- By Abigail -

Dear Abigail:

I would be so grateful if you would print my own personal sequel to the editorial concerning the recent change of hands in the Emmitsburg Chronicle to Mr. Wentworth. I feel compelled to add something personal to the list of historic events given in the editorial. First, may I say that I feel qualified to write this personal touch because of my relationship to the Chronicle. I am the granddaughter of Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder, and the niece of the late C. Arthur Elder (my mother, Dora Elder Paidakovich, being his sister.)

The Chronicle, besides acting as the town crier and messenger, was a very personal and very deep newspaper. This project was the center of the town, and was also the connecting link of a very close family, the Elders, with their fellow citizens. Starting with my grandfather, John Dubois Elder in 1922, this newspaper was published through the individual efforts of a family. Its deadline was always met, not with the thought, "Oh we've got to put out another issue this week . . ." but more so with the attitude that it was an act of love and togetherness and pride in one's work, and the feeling that you've done your best. In other words, the Chronicle was a refreshing and new thing each week. It wasn't just a list of the latest hard facts, it had a family pinch of seasoning to it.

I said in the above paragraph that the publishing of the Chronicle was an act of love. I believe it had to be. The Chronicle's former Elder editors (John D. and C. Arthur) published the paper at an extraordinary sacrifice of themselves, their time, and their health, both dying during their fifties. Being an editor is a never-ending job with deadlines forever hounding you. It is a job from which many often resign very soon after they begin because of the enormous strain. The common non-caring person could just play the part of an editor, make it just a job, and only do what's required, no extras. But when my grandfather and uncle were the editors during their time, they made this task their life. This takes much love and self-sacrifice. To think that these men gave of their own health and leisure time for the benefit of others is highly commendable. The world should be blessed with more people like them.

(From here on out I shall concern this letter to the times when my uncle, C. Arthur Elder, was editor, as this was when I became acquainted with the Chronicle face to face . . .)

Since Arthur Elder devoted so much of his time and effort to being an editor, many times it would affect his health. When something like this happened, the whole Elder family would immediately and willingly pitch in and help to keep the paper going. And after a short time my uncle would come right back again and resume his duties. Even when things were not running smoothly, when the editor was not absent, I remember when we nieces and nephews would rush over to the printing press every Thursday to fold papers. So the feeling for the Chronicle ran clear down to the smallest Elder toddler.

Then it happened; my uncle, the editor, was called by God to forever give up the task of editing the Emmitsburg Chronicle. So now the time has come to hand the paper over to a new guardian, one who, I hope, will respect and learn to love the life and events of this proud old newspaper.

Maybe, from what you've read, you can possibly understand a little bit why relinquishing a "member" of the

Miss Paidakovich Bride Of Mr. Godfrey

On Saturday, June 12 at 1 p.m., Miss Lynn Paidakovich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Paidakovich of Silver Spring, Md., became the bride of Mr. William H. Godfrey, Jr., son of U. S. Army Col. and Mrs. William H. Godfrey, also of Silver Spring, at St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church in Silver Spring.

The beautiful double-ring ceremony and Nuptial Mass were performed by the Pastor, Rev. Fr. Carl Lyon, before a flower-decked altar. Both the Liturgy and music for the occasion were an unusual and beautiful blend of the traditional and modern. Miss Connie Melaro played the traditional Processional and Recessional on the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Howard Patton, a family friend, in his vocal renditions of "Climb Every Mountain", "Panis Angelicus", and the "Lord's Prayer". The entire Mass and all other music was done by the St. John's Folk Group to which the bride and groom belong and whose Director is Mrs. Dora Elder Paidakovich, mother of the bride. The bride's sister, Lisa, played a dual role in the ceremony—that of bridesmaid as well as guitarist and led the Folk Group in a beautiful program of songs both secular and religious.

Several unusual and beautiful innovations made the Nuptial celebration a truly remarkable and very memorable one for all who attended: A kiss of peace; a warm handclasp of friendship and recognition exchanged among the more than two hundred guests present in which the celebrant, the bride couple and their parents participated, circulating among the guests; original vows, readings and Gospel selected by the bride and groom, were but a few of the innovations. J. Earl Elder, Pittsburgh, Pa., uncle of the bride, read two very moving and philosophical passages from "The Prophet", by Kahlil Gibran. Throughout the ring blessing nad the exchange of vows, the soft strains of the Love Theme from Romeo and Juliet, played by the bride's sister, Lisa, on her guitar, filled the air, providing the perfect background for the beauty, solemnity and joyousness of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long white lace and silk organza gown which had a tight-fitting bodice and long sleeves of Alencon lace and jewel neckline. The tiny waist suddenly billowed into a huge balloon hoop-skirt reminiscent of ante-bellum ball-gown days, with tiers of translucent silk organza which separated at the front to form a redingote whose edges were scalloped with lace daisies. Silk slips and a large hoop petticoat accentuated the fullness of the gown. The bride's headpiece consisted of many layers of silk illusion which were attached to a beautiful, pearl-encrusted butterfly ornament. The veil was made of circles of silk illusion in fingertip length to which was attached a Chapel-length floor train. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and tiny matching earrings, the wedding gift of the groom, and carried a cascade of white roses, daisies, baby's breath. Maid of honor was Miss Nancy Smith of Silver Spring. Her Bishop-sleeved gown had a lilac background and was splashed with vari-colored pastel, flowered figures, and wore lilac shoes and shoulder-length veil headpiece caught by lilac bows. She carried a bouquet of lilac-hued daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lisa Paidakovich, sister of the bride, and Miss Lucy Paidakovich, the bride's cousin, of Potomac, Md. Their gowns were identical in design to the maid of honor's but with backgrounds of shocking pink splashed with the vari-colored flowers. Shoes and matching headpieces were of hot pink and their bouquets were of mint-colored daisies.

The groomsmen were: Best man, Don Weimer of Silver Spring; Ushers, Jay Mahan, cousin of the bride; Matt Elder Paidakovich, brother of the bride of Vail, Col., who flew home for the ceremony; and Larry Welling, friend of the groom, Silver Spring.

The brides' mother's ensemble was a sleeveless sheath of turquoise chiffon over silk with matching long-sleeved chiffon coat, the collar and cuffs of which were of turquoise lace. Her matching shoes and small clutch bag were relieved by white gloves and a picture hat of sheer white silk straw, the brim of which was trimmed with scalloped lace turquoise daisies, and wore a white orchid.

