Do not believe you need everything you see. Don't imitate those who complicate their lives with too many needs.

Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Uncle, uncle! Last fall most of us were hollering for rain. I seem to remember saying at that time it would be either feast or famine. Well, we have been having a feast for quite a while. Farmers are having a hard time getting in the fields and city folks have been walking through puddles. If it is OK with all of you, I would be willing to take a couple of weeks of dry weather.

This weekend is Parents Weekend out at the Mount. We would like to welcome all the visitors to the school and hope they have an enjoyable time in our town. Although the main purpose is to visit the school and share some of the students activities, I would hope the parents will look around and see if they can offer any suggestions for improvement in Emmitsburg. From time to time we hear a lot of talk about things that could be better or how they used to be. I don't think it is all that bad. Perhaps the parents, as strangers, could look us over (the students included) and add a little perspective for those of us who can't see the forest for the trees.

I would like to offer a hearty "Thank You" and best wishes to Mayor Hays and Commissioner Rosensteel for a job well done on the town council. Those jobs take a lot of work and these men are to be commended for the time they spent on the job. The whole town appreciates their efforts.

Now that the responsibility has passed to a new Mayor and new Commissioner, let's get behind the whole council and help them get to work on the town problems needing attention. Surely there are many items remaining undone. Now is the time to get started on them.

This week the town was saddened by the loss of Louis Stoner and the nation by the loss of J. Edgar Hoover. Each was a legend in his own sphere of activity and we shall miss them.

St. Joseph's High School representatives had quite a bit to say to the town council about all the talk of activity on DePaul Street during the school dances. I heard that a good deal of benefit came from a frank discussion by the council and the representatives. Perhaps the best observation of all was that the parents of all students should involve themselves more in what their offspring are doing when they are not at home.

Dance chaperones can not be responsible after the students have left the dance and the police should not have to play nursemaid to young adults just a year or two away from voting. That leaves either the students or the parents to see that behavior is appropriate. Maybe the parents job would be easier if the young generation were more aware of the many responsibilities of citizenship. What is the most effective way to convey them to youngsters?

The primaries have been rough on some of the top Democratic presidential hopefuls. Muskie and now Jackson have walked the plank following Lindsay and others. Humphrey and McGovern are still in there pitching. It seems strange that all candidates sound a little more like Wallace as the campaign goes on. This year Wallace has not won a contest out of the South, but he certainly seems to make sense to a lot of people or he would not continue to place high in so many finishes. It will be interesting to see who comes off with the nomination when it is all over.

Chief Filler Cited For Contribution

Chief Filler

Police Chief Henry Filler was cited for his outstanding contribution to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission's Highway Safety Program at Monday's Town Meeting. The award was presented by Mrs. Connie Nusbaum, head of Frederick County Traffic Safety, who recognized Filler's efforts to reduce deaths and injuries on Maryland's streets and highways.

$16,500 Damage In Truck-Auto Wreck

A Yonkers, N. Y. motorist was seriously injured while an area trucker escaped with fewer injuries when their car and truck were demolished in a fiery $16,500 collision on Rt. 15 about four miles north of Emmitsburg at 2:10 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Lawrence P. Maher, Jr., 44, Rockledge Manor, Yonkers, driver of the car, is in serious condition in the intensive care unit at the Warner Hospital with injuries to his right leg, chest, scalp and face. The driver of the truck, Storme White, 27, New Cumberland R1 and York Springs, was treated at the hospital for facial injuries. Both were taken to the hospital in the Gettysburg Fire Company ambulance.

State police said the accident occurred while Maher was driving his car south in the wrong lane of traffic. In an effort to avoid a collision, White swerved his northbound rig to the left but his vehicle was struck by Maher's car.

The impact ripped off the entire front section of Maher's car, strewn wreckage over a wide area. Maher's car came to rest off the east berm. White's truck continued 200 feet across the highway, ran up a 30-foot embankment and partially jackknifed.

White got out of the cab of his Diamond truck tractor before it was enveloped in flames and was destroyed.

Maher was found by the ambulance crew in semi-conscious condition slumped out the front window of his car.

Emmitsburg firemen responded with a pair of pumps and a rescue truck and Greenmount with a pumper truck. Both used booster lines to put out the fire.

