- By Abigail -

Early this week folks up at the square, and other folks not too close to the square, complained about muddy water drawn from the tap. The samples I saw did look a little cloudy and I understand that a few gentlemen had to shave in freshly drawn water that looked a little used. Rumor had it that the cause was the change over in supply from the well to Rainbow Lake because a pump needed some repair work. Seems to me there ought to be some way to flush out a water line before it is used on a regular basis, if that is the cause. Maybe the Town Water Commissioner can figure out how this can be done so we won't get muddy water again when they change back to the well.

The flower boxes on Main Street are looking right pretty this summer. Many people seem to be taking greater interest in keeping them up and making our town more pleasing to the eyes of visitors. I think it is just great, more people ought to do the same so Emmitsburg will become known as the flower capital of Frederick County. I saw one or two men painting their houses a day or so ago. No doubt they are on vacation and the little woman won't let them rest. Oh well, it's a job that has to be done and it sure helps everyone else to have property kept up. It has been said that the best kind of rest is to find another kind of work to do, so maybe the men are benefiting more than we know, but I think the little woman should let them have one or two days to go fishing if they haven't been.

I've also seen some residents who live around the square working on their sidewalks. It looks to me like they are trying to get a jump on the Commissioners and those letters we have been promised. I even saw someone cleaning out the grass grown into the sidewalk near the Chronicle Office. It sure is a big improvement to have sidewalks look as neat and tidy as possible. Now all we need is to finish the repairs to the broken concrete.

The States are becoming an "inch-pound" island in the world as all the other countries change over to the metric system of measurement. All the world has changed or is changing with the exception of Barbados, Burma, Gambia, Liberia, Muscat, Oman, Nauru, Sierra Leone, Southern Yemen, Tonga and Trinidad. That puts us right in there with the world powers on this issue. I suppose it won't be long before the government finds some way to make a new bureaucracy out of weights and measures which will give them a reason to get us changed over, too bad we can't go down to the store and buy a metric ruler and let that handle it. One of the biggest advantages of the metric system is that frequently it operates using the decimal system which means that we can multiply by ten rather than twelve or some other number. The International Metric System has six basic units, meters, kilograms, seconds, amperes, degrees Celsius (centigrade) and candelas. A meter is 39.37 inches. A kilogram is about 2.2 pounds. To find the number of meters in 3.5 kilometers you multiply by 1,000 and get 3,500. Compare this with multiplying 3.5 miles by 5,280 and then 12 to get the number of inches in a mile.

Leasing land to individuals or groups for recreational purposes is getting to be big business. Rural land owners benefit by such arrangements since rentals provide income to help cover property taxes and improvements. The groups

PTA Group Has First 1971 Meeting

The first meeting of the executive committee of the Emmitsburg School PTA was held Wednesday, August 11 in the school library. The group established plans for organization of a citizens committee to work with the architect in planning the new school building. Mr. Meade Felton, Assistant to the Superintendent, assigned as staff member to work with this committee, was present to advise on the organization process. The first meeting for the citizens' committee was set for Sept. 1 at 7:30.

In other action, the executive committee voted to appoint a representative if necessary to work with other area parent teacher organizations in looking into the use of funds remaining in the Catoctin construction account.

Deep concern was voiced over the student teacher ratio in the elementary school for the coming year. Mr. Richard Van Tries, principal, advised that he has been working to secure another position and if the projected enrollment materializes, the school will be given another teacher.

A short tour of the gymnasium was taken to view the work being done on the ceiling and the new drapes.

Sister Mary Goes To Graduate School

Sister Mary Anthony, a member of the faculty of Saint Joseph's High School, recently returned from Graduate Summer School at Millersville State College, Millersville, Pa. Attending the six-week French courses with Sister Mary Anthony were one hundred twelve students from seventeen states, including California and Alaska. All students were obliged to speak French at all times. To meet this requirement, French students occupied a separate dining hall, with a native speaking professor at each table.

In the evenings cultural events were an integral part of the program, which included song fests, lectures, films, trips, games, folk dancing, and student assemblies. Much of what Sister Mary Anthony learned and enjoyed during the summer will be shared with her students during the coming school year.

School Plant And Curriculum Is New

Saint Joseph's High School has planned new and modern developments both in the physical plant and in the Curriculum of the School. The plan resulted in the employment of contractors, interior decorators, painters, carpenters, and landscapers to merge their arts in the creation of not only a colorful attractive interior face, but also an appropriate and comfortable learning center.

Important as the improvements in the physical plant may be, of far greater importance were the projected implementations for the Curriculum. In conjunction with the latter, Sister Jerome, Provincial Councillor for Education, and Sister Elaine, Principal, scheduled a Workshop, July 22, for the members of the faculty.

