Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

The following letter was received this week. I think it voices the feelings of our town very well, and I would like to add my appreciation and best wishes to those of the many grateful people in Emmitsburg.

Dear Abigail: Father Harry Kuhn became Emmitsburg's loss and Baltimore's gain, recently. "One man's loss is another man's gain"—seems appropriate here.

In the seemingly few years of Father Kuhn's tenure as associate pastor of St. Joseph's Church, he endeared himself to his parishioners as well as to many of the townspeople.

Father Kuhn was vitally interested in the welfare of his people whether spiritually or worldly and made many friends outside his parish.

All of this was attested to by the warm farewell given in his honor. Being surrounded by several hundred friends wishing him well, is something, I'm sure Father Kuhn will always remember and cherish about Emmitsburg.

How proud for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kuhn of Philadelphia, to have been a part of this occasion; to have felt this display of gratitude and friendship toward their son.

Father Kuhn, our Prayers and Best Wishes go with you to your new assignment at Our Lady of Lourdes, Baltimore, Maryland.

I would like to repeat the welcome extended the college students last week. It certainly is refreshing having them back in the community with us and I for one like to see all the students in Emmitsburg from time to time. However, this week a few students have been seen in the square in something less than what I would call outside clothes. Scanty attire is fine for around home, but I wonder if it is appropriate for visiting in the center of town. Perhaps all of us, oldsters and youngsters alike, should take a second look at our dress before we go out to mix with the community at large.

I am sure that all of us are grateful we were able to get our schools open and working without the violence and turmoil that occurred in some communities. Seems to me that much of it is unnecessary. Who but the local community should know best the problems of the local schools? I would think that most of the problems could be solved locally without intervention from the outside. Most of this increased busing seems unnecessary also. Busing is something that most of our communities contend with but we try to hold it to a minimum without taking rides just to be on a bus.

I would like to congratulate those folks who have been doing their fall building maintenance. In and around the square there has been some painting and tuck pointing going on. This is great and keeps Emmitsburg looking great. Nothing looks better than a well maintained building being used for a good purpose.

Farm activities seem to vary widely as many farmers are in a short lull between harvest of major crops. The job seen most frequently of late is preparation of fields for fall seeding of grains, with some seeding alfalfa. Progress seems to be improved after fields dried from the soaking of the previous weekend. Soil moisture looks good with the exception of low and slow draining spots. We might be able to use a little more rain to be sure that our total stays up to normal, last week was pretty dry.

Letter To The Editor

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I should like to dispel certain rumors which I understand are circulating regarding the Weekday Center for Children which I have each winter in my home.

First, the rumor that I am not having the Center this year is false. The first session will meet on Monday, October 4.

Second, the rumor that I am taking three year olds is also false. I am now registering children who will be four, five, or six during this present year of 1971. Registration will close on Saturday, September 25. More information may be obtained by phoning 447-2270 or coming to 220 West Main Street to see me.

Thank you for this courtesy in helping to spread the truth.

EDITORIAL

On July 22, The Chronicle published a request from Parks and Recreation Commissioner Eugene Myers in which he asked for the thinking of the citizens of Emmitsburg on the preliminary planning for a new town park. About a week later, Myers indicated that there had been only a few comments made by townspeople. Querried yesterday, he advised that the total to date has been about a half dozen.

Last week The Chronicle reported the first meeting of the Citizens Committee formed to advise Bushy and Burrey, architects who will design the new Emmitsburg elementary school and asked for community reaction and citizen comment. An incomplete survey of committee members today indicates very few comments have been forthcoming.

In the case of the school, one week is admittedly a short time, however, the committee has been allowed only one month in the overall schedule to complete a community use (educational) plan for the school. If this schedule is to be met, time is of the essence and all comments will have to be made quickly. In the case of the park, there has been ample time for all citizens to think over the project, form opinions and convey them to Myers or other Commissioners.

One comment heard from several sources in recent months is that Emmitsburg never gets anything for the town and other areas of Frederick County care very little about what happens in Emmitsburg. If true, could this have been caused by failure of the townspeople to involve themselves in community projects or failure of representatives of Emmitsburg to involve themselves in county projects? It has been our experience that things happen in life only when somebody or some group does something and things do not happen when people sit on their hands or seal their lips. Constructive action grows from conversation, discourse and debate. Let's make the new park an Emmitsburg park and the new school an Emmitsburg school by getting everyone in town involved. Seek out the committee members and offer comments. Perhaps when everyone sees the benefits that can accrue from this approach others will get involved in several different town and county projects and many new facilities will come to Emmitsburg.

When a local group is charged with the responsibility of working on a new project, the citizenry places a great burden on them if it does not offer many suggestions and comments so that the end result will include the thinking of as many people as possible. Although the size of all groups must be limited in order to get anything done, projects worked on by a few run the danger of not reflecting a broad range of community thinking. Rather than comment in the beginning it is always easier to sit back and do nothing until the project is done, and then shoot holes in it.

