand. National 4-H Congress is the event and it will bring the young people to Chicago, Nov. 29 through Dec. 3.

The program theme "We Care" offers the teen delegates opportunities to focus their attention on the concerns of youths, society and their environment.

Delegates to National 4-H Congress earn the right to attend. Nearly all receive expense-paid trips to the event given by 4-H donors through the National 4-H Service Committee. The programs are supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

On hand to provide recognition, inspiration and entertainment are the representatives of 60 donors which sponsor 4-H programs. During the five-day event they present nearly 250 school trips ranging in value from $100 to $1,600.

Among the first-time donors of scholarships are Allied Mills Foundation, The Upjohn Company and Santa Fe-Gulf Central Pip-line Company.

Other donors of scholarships are: Amchem Products, Inc.; The Campbell Soup Company; John Deere; Eastman Kodak Company; General Foods Corporation; Merck & Co., Inc.; The S&H Foundation, Inc.; Edwin T. Meredith Foundation; The West Bend Company, and The Wraether Corporation.

ware, A Division of Dart Industries, Inc. The company sponsors a concert by the "Establishment." And Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen of Chicago provides a visual remembrance of National 4-H Congress to each participating state.

National 4-H Congress delegates meet their Canadian counterparts as 10 delegates, one from each province, complete an exchange program sponsored by International Minerals & Chemical Corporation.

Throughout its 49-year history, National 4-H Congress has coincided with the International Live Stock Exposition. This year Elanco Products Company, a Division of Eli Lilly and Company, provides awards in the National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest held at the International.

National 4-H Congress marks the culmination of years of work by young Americans. It reflects their excitement, actions, interests, appreciation and dedication. And it focuses on their deep concern as citizens of a democracy and the nation's future guardians.

Throughout the year 4-H donors provide technical assistance, program support through publications and visuals and in other ways give added dimension to the 4-H program. Among these donors are The Stanley Works and E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company.

Information about opportunities for 4-H membership and leadership is available at each county extension office.

State Snow Removal Huge Task

If you approach the task of cleaning off your driveway after a winter snowstorm with much trepidation, imagine what it would be like to have the responsibility of keeping 5,200 miles of State highway open to traffic during and after the snow hits.

The State Roads Commission has this responsibility and it meets it with a force of 1,400 men and 1,111 pieces of equipment to battle the elements. The objective of this force is to keep the 5,200 miles of State highways, the major and most heavily-traveled routes, open to traffic.

In addition, the SRC stocks 100,000 tons of salt and 2,000 tons of calcium chloride to spread on highway surfaces for melting purposes.

The old motto of "Be Prepared" applies here. "The secret of keeping highways clear," according to David Fisher, Chairman-Director of the State Roads Commission, "is to attack the problem early, before the snow starts laying in any substantial amount."

For that reason, he says, the SRC has available two weather services: the United States Weather Bureau and the Northeast Weather Service, a private unit to which the SRC subscribes.

Specific snow fighting plans are drawn up well in advance so that men and equipment are assigned to specific sections of highway in a snow alert situation.

Equipment available includes:
—540 State-owned trucks equipped with snow plows and material spreaders.

—350 hired trucks equipped with snow plows.
—72 road graders equipped with plows.

—132 front-end loaders.
—17 giant snow blowers.

In charge of operations directly under William L. Shook, Assistant Chief Engineer for Maintenance, is C. E. Caltrider, Chief, Bureau of Highway Maintenance. When storms are suspected, snow control centers go into operation in the SRC's seven engineering districts in all sections of the State. From these points, all pieces of equipment are kept in radio contact with the headquarters so that their operators can report progress or additional equipment can be dispatched to unusual trouble spots.

Bad winter weather can be a costly item. Last year, for example, snow removal cost $4,340,190, somewhat above the five-year annual average of $3,337,553.

The State Roads Commission is dedicated to bare pavement maintenance on the bulk of Maryland's Interstate and primary mileage. This means that after the snow stops, a period of approximately two hours at the most, the objective is for these routes to be completely free of snow or ice.

The SRC, with the approval of County authorities, has designated a total of 3,036 miles of State highway as snow emergency routes. Vehicles using these highways during a snow emergency must be equipped with snow tires or chains.