Out-of-town educators joined forces with the faculty of Saint Joseph's High School to share the experiences of their own innovative endeavors.

Nellie Sites

Hello! I have never tried any sort of reporting or writing before so I am a bit nervous about this venture. My friend Phyl Kessler said, "You can do it—I know you can." Well, thanks for the vote of confidence, Phyl, but I'm not as sure as you sound. You all know Phyl. Her husband is Guy Kessler, half of Guy and Neal service station in Emmitsburg. Well, I might as well stop standing on the shore and jump into this—with some news.

The Fairfield Mennonite Church held its picnic on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Benner last Sunday. Looked like it was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fresh and family, Billy, Paul, Joanne, and Jean, have returned from a vacation trip to Bethany Beach, Del.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Luke Clapsadl on the birth of a son last week.

We are glad to welcome Edwin and Eleanor Adams back to Fairfield. The Adams' used to live in Fairfield several years ago and now have bought Mrs. Anna Neely's house on Main St. Mrs. Neely has moved into an apartment in Gettysburg. Although we miss Mrs. Neely, we are glad she sold to "home folk."

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kessler and son, Bob, and Mr. Douglas Newman, are vacationing in Virginia Beach, Va., this week.

Jeff Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman, has returned from a visit with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Pine, Woodbridge, Va.

The Kittinger family reunion was held at the Fairfield Fire Hall Sunday. Among the more than one hundred relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kittinger, Kentucky. Mr. Kittinger is the family historian. Mr. and Mrs. Kittinger spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. James Donaldson, Jr.

When I was about ten years old, my parents and I moved near the Aaron Peiffer family. From then until adulthood I spent more time in their home than my own. I felt like a member of this large family and was treated as such. Pop scolded me when I needed it and helped me with my school lessons, which I always needed. Mama told me the facts of life along with her own girls. Through the years we have sort of drifted apart except for Christmas cards and an occasional letter. I was invited to their family reunion Sunday and what a wonderful time I had. To renew old friendships and meet the newer members of the family was something I will remember for a long time. Why is it that we neglect visiting people who mean so much to us and let precious friendships slip away from us? Why don't you write a letter or go visit someone you have not seen or heard from for awhile?

Happy belated wedding anniversary greetings to: Dr. and Mrs. James Hammett, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Benner, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kump.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crist are visiting their son, Richard, at Ft. Collins, Colo.

Mrs. Dora Donaldson has returned from a business trip to Puerto Rico.

Thomas Steinberger and children, Cammy, Tommy and Johnny, visited Enchanted Forest recently. I am told they had a marvelous time and the weather was great. I recommend this trip to any of you young and young-at-heart, if you have never been there. My son, Terry, and daughter, Darlene and I took Darlene's three kids there a couple of weeks ago. Of course we only went because of the little one, but, confidentially, Grandma enjoyed visiting Snow White, Cinderella, Robinson Crusoe and the rest every bit as much as the children.

The annual Sites reunion was held at South Mountain Fairgrounds recently with almost one hundred attending. Some of the prizes won were by Mrs. Alma Hardman for the largest family present, and by Mr. and Mrs. Mack Sites for the couple married the longest.

Guest minister at St. John's Lutheran Church Sunday was Dimitri Dominik, a student at Gettysburg Seminary. Next Sunday Dr. Ivan Sterner will conduct the service. Dr. Sterner is taking care of all pastoral duties while Pastor and Mrs. Seiler and family are taking a well earned vacation.

Something to keep in mind—The Southwest Civic Assn. is having a picnic Sunday, August 29. If you live in Fairfield borough, Liberty, or Hamilton Township, you are a member of the Association so hope to see you there. Will remind you about it next week.

Happy belated birthday to Mr. Carroll Linebaugh.

Mrs. Robert Singley, Lancaster, Pa., spent three days recently with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert McCleaf, Main St.

Local Boy Scout Troop 76 spent Aug. 6 to 8 camping along the Potomac River. They were accompanied by their scoutmaster, Bob Fissel and Jack Weatherly.

William Brent, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brent, R2, has joined the U. S. Marine Corps and is stationed at Paris Island, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lynn, Fairfield R2, have received word that their son, Frankie, has arrived safely in Okinawa. His address is Airman Gary F. Lynn, 190-365880, Det. No. 1, 623 AC J

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Kessler, Hershey, Pa., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bunting.

James Landis, Jr., Fairfield, and Jerry Fickes, Shippensburg, have returned from a one week vacation to Wisconsin and Michigan. Some of the places they visited were the Kaiser-Frazer Museum and the Railway Museum.