In the case of the school and to a lesser extent with the park, some very fundamental questions have to be answered before the community use plans can be finalized. These revolve around the amount of combined use desired for these facilities. It has been suggested that the Public Library, Health Department, and Teen Center youth activities be located within the new school facility and recreational tennis courts and swimming pool be located near the school facility for combined use of locker rooms, toilets, etc. Are these good ideas? The respective groups are going to decide and their decisions will be based on the thinking of all the groups responsible for these activities and hopefully as many townspeople as possible.

We are sure that Emmitsburg will have a new Elementary School and a new Town Park. The groups responsible for planning these accomplishments are going to consider all available facts so that their final decisions are the ones which will be the best for Emmitsburg as they see it. Whether or not the decisions will include your thinking depends upon you. Now is the time to speak. Of course there will be some who prefer to remain silent which is their privilege. However, in the exercise of that privilege one loses the luxury of later criticism of the final result. We are reminded of the old adage "Speak now or forever hold your peace", and would hope that all local citizens would follow its well conceived advice.

The following cities and towns, and all post offices with Zip Codes beginning with 217, 172, 226 and 254, are included in our local area, and all 1st class letters mailed before 5:30 p.m. (from the drop inside our Post Office Lobby) will be guaranteed next-day delivery:

Capitol Comment

U.S. Senator

Limiting the Wealthy In Campaign Spending

The subject of campaign reform is not a new one. As early as 1906 Congress decided to take a probing look into the subject of campaign contributions and their effect upon the credibility of government. It was recognized early in the history of our Republic that the way we elect representatives of the people and officials of the government affects the quality and responsiveness of government itself.

I don't have to recite the extent to which we are now faced with campaign abuses. We all read the newspapers. We all watch television. We have all been involved in political campaigns. The call for reform is ringing across the country. The longer Congress delays the task of enacting meaningful legislation, the greater the risk of losing more and more to the growing number of Americans who have become detached and apathetic about government and its processes—dropouts from the American political system.

Any casual student of American government will recognize the political sensitivity of such a legislative endeavor. It affects the political destiny of every member of Congress as well as the Presidency. There is no subject with greater vested interest.

The Senate has responded. Shortly before the August recess, it passed legislation which will, if it survives the succeeding legislative steps, make a major contribution to our democratic systems.

One portion of this bill is an amendment I introduced with Senator Lawton Chiles of Florida which prevents rich men from contributing millions of dollars to their own quests for public office.

While it was difficult to set any fixed amount, we decided that limiting a candidate for President to $50,000 of his own money and candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives to $35,000 and $25,000 respectively would help to equalize the gap between candidates who are independently wealthy and those who are not.

Senator Chiles and I were prompted to action by spending reports from the 1970 elections which showed that in one case, a candidate and his family contributed several million dollars to the candidate's unsuccessful campaign for the Senate. We believed the fact he did not succeed in his effort to gain election was due more to the three-way nature of the contest (one of his opponents, the winner, was also a millionaire) than the failure of his millions to bring attention to his campaign.

It is important to assure that no one group or individual, through financial power, dominates or unduly influences an election to the disservice of the broad public interest. Limitations on the amount a candidate and his family may contribute to his campaign should help to bring about this desirable objective.

For too long, the charge that politics has become a rich man's game has gone unanswered. It is my hope that this amendment will remain in any campaign spending legislation sent to the President so opportunities for public service can be opened to individuals from all walks of life and economic levels. To do less is to deprive our nation of potential leadership.

717-642-8481

Hello! I hope you all had a pleasant and safe holiday weekend. Whether you traveled, had a back-yard cook-out, or just used the day to "catch up" on some work like we did, it was nice to have a day apart from regular routine, wasn't it?

Sorry, kids, but Labor Day over means back to school. Bet you're glad to be back now that you have really started, though.

Have a list of some of our young men and women going to college. If I omit the name of your son or daughter, please tell me so I can publish it next week. Tommy Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanders, Sr., returned to Beckley Jr. College, Beckley, W. Va., for his sophomore year; Mike Cornwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cornwell, entered Millersville State College, Millersville, Pa., as a freshman; Jim Rebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Rebert, entered Shippensburg State College as a freshman; Jack Deardorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Deardorff, returned to Valparaiso College, Valparaiso, Ill., for his sophomore year; Kathy Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyle, entered Elizabethtown College as a freshman; Doug Weikert, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Weikert, will leave Sept. 9 to begin his training in the Navy at Great Lakes, Ill. Good luck to all of these young people.