The extent of the damage to the cargo White was hauling for Spiegle Catalog Co. was not determined. White's truck tractor was described as a 15,000 total loss with $1,500 total loss to Maher's 1967 Plymouth sedan.

Wanda Jean Williar Wed To Rodney C. Springer At St. Joseph's Church

Miss Wanda Jean Williar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Williar, Fairfield, Pa., became the bride of Rodney C. Springer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Springer, Emmitsburg, on April 8. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John King, CM, pastor of Saint Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg. The altar was highly decorated with baskets of large white spider mums and yellow pom poms. Mrs. Louella Rosensteel presided at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, appeared in a full length gown of white satin. The gown featured an empire waist, lined with lace bodice in an A-line skirt with a detachable lace train. The bodice and train were enhanced with delicate seed pearls. Her illusion veil fell from a head piece of matching lace, satin and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies. The bride's gown and veil were designed and hand sewn by Mrs. William Eyer, aunt of the bride.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Terry Wantz, Emmitsburg. She was attired in a beige dress accented with a nosegay of yellow and white pom poms. David Wantz, Emmitsburg, served as best man. Following the ceremony a lovely reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Andrew. The couple received many beautiful gifts. Chief McGlaughlin Warns Of Dangers When Using Gasoline In Power Mowers

When you unlumber that power lawn mower this Spring, don't forget that gasoline can be powerfully dangerous.

This word of caution comes from Fire Chief Guy R. McGlaughlin of the Vigilant Hose Company, Emmitsburg.

"Treat gasoline with utmost respect," is the Chief's advice, as he urges everyone to clean up the grounds around the house as well as Winter's pile-up of clutter indoors, as part of Spring Clean-Up activity. If you use a gasoline-fueled mower, remember that gasoline gives off flammable vapors which can give way to searing fire or violent explosion—and it takes only a tiny flame or spark to bring about such a disaster.

Avoid becoming a statistic in National Fire Prevention Association records of power mower accidents by following these rules offered by NFPA and Chief McGlaughlin:

1. Do all refueling outdoors where dangerous gasoline vapors can't accumulate.
2. When refueling, observe the "No Smoking" rule without exception and keep away from all other possible ignition sources.
3. Wipe up any spilled fuel before starting the motor.
4. Store your gasoline in a tight-closing metal can—never in an easily-broken glass jug or bottle.

Little League Adds 6th Team For '72

Once again the Little League season is upon us.

Each year our local Little League has been expanding. This is very good because it proves that the people of Emmitsburg are interested in their younger citizens. It also proves that Little League baseball is a worthwhile project.

This year there have been some changes made. One important change is that the games are being scheduled on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights. There will be some Friday night games if necessary. The league officers and managers felt that Friday nights should be eliminated when possible for the convenience of the parents and all concerned.

Another change is that six teams have been organized. The teams are as follows: Red Sox, Yankees, Giants, Cardinals, Orioles and Dodgers.

The group is in the process of forming an Auxiliary this year. This will be a new endeavor for the local league. They are asking for your support to help make this possible. Anyone interested may contact Jerry Joy at 447-2256. Thank you for your continued support. Come on out and enjoy the games this season.

Scouts Keep Town Free Of Litter

Scouts from the Emmitsburg area joined literally thousands of other scouts in a nation-wide clean-up event on Saturday. The clean up campaign was a joint effort of the Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. Those participating agreed that the project was worthwhile and something the more than 100 scouts from Emmitsburg should participate in more often as a service to the community.

With the idea that "Every Litter Bit Hurts," the scouts would appreciate the cooperation of the townspeople to keep Emmitsburg attractive and "litter free."

The scouts becoming more conscious of the problem themselves will remind people they see littering, of the laws they are violating. The scouts are also hopeful that the Town Council can recommend ways to promote the idea of keeping the town clean. Among the suggestions made by the scouts were several clean-up days during the year as well as billboards around the community reminding all incoming persons "to keep Emmitsburg clean."

Those participating in the clean-up event were Brian King, Joe Antolin, Robert A. Rosensteel, Jr., Steven Lingg, Shaun Higgins, Duane Gigeous, David Morningstar, Andy Mitchell and Josh Bollinger of Cub Scout Pack 1060.