The groom's mother wore a beautiful pink silk sleeveless lace dress over which was a matching coat. For contrast she chose white shoes and accessories and also wore a white orchid.

Mount Readies For Opening Next Week

Mount Saint Mary's College, a coed institution for the first time in its 164-year history, is preparing for another large student body as it begins a new academic year next week. The total number of students attending the Mount this year is expected to reach 1,146, surpassing last year's 1,100.

While the number of women actually enrolled at Mt. St. Mary's will be minimal, probably no more than ten this year, the Mount's academic cooperation program with Saint Joseph College for women will be continued. Through this cooperation, says Academic Dean Bernard S. Kaliss, 100 women will be taking courses on the Mount campus while 149 men will have some of their courses at Saint Joseph. As was the case last year, the two colleges will be operating under a joint calendar and schedule, and a shuttle bus service will carry students from campus to campus during class hours.

Another change on the Mount campus this year will be an expanded orientation program for freshmen, scheduled to begin Monday, August 30. The expanded program is intended to introduce new students to the demands of college life, and will include in-depth discussions on the arts of note-taking, preparing for tests, and writing reports, as well as the effective use of the college library. Freshmen classes will then begin on Friday, September 3, while upperclassmen will have started on Wednesday, September 1.

A preliminary look at enrollment figures shows 309 freshmen and 95 transfer students are expected next week, bringing the student body to a total of 1,146.

Mount Saint Mary's College made its decision to go coed in June. Women students are being accepted on a non-resident basis this year, and on a resident basis in 1972-73.

Dean Kaliss reported that among the new courses offered this year will be an introduction to Chemistry for Non-Science Majors. The course was instituted, he said, because of the overwhelming popularity of a similar course in Biology. Many students who had sought to take the Biology course, which will be taught by Dr. Waldemar Palatits, will lessen the demand for the Biology class while satisfying the non-science students interested in a basic science course.

Dean Kaliss also announced that both the staff and faculty of the college have been enlarged this year to meet the needs of the larger and more diverse student body.

Lawrence J. Riordan of Worcester, Mass., joins the Mount staff as Director of Admissions. In assuming the position, he will relieve Dean Kaliss of the dual responsibility for both Admissions and Academic Affairs.

Riordan holds an A.B. degree from Assumption College, in Worcester, Mass., and an M.A. from Clark University. For the past twelve years he has served as Assistant Director of Admissions at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., Assistant Director and then Director of Admissions at Assumption, and has most recently served as Educational Consultant on Admissions and Financial Aid for Annhurst College in Connecticut, Belmont Abbey College in North Carolina, Cabrini College in Pennsylvania, and St. Joseph's College in Maine.

New members of the faculty, reflecting both the enlargement and the replacement of members who left during the summer, are:

Dr. Norman Bernstein, formerly on the faculty of Saint John's University in Jamaica, New York. Dr. Bernstein, who holds a Ph.D. degree from St. John's, an M.Ed. degree from Temple University, and a B.A. degree from LaSalle College, serves as Associate Professor of Education.

Dr. Nicholas C. Kierniesky, formerly an instructor in psychology at Tulane and Villanova Universities. Dr. Kierniesky, who holds a Ph.D. from Tulane, an M.S. from Villanova, and B.S. degree from LaSalle College, joins the faculty in the Psychology Department.

Dr. William E. Martin comes to the Mount as an Assistant Professor of English. Dr. Martin holds a Ph.D. degree and a M.A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh, and a B.S. degree in Education from Bloomsburg State College.

Edward T. Ryan, who comes to the Mount from active duty with the Air Force. Mr. Ryan, who serves as an Assistant Professor of Modern Languages, earned his M.A. degree from the Universidad Interamericana de Mexico, and his B.A. degree from Saint Mary's College of California. He belongs to several national language organizations, and has done post graduate work at Michigan State College, Syracuse University, and the California Institute of Foreign Studies at Monterey.

Mrs. Jeana Sue Zeiler, who serves as Assistant Librarian. Mrs. Zeiler, who is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Kappa Delta Pi received her M.L.S. degree from the George Peabody College for Teachers, and her B.S. from East Tennessee State University.

John C. Gill of Philadelphia. Mr. Gill, who is a 1971 graduate of Mount Saint Mary's, joins the staff as Admissions Counselor.

Mrs. Penelope H. Krepps, who joins the Mount faculty as a lecturer in the Music Department. Mrs. Krepps, who earned her B.S. degree in Music Education at Lebanon Valley College, has been an accompanist for the College Glee Club. She will direct the group during the school year while Rev. David W. Shaum takes a year off for sabbatical studies.

Town And Club

Looks To Future

The Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg presently are considering a new Town Park. They have sought assistance from the Maryland Department of Forest and Parks and the Frederick Co. Planning Commission for planning and design of the proposed park. State money is available to supplement money raised locally on a $3.00 to $1.00 basis. "General estimates at this time put the total cost of the park project in the neighborhood of $100,000." Emmitsburg area residents will have to raise about $25,000 to get State aid on the project.

The town is presently reviewing a development proposed by Paxton Builders, Inc., for a Mobile Homes Park. Along with the homes, three townhouses and two apartment buildings will be included in the proposal. The town must consider annexing a portion of land not in the corporation and also provide water and sewer facilities for such a development. An attorney has been engaged to advise the town on the plan.

The Silver Fancy Garden Club of Emmitsburg has made efforts towards the beautification of the town by encouraging the townspeople to keep streets free from litter and most important, keep the town looking attractive by planting flowers in window boxes, and planters, etc., for outdoor enjoyment. The club planted flower boxes in front of the Library as well as provided plants to those asking for them. Information regarding planting, pruning, etc., was also offered to those desiring it.

To Present Musical At Mount Seminary

"Tell It Like It Is," the folk musical presented recently by the youth of the area, will be performed for the second time at Mount St. Mary's Seminary Chapel on Thursday evening, September 2, 1971, at 8:00 p.m. Admission is free.

Rombins' Nest 3rd Anniversary Sale Set

Three years ago Bill and Ruth Rombin opened their gift shop, Rombins' Nest, on Main Street in Fairfield, Pa. Their decision to open a shop was almost forced on them by "popular demand," according to Mrs. Rombin.