Mr. and Mrs. George Flenner and son, Douglas, have returned from a visit with Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Baker, Lawton, Okla. Mrs. Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flenner.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bucher have returned from a camping trip into Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, Mrs. Rose Moritz, and Miss Audrey Moritz, attended the wedding of Miss Lucille Patricia Loyd and Mr. Louis John Rosen at St. Francis Xavier Church, Gettysburg, on Saturday morning.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dolly, R1, who celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary on Sept. 1. The Dolly's were married at the home of the groom, the Dolly Brothers Farm, R1, by Rev. Charles Coffelt, the pastor of Zion Lutheran Church. Mr. Dolly retired from farming in 1959. Mrs. Dolly, the former Margie Hummer of Arendtsville, has been employed by Knouse Foods, Orrtanna, for the past 25 years. The couple has two sons, Richard, Pinellas, Florida, and Thomas, Fairfield R1. They also have three grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Auginbaugh and daughter, Tammy, R1, have returned from a vacation trip to Fredericksburg, Va. They toured Luray Caverns among other sights.

Pastor and Mrs. Lloyd Seiler, son, Lloyd, Jr., and daughter, Wilhemina, have returned from a month's vacation in West Virginia.

Mrs. Robert Kint, Thomasville, Pa., was guest of honor at a surprise stork shower, given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Alexander, R1, recently. Hostesses were Mrs. Kenneth Buohl and Miss Patricia Alexander. The guests included Mrs. Ruth Powell, Mrs. Bessie Seiferd, Mrs. Guy Seiferd, Mrs. Ray Powell, Mrs. George Seiferd, Miss Sandy Seiferd, Miss Sally Sites, Miss Anna Rebert, all of Fairfield; Mrs. Ronald Currens and Mrs. Robert Corbin of Hanover; Mrs. Catherine Kint, Waynesboro, and Mrs. Alice Sanders, Biglerville. Games were played and refreshments were served. Those who sent gifts but were unable to attend were Mrs. Robert Gilmore, Mrs. Emma Rebert and Miss Donna White, Fairfield.

The Good Timers and the Luther League, both of St. John's Lutheran Church, will compete in a softball game at the school grounds next Sunday (Sept. 12) at 4 p.m. If you cannot participate on either team, this game should be fun to watch.

Employees and correspondents of the ACIP and their families will hold a picnic at the Charnita Pavillion Sunday, Sept. 19.

Bill Rombin tells me they were very pleased with their anniversary sale this year. "We have more people attending the sale every year," Bill remarked. He said this will be an annual event (this was their third) and they are going to start concentrating more on building up business in the store instead of mostly catalog orders. I think this is a good idea. Pictures just cannot show the articles as they really are when you see them in the shop.

Parents of Fairfield Boy Scout Troop 76 were entertained Aug. 30 at Lions Park by the scouts and their scoutmaster, Bob Fissel, at Court of Awards night. Congratulations to Mike Fissel who received the Eagle Scout award—the first time this award has been given in Fairfield since Jim Hammett, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Hammett, received the Eagle Scout award two years ago. James Michael Fissel is the son of Robert Fissel, Main St. Mike has apparently been working very hard this year as he also received a bronze palm K. Sites, Fairfield. Congratulations, all of you.

We send get well wishes to Mrs. Grace Newman, R1; Mrs. Jennie Scordo, Charnita; and Mr. Eston White, R2. Mr. White broke his hip in a fall at his home, Friday.

Why digging lawn weeds is a thing of the past.

TURF BUILDER PLUS 2 is made especially for people who hate lawn weeds and love healthy green grass. It's easy to use — nothing to mix, measure or spray. PLUS-2 clears out most common non-grass weeds, roots and all, so they can't grow back as they do after digging or cutting. And that's not all. PLUS-2 also full-fertilizes your grass at the same time. Makes it grow greener, thicker, sturdier. The time to spread PLUS-2 is now, while weeds are growing. Then sit back and enjoy a better lawn this fall and next spring too.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Housing Outlook Favors S&Ls
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., September 9, 1971—The common stocks of the savings and loan associations have rebounded sharply with the Administration's announcement of its new economic game plan. Much of this enthusiasm is attributed to the anticipated increase in loan demand and the lessened fear of disintermediation (withdrawal of funds to place in other higher-yield opportunities). The outlook for loans should be enhanced by the stable or generally lower interest rates resulting from this new program, permitting the S&Ls to compete more favorably for the savings dollar.

Record Savings Rate
Savings deposits have been flowing in at a record rate thus far in 1971. While it is doubtful that such a pace may long continue, it has nevertheless placed the S&L industry in a strong position to cope with the expanding demand for mortgage loans.

This improved liquidity has also allowed the Savings and Loans to repay the expensive Federal Home Loan Bank advances that were made during the tight money periods of 1969 and early 1970. The current rate of these FHLB funds is 6 3/4%, which is quite costly compared with the 5% paid on regular pass book deposits. Along with the decline in rates paid on term deposits, this resulted in solid first-half earnings gains for most S&Ls. We expect this upward trend to continue.