Girl Scouts participating in the project were Helen Antolin, Becky Green, Denise Sanders, Darby Antolin, Carol Seidel, Darby Topper, Tina Mitchell, Jody Van Brakle, Brenda Cool, Margaret Antolin and Linda Wormley.

Adult supervision included Mrs. John Chatlos, local Girl Scout Leader; Scoutmaster Robert Rosensteel, and Mr. and Mrs. Cork. Mrs. Cork is a new Den Mother for Den 1060.

The minutes of the April regular meeting and the two special meetings were read and approved.

Scouts Seek Ordeal Over Weekend

Boy Scout Troop 284, Emmitsburg, will be participating in the Scout Expo on May 13 at Gaithersburg, Md. Their exhibit will consist of an outdoor kitchen with a table made of scout lashings and wooden poles. Tickets may still be purchased for the Expo. Anyone buying a ticket but unable to attend is asked to give the ticket to someone within the troop so the scouts can attend the exhibit which included over 5000 entries at last year's Expo. This year's Expo is expected to be as big as last year's and perhaps even bigger.

Three members of Troop 284 will be taking their ordeal for the Order of the Arrow on May 5 and 6 at Echo Lake. The Order of the Arrow is an organization for outstanding campers and must be voted on by troop members. Troop 284 is allowed three to be elected to the order which is based on the number of members in the troop as well as their camping know-how. Paul Antolin, Perry Joy and Eric Rosensteel have been elected by the troop to participate in this event.

Homemakers Talk Of Changing Times

The Emmitsburg Homemakers Club met recently at the Senior Citizens Club Center for their regular monthly meeting. Vice President Sheila Chatlos opened the meeting with a recording, "Joy is Like the Rain," in keeping with the weather of the day. After the reading of scripture and the prayer, she closed the devotional period with another selection from the same record by the Medical Mission Sisters, entitled "The Wedding Banquet."

Due to illness in the family, Mrs. Verne Ray was not able to be present to give the lesson but the time was well spent in reminiscing about our changing times, and some customs of then and now.

The club voted to give a donation to the American Cancer Society. Cards were signed by members present and sent to Mrs. Rosanna Fuss, who is a patient at Montebello State Hospital, Mrs. Verne Ray and Mrs. Virginia Sanders.

Mrs. Cregger read a letter about Health Education meetings which are being held in different parts of Frederick County to inform the public of changes in the health program. There will be one in our area at St. John's Lutheran Church Sunday School Department in Thurmont on May 10 at 7:30. This information is vitally important to all Frederick County families, and representatives from both Women's and Men's Clubs are urged to attend the meeting and bring the information back to their respective clubs.

Margaret Hahn and Hazel K. Caldwell volunteered to do this for the Homemakers Club. After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Elmer Fuss and Mrs. Hazel Caldwell. The May meeting will be held at the Senior Citizens Center on May 11 at 1:30 p.m.

Representatives of Seton Center indicated an interest in the summer recreation project. The center will have 50-55 school-age children interested in taking part in the program.

Parking on the Square and unpaid parking tickets were discussed at length. Noise, especially on the Square, and vandalism were discussed. Extra police protection was recommended and a lengthy discussion followed. Chairman Myers read the police report for April. Other business including the disposition of bills and ordinance changes was deferred to the Monday budget meeting, and the meeting was adjourned at 9:45 p.m.

Storm water coming onto Charles Linn's property was discussed. The County will be contacted to help correct this situation.

About a dozen parents, students and faculty members appeared before the board to discuss the loitering on DePaul Street near St. Joseph's High School. After a lengthy discussion, the Board agreed to install no loitering signs so that police will be able to take action on the problem.

curring during and after school dances, according to Chief Filler. Dance chaperones will work closely with the police in an attempt to reduce the disturbances which have occurred.

When students leave the dances, they are not permitted to reenter the building. A signout record is kept so that chaperones will be able to advise parents their children have left the dance.

Chief Filler said that the police cannot prosecute if they do not see the offense. Dance chaperones have no authority after the students have left the building, however they were requested to prosecute if they see offenses taking place. Police, parents, and the faculty indicated that the help of all parents is needed to reduce the activity.

In the absence of opposition to the resolution concerning the annexation of land east of Emmitsburg along the Taneytown Road known as WESTCO, Inc., the Mayor and Commissioners approved the annexation of this land and the same shall henceforth be a part of the Corporation of Emmitsburg and shall be subject to the provisions of the Charter of Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Connie Nusbaum, director of safety in Frederick County, presented Chief Filler a plaque from Governor Mandel in recognition of his work for public safety.