The Kane Cousins, which include Julie, Rickie, Timmie, Laurie and Cindy Orner, and Ellen and Brian Lowe, held a very successful carnival on the lawn of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kane recently. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Orner and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Lowe. They must have put a lot of work into this affair and are to be commended for their efforts. They netted $45 which they gave to the Youth Center. Congratulations, Kids, and parents, too.

Get well wishes to Mr. Ed Brandt, Mrs. Helen Cunningham and Mrs. Maybelle McClain, who are patients at Annie Warner Hospital. Glad to hear Mrs. Ray Strayer is home after being a patient in the Waynesboro Hospital.

That's all for this week. If any of you have any news or opinions, I hope you will call me at 642-8481 or write me a line. See you next week.

Crop And Livestock Outlook

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., Aug. 19, 1971—Our latest Babson survey of nationwide prospects generally confirms August official estimates of a 26% increase in feed-grain output. However, spread of the corn blight and the possibility of frost damage to any other late crops in the critical growing period ahead could hold total output well below the forecast.

Corn And Soybeans

Even if the projected record corn production of 5.3 billion bushels is not attained, we could have a bumper crop matching—or exceeding—the 1967 top of 4.8 billion bushels. Most observers feel this surplus output stems from the government's new corn "set-aside" program aimed to make producers less dependent on Uncle Sam. We look for more price weakness than strength over the near term, sharper dips later. And a big boost in livestock output next winter.

Still strong demand for oilseed meal at home and abroad suggests that this year's anticipated 100-million-bushel increase in soybean output to a total of 1.2 billion bushels won't be unduly burdensome since stocks will be pretty well whittled down by start of the new marketing year. However, we expect prices to be on the defensive from harvest time on and following corn trends pretty closely.

Wheat Prospects

The prospective record U.S. 1971 wheat output of 1.6 billion bushels has basically bearish connotations. However, production of winter wheat is expected to lag year-ago levels slightly and supplies of this category (owing to the smaller carryover) will be appreciably below 1970-71 levels. Stocks next July 1 will be up sizably.

Sharp increases in wheat output in Canada and Western Europe are forecast and some betterment over the poor showings made in Australia and Argentina last year is anticipated. If these expectations are realized, U.S. exports in the 1971-72 season will lag year-earlier totals by a substantial margin. Accordingly, we look for wheat prices to lag those of last season on average.

Cattle And Hogs

Reports from the 23 major feeding states at midyear indicated that cattle and calves on feed there numbered 2% more than a year ago. If feeders in these same states adhere to early intentions to step up marketings in the current July-September quarter—as seems so far to be the case—needs should be met without difficulty. This will continue to put prices under pressure and further weakness lies ahead.

But for the most part, cattle quotes will hold above last year's levels and producers will fare better than hog breeders and feeders. Looks like the national pig crop for '71 would come within 5% of '70's 102.3-million output. Hence marketings will continue burdensomely large for at least another 60 days, perhaps longer. However, we think the price bottom has been seen for this cycle and expect somewhat higher averages next month and more firmness thereafter.

Poultry And Eggs

Poultry consumption has had trouble holding its own over the past several months, partly because supplies of competing pork were large and moderately priced. While this has led to some cutbacks in the production of broilers compared with a year ago, on the whole supplies have been—and continue to be—in excess of requirements. Cold-storage holdings of turkeys recently were far above year-ago levels. Some price firming—but no sharp gain—is in the offing.

Overproduction of eggs this summer has not been extreme but when the increase over a year ago is weighed in the light of top-heavy storage stocks of frozen eggs and sizable holdings of shell eggs, it's easy to see why prices are depressed. Unless producers curtail hatchings of egg-type chicks this fall and winter, the bottom could fall out of egg prices in the forefront of 1972.

Congress Cuts Funds For Bay Model Construction

In examining the recently passed Senate public works bill, I found myself in the painful, but not unusual, posture of being both happy and sad at the same time. While I appreciated some recognition of the national interest in saving the Chesapeake Bay, I was deeply disappointed that the bill did not include the full amount requested by President Nixon for one vitally important project, the Chesapeake Bay hydraulic model and the associated technical center to be built by the Army Corps of Engineers at Matapeake, Maryland.

President Nixon, recognizing the immediate need for this research tool, recommended appropriations of $4 million, including $1.5 million for technical studies and $2.5 million for the initiation of construction. The bill does grant the $1.5 million to continue research and development but has postponed for another day the money for actual construction.

In my view, this is a clear case of false economy. Every year of delay on the Chesapeake Bay model in the midst of rising construction costs means that this project will cost more in the long run. Even more important, every year of delay is another year in which the people and officials of the State of Maryland and the entire nation are denied the benefits and understanding of the Bay which this model alone can bring. Every year of delay means one more year in which crucial decisions about the Bay will have to be made with inadequate facts and only partial comprehension of the delicate ecology of the nation's greatest estuary. The hard fact is that Congress cannot defer the growing pressures on Chesapeake Bay. We can't postpone the surging population growth in the Bay country and the metropolitan areas of Baltimore and Washington which already touch and even overlap.