Loan Demand Perking Up
The substantial improvement in demand for mortgage loans in the past few months is in sharp contrast to mortgage demand last year, when business was flagging badly and rates on mortgage loans were historically high. There has been a considerable decline in rates from the peaks of twelve months ago, with chances favoring a sideways movement for the balance of the year. The increase in the volume of loans has, however, offset much of the decline in rates.

It is generally agreed that housing construction will be a significant contributor to the economic recovery. And, based on recent statistics for housing starts, residential construction appears to be heading upward. This should result in a higher demand for mortgage loans for the remainder of this year and into 1972. Over the longer term, the market for housing—which in turn governs demand for mortgage money—should show good growth. All this points the way toward more favorable conditions for the S&Ls.

FHLB's Growing Importance
The business weakness and the tightness of money over the past two years gave the Federal Home Loan Bank an especially good opportunity to demonstrate its importance to the savings and loan industry. In order to help the faltering S&Ls, the FHLB loosened reserve requirements, permitted the establishment of higher and more competitive savings interest rates, and made them special advances. Last month reserve requirements were lowered in order to abate the climb in mortgage interest rates which began during the spring months. If this action should fail to get the desired results, the FHLB has indicated that it will reduce the rates charged on FHLB advances.

In addition, last year the Federal Home Loan Bank created a secondary market for conventional loans with the formation of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation. Even more recently, it has proposed less stringent requirements on participation loans and has made provisions whereby S&Ls can make conventional loans with only a 5% down payment. These actions should serve to make the S&Ls more important factors in the mortgage market on a national scale over the years ahead. It also demonstrates the concern felt by the federal government for the housing market and how important the construction of residential homes is to the general recovery of the nation's economy.

The Research Department of Babson's Reports recommends Imperial Corporation (NYSE) for its long-term appreciation potential.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Old Tom's Church
Lutheran Church

"We remember them our shining ones, who shed about us their Immortality — We think of those who here found the happy life, and who now have passed to Remembrance. "We bury our dead with a prayer—not for them—but—for us. We find our dead still with us, surprising a silent thought with familiar voices — by their presence holding us to our best. "We speak our Love but no farewell—Our dead return." —Emerson

In the course of this study, both historical and genealogical, of the Emmitsburg Lutheran congregation it must not be forgotten that prior to the building of Elias Church there was an earlier site and more primitive edifice — the old Tom's Creek church and burial ground. Here—the pioneer Lutherans of Frederick County—with incredible sacrifice built their first house of worship and here buried their dead—in ground consecrated by their toil and devotion. The people of the Elias church of today—owe a debt to the past and to that great and good man—the Rev. John George Bager (Baugher). Visit the ancient graveyard at Tom's Creek—show some appreciation for that which your pioneer ancestors wrought for posterity. They built well and truly—life was not easy—on the contrary—and—now "they do rest from their labors."

Recently—through the help of friends and sheer good luck some additional data pertaining to old Tom's Creek church and graveyard has been made available. This includes a picture of the second church, built after the union of the Lutheran and Reformed congregations. But—more important—additional material pertaining to the old burial ground and the people interred therein. Before continuing the genealogical account of the Ohler family, of Tom's Creek Hundred, this new material will be given.

It must be remembered that the early Lutherans at Tom's Creek purchased one "given acre" of ground on which to build their church and lay their dead to rest. The present fence, enclosing the old site, does not include that amount of ground—far from it. Therefore it stands to reason that some of the graves lay outside the fence — the markers long since lost and the names unknown. The historian Helman writes that the dead here were "buried three and four deep" for this was the only graveyard within a large radius with the exception of the Close family burial ground. In the early part of the twentieth century a daughter of John Sluss, who was one of the "more recent burials" at old Tom's Creek—visited the graves of her ancestors. She was shocked at the state of the churchyard—the wire fence was in a very bad state of repair—as a matter of fact it had completely disappeared in some places. On her return to Baltimore this daughter of the church arranged to have a new and strong fence around the churchyard. This was done—but—a short time thereafter Mrs. Alice V. Longley, the donor, died. But the fence remains—a tribute to her generosity and love of the past.

Many of the old gravestones have disappeared from the Tom's Creek churchyard—as a matter of fact—about the year 1902—an entire row of gravestones in the middle of the old burial ground—were taken out and piled under the large hickory tree, which is still standing in the southwest corner of the grounds. They remained there for some time then were taken away and put to more utilitarian uses on nearby farms. The people whose rights were thus ignored were members of the Smith, Row, Ohler, Gaugh, Hocken-smith, Wentz, and Forney families—among others.

In the northeast corner of the churchyard there were a large "number of German stones" (gravestones with inscriptions in German). Today only the two Oyster (Eyster) stones remain — the others have long since disappeared—for the graves lay outside the fence and have been "plowed under."