"You see," she said, "we've been in the mail order business over ten years. Actually, we started in our old farm house, so you could say it's one of those Horatio Algers stories come true, about the business that started on a kitchen table and kept growing. When we outgrew the farm house we moved our business to a rented building in Fairfield. But during all this time people who received our catalog kept writing and asking if we had a shop. . . so we knew a gift shop was inevitable. So when this old pre-Civil War house came up for sale we realized it was the ideal setting for all our antique reproductions, 'Americana' items and unusual gifts from around the world, which really needed a special setting, not just a run-of-the-mill gift shop."

At first the Rombins thought they had ample space, utilizing the big central hall and two rooms on each side of it. The second year they enlarged and enclosed the back porch, put in a bay window and made it into a flower and candle room.

"It didn't take us long to realize we still didn't have enough space," Rombin said. "So last summer we began work on the old kitchen. Our son, Bill, tore out a partition so the old walk-in fire place would be exposed, exposed the original ceiling beams and put up knotty pine paneling. It was almost ready for Christmas, so we put our imported Christmas decorations out there with decorated trees and some of our imported gifts."

speaker. Mr. Ed Snyder, Water St., is doing very well at the antique car shows lately. He has been successful three times in three weeks which is quite a record, it would seem to me. His 1954 Kaiser - Manhattan won first place trophy at Williamsport, Pa., and third place trophy at New Hope, Pa., and the prize on the drawing at Williams Grove. Congratulations, Ed. Get well wishes to Mrs. Clara Allamong and Mrs. Francis Strausbaugh at the Warner Hospital. Until next week, that is it.

Changes, additions and alterations to the Gift Shop have to be worked in during the summer so as not to interfere with the mail order business. Catalogs are sent out beginning in the latter part of August, and continue to the end of October. The Rombins' first mailing, over 10 years ago, was less than 10,000 catalogs. Each year they increased the number of catalogs mailed. "In those days," Mrs. Rombin said, "we did the labelling here. Fairfield High School students worked after school and on weekends putting labels on the catalogs, bundling them according to postal regulations and mailed them from the Fairfield Post Office. Finally it got so big that Fairfield couldn't handle them, so now they're labelled and mailed from Philadelphia, where they're printed."

According to the Rombins, it is the catalog which brings customers into the gift shop. Either they've received a catalog or heard of the shop through a friend who has received one. "It's really amusing," Mrs. Rombin laughed, "as soon as people from nearby towns come in the shop door the first thing they say is 'I never realized there was anything like this in Fairfield.' So I guess it's time we started letting local people know that the mail order business that started on a kitchen table has grown into a gift shop."

The Rombins' Anniversary Sale has become a tradition. People from Baltimore, Washington and Virginia rub elbows with bargain-hunters from nearby towns to take advantage of the savings generated by the mail order business. Rombin explained, "It's one of the hard facts of life that in the mail order business you just have to have a large stock. The question is, what do you do when you have a few hundred of an item that is no longer being made? That isn't enough stock for the new catalog, but it's too much for the gift shop. Of course, there are the items on which we bought heavily that didn't sell in the catalog because the picture was poor. So we gather all these things together and reduce them drastically and let the girls have a good time buying real bargains. Some women even plan their vacation so they won't miss our Anniversary Sale!"

The Rombins have two children who help in the business. "Bill" is 18, a Junior at Duquesne University this fall. Ruth is 17 and will be a Senior at Delone High School.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Offshore Oil Industry

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 26, 1971—Offshore production accounts for some 18% of the world's oil output and is growing steadily. Contributing to the industry's smart rate of expansion is the quickening pace of this activity abroad. The list of countries producing from offshore fields grows larger each year, and a host of other nations are waiting to activate such funds.

One reason for this growing pursuit overseas is the extremely high potential of many foreign areas. While the Mississippi Delta still ranks first in potential, other top prospects include the Persian Gulf, offshore Indonesia, the coasts of West Africa, the North Sea area, the Red Sea, and the Mediterranean.

The Domestic Scene

The two-year ban on Outer Continental Shelf leasing in domestic waters (originally brought about by the incident in the Santa Barbara Channel) was ended with the Dec. 15, 1970 Western Louisiana Federal Offshore lease sale. Also, the Interior Department has published a tentative schedule of oil and gas lease sales through 1975, with most of the sales involving Louisiana and Texas offshore localities.

With this renewal of lease sales, the domestic outlook has brightened considerably. Exploration off the Louisiana coast has been limited only by the unavailability of rigs. Furthermore, Interior's roster of lease sales should ensure continued offshore ventures at an orderly pace over the foreseeable future.

Exciting Opportunities

During the 1970s, spurred by population growth and increased per capita use, the demand for energy could reach near-crisis proportions. At the present time, consumption of domestic energy is rising about 4% annually, while that of other free world nations is expanding some 6%. World consumption of energy could grow 60% over the coming decade, and oil and gas are expected to account for two-thirds of the total.

As the demand for energy explodes, offshore exploration and production can only intensify. By 1980 offshore output may well reach 25 million barrels a day (compared with an estimated six million barrels in 1970), or about one-third of world production. During the 1980s this figure could reach 50% of world output.

Some Difficult Challenges

While the offshore industry has exciting possibilities for the 1970s, it must also face some difficult challenges. For instance, as exploration moves farther offshore in quest of fresh reserves, problems of drilling and producing in steadily deeper waters must be overcome. And this must be accomplished economically.

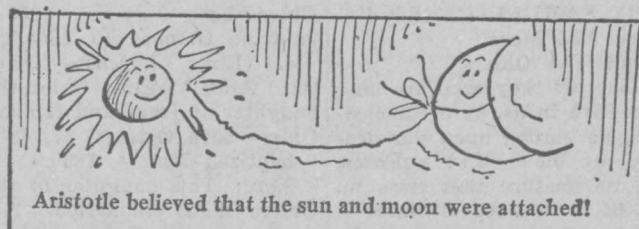

Still another source of problems—one over which the industry has little if any control—is the political squabbling concerning rights to certain offshore areas. For example, Colombia and Venezuela have clashed over the Gulf of Venezuela, while Japan, Taiwan, Korea, and Red China have tangled over rights in the East China Sea. Government hassles like this can only hamper future offshore development.

Investment Advice

Encouraged by favorable industry prospects, the stocks of most companies in the offshore industry staged a vigorous recovery from their 1970 lows. Furthermore, these issues held up well during the late spring/summer market correction. While Babson's Research Department is optimistic about the industry's future, it is felt that market-wide the equities of most offshore companies will have to catch their breath—at least temporarily—before renewing their upward trek. Therefore, we would suggest deferring new purchases of such issues at this time. Babson's Research Department does, however, recommend purchase of the Offshore Company 5% Convertible Debentures (speculative grade) of 1992 for such investors as may be seeking longer-term appreciation along with some income.