We can't put off until a more convenient time the booming growth in water-based recreation, the increases in commercial traffic on the Bay or the competing demands for Bay water, for new power plants and other uses. These pressures exist and they are mounting now. Although the Bay has been remarkably resilient, we must not rely on good luck and piecemeal decisions to insure its future health.

The hydraulic model of the Chesapeake Bay was first authorized by Congress in 1965. And its full estimated cost of about $15 million was authorized last year. The scope of the project will be about the size of 13 football fields, if that suggests an area to you. It does not appear to be excessive in relation to the great expanse of the Bay itself and the need for a working model, large enough to reflect accurately all of the intricacies of currents, tides, water inputs and diversions, salinity, solar evaporation and other elements. Engineers have concluded, in fact, that the proposed model is actually quite modest in relation to the resource and the sophistication of the research that is planned there. Arbitrary reduction in its size could easily prove to be counterproductive, saving pennies in the short run, but denying us knowledge worth millions in the year to come.

I deeply regret that the Congress did not agree with President Nixon that the construction of the Bay model should begin this year. It's my intention to seek a reconsideration of this project at the earliest possible time with a view toward getting the funds to build the model and save the Bay.

Wild Cooking Tips For The Fisherman's Wife

Tired of being left at home while the sportsman of the house takes off for a week-end of fishing and camping out? Why not go along? It's easy for even a city girl to be a good sport if she's prepared, and a week-end of wild life can be much more civilized than you might expect. Would you believe a portable microwave oven, the size of a portable television that can cook hamburgers in their buns on a paper plate in less than a minute? It needs a 115-volt outlet to plug into, true, but have you seen a camping site or trailer park lately? Electricity is commonplace, along with such public facilities as hot (that's H-O-T) showers.

Now, what if your outdoorsman wants to rough it? Fine. He can build the campfire and provide the fish or game. Tell him you didn't come camping to wash dishes, and suggest cooking by the greenstick method. (Same principle as roasting marshmallows over the fire.) Cut a green stick about six feet in length, with a "Y" on the roaster end, and skewer the fish or meat on this. You might want to cut one prong down to a nub, to keep the meat from sliding back. Rest the cooking stick over a rock or log, placing some heavy object on the butt end. Now you can back away from the smoke, which has an unfortunate habit of blowing directly in one's eyes. Cooking time varies, but if you wait 'til one side is toasty brown, then turn and cook it on the other side, it will come out about right.

Waking up outdoors is a unique experience. Feel the forest stirring around you, fresh and green as the first day of creation. Enjoy the bird sounds. The less you rush around, the better chance you have of observing wildlife at close range. Now's the time for a meal without cooking. Choose your favorite flavor of Carnation Instant Breakfast and mix with whole milk to give yourself a bacon and egg kind of nutritious meal. Then sip silently as you watch the world wake up. Easy. Fun. A most special treat. Get out the knapsacks and start packing!

LOOKING AHEAD

By George S. Benson, President, National Education Program
Searcy, Arkansas

A Frightening Educational Failure

One of the fatal omissions in the present education of our young people is the story of American industry's contribution to the well-being of the American people. In my work throughout the summer in high school citizenship seminars in 11 Midwestern and Southwestern states, I've had intimate contact with approximately 7,000 high school leaders, youngsters who have made outstanding grades or who have won oratorical or essay contests. Attendance at a week-long citizenship seminar—where we have sports and other fellowship fun as well as classes—is, in a sense, a reward for their achievements.

The one fact that seemed to shock most of the youngsters was that America (with only 6% of the population of the world) produces nearly half of the world's manufactured goods. And they didn't seem to understand also that this production of goods and services means production of wealth—the wealth that all Americans live on. As a matter of fact, I found in each of the groups a general ignorance—more widespread than in previous years—about the basic facts of our economic system—and an equally disturbing factor a small group of articulate youngsters who rose to criticize and attack American industry in particular and the American economic system generally. They almost silenced the others.

To Wreck the System
If this generation of youngsters continues to be denied the true facts about American industry our system will gradually, or perhaps even abruptly be changed into some form of governmental ownership or control. The full story of American industry's growth—from the backyard blacksmith shop in the 17th Century to the miracle of production that we now have—and its indispensable role in American progress is not being given to our youngsters in school.

Industry In Trouble

On the other hand they are being hit from many directions by criticism against the system. The report I gave to the last of our summer citizenship seminars did not make a bright picture for the future of American industry. It shows American industry to be in serious trouble; and this means the people of America, in the long haul, are in serious trouble.