In 1782 the Lutheran and Reformed congregations of Tom's Creek united and built a new church on the site of the first. Here they worshipped until 1797 when the present stone church (Elias) was built in Emmitsburg. The Methodists of Tom's Creek, who hitherto had held services in the schoolhouse and homes of the members, took over the old log church, standing in the midst of the graveyard, and thereafter it was known as Tom's Creek Methodist church. The churchyard for this congregation is just across the road from the Lutheran and Reformed plot.

In course of time the log walls of the church were covered with siding and other repairs were made from time to time. In appearance it was a plain structure—there was one door — in the west end—with a window on either side of it. There were three windows—of plain glass—on both sides of the building—with two additional ones—on either side of the pulpit, which stood in the east end. In the winter time a "pot-bellied" stove stood in the center aisle — the only means of heating the building. The hitching grounds were to the west.

In due course of time the Methodist congregation built a new church—some little distance from their burial ground. Again the old structure, which has seen so many "come and go" (stood deserted and in 1905 (or "thereabouts") it was torn down and the materials sold.

According to a member of the Tom's Creek Methodist congregation who remembers the old church quite well and lived on a nearby farm — "George A. Ohler bought some of the materials and built a summer kitchen with them. He also bought the doors and they can still be seen in the Rupp house.

"Two of the windows ended up in a chicken house. "Some of the pews are in the Sunday School Department of the present Tom's Creek Methodist church. This congregation also saved the original pulpit and it is still in use. The three Windsor chairs, presented by the Gilson family, are still in use in the new church. The two chairs that originally stood behind the pulpit—one is still used by the Methodist congregation, while the other was presented to one of the early ministers, who had it restored."

In addition to the data given above an interesting story pertaining to a burial in the Methodist churchyard was also related. "Tom Shorb, a member of the Roman Catholic Church, was buried in the Methodist ground — after night. He lived in a little house located on the Krise farm. He was brought to the burial ground in a spring wagon and buried—without a service of any kind. The following Sunday the Methodist minister announced that a burial had been made in the churchyard and no rites held."

Chas. Byrd Quintet To Play At Mount

The popular guitar of Charlie Byrd and his Quintet will appear Wednesday, Sept. 15, in the memorial gym on the Mount Saint Mary's College campus. The program is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., and is open to the public at no charge.

Filling out the rest of the quintet will be Mario Derpino on the flute, Hal Posey on flugelhorn, drummer Billy Reichenbach, and Charlie's brother, Joe Byrd, on bass. Among Charlie Byrd's credentials as a musician are over thirty-five albums in four fields of music, top prizes in the Downbeat Critics Poll, Metronome Jazz Poll, and the Playboy Jazz Poll three times. His musical background includes nine years of classical study, part of the time spent under a scholarship with Andre Segovia, and solo appearances with the Washington National, Baltimore, and Minneapolis Symphony Orchestras. Byrd is the man credited with bringing the Bossa Nova to this country. Byrd has also composed the scores for the motion picture, "Bleep" and the play "The Conversion of Patrolman O'Connor" due to open on Broadway in late September.

The program is sponsored by the Cultural Events Committee of Mount St. Mary's College.

At that point he asked the entire congregation to follow him to the burial ground and assist him in the burial service. This was done and Tom Shorb received the blessing and lost offices of the church."

The data pertaining to the Ohler family of Tom's Creek Hundred, with its many branches, will be continued in this series next week. After the Ohlers—the Hockensmiths and the Maxells of Maxell's Mill, will be given due consideration.

SILVER FOR A QUEEN... Michelle Ehrgott, Avondale, Md., who will represent the State of Maryland in the Miss America contest at Atlantic City this month, receives a service of silver in the lovely "Quadrille" pattern from Samuel Kirk & Son, Baltimore... America's oldest silversmith.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters may be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

What is the status of the Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act of 1971? What are its major provisions?

This bill is currently before the House and would prohibit unregulated dumping of waste materials into the oceans, coastal waters and Great Lakes. Specifically, the bill would ban the transportation and dumping of radiological, chemical or biological warfare agents and high-level radioactive wastes. The dumping of all other waste material would be prohibited unless authorized by a permit issued by the Environmental Protection Agency or the Corps of Engineers. The EPA would designate sites for qualified ocean dumping and develop an extensive program of monitoring the effects of such allowable dumping in the ocean. Finally, the bill would authorize the Secretary of Commerce to designate as marine sanctuaries those areas of the oceans, coastal waters and Great Lakes which he finds necessary "for the purpose of preserving or restoring, for their conservation, recreational, ecological or esthetic values."

What are the duties of a Capitol Page and how can I get detailed information on the program?

Pages of the United States Senate, the House of Representatives and the Supreme Court are assigned to routine yet important duties in each of the three bodies. Though their work is varied, pages serve principally as messengers, carrying material between the Capitol and Members' offices and committees. In the respective chambers, pages prepare the desks, seats or bench for the day's work. During the daily sessions they run errands for individual Members. Individuals interested in gaining further insight into the program should contact my office for a copy of the Capitol Page School Handbook.

