Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Emmitsburg now has a working Park Board and I think this is just great. Now we need some interested citizens to develop our existing park and any additional land which may be acquired into one of the best park facilities in Frederick County. It can happen. All it takes is a little more work on the part of those who would like to see a good park for our town. Commissioners Myers and Topper have been the spark plugs so far and we are all in their debt for their work so far. I'm sure the Park Board will find a way to get the rest of the job done so that we will have a greatly improved facility by this time next year. If they call on you to help, be sure to lend a hand.

I hear more and more talk of a Community Center for Emmitsburg which would include the new Elementary School, Health Department, and Public Library. The school would be used for regular youth meetings and any needed community meetings. A few weeks ago the talk was about location of health and library facilities in the school. Apparently these activities are too important to be combined in the school, but it makes a good deal of sense to locate them with the school in a Community Center so that every economy of operation is realized. I'm anxious to hear what the various people involved in these activities have to say about it. It sure will be great if adequate facilities for all these activities can be provided for Emmitsburg in the near future, and we can have improved community services at the most economical cost possible.

Haven't heard much about sidewalk improvements lately. The last I remember the council was going to get bids on sections of new curbing to be repaired this year with additional portions to be fixed in future years. I wonder if the town fathers have followed through on the curbing bids and suggestions on how the citizens can fix their sidewalks which will be affected by the new curbs?

Last week I commented that the Colorfest on October 15 offers an ideal opportunity for local citizens to display their antiques as they did during the bi-centennial. I've heard some comment in town that others think this is a good idea which they would like to see happen. How about some of you other folks. We haven't much time left. Colorfest is going to be here in a couple of weeks, so we should try to get as many people involved as quickly as possible. I bet the merchants on the square would make their windows look like if someone would take charge of decorating them. I'm sure this type of display would be of interest to visitors and bring them back to Emmitsburg in the weeks after Colorfest.

I hear the visitors who will take part in the reenactment on October 17 will march in the parade scheduled by the Fire Company on October 16 and members of the Tourist Council are going to judge the units so that awards can be given. The Fire Company is going to have awards for units in the parade also. Sure will be a lot doing in town on Colorfest Weekend, so everyone should plan to take part in the festivities.

Ever hear of an open school? I hadn't until recently. Currently the open construction of classrooms is being favored for the new school. This means that several classrooms will be located in one large area and separated by moveable furniture rather than fixed walls. Experience has shown that the instructors can do a much better job of teaching in this environment because the area

Effort To Continue Local College Ends

The efforts at "Continuing St. Joseph College, Inc., to reverse the plan to close the college, came to an end following a conference between officials of the corporation and the entire board of trustees of the present college on September 25.

Mrs. Valli Ryan, active in the effort to continue the college which began after the Daughters of Charity announced plans to suspend operation of the century-old institution, said proposals of the corporation were turned down by the trustees at a meeting held in St. Joseph's Provincial House.

Representing the group wishing to continue the college were J. Hampton Baumgardner, Jr., a Washington, D. C. attorney and chairman of the group; Charles O. Fisher, a Westminster attorney and vice chairman, and Rev. Fr. John Wise, S.J., a director of the corporation and emeritus professor of education of Loyola College, Baltimore.

Mrs. Ryan said the corporation had determined that financial aid from the federal government or foundations was dependent upon St. Joseph College continuing under its present charter.

The corporation suggested that the board of trustees turn the school over to "Continuing St. Joseph College, Inc." in a program that would over a period of years have phased out the Daughters of Charity representation, since the province wished to cease operation in that field. Included in the request by the corporation was the proposal that the college registration office be reopened on campus to take in new students.

With the final rejection of its proposals, the corporation will abandon its efforts, Mrs. Ryan said. She added that she did not know whether or not any other organization might make proposals to the present trustees of the college but the plan of the corporation specifically formed for the task is to cease its efforts.

Mrs. Ruby Sheeley, DePaul Street, Emmitsburg, announced the engagement of her daughter, Shirley Ann, to Joseph Eugene Topper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis D. Topper, Emmitsburg.

Miss Sheeley is a 1970 graduate of Catoctin High School and is presently employed at Freeman Shoe Co., Emmitsburg.

Mr. Topper is also a 1970 graduate of Catoctin High School, and is employed by John H. Hampshire, Inc., Baltimore, Md.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Flowers are best cut in the late afternoon, using a sharp knife and cutting at an angle. Plunge at once in quite warm water and let them "harden" in a cool, dark place. When arranging strip off all leaves below the water line.

Any questions concerning the exhibit may be directed to either Mrs. Klosky, Emmitsburg, 447-2947, or Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Taneytown, 848-8551.