The Economy

President Nixon's new economic policies are a bold stride toward curbing inflation. With our help, these policies can become an effective response to citizens' pleas that something be done about the increased living costs.

Over a period of time I have suggested an economic program to deal with what is, in fact, a war economy. I had hoped that by taking early steps more drastic action could be avoided. However, in the economic situation that America now finds itself, both at home and abroad, strong and decisive action is required. While I regret that actions such as freezing wages, postponing welfare reform, and delaying revenue sharing were necessary, I support the principles of President Nixon's new economic policy, and I urge all Marylanders to band together behind the President's program to build a new prosperity without war. All Americans will most especially welcome the prospect of increased income tax exemptions, the new incentives to competitive productivity through additional research and development, and the suspension of the automatic conversion of dollars into gold.

The economic problems of today had their source in the years 1965 and 1966, when our nation became heavily involved in war while trying to live at home as if we had both peace and prosperity. Those days of guns and butter have led to an economy characterized by high inflation, a very large sector based on short-term military needs and deterioration of international confidence in the dollar. Immediate action by the President was necessary, and last night the President took such action.

Marylanders well know that the defense and aerospace sector of our economy has been declining in recent months. America must continue to be second to none in research and development for both defense and civilian purposes. The President's new economic policy, which includes incentives to foster new investment in the machinery of production and the creation of new jobs, should lead to the useful employment of skilled Maryland workers recently laid off and should create new jobs for additional Marylanders.

The President's program includes measures to deal with the evils of inflation which hurt most those who can least afford it—workers, the unemployed, the poor, and the elderly. I welcome presidential action aimed at halting the run-away inflation which has plagued us for seven years.

The President further acted to restore international confidence in the dollar, in America, and in the international economic system itself. I welcome those measures aimed at bolstering the dollar, and especially the suspension of the automatic conversion of dollars into gold, a practice which until now has kept the dollar prey to international money speculators.

The President's decisive response to the changing economic challenges we confront and his outline of such a comprehensive economic program will contribute to America's surmounting any crisis of confidence at home or abroad.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
More And More
About The Ohlers

"But yet they, who are long gone, are in us, as predisposition, as burden upon our destiny, as blood that pulsates, and as gesture that rises up out of the depths of time."—Rilke

In the long and apparently endless chain of history and genealogy each generation is but a single link in the whole. The past is the foundation of the present—and tomorrow the people and events of today will take their place in the historic background of this nation. Time—like an ever-rolling stream bears all on its crest—the good as well as the bad—the imperfect as well as the perfect. But each stone in the foundation must be well and truly laid or the fabric of the whole will crumble—will be as a house built upon the sand. Act well and bravely your part every day—serve God—and all will be well.

To take a small segment as an illustration it might be well to start at home. The people who founded and built Tom's Creek Lutheran Church (the later Elias congregation) lived each day to the full and bided to the best of their ability—and the results are apparent today—not only in the church itself but in all who have felt the touch of its vital and living faith. Learn from the past—how to live in the here and now.

Now to return to the study of the Ohler family—who played no small role in the history of Frederick County. In the last column written about this clan—the children of John (2), the son of Philip Jacob (1) and Dorothea Ohler, were the generation under discussion. The notes continue:

1. Samuel (3) Ohler—married Catharine Groff—raised a fairly large family—Samuel (3) and his wife are interred in Elias Churchyard. Details given in a previous column.

2. Hannah (3) Ohler—no further data at present.

3. Michael (3) Ohler—no additional data at present.

4. Sarah (3) Ohler—no additional data at present.

5. Isaac (3) Ohler—married Isamiah Hockensmith—interred in Elias Churchyard. Isaac (3) and Isamiah (Hockensmith) Ohler were the parents of the following children:

1. (Taneytown Lutheran records)—"Baptized Elizabeth Catharine and Ezra Levi Ohler, twin children of Isaac and Isamiah Ohler—born January 18, 1829—baptized Mar. 19, 1849."

2. (Elias church records)—"Baptized Emma Jane Ohler, the daughter of Isaac and Isamiah Ohler—born February 1, 1851—baptized April 12, 1851."

3. (Elias Church)—"Baptized Mary Ellen Ohler, the daughter of Isaac and Isamiah

Ohler—born July 17, 1855—baptized October 10, 1855."

4. (Elias Church)—"Baptized Alice Virginia Ohler, the daughter of Isaac and Isamiah Ohler—born October 27, 1858—baptized May 4, 1859."

Note: This daughter of the Ohlers died unmarried. According to the facts as given on her gravestone she "departed this life on December 16th, 1878—aged 19 years, 11 months, and 19 days." She is interred with her parents in Elias Churchyard.

5. (Elias Church)—Baptized James Henry Ohler, the son of Isaac and Isamiah Ohler—born September 21, 1861—baptized January 31, 1862.

6. (Elias Church)—Baptized William Daniel Ohler, the son of Isaac and Isamiah Ohler, born February 13, 1864—baptized June 4, 1864.

7. (Elias Church)—Baptized Sallie Belle Ohler, the daughter of Isaac and Isamiah Ohler—born May 15, 1867—baptized December 28, 1867.

Note: According to the records of Elias Church—John E. Hess, of Carroll County, Maryland, and Miss Sallie B. Ohler, of Frederick County, Maryland, were married on December 2, 1886 by the Rev. E. S. Johnston.

Isaac (3) Ohler was married on December 8, 1846, by the Rev. Benjamin Keller, to Isamiah Rockensmith—both of Frederick County, Md.

In Elias churchyard are the graves of Isaac (3) Ohler and his wife:

80. In memory of Isaac Ohler, born April 12, 1812, died December 2, 1873.

81. In memory of Isamiah Ohler, the wife of Isaac Ohler, born January 3, 1826, died November 24, 1902.

In addition to the issue already listed John (2) Ohler was also the father of:

6. David (3) Ohler—only his name given on the family chart.

Note: There is a David Ohler interred in Elias Lutheran churchyard who could well be the one above listed. The inscription follows:

82. In memory of David Ohler, born February 22, 1824, died December 3, 1909.

7. Joseph (3) Ohler—no further data given on the family chart.

Note: Once again a gravestone gives a clue—in Elias Churchyard there is a marker to a Joseph Ohler—very possibly the one listed on the Ohler family chart.