To aid the motorist in winter driving, the SRC offers the following rules and tips for safe snow driving which it feels are basic:

1. Winterize your car.

A. Lights. To drive and survive, you need to see and be seen. Be sure all lights are burning brightly. Don't just check and forget; check periodically. Keep the lenses clean, too. They affect the brightness.

B. Cooling System. Check for leaks, weak or broken hoses and connections. Periodically the quantity and quality of coolant. A frozen radiator is annoying; so is one that is overheated.

C. Battery. Keep it filled. A low battery not only goes dead; it can freeze.

D. Windshield and wipers. The windshield gets dirty very quickly and cuts the visibility. Good wiper blades won't scratch, and they perform better than worn out ones. Where your car is equipped with a windshield washer, check the reservoir too.

E. Lubrication. Winter driving is tough on a car, what with moisture, chemicals and general dirt being liberally distributed. Neglect of lubrication can soon ruin a piece of fine machinery.

F. Exhaust System. Check it out for leaks. The stink of fumes is bad enough, but there is carbon monoxide, too, and it will kill. If you can smell exhaust fumes in the car, you need to find out why.

G. Tires. Snow tires are needed; and not just any snow tires, but good ones. Snow tires can lull you into a false sense of security if the treads are not deep, clear and sharp. Worn snow tires can let you down badly. Inflate the tires to the proper pressure; remember, letting air out of the rear tires doesn't buy you anything.

H. Brakes. Have them in good shape to start with and keep them free from accumulated snow and ice.

I. Steering. Watch that caked snow under the front fenders. It can build up enough to interfere with the steering.

2. Provide yourself with a functional window scraper, preferably on about a two foot handle. It's amazing how many people don't completely clear the windshield and rear window because they don't want to get snowy trying to reach with a short-handed toy.

3. Get a god set of chains. The rules say snow tires or chains. What they don't say is that sometimes you need both. It's just a little added insurance and very worthwhile if you hit really bad going.

4. Don't race the engine and spin the wheels. You just bury yourself and burn up rubber. Better to take it easy and keep traction. If you get in too deep, use the shovel you should have in your car.

5. Remember the road is slippery. Your snow tires will help you start, but they won't help you stop to any great extent, nor keep you from skidding. Sudden changes of speed or direction can throw you into a skid. Change your speed and direction tenderly.

6. Don't out-drive your visibility. This is particularly true in a snow storm or in fog. Lots of people do out-drive their visibility, and this spells trouble—anytime.

7. Don't be afraid to turn on your lights. You need to see and be seen. Just keep two things in mind: (1) Parking lights are for parking, not for driving, and (2) your high beams will bounce back at you and give you no help in a snowstorm or in fog.

8. Realize that maintenance crews are on the road salting and/or plowing. These men are doing a rough, tough job for you, and doing it in the best and safest possible manner. Give them a break and don't go slamming into their equipment. You can't win the argument anyhow, and it just slows them down. Besides, you can get killed. Learn what types of equipment are in use and give them plenty of room.

9. Bridges freeze faster than roads. Some people either forget this, or don't believe it to start with. Don't learn this lesson the hard way.

10. Keep your tank at least 1/4 full of gas; 1/2 is better. There are times when you will be delayed by deep snow or scrambled traffic, and you'll want to keep the engine running for heat. This chews up gas at an alarming rate, and you want to be prepared.

11. Last and best—stay home. If you can possibly avoid driving under snow conditions, do so.

You'll stay younger longer, and you just might live longer.

Mineral Magic

UP, UP AND AWAY

WHEN MARCO POLO RETURNED FROM CATHAY, HE BROUGHT NEWS OF A STRANGE CLOTH WHICH WHEN "PUT INTO THE FIRE," WAS DRAWN OUT UNAFECTED AND BECAME "WHITE AS SNOW" LIKE MANY OTHERS, EVEN BEFORE HIS TIME, HE HAD SEEN THE "MAGIC MINERAL" WE CALL ASBESTOS.