Steps Outlined For Parks & Rec. Board

The first meeting of the Emmitsburg Parks and Recreation Board was held on Sunday, September 26 at 8 p.m. The members of the board are Phil Topper, Gene Myers, Bill Austin, Dick Sprinkle, and Jane Morningstar who was unable to attend. Mr. Topper stated the initial steps to be taken are as follows: 1) form a park board; 2) propose a town ordinance covering parks and recreation; 3) set up a budget; 4) submit a detailed land usage plan of the town, stating that the park land will be for recreational facilities only.

The Board then discussed the possibility of acquiring a supplemental site for the park project. The present area does not allow space for future expansion. A letter has been sent to Mrs. Owens about purchasing her land on South Alley. If this is made possible, tennis courts and a swimming pool could be located there, with the baseball field and picnic area at its present location. Final plans for a town park would be submitted to Mr. Larry Johnson of the Frederick County Planning Commission.

The Park Board must work closely with the County Commissioners and Emmitsburg plans must be compatible with those for Frederick County. The initial steps to be taken by the board will be to improve the present town park and recreational area and to develop the interest and cooperation of the town in recreational activities. Membership on the board is set up in five, four, three, two, and one year terms to start so that only one member will change each year and there will be continuity from one year to the next.

There being no other business to discuss, the meeting was adjourned at 8:45.

Open Space Schools PTA Meeting Topic

The Emmitsburg PTA held its first general meeting of the school year Wednesday, Sept. 22, in the school auditorium.

Sixty-five parents, teachers and guests assembled for the program on Open Space Schools. The topic was presented by a panel consisting of Kyle Pritts, principal, Valley Elementary; Roy E. Clever, principal, Waverly Elementary; Thomas Shade, principal, Green Valley Elementary; and Joseph Ozag, Supervisor of Social Studies. The audience then broke down into small discussion groups led by the panel members and T. Meade Felton, Assistant to the Superintendent.

The speakers were clearly enthusiastic about their experiences with "Open Space". Although originally this type of construction was conceived in order to save money in building costs, the educational advantages are numerous. The panel noted the curriculum innovations such as individualization of instruction, team teaching and flexible grouping that can be more readily utilized in the open space schools. Flexible was a key word in the discussion. These new buildings are adaptable to almost any kind of educational program from the traditional to whatever may be needed 30 or 40 years from now. With no interior walls, the buildings can be remodeled inexpensively during their 50-75 year life span. Even if abandoned as schools they can be inexpensively adapted for other use.

The children are the first to adjust to their new environment. Parents and teachers need an open attitude to the change and a commitment to making it work. The community should be involved from the beginning planning stage on. Once the educational process begins in the new building volunteer aides can help both themselves and the children to become adjusted.

To expand drug rehabilitation programs, if needed, VA is training therapists to staff as many as 60 hospital-based units in addition to the 32 units to be opened this month.

Citizens Group Concludes Community Center Concept Offers Best Service

The Emmitsburg Citizens Advisory Committee working with the Frederick County Board of Education and the architects in planning the new elementary school met Monday night, September 27. Guests included Donald Lewis, County Commissioner; G. Hunter Bowers, President of the Frederick County Board of Education; Lloyd Fogle, representing the Frederick County Health Department;

Miss Martha Reynolds, representing the County Library System; T. Meade Felton, representing the Board of Education, and George Bushey of the architects.

The committee has been investigating the desirability and feasibility of including facilities for various public activities in the school complex. Favorable action would expand the school installation into a community center. Discussion has centered on five community activities: a town park with recreational facilities, health services, library services, a teen center, and school use for community meetings.

Commissioner Topper reported on meetings of the Town Commissioners with various state and county officials regarding additional recreational areas near the school. The Town Council favors coordinating these areas with the school. Mr. Fogle indicated a desire on the part of the Health Department to participate in a Community Center and outlined a suggested facility. Miss Reynolds indicated that a public library could function well in such a center if it was separated from the school library so that non related activities would not interfere with each other. Mr. Lewis said that the County Commissioners are interested in the Community Center concept so that as many public activities as possible can be provided for the least cost. Mr. Bushey indicated that space for a teen center could be provided within the school without departing from normal school design.

The advisory committee determined that it would be advantageous to develop the community center concept for Emmitsburg and expand the proposed school installation to include all five of the suggested facilities. It is hopeful that funds can be provided for recreation, health, and library facilities. The Committee proposes to recommend favorable action on an Emmitsburg Community Center to the Board of Education and the County Commissioners and suggest that an active search be initiated for state and federal funds to assist with needed construction other than the school.

Committee members include Mrs. Sheila Chatlos, Mr. Kenneth Fields, Mr. Eric Glass, Mrs. Gail Graff, Mr. Clarence Hahn, Mr. Eugene Myers, Mr. Philip Topper, Mrs. Sandra Shriver, Mrs. Elsie Wivell, Mrs. Harry Scott, Mrs. Fred Stambaugh, Sister Mary Magdalen, Mrs. George Gelles, Mr. Harry Otterson, and Mr. Robert Wentworth. All members urgently request that townspeople communicate their thinking on the project to the committee so that all ideas from the town can be included in the final recommendations.