83. In memory of Joseph Ohler, born February 7, 1827, died September 12, 1913.

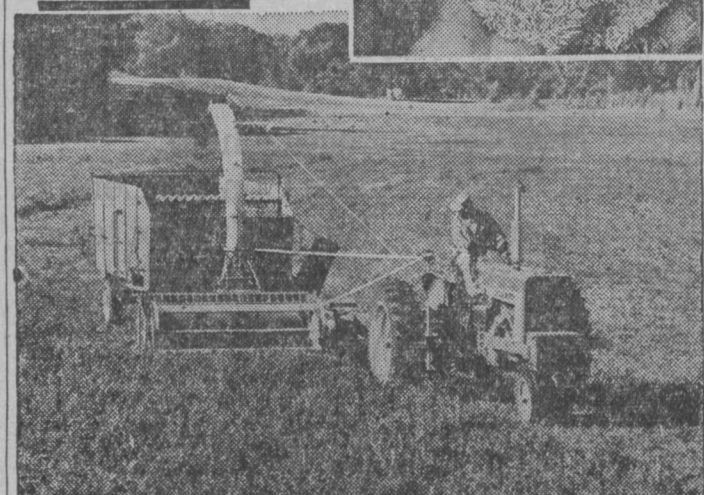

8. Levi (3) Ohler—no additional data given on the family chart and no grave listing.

9. John (3) Ohler—Again—no additional data or grave listing.

This concludes the listing of the children of John (2) Ohler, the son of Philip Jacob (1) and Dorothea Ohler.

In the records of the Taneytown Lutheran church the following marriages pertaining to the Ohlers, are listed and they pose somewhat of a mystery—although the principals must fit somewhere on the family tree:

"Married, November 8, 1853—Ephraim Buffington to Louisa Ohler—both of Carroll County, Maryland."

"Married, December 22, 1857, Andrew Jackson Ohler to Mary Catharine Fleagle, both of Carroll County, Maryland."

Deaths:
"Thomas Ohler—Died December 10, 1843—Preached April 14, 1844."

"David Samuel Ohler—Died November 29, 1931—Aged 21 years, 4 months, and 9 days. Funeral at home."

The notes on the Ohler family of Tom's Creek Hundred, with their many interrelationships will be continued in this series next week.

Night High School Dates Announced

Evening High School classes will begin September 13, 1971 at the Gov. Thomas Johnson High School, Wayne Holter, Assistant Principal, announced this week. The Evening High School program is designed to make it possible for persons who stopped their formal education before graduation from high school to secure a regular high school diploma.

In the past three years 155 people have earned their high school diplomas by attending the school. They range in age from 16 to 65.

According to Holter, people attending Evening High School for a variety of reasons. Some are working men and women who want to improve their general education, learn specific skills, or earn a high school diploma for a job change or promotion. There are men and women who did not have a chance to finish their education and want to do so now for self-satisfaction or for the pleasure of learning. Mothers and fathers who want to be better able to help their school age children take courses. Housewives who wish to prepare themselves in case they later need to work are part of the student body. Returning veterans who want additional training in order to get civilian jobs are especially welcomed, said Holter.

High School students, who transfer to the Evening High School for a variety of reasons, make up a substantial portion of the student body. There are also men and women who expect to go on to college or advanced technical training and are taking some necessary preliminary credits. And finally, according to Holter, there are some day school students who want to take courses not offered at their home school.

Most Evening High School classes meet three hours per week. They may meet for three hours in one evening or for one and a half hour each Tuesday and Thursday evenings. No classes are currently held on Friday evenings.

Classes begin at 6:45 p.m. with some exceptions. Those that go for three hours end at 10:00 p.m. with two breaks in that time period. Classes which begin at 6:45 and meet twice weekly end at 8:15 p.m.

The minimum number of evenings of attendance per week for each student is one evening. The maximum

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

New Economic Policy

President Nixon's new economic policy has fallen with astounding force on an unsuspecting, but very inflation conscious, and I think grateful, people.

I applaud his initiatives. I, like the President, have traditionally opposed price-wage controls. I am pleased with the temporary nature of his decree.

These next 90 days will give us the chance to build the stable underpinnings that we need as a base to our economic system. The time we have been allotted to construct that stable base is not long. But from the activities of the Council on the Cost of Living, I am hopeful, will emerge the direction and emphasis we need to once again bring order to an out-of-control economy.

An awesome responsibility has been placed on the Council. But the direction the economy takes after the 90 days is directly contingent on the efforts of these men. The freeze will be for naught if on the 91st day the lid blows off and we have but delayed three months the increasingly rampant inflation that affects us. The guidelines, the directives, the emphases, the laws recommended by the Council could well set the tone of the American economy for years to come.

At least three initiatives will call for Congressional action:

1. Restoring the investment credit.
2. Advancing the date of taking advantage of increased income tax exemptions from January 1973 to January 1972.
3. Repeal of the 7% auto excise tax.

The House Ways and Means Committee has already announced hearings on these proposals. And I am confident the Congress will have acted on these measures—and possibly others—by the end of September.

I am personally very optimistic about the President's announcement. I have no doubt that his initiatives will have a significant and favorable impact on most Americans and their economic well being.

Industry must expand. I think the job development tax credit will strongly stimulate the economy through early equipment purchase and plant expansion.

The price-wage spiral needed to be stemmed. The freeze will provide a period of stability to bring inflation under control and provide additional consumer confidence.

I think no single part of the program would work by itself. This is a comprehensive economic policy. By its very comprehensiveness, its all pervasive character, it is bound to have a salutary effect.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Please tell me about the "surplus property program" which makes used laboratory equipment and scientific materials available to schools at a minimal cost?

The Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare has authorized Regional Representatives to make determinations that specific surplus property items are useful and necessary for health and educational purposes in the various States, and to allocate the property on the basis of needs and utilization. Congress has further provided for the participation of authorized State Agencies for Surplus Property in making them responsible for distribution of surplus property within their State. Most State agencies maintain one or more distribution centers at which authorized representatives of school systems within the State select materials for their school's use. Usually one of more officials of a school or school system are designated as authorized representatives to make these selections. Science teachers should contact their local authorized representative or administrator to arrange to visit the State Distribution Centers. Laboratory materials are available for classes in astronomy, aviation, biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, photography, physics, electronics and mechanics.