BACK IN THE 19th CENTURY, ASBESTOS FIBERS WERE WOVEN INTO CLOTH FOR A FIREPROOF BALLOON. IT WAS INFLATED WITH A SPIRIT LAMP ATTACHED TO THE NECK. THE PAREDEVIL PILOT CLAIMED HIS BALLOON WOULD GO UP, UP AND AWAY SIMPLY BY TURNING THE LAMP UP HIGH.

TODAY, ASBESTOS WORKS ITS MAGIC IN PROTECTING US WHERE WE LIVE AND WORK. FIREPROOF, VIRTUALLY MAINTENANCE FREE, WITH THE PERMANENCE OF STONE, THE "MAGIC MINERAL" SAFEGUARDS ALL KINDS OF STRUCTURES, FROM FARM AND HOME TO HIGH-RISE APARTMENT AND OFFICE BUILDINGS.

Acting Makes Her World Go Round!

What happens when an actress plays a part over and over again? Eileen Fulton, known as Lisa in the television serial AS THE WORLD TURNS, has found out that more likely than not, people will mistake the actress for the character.

For more than ten years, Eileen has portrayed amnesia victim Lisa. Recently she was recognized by a well-dressed couple, and during the ensuing conversation, the wife cautioned her husband not to ask too personal a question because "she's suffering from amnesia and it might cause a mental setback." Eileen has also made her mark in the night club and theatrical worlds — at one time she was simultaneously appearing on the TV serial in the afternoon, in the off-Broadway play "The Fantasticks" nightly, and in matinee performances of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf" on Broadway.

Lately she has entered the realm of literature with her best-selling autobiography, How My World Turns. Eileen's own life is very much like a TV drama. Reared as a minister's daughter, she struggled to be free — to be herself. Her action-packed and amusing story tells how she earned her hard-won freedom and fame as an actress. Eileen's candid story of how she succeeded in something every woman can identify with — especially the dreams of a young girl who wanted fame and glamour. The world really has been a stage for Eileen Fulton, and How My World Turns discusses the anecdotes of the theatrical world — everything from the problems of being an actress to the choice of costumes to special acting techniques. For Eileen, acting always will make her world go round.

Prospects For Glass Container Industry

By Babson's Reports, incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass.—From the sharp reversals suffered this year by glass container stocks, it might be concluded that the industry's sales and earnings outlook is discouraging indeed. The truth is, however, that despite a sluggish profits picture last year, 1971 sales and earnings for the industry's big three — Anchor Hocking, Owens-Illinois, and Brockway—are likely to set new records. Combination of a slowing economy, rising costs of operations, and trucking strikes has taken a good-sized bite out of 1970 profits, but a new round of price increases and a somewhat more optimistic business atmosphere should help bring about this year's anticipated improvement.

Rivalry From Plastic

In addition to anxiety over labor differences—now largely settled—glass container issues have been under pressure from the conviction that plastic containers are on the way toward making glass containers obsolete. This view gained weight when two of the soft drink giants, Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola, test-marketed their beverages packaged in plastic bottles. Consumer reaction in the test cities appears to have been generally favorable, and some plastic industry people look for volume output of plastic bottles in three to five years.

A big advantage of plastic over glass for container material is its lightness, which means substantial freight savings. The current high cost of turning out plastic bottles, however, makes the three-to-five-year projection a tenuous one at best. Also, plastic containers have a tougher time meeting the regulations of the Food and Drug Administration regarding absorption of toxic components into the product than does glass. In any event, it will be a few years at least before competition from plastic containers materially affects profits growth of the makers of glass bottles.

Ban On One-Way Bottles

Perhaps a more immediate threat to the glass container industry lies in the mounting sentiment for a nationwide ban on one-way cans and glass bottles for beer and soft drinks. In recent drastic anti-litter moves, lawmakers in Bowie, Maryland and Richland County, Wisconsin passed legislation prohibiting local sale of beverages in glass, metal, or plastic one-way containers. A major factor in the growth of the glass container industry in recent years has been strong consumer demand for non-returnable beverage bottles. A nationwide ban on one-way containers could put a real crimp in the glass industry's growth.