Does the President's Council on Physical Fitness have any "pep talk" films available to encourage junior high school students to keep trim and fit?

A 10-minute, 16 mm. color film entitled "The President Speaks for Fitness," is available on a free loan basis from the Council. The film was shot during the President's February White House reception for members of the Council and the Advisory Conference on Physical Fitness and Sports. In it President Nixon expresses his convictions about the importance of competition and physical activity in our free society.

When I saw you on a recent tour you mentioned a booklet that describes the various programs of the National Park Service. What is it and where can I get a copy?

The booklet I was referring to is the National Park Service 1971 briefing book. It is a report on the people and programs of the National Park Service and covers such areas as park management principles, advisory commissions and boards, park service organization, environmental concepts and legislative landmarks. You may order a copy of the briefing book by writing my office here in Washington.

Silvery Maine Sardines Make Choice Tailgate Fare

A pre-game picnic on a station wagon's tailgate . . . or a quickie picnic put-together for a spontaneous outing to see red-and-gold foliage . . . will be enhanced by yard or foot-long submarines which can be assembled on arrival. These subs rate a delicacy status because they are made with shimmering silvery Maine sardines which are becoming more and more choice as the supply dwindles in the North Atlantic—these tasty little fishes have been increasingly scarce for three years.

All-American Tailgaters' Submarine

Slice long loaf crusty bread lengthwise; spread inside with mayonnaise. Lay on a bed of crisp lettuce and top with slices of beefsteak tomatoes, Bermuda onion rings and sliced hard-cooked eggs. Arrange sardines generously on top. Cover with top half of loaf and slice sandwiches diagonally the length of eaters' appetites. Accompany with hot bouillon, apples and soft drinks.

Soppamarino D'Italia

Slice Italian bread by above recipe. Brush with olive oil. Lay on a bed of rucchetta, sliced Provolone cheese, pickled sweet red peppers and sardines. Sprinkle with crushed oregano. Slice and serve with hot clam broth, Emperor grapes and Chianti.

Mexican Submarine

Slice long crusty bread as above. Spread with chili sauce. Lay on chichory, sliced Mexican pepper cheese, avocado slices, mild pepper pickles and sardines. Slice and serve with hot spiced tomato juice, late-summer watermelon and Mexican beer.

Miniature French Subs

Slice foot-long French loaves as above. Spread with mayonnaise and Dijon mustard. Lay on a bed of watercress; sprinkle with crumbled Roquefort cheese and top with sardines. Serve with ripe olives, apricot bars and champagne.

FLYING PENNANTS to accompany all submarines under way: radishes, celery sticks, silvered fennel, sliced cucumber or chayote, green pepper rings, carrot sticks, cauliflowerets and cherry-tomatoes. IDEA: Plan a party and fly tiny international flags (on toothpicks) from the top of each submarine.

WEATHER REPORT

Are Fish Fast Swimmers?

Not many anglers have time to think about how fast a fish swims when he's hooked, but one thing is sure—he's probably going as fast as he can.

How much speed do fish develop? There's a wide variation between species and even within a specie as far as ordinary travel, top speed and highest sustainable speed are concerned.

Information gathered by the fishing department at Mercury outboards shows that most anglers tend to overestimate the speed of hooked fish swimmers. One of the fastest species is the barracuda, and they have been experimentally clocked at 27 miles per hour. Its doubtful if other fast species, such as tuna, wahoo and marlin, exceed this rate. Brown trout swim at just over five miles an hour, while striped bass have been checked at 12 mph.

Experiments have shown that fish swim by alternately contracting muscles on each side of their body, in effect pushing themselves against the water. How long the fish is, and the rate at which its tail oscillates, determine the speed.

Vertical fins, such as the dorsal, anal and caudal, are used mostly for balance. Paired fins, generally the pectoral fins, are used for steering.

Some of the flat fishes, such as flounders and rays, move by undulating their bodies in a flattened sine wave. Visualize this movement as a flag held horizontally in a stiff wind.

Some fish, such as anglerfish, propel themselves by jetting streams of water through their gills. Many other species use this same method to assist them in turns, along with body and fin movements.

Generally speaking, most species of freshwater fish are capable of extreme speed for only a short distance. This is helpful in securing food, or escaping from another predator. And, undoubtedly, when a fish is hooked, it calls upon reserve strength to make a final slashing run through the water in a desperate bid for freedom.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

After Senate Recess

Before the Congress adjourned for its August recess, Congressional leaders indicated publicly that the legislative business might be profitably handled once the session resumed. This optimism was brought about by the fact that the 92nd Congress had already approved all but four of the major appropriations bills within several weeks of the beginning of the new fiscal year, a much better record than in recent years.

Now, however, when the House and the Senate convene on September 7, the President's economic proposals, which need legislative approval, will be added to the substantial pending legislation making the outlook for an October adjournment quite dim.