What federal programs are available for the handicapped? In answer to your question I am sending you a compilation of all federal programs designed specifically to serve physically and mentally handicapped persons. This includes programs in vocational rehabilitation, education for the handicapped, programs for disabled veterans, programs providing aid to the blind and to the permanently and totally disabled, social security programs for the disabled, mental health and mental retardation programs, and health programs to prevent and treat handicapping conditions. The name and address of the federal agency administering each program is included for your convenience, as well as fiscal data and authorizing legislation for each program. Other citizens who are interested in this matter should write my office for a personal copy.

Earlier this year I ordered bulbs from a mid-west nursery, but never received the merchandise or a refund of my money. I have written several letters but still have heard nothing. Can you help me?

Based on your letter my office contacted the Federal Trade Commission. The FTC informed me that they were familiar with the nursery and several years ago had issued an order to the company to cease and desist from making certain misrepresentations in connection with its business operations. As I explained in a letter to you, the FTC is not empowered to assist an individual in a private controversy. However, they suggest you write another letter to the nursery indicating that a copy of your letter is being sent to the FTC and that you are aware of the cease and desist order.

Chemicals To Help Harvest Fruit

Harvesting of fruits with the aid of chemicals is on the verge of reality for the juice industry, it is reported in Agricultural and Food Chemistry. Agents called abscission chemicals are sprayed on fruit to loosen it from the tree.

"All satisfactory abscission agents cause physical injury, which is undesirable for fresh marketing but inconsequential for the juice processing industry," write William C. Cooper and William H. Henry of the U. S. Horticultural Field Station, Orlando, Fla., in the American Chemical Society's bimonthly journal.

Cycloheximide, an abscission chemical, injures the rind of citrus fruit, causing it to release ethylene, which reduces the strength of the fruit's attachment to the tree. An experimental permit for spraying 50 acres of orange trees with cycloheximide has been granted by the Food and Drug Administration, the authors say, continuing.

"The 200-million-box annual crop is the United States' largest fruit crop. Because of a shortage of labor, there is an urgent need to mechanize the harvesting of citrus. Mature citrus fruits remain firmly attached to the tree for a considerable period of time. This strong attachment allows harvesting the fruit of a single variety over a period of several months, but interferes with mechanical harvesting."

"Our objective is to develop chemical treatments that will allow the attachment force of the fruit to the stem and permit the rapid and clean separation of all the fruit at the normal fruit abscission zone when the trees are mechanically harvested."

"The use of abscission chemicals to loosen fruit as an aid to either mechanical or manual harvest is now on the verge of reality for citrus fruit destined for the juice processing industry. The abscission process is now understood, and the probability of obtaining registration for cycloheximide, an effective abscission chemical, is good."

"Plant fumigation with ethylene has long been known to produce abscission responses. When ethylene is applied to a tented citrus tree, it is extremely effective in speeding fruit abscission. However, since ethylene is a gas, its use as an abscission chemical in the field is impractical. Chemicals that release ethylene in water solution, or chemicals that cause fruit to produce ethylene, may be practical.

"The data show that there is a wound ethylene-producing system in the citrus peel which is not activated under normal ripening conditions. However, following chemical and physical injury to the rind, wound ethylene is generated by the fruit. The ability of cycloheximide, when applied to the outer surface of the rind, wound ethylene is generated by the fruit. This results in the production of wound ethylene which moves readily to the abscission zone."

"Cycloheximide rind-injury usually consists of small necrotic spots which are associated with a localized accumulation of the chemical solution in droplets at the blossom end of the fruit."

"In our experiments, we found that rubbing the blossom end of Valencia oranges with emery paper caused the fruit to produce more ethylene than cycloheximide-injured fruit. . . . Peeling the rind from oranges stimulated the production of tremendous quantities of ethylene by the rind. . . . Tearing a piece of rind from the stem end of the fruit, as often occurs when fruit is harvested without abscission chemicals, caused a 35-fold increase in ethylene production of the fruit as compared with controls."

"Because only 20 ppm of cycloheximide is required to loosen fruit, the cost per acre is approximately 35 dollars, or approximately 35 cents per tree or 3.5 cents per box. The maximum acceptable cost is about 25 cents. The Food and Drug Administration has granted an experimental permit for spraying of 50 acres of oranges with 20 ppm cycloheximide in Florida during 1971."

Work Study Program To Expand

The Work Study Program for twelfth grade students in Frederick County will be expanded this Fall to all high schools. The program is one in which a senior student spends one half day in school and the other half day works on a job in the community. In past years the program has been operating only at Frederick High and Gov. Thomas Johnson High Schools according to Dick Flaherty, Vocational Coordinator for the Frederick County school system.

Flaherty said that the program provides the employer an opportunity to train the student employee in their company's methods and techniques, and it provides for constant and systematic infusion of beginners into the various businesses that are in need of manpower. He further indicated that from the student's viewpoint, the program provides an opportunity to refine career selection by getting some actual work experience under the supervision of the vocational coordinator.

"With the actual experience in a trade or occupation that he gains in his half day on the job, the gap between school and the world of work is narrowed," Flaherty said. "Students who might otherwise leave and fail to complete high school because of financial difficulties or lack of interest, often stay in school because of this incentive program. It is possible under this program to closely coordinate the school work with experience on the job making the school experience more meaningful for the student."

The student is not the only one who gains, however, because there are numerous advantages for the employer. Not only can he train potential employees in his methods and techniques, but students enrolled in the program are allowed to work additional hours. Students are also given classroom instruction directly related to their particular job area and the employer can count on this additional aid to his training program.

Expansion over the past few years has shown that with students participating in the work study program job retention is greater, resulting in a saving to the employer. Flaherty noted that not only does the student and company benefit, but last year's students in the Frederick County program paid a total of $18,000 in taxes on the wages that they had earned. "With the expansion this coming year," he said, "the teacher coordinators will be better able to fit the individual needs of the students to the individual needs of the companies cooperating with the program and the opportunity to participate will be open to all students in the county."

It is estimated that approximately 232 students will be participating during the coming year. Catocin High School will be included in the program sometime this year. At present the Board of Education is surveying employers in the Emmitsburg and Thurmont areas to determine the number of jobs available for inclusion in the program. Any interested employer should contact Flaherty at the Board of Education in Frederick.