It is, of course, still questionable whether this type of legislation will become widespread. As of now, chances favor a somewhat more moderate course,—perhaps a tax or surcharge on the one-way container rather than a universal ban. One approach to the litter problem could be recycling of used bottles and jars; but real near-term progress in this process is un-

What Lies Ahead

Assuming that one-way glass bottles are not prohibited by Congress and that the technical and cost problems of plastic bottles are not immediately overcome, the glass container industry should show better growth in the period ahead than it has in the past. Aided by increased consumer demand for such convenience features as non-returnables with easy-open tops, the industry should grow at an annual rate of about 6%, up from a 4.9% average from 1963 to 1968.

In the opinion of the Research Staff of Babson's Reports, current prices of the common stocks of leading manufacturers of glass containers adequately discount the negative factors. Thus, we recommend that investors hold Anchor Hocking and Owens-Illinois. While Brockway Glass is not at this time among the issues our researchers regularly supervise, the common stock of this company also appears to be well worth holding.

Basketball Benefit Game Scheduled

The second annual basketball for "Heart" is scheduled for Saturday, January 16, between the Maryland State Police team and the Frederick City Police team at Governor Thomas Johnson High School at 7:30 p.m., according to Ronald E. Summers, chairman of Special Events for the Frederick County Heart Association.

Tfc. Paul R. Sanders is captain again this year of the State Police team and co-captains of the Frederick City Police team are Barry W. Horner and Richard W. Eyer.

Currently the holder of the trophy is the Maryland State Police team who will be trying to retain it another year.

A basketball will be given as a door prize.

Tickets for this event are $1.00 for adults and 50c for students, and these are available at the City Police Headquarters, the Maryland State Police Barracks, and the Frederick County Heart Association office at 116 East Patrick St. All tickets sold at the door that evening will be $1.00 per person.

"The importance of the Heart Fund is evident," Mr. Summers pointed out, "when we realize that sixty per cent of the funds are used locally to provide low cost penicillin for Rheumatic Fever patients; transportation to clinics and work evaluation units; aid for rehabilitation of stroke patients; diet booklets for heart and stroke patients to help prevent recurrence, and Heart information and counseling for heart surgery cases."

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Charity E. Kaas, who passed away Sept. 13, 1970.

Mother, Jan. 9 is your birthday. I know you are enjoying your just award in heaven with God.

I miss you so much, that words cannot express my sorrow since you passed on.

I miss your sweet smile and kind words which you always had.

That Sunday morning still seems like a bad dream, and seems like it could not be so.

My tears I still shed for you, but I know you are at home with God, who you loved so much.

Your loving son,
Dan

joyable evening for all. The winners in the raffle held in conjunction with the games were: David Harbaugh, $50; Ralph Long, $25; James Harner, $10, and Fr. King, $5. The Evening of Games was the first of a series to be held by St. Joseph's Parish.

PTA To Hear Trooper

The Emmitsburg Public School PTA will have Cpl. Harbaugh of the Maryland State Police speak on, "As A Parent How Can I Help With the Drug Situation?" in the school auditorium, January 27 at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend and urged to do so as this is a most informative talk.

Son Born
Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tyler, Washington, D. C., announce the birth of a son on Jan. 9. Mrs. Tyler is the former Linda Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Myers, East Main St., Emmitsburg. The Tylers are also the parents of two daughters, Lisa and Michelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lingg have moved into their new home in Emmitsburg during the past week.

Prior to 1922, javelina were not classed as game animals, but when their numbers dwindled to an alarming low, due to indiscriminate hunting, they were placed on the protected list.—Sports Afield. The Tylers are also the parents of two daughters, Lisa and Michelle.—Sports Afield.

Summer In Winter

When it comes to vacation places, some like 'em hot, while others like 'em cold — but the smartest vacationer gets away from it all by summering in winter. Whether it's a cruise or a short hop via jet to some hot spot, these clever planners make their getaway good by escaping the chill winds and snows back home.

Where to go? Depends on your location and your budget. If you live on or near the East coast, Florida, Puerto Rico and Bermuda are just a hop, skip and a jump away. If you live in the mid-west, there's California... and if you live in California... well, there's always Hawaii.

What to take? Summerwear, lightweight, of course, with plenty of bathing suits—since you don't want to be forever washing them out for the next day. A broad-brimmed hat and some wigs or hairpieces are life-savers, too, for wet, limp locks.