Several weeks ago in this column, I mentioned the three initiatives sent by the President to Congress bearing on the Nation's economy. These are integral parts of the President's policy and will require swift action to make certain that the present upward momentum of the economy is maintained. Perhaps most important is the job development credit which, it is estimated, would produce 500,000 new jobs by next Spring.

Also before both houses will be the proposals to repeal the 7% auto excise tax and speed up increased tax exemptions so that they will become effective in 1972. Both measures will encourage consumer spending and give the economy additional momentum.

In addition to these proposals of high priority, several other significant legislative matters will require attention soon after resumption of business. The draft has expired and the new extension is now again before the Senate for final approval. The issue here is not the draft but, in fact, the date for withdrawal of all U. S. troops from Vietnam.

The Defense Appropriations Bill is one of those still remaining for action and it will bring hot debate to the floor this Fall.

Other remaining business includes the authorization bill for the Office of Economic Opportunity and the poverty program, foreign aid authorizations and the appropriations for the District of Columbia.

There will also be consideration of several bills on which I have been working in Committee, the Federal Water Pollution Program and new health manpower legislation. Both of these are highly significant since they will help to shape Federal policy and programs in these areas for years to come.

It will, therefore, be a busy Fall session for the Congress—a session which will be filled with important decisions for both the immediate and long range future. The early optimism about a swift conclusion of business has vanished in all quarters by now.

marriage and a career of homemaking. For most of the others it means: a job. There are about 1,000,000 young Americans coming out of school each year who must have new jobs. Most of these jobs must be in business and industry, and must be newly created—a million new jobs a year!

Who are the job-makers? The productive job-makers, those that make new wealth, are the businesses and industries of America. Government makes a few thousand jobs each year but such jobs produce no wealth and are, in fact, dependent upon the wealth-producing job-makers in business and industry.

These are very simple economic facts, and yet among the 7,000 young people with whom I worked through the summer in citizenship seminars very few were acquainted with them. Not many realized how important to their present and future well-being is the economic health of American business and industry. In fact many had been persuaded by propaganda and the wide-spread attack on industry as a whole that the American businessman is evil and the private enterprise system detrimental to human progress. This can be a fatal untruth if allowed to go unchallenged—fatal to young people, fatal to the nation.

The Job-Makers
Who are the two best known wealth-producing job-makers in America in 1971? General Motors and American Telephone and Telegraph Corporation. Their profits have been about 10 per cent (on the sales dollar). Because expensive machine tools installed by these companies permit great production per man-hour, blue-collar employees make $30 to $50 in an 8-hour day. When the unions demand more pay without expanded man-hour production, prices of the products have to be hiked. The consumers pay the bill. A management executive of one of America's biggest farm implement companies told me that all American industry now is suffering in the world market, more and more unable to meet the price competition.

Facts For The Young
This is one of the big factors in today's higher-than-normal unemployment figure. Industry people cited the situation in the American steel industry as typical of what's happening. A recent report showed that in the U. S. Steel industry the average wage rate was $5.60 per hour. In the German steel industry the average wage at the time was $2.65 per hour, and in Japan the average was $1.83. Lower-cost German and Japanese steel was robbing American steel producers of customers in the world market. Sales in the world market permitted the American companies, in the past, to expand and make new jobs.

An industry executive cited figures showing that in Japan productivity is going up about 12 per cent a year, and in Germany about 8 to 10 per cent. In three of the five big industries whose executive management I interviewed prior to our last youth citizenship seminar, there has been no increase in man-hour productivity during the last year. This is a serious situation in most of American industry, with wage rates rising and productivity either standing still, or even in some cases actually declining.

Youth Being Alienated
Such facts aren't being pointed out to our young people in the high schools and colleges of America. Thus we have a generation coming along that, in large measure, can be turned against the American system and may, down the line, become willing to throw it overboard. My contacts in American industry point to the fact that the unions in West Germany and Japan have so far been willing to accept pay increases based on increased man-hour productivity, thus keeping their products highly competitive in the world market.

Another fact that bothers American industry is that it is getting blamed, because of anti-establishment propaganda, for most of the pollution in America. Industry leaders point out that billions of dollars have been spent on pollution control by American industry in the last 10 years, and that industry has done most of the work in this field, while government and groups of agitators have sounded as if industry has done nothing. Industry is actually doing more in this area than either government or the public.

Always keep a safe distance between your car and the one in front.

Decorated firearms have had universal appeal since hand cannons evolved into pistols, shotguns and rifles. As early as the sixteenth century, deluxe arms reached American shores from Europe. But gun engraving in America traces its major influences to the German and Austrian craftsmen who emigrated in the 1840s, 1850s and 1860s. — Sports Afield.