County Contestants To Vie For State Farm Queen Title At Timonium

Twenty-three top county farm girls will compete for the title of 1971 Maryland Farm Queen at the opening day event of the Timonium State Fair on Monday, August 30. Final judging will take place at 8:00 p.m. in the Judging Pavilion on the fair grounds. Each girl will be given a personal interview in preliminary judging in the afternoon. The Frederick County entrant is Cynthia Long of Thurmont.

Master of ceremonies for the final judging will be Paul Rodgers, staff announcer for WCMB Radio in Baltimore.

Each participant in the State Farm Queen contest has been selected by competition in local events under the leadership of county Farm Bureau Women's Committees. She is unmarried, between 16 and 19 years of age, and maintains a home on a farm, although she may be working in town or be in college.

Achievements in farm and/or home economics fields, personality and manners, and general appearance are the basis on which the Maryland Farm Queen is to be selected.

A four year tuition scholarship, worth $1,000, to the University of Maryland, will be awarded the winner, provided she desires to attend and can meet the eligibility requirements. There is an alternate prize of $200 in lieu of the scholarship.

The four runners up, designated as the Queen's Court, will receive prizes of $100 for second place, $75 for third, and $50 for fourth and fifth placings. Other participants will receive $25. All prizes, including a charm bracelet and an official pass to the fair, are donated by the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society.

We have been able to secure several of the best sellers in the local library. "Penmarrie," by Susan Howitz. "The Greening of America," by Charles A. Reich. This book lists the ingredients of the revolution of the new generation. According to Mr. Reich it will not require violence to succeed, and will only change the political structure only as its final act.

Several new books for children were added to the collection recently. "His and Hers, Dating Manners," by Robert H. Loeb, Jr. "Of Course You Can Sew!", by Barbara Corrigan—Basics of sewing for the young beginner. In fiction to delight the Junior High group is "Uncle Forgan's Ghost," by Alice and Budd Westreich. "Rita the Weekend Rat," by Sonia Levitin. "Magic at Wychwood," by Sally Watson. "Haki the Shetland Pony," by Kathleen Fidler.

NYC Rx For A Summer Job

Over 130 students, ages 14 to 18, have found employment this summer through the Neighborhood Youth Corps Program sponsored by the Frederick County Board of Education. Neighborhood Youth Corps is a program that has operated in Frederick County for the past six years and has as its objective the placement of students in work training positions for the purpose of teaching job skills and attitudes and to provide the opportunity for students to earn money to enable them to return to school. John Charity heads up the local effort which has an operating budget for this year of $54,520.

Fifteen students have been working in the Emmitsburg area this summer, ten at the Seton Center and five at the Middle School. Jobs filled by the students include Teachers Aid, Cafeteria Aid, Physical Recreation Teachers Aid, Recreational Aid and Administrative Aid.

Summer time jobs are difficult for all students to obtain and especially so if you happen to be 14 or 15 years old. If in addition you are also a member of a family where extra money is necessary to continue schooling, it is particularly a worrisome problem. The NYC Program moves into this area of need and supplies 234 hours of summer time work in a variety of positions at $1.60 per hour. According to John Charity, Director of the Program, there were 31 job sites available to NYC workers this summer. They included sites at the Board of Education, Fort Detrick, YMCA, C. Burr Arts Library, Housing Authority, and Montevue.

Members of the Frederick County NYC staff are: John H. Charity, Director; Jay M. Jacobs, Counselor; Debra Lee J. Brown, Secretary - Bookkeeper; Valerie E. Allen, Counselor's Aide; and Rebecca R. Sampsell, Counselor's Aide.

Home. Fourteen job classifications were available to the students. These ranged from camp counselor aides with the Day Camp at Fort Detrick to clerical aides at the Board of Education.

Building better work attitudes is also a part of the NYC Program. Workers are counseled about such things as being on the job on time, putting in a full day's work and other aspects of the employee-employer relationship. Since many of the workers are younger students, this part of the program has potentially considerable impact. Of the students working this year; 12% were 14 years old, 36% were 15, 25% were 16, 23% were 17, and 3% of the workers were 18 years old.

According to Mr. Charity, 76% of the workers came from families who had six or more in the household and 40% of the workers came from families whose income was below $3,000. Of the average of 130 students in the program, 23% of the male workers were Negro, 21% of the male workers were White, 35% of the female workers were Negro and 20% of the female workers were White.

This program, which has been successfully operating under directorship of John Charity for the past five years, has generally proven quite successful in meeting its objective, according to local Board of Education officials. Jobs and training for the students have been provided and in many cases it has made the difference financially in whether a student was able to continue his education or not. The program is funded by the U. S. Department of Labor through the Maryland State Department of Education.

BE-CO-NURSE

milk replacer for dairy calves

WHY does
Be-Co-Nurse have outstanding acceptance among dairymen?

More than 75,000 heifer calves each year provide living proof of the top quality nutrition Be-Co-Nurse provides. Why do dairymen come back time after time to start their calves on this high energy milk replacer?

The first reason is they like the results. Be-Co-Nurse fed calves are characterized by smooth, glossy coats, strong skeletal development, alertness, general vigor and rapid early growth.

Be-Co-Nurse contains the same amount of fat as dried whole milk. It provides an exceptionally high level of digestible energy in the form of easily digested lactose (milk sugar) and a high content (25%) of stabilized animal fat. Energy and vitamin absorption is improved by added lecithin.

Each pound of Be-Co-Nurse contains at least 30,000 units of vitamin A, 6,000 units of vitamin D and 23 units of vitamin E plus complete trace mineral fortification. For additional protection against stresses Be-Co-Nurse is also fortified with Aureomycin.

Calves, like babies, make inefficient use of vegetable proteins. Therefore, Be-Co-Nurse contains no such ingredients. Fiber level is less than 0.015%.

Be-Co-Nurse can help your calves become better cows. Why not call us today?

Auxiliary Plans Several Functions

Invitations to attend the joint installation of officers for the Taneytown and Westminster Posts and Units at Frost's Sunnybrook Farm, Westminster, and the Dixon-Troxell Post and Unit of Funktown were received by the Francis X. Elder Unit 121, American Legion Auxiliary and read at their recent meeting conducted by President Carmen Topper. Eleven members were present for the meeting. The minutes and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The president then read all Department Bulletins.

It was voted upon favorably to chance off a hind quarter of beef sometime after the first of the year.