Bring along plenty of Secret of the Sea Suntan Lotion for tender winter skin unused to the sun's glare. This greaseless, non-sticky, non-staining lotion contains a new scientific screen to effectively filter out harmful rays and permit even tanning. What's more, Secret of the Sea Suntan Lotion contains precious emollients that soothe your thirsty epidermis, leave skin soft and supple.

This Winter, follow the sun for your vacation. If you treat it with respect, you'll come back looking like a beautiful sunworshipper.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day
One Saturday in May

The 97th Kentucky Derby will be run this year on May 1, and it will cost more to start a horse. The entry box fee has been upped from $500 to $1,000. The original nominations will close on February 15 at $100 each. Last year 193 horses were nominated, 17 started, and the winner, Dust Commander, earned $127,800.

Dust Commander had cost Robert E. Lehmann $6,500 at the yearling sales. A bargain? Yes, but Owner Lehmann had bought six others at the same sales paying $49,000 for the lot and the other six "haven't done anything much." He had, at the time, 16 home-bred yearlings on the farm, aptly named Golden Chance, near Paris, Kentucky.

PTA TO MEET

St. Joseph's High School PTA will meet Tuesday evening, January 19 at 7:30 o'clock. Among other important items of business, will be plans for the March bazaar. After the business meeting, Mr. Harry Otterson will present a film and discuss the dangers of drugs. The program promises to be interesting and informative.

This does not apply to any stamps purchased at our office, for we did not handle the 'Pre-concealed' stamps.

It is very important that everyone review their return address, especially during this time of Income Tax Filings and expected refund checks, to see that it is correct, according to the Post Office.

Do you use the correct route number and box number? In the case of having a Post Office Lockbox (P.O.B.), do you use your number, as part of your address? Lutherans To Hear New Organ Jan. 24

Prior to the service on Sunday, January 10 at Elias Lutheran Church, Pastor W. Ronald Faerer announced that the Moller Pipe Organ that had served the congregation for fifty-five years, had been dismantled in preparation for the new Moller Organ that has been purchased. Souvenir pipes were presented to Congregational leaders and Presidents.

The recipient of the first pipe was Mr. Clarence Hahn, who served as the first congregational president and is Chairman of the Organ Fund. Other congregational presidents receiving pipes were: Mr. John Reaves, Mr. Robert R. Saylor, Mr. Donald Eyer and Mr. Roscoe Shindledecker. Others honored were Miss Ruth Shuff, former organist who served more than forty years, and Mrs. Donald Eyer, current organist. The present Deacons of the congregation were also presented with specially selected pipes as well as the Adult Choir of the Church, which led the congregation in Worship for the Epiphany Communion Service. At the conclusion of the service, each family present chose a pipe to take home as a memento of the occasion. The new organ, which is being installed this week, will be ready for use Sunday, January 24.

Youth Discusses Pollution Problems

In today's world man has reached extreme technical advances. Men are landing on the moon, man is controlling the energy of the atom, and man is destroying his environment. Man is not destroying his world with bombs and missiles, but with pollution. Man has forgotten that he can not survive without our natural resources and he is polluting them, thus destroying them. It is up to the future generation to save our natural resources. If the future generation is to save them, they must know and understand the problems. And obey what conservation laws exist.

One type of pollution that exists, that you may not consider pollution, is litter. Litter not only destroys the beauty of our country. It also creates a hazard to motorists. Litter and garbage laying on the road may cause a motorist to have an accident while trying to avoid hitting the garbage. Litter and garbage thrown on the roads and in our woods is also dangerous to wildlife. Many types of litter such as the back of a polaroid picture, are poisonous to many kinds of animals. Littering also creates a health hazard because places where there is a large accumulation of litter is a breeding ground for rats and other disease-carrying rodents.

There are laws that forbid littering and if anyone is caught littering in the State of Maryland, it is a $200 fine.

Two other major pollution problems are air and water pollution. Today our streams, rivers and even oceans are becoming polluted. This is causing fish and plant life in the rivers, streams and oceans to die. The water is not only killing the fish and plants that live in the water but it is also poisoning other animals that drink and get their food from the water. Today our waterways are becoming a floating garbage heap. The reason for this pollution of our streams, rivers and oceans is because large industries and disposal plants are dumping chemicals and untreated waste materials into our rivers.