At the first company I visited, I talked with a top executive. His company's operations are spread throughout the nation and its products are in the world market. This mammoth industrial enterprise, employing nearly 100,000 people, is in trouble. Although the company has invested $100,000 in plant, machine tools, training and other things to create each of the jobs, productivity improvement in its plants all across the nation is averaging three percent a year, while "monopoly union pressure" is forcing up wages at from 10 to 20 percent a year.

"We can't operate indefinitely like this," he said. "Inflation, from just this situation in companies throughout the country, threatens the financial stability of our nation and thus the economic security of all citizens. Labor unions are so strong that industry can no longer withstand unreasonable demands. We either bow to the power of the unions or they close us up. The monopoly power of the unions we must deal with today is such that they could wreck our company in six months. There is nothing we could do to damage the unions—in six months or six years."

"I certainly do not wish to appear to be anti-union. We, on the contrary, feel that unions, without monopoly power and with reasonable leadership, can be beneficial not only to the union members but to the company." This job-maker for 100,000 employees fears most of all Government takeover: "When companies are weakened, with their prices jacked up so high (by forced wage rises) that the market dwindles, they must either go out of business or into government ownership."

These facts about industry's role in the economic well-being of the American people are not getting through to our youth, and thus millions of them are becoming radicals, accepting the propaganda of the Communists, and creating strife and grave danger in our nation.

Let's Go Fishin' BY BOB BREWSTER Mercury Outboards

Make Haste Slowly

Fish like to feed near shore and along shallow underwater reefs where food is more plentiful and easy to obtain. But they are also more wary in such areas than if in deep water; shallow water offers little protection from enemies. Keep this in mind the next time you see a likely shoreline or weedbed. When frightened by a potential danger—such as the noisy approach of an eager angler—fish will rush away to deep water and safety. Too much haste may ruin the fishing before you get started.

On the other hand you'll never go wrong by approaching fishing areas with exaggerated caution, and the angling experts at Mercury Outboards have some advice about how to sneak your boat into the right spot... and keep things quiet while there.

When searching the shore for places to fish, stay as far away from shallow water as possible. You can usually tell how deep water is near shore by mentally projecting the underwater terrain as it goes away from the shoreline.

Select where you want to fish and slow your motor some distance away. Take several minutes to move into position; time spent doing this will be worthwhile if it means fewer fish frightened away.

If you change locations to another nearby area, do it slowly. Fish aren't spooked by boats—they see them all the time—but unnecessary noise and movement by a fisherman is quickly recognized as something unusual and therefore potentially dangerous.

If you stay in one place to fish, slip the anchor quietly overboard letting it enter the water without splashing. Use rope on the anchor instead of chain.

And a final thought from the lads at Mercury is to have the right tackle and learn to cast long distances. This keeps you farther away from the fish, with less chance of them spooking because of shadows, reflected light or sudden movement.

GASOLINE WELL

This quintet of Utah "oil men" are shown working their own unique "gasoline well" a result of efforts to dig a clubhouse cave at their St. George, Utah home. Their "well" yields steady flow of hi-test gasoline.

ST. GEORGE, Utah, Members of the Grant Johnson family appear fixed for life with free gasoline from a mysterious "well" of 98 octane fuel that bubbles from the ground in the backyard of their St. George home.

It all started nearly 15 months ago when Karl Johnson, 12, was digging an underground clubhouse and struck a bubbling deposit of clear pink gasoline seven feet underground. "We take out as much as 35 gallons a day," the senior Johnson says, "and there are no signs of the well running dry. We seem to get more in the summer when neighbors water their gardens. The sandy soil seems to filter the gasoline very well. To make sure that contaminants don't plug the engines of our cars, we add one can of STP gasoline treatment to each tank from our 'well'."

Johnson, who is a St. George city councilman, believes the fuel is leaking from the tanks of one of the 25 filling stations in this town of 8,000 people. But all tanks have been pressure tested without revealing a leak, Johnson says, and the fuel has continued to flow into his yard for nearly 15 months.

"There is some fire hazard," he says, "but the free gasoline is quite a boon, since we operate two passenger cars, a pickup truck and a motor scooter with the mixture of free gasoline and STP. We also give away some surplus fuel from our 'well' but we're learning that some of our 'customers' want us to strain their free gas for them."

The mysterious gas well is a mixed blessing to young Karl who gets to ride the motor scooter. "It ruined our plans for an underground clubhouse," he says ruefully, "and we kids must be very careful not to build backyard bonfires."

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Comments should be sent to the c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

What is being done to improve our young people's knowledge, appreciation & understanding of environmental problems? It seems to me that there is a lack of comprehensive environmental programs, compounded by an equally serious shortage of instructors skilled in teaching environmental concepts, and of instructors skilled in teaching environmental concepts, and of adequate, up-to-date teaching aids, especially in the kindergarten - through - 12th grades.