I miss your sweet smile, and hearing your voice, more than words can tell. They say time heals all wounds but no one knows how much time, until they have lost a dear one like you. No one can take your place, and be any kinder or any better than you were. I never got to say goodbye to you that fateful morning, but my thoughts were of you always, and still are. Sadly missed Your Loving Son Dan

The Nail Story

Why, oh why does it seem you never have time to do your nails? If you're like me, you hate sitting for 25 minutes going round while the polish dries. You usually give in, pick up a look and . . . oops!—you've messed them up again. Even worse, you spend a precious hour and a half with moisturizer, creamer and polish—your nails finally look gorgeous, and three days later they're chipped! Don't give up! I've found a few tips that may help you.

First, remove old polish and apply cuticle remover just before your bath and shower. This eliminates spending extra time washing, soaking and later creaming your hands. Then do your filing whenever you have a spare minute — while riding in the car or watching television. Now, just before you go to bed apply one coat of polish carefully. Cover the sides, and most importantly—the underneath of your nail.

When it's dry enough so it won't smudge, you're ready for slumber, and your polish will have all night to completely harden. The next morning—or the next night—again, right before bed, apply a second coat.

If your polish continues to chip, remember these rules: 1. Throw away old polish. 2. Wipe the top of your polish bottle with a bit of kleenex and remove; then close the cap tightly. When air escapes into the bottle, it causes your polish to become old quickly. 3. Use rubber gloves when you're doing housework. This is good for your hands as well as your nails. 4. Keep your nails filed to a medium length unless you are a model or never do housework.

How to make Nature and Turf Builder work together for a better lawn!

Fall represents a unique opportunity for land-owners. It's the one time of year when Nature puts all the odds in your favor — weather, temperature and the natural tendency of grass to develop new roots, rhizomes and side shoots (tillers). Best thing you can do to encourage this process is to fertilize now—with TURF BUILDER. It is the prolonged-release fertilizer that gives up its nutrients only as the grass needs them. So there's no spindly topgrowth to cause extra mowing. Instead, TURF BUILDER greatly multiplies the greening and thickening processes of grass. Makes your lawn grow greener, thicker and sturdier — this fall and next spring too.

IN EMMITSBURG

Hello there!
Can you imagine being gathered in the sitting room for a whole evening with the family and never once mentioning radio, basketball, Communists, TV, trouble with the combine or the automatic washer, just to mention a few? Well Mrs. Susan C. Morrison, our oldest local citizen, who just recently celebrated her one hundred first birthday, can; these things weren't even thought of then.

Mrs. Morrison was born on a farm near Rocky Ridge, the daughter of Charles and Laura Waesche. For a number of years the Morrison's lived on their family farm presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Seiss. Upon retirement from farming the family moved to their home in town, and in 1913 they moved to Baltimore. Mrs. Morrison has lived about half her life in Emmitsburg. She makes her home with her daughter, Elizabeth, and son-in-law, J. Lester Nester, on Harney Road.

In addition to Elizabeth, she has three sons, William Edward, Charles Archie and George W.; two grandsons, and three great grandchildren. Mrs. Morrison has been an active and faithful member of the Arlington Methodist Church, Baltimore, and in 1967 a group from the WSCS of the church, with her pastor, met at her home here to present her with a citation for her loyal dedication and faithful service to her church.

She is the proud recipient of a congratulatory message from President Nixon and the Supt. of the Social Security Dept., on her birthday.

Dainty little Mrs. Morrison, who spends much of her time in bed or a wheel chair, greets you with an endearing smile. She does not hear as well as she once did but when asked what she attributed her longevity—without hesitation and a sparkle in her eye, she said, "Hard work—a good heart—and faith and trust in God," and then adds "good care by the family."

If Mrs. Morrison's only claim to fame is her good long life, think of the history she has lived!

The Community Chorus, under the direction of Sr. Jane Marie, will meet in the music room at St. Joseph's on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m. Now is the time to join the group for the winter season.

The Thurmont and Emmitsburg Granges will again hold their Community Show at Catoctin High School Sept. 17 and 18. Entries will be received Thursday, 7 to 9 p.m., and Friday, 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Entertainment each night.

Mike Kreitz, James Martin and John Martin, attended the Colt game at the Baltimore Stadium Friday night. Mike and Julie Kreitz, Allen Burton, John and James Martin, attended the Oriole game on Monday.

The Adult Education Class in Ceramics, one of Emmitsburg's Lifelong Learning Council courses will hold its first meeting on Monday, Sept. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the third floor of Brute building at St. Joseph College. Entire cost, $8. Woodworking, typing, sewing, and home nursing, plan to be offered. Some interested folks have inquired about a course in Horticulture. If you're interested, call and let them know. Maybe you would be interested in something for your leisure time—some short courses may be arranged like bridge, knitting, flower arranging, Christmas decorations, beginning guitar, dog obedience, etc. It could be adding to your fun hours.

Miss Carolyn Keilholtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Keilholtz, is resuming her studies at Towson State College this week. Their son, Timothy, is attending the West Virginia University, studying forestry.