A discussion followed regarding how much of the cost the Auxiliary would pay for lodging for the delegates to the convention in the future. It was moved and seconded that: (1) If any auxiliary members attends as a delegate with her husband, post member or not, the Auxiliary will pay one-half of each night's lodging. (2) If two (2) Auxiliary members attend together as delegates, staying in the same room, the Auxiliary will pay the full price for each night's lodging. (3) If an auxiliary member attends alone as a delegate, the auxiliary will pay the full price for each night's lodging, and (4) If an auxiliary member attends alone as a delegate but has a non-auxiliary member along, the auxiliary will pay one-half of each night's lodging.

A 50-50 bingo party was discussed and will be held sometime in October. A definite date will be set at the September meeting.

A thank-you note was read from Miss Josephine Haley of St. Joseph's High School for the cash award she received for General Excellence in Commercial Subject.

The ladies joined the men of the post for refreshments after the meeting.

Summer Program Ends This Week

Sorry we were again not able to continue the Teen Center program last Saturday night, but it is this time of year that the gym floor must be cleaned and readied for the start of school. However, the floor is now dry and we will be open this weekend.

Saturday night wasn't a total loss at least not for the checker king and queen. Robert Fitz, Emmitsburg's checker king, received a $5.00 cash prize presented by Mrs. Mary Alice Umbel, and Brenda Wilmar, Emmitsburg's checker queen, received a $3.00 cash prize presented by Miss Mary Ann Carpenter. We congratulate both of you.

This Saturday's big feature will be "tie dying." So bring an old T shirt and make it sparkle with bright colors and designs. Instruction will be given but everyone will do their own shirt. This should prove to be a real fun time.

Happy days are here again. Yes, our pool table is now fixed and better than ever, and will be ready for use this Saturday.

The movies on the past 2 Tuesday nights were a big success and enjoyed by all that came.

Although the summer program is officially closed this Saturday night, our program will continue through the school year.

Garden Club Plans Fall Festival Soon

The Silver Fancy Garden Club of Emmitsburg-Taneytown, met on August 19 at the home of Mrs. Keith Brown. Cohostesses Mrs. Charles H. Smith and Mrs. Neil Hawk served refreshments to fifteen members and two guests.

Mr. Walter Bockmiller, Director of Parks and Recreation in Carroll County, spoke to the group concerning the formation of committees of citizens from each community to determine recreational needs in their area. Upon the report of these recreational councils, funds could be requested to help meet the needs. Mr. Bockmiller had high praise for the excellent Memorial Park of Taneytown planned for and provided by its citizens. He spoke of the desirability of planting an herb garden at the Carroll Farm Museum and solicited the interest of the garden club in such a project.

The vice president, Mrs. Charles H. Smith, led the business meeting, most of which was devoted to making plans for Silver Fancy's Fall Festival to be held Saturday, October 2, 2-6 p.m., in Taneytown Memorial Park. (Rain date, Oct. 3) This venture, sponsored by the garden club and made possible through the

Crosier Priests Start New Community

HOME OF THE CROSIERS—Pictured above is the century old farm house on the Mary Famous property between Rocky Ridge and Creagerstown that will be the new home of the Crosier priests and brothers, a Roman Catholic Order of Religious that dates from the Crusades.

A group of five Crosier Priests and Brothers are taking up residence near Rocky Ridge this month. The Mary Famous farm has been leased, with an option to purchase.

The Crosier Fathers are an ancient Order in the Roman Catholic Church. They were founded in Belgium in 1248 by Blessed Theodore DeCelles, upon his return from the Crusades. Like all religious orders in the church, the Crosiers are devoted to practices of prayer, penance and poverty. In addition, they have always been devoted to helping the local bishops and clergy, in their care of the parishes.

K. of C. Sponsoring PP&K Contest

Local boys, ages eight through 13, will soon be loosening up their throwing arms and kicking legs for the 1971 Punt, Pass & Kick competition. Last year 40 local boys participated in the competition.

This year the local level of PP&K will be co-sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, Brute Council 1860, in conjunction with Sperry's Ford Sales Inc.

Nationally PP&K, now in its 11th year, is co-sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted nearly 7.3 million boys, ages eight through 13, and participation this year is expected to top the 1 million mark for the fourth year in a row.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete only against boys their own age. Any boy eight through 13 years of age may register to compete at a participating Ford dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participation does not impair a boy's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on accuracy and range with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Twelve national finalists will compete for the national championship in their age group during the half time of the Super Bowl game in New Orleans January 16, 1972. Winners will have their names permanently enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Boys, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register for PP&K at Sperry's Ford Sales Inc., S. Seton Avenue, Emmitsburg.

Wedding

Mrs. Genevieve Elder, Emmitsburg, maternal grandmother of the bride, was lovely in a soft pink dress, the entire bodice of which was sprinkled with small white seed pearls. White accessories, a white orchid and a large-brimmed hat of woven pink straw, completed her outfit.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception and dinner-dance was held in the Maryland Ballroom of the Sheraton-Silver Spring Hotel with music provided by Miss Lisa Paidakovich and her Band, who were joined by guitarist Gregory Elder, another cousin of the bride, from Charleston, W. Va.

After the reception, the newlyweds flew to the Bahamas for a honeymoon. The bride's travel outfit was a sleeveless red lightweight knitted dress with dropped waist, white pleated skirt, Tyrolean trimmed high neck and white accessories, and a white orchid.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Publisher of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, John D. Elder, and Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder, who still resides here. She is also the niece of the late Editor and Publisher of the Chronicle, C. Arthur Elder, and the cousin of Arthur Spalding Elder of the Chronicle Press, and David Elder. A 1969 graduate of Springbrook High School in Silver Spring, the bride was attending business school until the time of her marriage.

The groom attended the U. of Md. for three years, is a graduate of the National Institute of Computer Professions in Silver Spring, and was employed as a Computer Programmer by Diversified Data Services and Sciences in Bethesda, prior to his Army induction in March.

The newlyweds are presently living in Heidelberg, Germany, where Mr. Godfrey has been assigned to serve out his two year military obligation.

family is so hard and such an emotional thing. Ask almost any person in Emmitsburg what they most remember the Elders for, and they'll usually answer, "The Chronicle." I was only a part of the Chronicle for fifteen years (I am fifteen years old), but I've grown to love it deeply, and I'll always remember it when it used to be "mine."

Sincerely yours,
Lisa Elder Paidakovich