A very strange reason for switching your checking account to us.

When you add your good name to ours on a check, fine things begin to happen. Even people who don't know you know us. So you—and your checks—get a big welcome. Nobody acts like you've passed them a live tarantula. People who used to mentally match your face to the pos office wall suddenly can't do enough for you. Our checks tend to be very, very good for the ego. Isn't that an odd reason to switch your account? In this put-you-down world, can you really think of a better one?

Hello! And then it rained. Isn't this ridiculous? And we can't even blame the astronauts for tramping around on the moon and stirring up the atmosphere.

Well, anyway, Saturday was a beautiful day for the wedding of Priscilla Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanders, Centennial St., and Joseph Dukehart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dukehart, Waynesboro. "Cill" and Joe were married in St. Mary's Catholic Church with Rev. Fr. John Pacovits and Rev. Lloyd Sailer officiating. After a wedding trip to the Poconos, the couple will reside at Blue Ridge Summit. Our very best wishes to this young couple.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kint on the birth of a son. Mrs. Kint is the former Kay Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Alexander, R1. The baby has been named Shane Robert and weighed 8 lbs., 2 oz., at birth. Best wishes to the proud grandparents, too.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Upward In Fire-Retardant Materials
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., September 30, 1971—The market for fire-retardant goods—though relatively small at the moment—is growing rapidly. The prime direct beneficiary of this trend will be the chemical industry, but it will also be a strong plus factor for fire insurance companies. An authoritative source expects demand for flame retardants to increase 400% by the middle of this decade, providing one of the chemical industry's greatest growth markets of the 1970s. Three important fields where fire-retardant materials should find vast improved usage are autos, carpeting, and clothing. Requirements For Autos

By September of next year the Transportation Department will require that the interior of cars and other vehicles be designed so that they cannot suddenly burst into flame—interior materials must not burn faster than four inches a minute. The new requirements will apply to seat cushions and backs, floor coverings, arm rests, crash padding, trim panels, head restraints, and convertible tops. The restrictions may well become even more stringent in future years, perhaps banning any burning whatsoever or making it mandatory that interior materials be made automatically self-extinguishing. Carpeting And Clothing

Last year new federal regulations were issued, imposing a flammability standard on all large carpets and rugs. Even tighter controls were applied to floor coverings used in medical facilities. Late in 1970 flammability rules were also made effective for small rugs and carpets. To meet the new government and industry requirements it has been estimated that approximately one-half billion pounds of carpet and rug material will have to be made fire retardant. On June 30, 1971, flammability standards for children's sleepwear were released by the Department of Commerce. Presumably this is the beginning of many new flammability regulations regarding apparel. Several nondurable fire-resistant finishes are available, but there are not as yet many durable finishes that are completely acceptable. Some companies have made good progress in developing suitable fabrics for racing drivers and pit crews, and are expanding their market by adding firemen's gear, military, space, and industrial uniforms. Further growth into other apparel uses is expected. Other Areas
In coming years, greatly increased utilization of fire-retardant materials is anticipated in construction (currently the largest user) and in the electrical industry (the second largest user). In the construction field it is expected that there will be constantly wider usage in building panels, wall coverings, duct work, etc. In the electrical industry there is a market of tremendous potential in electronic data-processing equipment and other business machines, wire and cable, TV sets, and many other appliances. Many Makers
At present there are at least forty major suppliers of flame-retardant chemicals, including such sizable firms as DuPont, Dow Chemical, Alcoa, American Cyanamid, Stauffer Chemical (which holds a particularly strong position), Diamond Shamrock, NL Industries, and a host of smaller chemical concerns. There are also many others that have an interest in the field, including Carborundum, Union Carbide, National Gypsum, Thiokol, Celanese, and FMC. Although flame retardants occupy a growing area, they are still only a small factor for most chemical firms.

Hence, we would not recommend the purchase of a company solely because of its participation in this field. But for those with an interest in such stocks, the Research Department of Babson's Reports currently looks with favor on Union Carbide, Dow, and Thiokol.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

What were the results of Commerce Department's survey of businesses in regard to the U. S. changing over to the metric system?

The Commerce Department's sampling of business opinion shows majority support for putting the U. S. on the metric system. Perhaps more important, the survey also found overwhelming endorsement of a centrally guided transition to metric usage, rather than an uncoordinated change with each company proceeding at its own pace. The survey of nearly 6,500 companies was part of a three-year study of the costs and benefits of going metric. Recommendations on this matter will be sent to congress in the near future.