The Environmental Education Act of 1970 proposed to remedy the short-comings of present environmental study programs by launching "a major educational effort directed at developing a better understanding of and attitude toward our environment so that future generations will not be faced with the problems we are only now beginning to confront." The Act proposes to accomplish its purposes by:

- encouraging and supporting the development, demonstration and evaluation of innovative and improved curricula in environmental studies;
- providing for the dissemination of significant materials for use in programs at pre-school, elementary, secondary, college and adult education levels;
- initiating and maintaining progress in environmental education at the elementary and secondary school level;
- conducting preservice and inservice teacher training and training of other educational and public service personnel, community, business and professional leaders, and government employees at local, State and Federal levels;

-operating adult and community education programs which would attract individual citizens and citizen groups in their communities; and

-planning outdoor ecological study centers.

Does the government offer scholarships to students going to medical schools?

Yes, financial aid is available under the Health Professions Scholarship Program. This program assists talented youth having exceptional need for financial assistance to undertake the course of study required to become a physician, dentist, osteopath, optometrist, pharmacist, podiatrist or veterinarian. Each school participating in this program is responsible for selecting the recipients of scholarships or loans and determines the amount of assistance a student may receive. For further information consult the Director of Student Financial Aid at the school where you intend to apply for admission or where you are enrolled. The school will provide you with an application.

Where can I get information on the effects of mercury on man and the environment? This topic has been covered in numerous hearings before the Senate Subcommittee on Energy, Natural Resources and the Environment. Information on the effects of mercury, as well as other toxic metals, may be obtained by writing the subcommittee for a copy of the hearings.

Community Offered Counseling Help By Frederick Community College

Frederick Community College wishes to be of service to the entire community and hopes that the people of the county will take advantage of the personnel and resources it has to offer. Mrs. Jane H. Jasper, Dean for Student Services, announces that members of the counseling staff are available on Tuesday and Thursday evening, from 7 to 9 p.m. in addition to the regular 9 to 4 p.m. daily schedule. The offices are located in Building B—rooms 102-105.

If you are thinking of attending the college or have questions you would like answered, come in and discuss your plans with a counselor. Perhaps, too, you will find the educational and vocational information which is available in the Counseling Resource Center to be helpful. A number of tests are also available for you to take which may assist in determining your vocational or personal goals. Appointments are preferred and are mutually beneficial but are not absolutely necessary. The college number is 662-0101, extension 247, for counseling services.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Education Amendments

The Labor and Public Welfare Committee on which I serve has reported out the Education Amendments of 1971. This bill has been literally months in the making. It is a massive bill, incorporating what I think are many groundbreaking provisions.

Under the bill a National Foundation for Post-Secondary Education is established to stimulate innovation in higher education. A National Institute for Education is to be created to foster educational research much like the National Institutes of Health better health research.

Another feature of the bill is the creation of a student loan marketing association to enhance liquidity for guaranteed student loans through providing a warehousing and secondary marketing mechanism.

A program of emergency assistance for institutions of higher education experiencing serious financial distress also included in this bill, was one of the sponsors of this particular provision.

Other provisions of the bill extend existing programs of continuing education, vocational education, college library programs, the developing institutions program, and student assistance.

Organizationally, within the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will be established a new Education Division with an assistant secretary at the head. The existing Office of Education and the new National Foundation for Post-Secondary Education and National Institute of Education will be incorporated into the new division.

A most equitable student assistance program was worked into this bill.

A large number of young people from middle-income families whose resources are insufficient to meet the mounting costs of a college education have been squeezed out. We must be careful lest our campuses be occupied principally by those at the poverty level, who qualify for special aid, and those from the upper-income brackets, who can afford to pay—a campus peopled only by the very rich and the very poor, pricing out the middle income. This is violative of the American system; and we've done something about it.

The bill proposes a program of basic educational opportunity grants, awarding federal scholarship aid to low- and middle-income students based on family income, size and assets. Individual student grants would range from $200 to a high of $1,400 yearly.

The bill provides that the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare would set eligibility requirements for scholarships. It is unlikely that families with adjusted incomes above $15,000 would be eligible for the grants. Higher income families, however, still could benefit from a continuation of federally guaranteed student loan programs. The secondary loan market would be set up to expand the money market for private loans.

Handicap Air Race Set For Saturday

The skies over Gettysburg will be filled with sportsmen pilots as the first Gettysburg Handicap Air Race is inaugurated this Saturday. Pilots, flying a variety of aircraft, will be competing for aviation products provided by the Quaker State Oil Refining Corp., as well as prize money and trophies.