There are laws that forbid the dumping of waste into our water system but unfortunately the laws are not strong enough and they are not enforced.

The other pollution problem just as serious as water pollution is air pollution. Air pollution is so bad in many large cities, that doctors are telling many of their patients with a respiratory ailment to leave the city if they want to live long. Even in our small community we have air pollution. Look out at our mountains and you can see smoke rolling over the valley most of the time. And on days when it is overcast, you smell an offensive odor in the air which comes from industry in the surrounding area.

The main producers of air pollution are large factories and car exhaust. Car exhaust is a form of pollution because of the carbon dioxide it has in it. The carbon dioxide is caused by burning the lead that is put in the gas. There has been a large step taken in the fight against air pollution. This is that most of the large gas companies are taking the lead out of the gas. This will cut down the carbon dioxide in the air. To also cut down on air pollution, large industries must be forced by law to put devices on their smoke stacks to prevent the small solid particles and gases from going into the atmosphere. You can help stop air and water pollution by writing your congressman and urging him to vote for strong pollution control.

The last conservation problem I want to talk about in this report is our wildlife. Like all our own natural resources, once our wildlife is destroyed, it can never be replaced or brought back. That is why it is so important that we protect our wildlife by obeying the hunting and fishing laws. Many scientists say that our world is already so polluted that in 20 to 30 years man will have destroyed himself and his world. I do not believe this. I feel that it is up to the younger generation to save the world from pollution. By making other people aware of the pollution problem and by seeing that laws are passed and enforced, that will put a stop to pollution.

Middle School Student Government Holds Meeting

Perry Wivell opened the Emmitsburg Middle School Student Council meeting recently in the library. Wando Ott took roll call and read the minutes, which needed no corrections or additions.

The council debated on the school sweaters and decided they wanted the gold-tone, V-neck style, which will cost four dollars apiece. The representatives will get the orders from the classes.

The 8th grade representative, Bobby Fitz, asked about the amount of money donated toward the water cooler. So far the seventh and eighth grades have donated a total of $59.89. Teresa Kooztz, the fifth grade representative, said that their class was having the Christmas dance on Wed., Dec. 23, from 1:15 to 3:20.

The sixth grade hopes to have a skating party later in the year.

The seventh grade recommended having an honor roll. Bonnie Gore, Frank Davis, and Bob Fitz were appointed as a committee to work on this recommendation. The student council then went through the suggestion box. The main suggestions were to get a Coke machine, which the majority of the students want, and to establish an honor roll.

Mrs. Polley suggested that the Student Council and Patrol go together and have a "Toys For Tots" drive. The representatives will explain this idea to their classes. The president then adjourned the meeting.

Mrs. Esther Gillelan has returned to her home on East Main St., after visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kelly and family of Dundalk.

Guests Visit Homemakers

Eleven members and five guests of the Emmitsburg Homemaker's Club enjoyed a Christmas Luncheon Party at Cozy Restaurant in December. After the meal the group exchanged gifts and joined in singing Christmas carols. They were accompanied by Mrs. Harold Wantz at the piano. Two readings, "Keeping Christmas," by Henry Van Dyke, and "He's Alive in My Heart," by Mildred Elliott, were given by Mrs. Victor Fiery and Mrs. Elmer Fuss. The outgoing president, Mrs. Luther Cregger was presented a lovely floral arrangement in recognition of her fine leadership the past two years.

As she graciously accepted the gift, Mrs. Cregger gave a word of thanks to the club members for their support and help during her tenure and she also expressed encouragement to the incoming president by sharing with her some of her experiences, both good and

GULF COAST DISASTER AREA—When vicious Hurricane Camille tore into the Mississippi and Louisiana Gulf Coast, thousands found shelter, food, and clothing in hundreds of Red Cross shelters such as this. Designated the official disaster agency for the nation, the American Red Cross will be providing emergency care and long-term assistance for all those who need it. Red Cross hopes to raise a minimum of $15,000,000 for Gulf hurricane relief. More fortunate Americans can aid Red Cross in this gigantic humanitarian task by sending their contributions, small or large, to the nearest Red Cross chapter.