In this regard, I would be interested in citizen opinions on the metric system, specifically whether you think it is in the best interests of the U. S., and if so, whether the U. S. change to metric should be made by a coordinated national program.

How soon would it be possible to have all gasoline grades made lead-free? And would this put an added cost burden on the consumer?

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, lead-free gasoline could be made generally available by 1975 at an increase in cost to consumers ranging from two-tenths to nine-tenths of a cent per gallon. The variation in cost would depend upon how soon industry would have to provide the lead-free gasoline and whether it would have to be for all grades.

Could you please recap the reasons why you think Fort Detrick is so ideal for cancer research? I understand you gave testimony on this matter before the Conquest of Cancer committee.

First, Fort Detrick offers a money-saving solution to cancer research because of its unmatched and existing facilities. Second, in pursuing the conquest of cancer on a national scale Detrick can fill two great needs: the shielding of personnel from high hazard biological material and sophisticated facilities where large amounts of biological raw material can be produced. Third, Fort Detrick has received the endorsement of numerous experts in the field of cancer research. In the words of Dr. Jams Holland, President of the American Association for Cancer Research, Detrick is a "magnificently specialized laboratory" capable of being transformed "into a bastion in the fight against cancer".

What is the federal share to municipalities for solid waste planning grants?

The ceiling on the federal share of participation for local and regional agencies is 66 2/3% in the case of a single municipality and 75% in the case of multi-municipal areas.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Draft Extension

On the draft extension bill now before the Senate, I was faced with the unfortunate problem of having but one vote to cast on a single bill of three distinct parts—each of which called for its own debate and vote. The bill started its legislative life as a straight, two-year extension of the selective service system. To that was added a comprehensive military pay raise. And to that was added the Mansfield Vietnam Withdrawal amendment. I have long been an advocate of an all volunteer army. However, the best Defense Department estimates for fully implementing an all volunteer army is at least two years. We need the draft continued until we can phase-in the new service. For this reason, I support the draft extension.

But any hopes for an all volunteer army are really baseless unless we have adequate pay for the service entry grades—the privates and lieutenants. A pay bill to provide these incentives to young men to enter the service was passed by the Senate. As with all bills that pass both houses in similar but not identical form, a conference was called to iron out the differences. From the conference came a pay schedule totally unacceptable as an inducement to the young men. It contained less than either the Senate or House versions of the bill and was weighted for the higher grades.

Not well known to most Americans is the fact that many young servicemen with families are actually receiving welfare to supplement their low pay. How can we possibly hope for volunteers if all they have to look forward to is inadequate pay? The Senate thus found itself in somewhat of a parliamentary quagmire. If we passed the bill as is, we must attempt to remedy the pay inequities by later legislation, thereby further delaying the advent of the all volunteer army. Or we could send the bill back to conference to remedy the pay problem, thereby further delaying the draft extension. So to not jeopardize the draft I voted to accept the package as it came to the Senate from conference.

Hopefully, the problem of higher pay for entering servicemen will be solved when the Senate considers the Military Procurement Authorization bill. The President has announced his support of higher pay for the lower ranks, and my attention next week will be turned toward helping that promise be fulfilled.

Legion Auxiliary

(Continued From Page One) committee will be set up at the October meeting. Dues for 1972 are now payable and until the October meeting they will be $3, and thereafter $3.50. Activities for the Auxiliary included: Baby sitting, non-veteran members, 40 hours; veterans, 4 hours; hospital visits, 4; Senior Citizens, 15 hours; members helping at Post's steak feed, 23 hours; cards sent, sympathy 2, and get well, 5. Jessie Knipple won the draw prize. Genevieve Elder's name was called for the door prize of $2, but was absent. Next month's drawing will be for $3. With no further business, the meeting adjourned with the ladies joining the men of the post for refreshments at Bud Shorb's.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Topper and family, Fort George G. Meade, Md., visited with Mr. Topper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Topper, E. Main St., this past weekend.

CARD OF THANKS A sincere thank you and God bless you to all my friends in Emmitsburg who sent cards, notes, and offerings of Masses at the time of my dear father's death. I feel very much a part of you, and your sympathy has touched me deeply. Sister Mary Elizabeth McHugh Daughters of Charity

Expand Corn Loan Program

In view of the current supply and demand situation and anticipated production of 1971-crop corn, Mr. Raymond F. Jaeger, Chairman, Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, states that the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced that loans on 1969 and 1970-crop corn put under farm-stored loan will be extended beyond their announced July 31, 1972, maturity date.

The extended loans on 1969 and 1970-crop corn stored on farms were to mature July 31, 1972. Farmers will be given the option to extend these loans until May 31, 1973. For the 1971 crop, the regular warehouse- and farm-stored loans will also mature on July 31, 1972. However, producers will be given the option to extend their 1971-crop farm-stored loans until May 31, 1973.