The idea behind handicap air racing is to cancel any differences due to different types of aircraft so that the race is a competition based on the skill of the pilot. The six lap, 63 mile race around a four-sided course has been fully sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association, the U. S. sanctioning body for aviation competitions.

Ladies Of Brute To Serve Buffet

The August meeting of the Ladies of Brute Auxiliary was held Monday, Aug. 9, at 8:15 in the Council Home with 20 members in attendance. President Loretta Sprankle presided. The chaplain, Jane Orndorff, opened the meeting with prayers, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's was approved as read.

Correspondence was received with a thank-you note from the Senior Baseball League. A letter was received from the Grand Knight, Stanley McIntyre, asking the Ladies of Brute if they would prepare the buffet dinner for the installation of officers to be held on Tuesday, Aug. 23, at 8 p.m. Chairman of this affair will be Mrs. Frances Rosensteel, with Mrs. Lois McIntire, Lois Hartdagen, Mrs. Carmen Topper, Nancy Danner, Loretta Sprankle, Dolores Davis and Alice Boyle, as her volunteer assistants. Also, a second letter from the Grand Knight was received congratulating the newly installed officers and for their continued success of activities for the coming year.

It was unanimously approved to have a covered dish social at the September meeting. The monthly drawing was held and Joan Tracey's name was called but was not present. Initiation ceremonies were then held with Patricia Sanders and Mary Theresa Hollinger initiated as new members. The next meeting will be held on September 13, at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Home. Following the brief business meeting a covered dish social will be held. Everyone is cordially welcome to attend this affair and bring one guest per person who is eligible to become a member of the Ladies of Brute Auxiliary. The meeting was then adjourned with refreshments being served in the social room.

Partially Seeing School Children Participate In Summer Education

For the fifth consecutive year the Frederick County Board of Education is conducting a six week program for children who are partially seeing. Eighteen students from eight different elementary schools are participating in the program which is being held at Waverley Elementary and Catoctin High School.

academic skills. It also provides extra time for individual instruction in skills which only visually limited students require. The program provides for maximum social and academic growth through a program planned especially for visually limited students, according to Mrs. Sullivan. Instruction is provided in academic areas, in democratic living and in social arts which help the partially seeing child to get along better in life. Additional instruction is provided in various individual skills and subjects so that the partially seeing child is better able to participate in the total school curriculum when the Fall term begins. Field trips planned especially for partially seeing children are high points of the summer program and are used to provide enrichment in the academic areas. A number of the summer school program activities are shown in the accompanying photos.

Mrs. Regina Peeks, CAA aide, aids a student with a creative activity which was a follow-up to a field trip to Ft. McHenry. This activity was a part of the curriculum for the weekly theme: Maryland's Geographical Location Helps Our Nation.

Large and small motor skills are developed through physical education activities such as scooter board play. Zipping about the large gym is fun for the children and the large well-lighted area reduces the chance of injury.

The U. S. Postal Service announced that temporary rates for third-class mail, which includes advertising circulars, will be increased effective September 15, 1971. The increases will bring temporary third-class rates up to the full rate levels which the Postal Service originally proposed to be phased in over a five-year period. The Phase-in had been designed to soften the impact of the full proposed rates on third-class mailers. However, institution of the full amount of the proposed permanent rates this year became necessary because Congress did not appropriate certain money often referred to as "Revenue Foregone" Funds. The present rate of 8c for the first 2 ounces, and 2c for each additional ounce, will be charged according to a scale, with increases ranging from 1c for a 4 oz. piece, to 9c additional for a 15.9 oz. third class item. The bulk third class rate will be increased to a minimum of 5c per piece.

Two new commemorative stamps are now on sale at our office. The 8-cent twin stamps, commemorating a decade of space achievements, and the 8-cent John Sloan "American Painting" stamp, are still available. George E. Rosensteel, PM.

Buntees. A beautiful beginning. When a baby begins to stand, his toes take over. They spread, grip, grasp, and flex like fingers on the hand. Little toes need a shoe that won't restrict their action, that give ample toe room while holding the heel firm. That's what flexible Buntees are all about.

Senior Citizens Board Meeting Lists Tentative Nominating Committee

The regular board meeting of the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club was held at the Center on Monday, August 16 at 10 o'clock, with seven members present. The recitation of the Lord's Prayer opened the meeting. Topics under discussion were choosing a tentative nominating committee for officers for the coming year. Said committee to be presented for approval of the club at the next regular meeting. The nominating committee was named as follows: Esther Gillelan, Ethel Fuss, Elizabeth Nester, LaRue Harmon and Lewis H. Stoner. A suggestion was offered for new board members to replace those who have been in office for some time. The third Tuesday in September, the twenty-first, is the regular monthly meeting of the club, at which time a garden games event, to which everyone will bring some product from the garden, will be held. Tuesday, Aug. 17, at 6:30 p.m., the Senior Citizens held a picnic at St. Joseph's College, with some fifty-odd present. After sampling all the delicious food displayed on the long tables, the Sisters and club members vocalized on the old familiar songs, then broke up and headed homeward declaring it a very satisfying picnic.

Nationwide Insurance Company Suggests New Compensation System

Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio, the country's fourth-largest auto insurer, is recommending a complete "no-fault" automobile insurance system to replace the present liability system for settling traffic accident claims. John W. (Bill) Strickhouser, local Nationwide Agent said his company believes the present auto insurance system is too cumbersome and that it should be replaced by a completely new system that would compensate all traffic accident victims, regardless of fault. Nationwide is preparing model legislation which could be adapted for use in Maryland or in any other state. The Nationwide Plans provides for: 1. Every auto accident victim to be paid directly by his own insurance company, regardless of fault. 2. Every insurance applicant to be accepted by the company of his choice. The responsibility for insuring very bad risks would be shared by all companies under a reinsurance arrangement. The present assigned risk plans would be discontinued. 3. All licensed drivers would be required to carry a minimum amount of insurance. A unique feature of the Nationwide proposal is that payment for damage to a policyholder's auto would be part of the basic coverage. This coverage is optional in other new insurance plans. Strickhouser said most criticism of the present system of auto insurance is related, one way or another, to the legal liability principle: "The process of determining who was at fault in an auto accident is becoming increasingly time-consuming and costly. Accident victims who cannot prove that someone else was at fault often are not compensated for their losses, or they are compensated only partly. Those who can prove fault often demand—and get—more compensation than their actual out-of-pocket loss."

Thomas M. Smith Promoted By Navy Fall Festival Planned By Garden Club

Airman Thomas Michael Smith, USN, son of Mrs. Violet E. Smith and Richard R. Smith, Emmitsburg R2, was recently promoted to Petty Officer Third Class. Smith is a 1967 graduate of Emmitsburg High School. He is now stationed on the USS Independence (CVA-62) where he is involved with the recovery of aircraft. After spending his present leave, he will be leaving in September for a 6-month cruise.

Of special interest to all local gardeners will be the horticulture exhibit of Silver Fancy Garden Club's Fall Festival scheduled from 2:00-6:00 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 2, at Taneytown Memorial Park. Members of the Emmitsburg-Taneytown garden club, sponsors of the event, urge community gardeners to vie for ribbons by entering their fall flowers, house plants, vegetables, and fruits. Although this is not a formal show governed by the Federated Garden Clubs, it will be a fine opportunity to share their pleasure and exhibit their skill in producing outstanding horticultural specimens. The friendly competition further serves to provide for exchange of ideas in gardening and to show the non-gardener excellent examples of flowers, fruits, and vegetables grown in the area. With this special event in mind, there will be added incentive to spray water, and lightly feed plants during the remaining weeks of summer. Prompt removal of mature flowers and seed pods will help insure continual blooming. As straight stems are essential to a good specimen, it's not too soon to stake. Paper or plastic coated wire is excellent for binding the stake to the plant stem but leave enough space between stem and wire to allow for growth. Staking helps to prevent wind damage also. A mulch of straw, grass cuttings or one of the commercial products not only helps retain moisture but also prevents mud splattering from the driving rain which may occur just before the show. Some chrysanthemums and a few varieties of roses are often shown as a spray, but practically all other fall flowers are exhibited as disbuds. Disbudding means to remove all the buds along the stem except the terminal or end bud. This is done to permit the terminal to receive all the plant's foods so that it will become large and well formed. Side buds and shoots must be removed as soon as they are large enough to take hold of so the wound will have a chance to heal over. For a more attractive specimen be sure to remove the little "bud-tem" or "hat-rack". Watch the paper in mid-September when a second article will appear containing the horticulture schedule and tips for selecting, conditioning, and preparing specimens for exhibit! For many more interesting details pertaining not only to flowers but also vegetables and fruits turn to the Carroll County Public Library for "Growing and Showing," by Rudy J. Favretti. Questions may also be directed to the Chairman of Horticulture, Mrs. Simon Klosky, Emmitsburg, Md., phone 447-2947, or to Co-Chairman of Silver Fancy's Fall Festival, Mrs. Robert Clinegan, Taneytown, phone 756-6394.

benefit because they get a place for outdoor activities without making a big investment in land. Looks like this is an idea on which local folks might be able to make a little money. Recent rains have been a big help to the crops, but there was considerable damage in July due to the lack of rain. Corn, soybeans, summer potatoes, and hay crops are all forecast down. Much of the wheat, oats, barley and rye was in before the draught and crops had good yields. On the plus side, apple and peach crops forecast good gains.