The Planning and Zoning Commission met with the Board of Education regarding the site for the new school. Another meeting is planned for May 2 to discuss the access of school buses to the site.

The Board will hold a special meeting on Monday, May 8, to study and prepare the budget for the coming fiscal year and to take care of other pertinent business.

Commissioner Myers announced he planned a Tuesday meeting with the Frederick County Board of Education to discuss the 1972 summer recreation program for Emmitsburg.

Representatives of Seton Center indicated an interest in the summer recreation project. The center will have 50-55 school-age children interested in taking part in the program.

Parking on the Square and unpaid parking tickets were discussed at length.

Noise, especially on the Square, and vandalism were discussed. Extra police protection was recommended and a lengthy discussion followed.

Chairman Myers read the police report for April. Other business including the disposition of bills and ordinance changes was deferred to the Monday budget meeting, and the meeting was adjourned at 9:45 p.m.

Firemen To Meet Tuesday

The Vigilant Hose Company will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Fire Hall.

Frederick County Board Of Education Conducts Survey To Help Develop School Reporting System

A survey conducted by the Board of Education's Committee on Secondary School Reporting has been completed. Results of the survey will help with the development of a county-wide secondary school reporting system. Survey forms were sent to a 15% random sample of Frederick County secondary school students and parents and to all secondary school staff.

One thousand one hundred fifty secondary students from grades 7-12 and 450 secondary teachers completed survey forms. Five hundred parents or approximately 40% of the total who were sent forms returned completed forms.

The questions were grouped around six concerns. They were the factors which should be considered in evaluating students, the factors which presently contribute to the grades students receive, the purposes for which grades should be used, the effects of grades upon students, degree of satisfaction with the amount of information on present report cards, and the meaning of report card time at home.

Results indicated that a small majority of students and parents are satisfied with the amount of information they receive on present report cards and that a small majority of teachers and administrators are dissatisfied. The results also indicate that parents are more likely than students, and students more likely than staff, to feel that report cards are seriously discussed in an enjoyable and tension-free environment.

Perhaps the most significant result shows that parents, teachers and students agree that the most important factor or which should be considered in evaluating a student is the student's achievement in relation to his ability. Ninety-five percent (95%) of the staff, and the parents, and eighty-one per cent (81%) of the students feel that factor should be considered "A lot" or "Some". Seventy-nine per cent (79%) of the staff, seventy-three per cent (73%) of the parents and forty-three per cent (43%) of the students feel it should be considered "a lot". Less than eighteen per cent (18%) of all three groups felt that achievement of the rest of the class should be considered "a lot", although a majority of the three groups thought it should be given "some" or a "little" consideration.

Over a third of all those questioned thought the other factors mentioned — achievement of others in Frederick County, and achievement of others in the U. S. — should not be used at all in teacher evaluation of students. Less than ten per cent (10%) thought any of these factors should be used a lot.

Students, teachers and parents also agree that student achievement is presently the most important factor reflected in a student grade. Other factors cited by a majority of the three groups as often or sometimes contributing to grades are student potential, teaching method and subject matter of the course. Fifty-nine per cent (59%) of students and eighty per cent (80%) of parents feel that the teacher's personal feelings about a student often or sometimes contribute to grades, but only thirty-one per cent (31%) of the staff members agree.

A sizable majority of all groups agreed with the use of grades for the purpose listed in the survey instrument. The purposes listed were to give colleges information, to give employers information, to group students for instruction, to enable parents to help students improve in school work, and to advise parents about the student's academic strengths and weaknesses and to advise parents about student's department. Some differences among students, parents and staff are apparent on these questions. Sixty-five per cent (65%) of the parents, for example, felt grades should often advise them of their child's department. Only twenty-four per cent (24%) of the students agreed.

Differences are also apparent by reference to feelings about the effects of grades on students. In general terms students tend to feel that grades motivate them to work hard, yet they are more concerned than either parents or staff about the negative effects of grades. Somewhat inconsistently, only thirty-six per cent (36%) of the students disagreed with the statement that they would work just as hard if grades were eliminated.

Parents are more likely than either students or staff to feel that grades motivate, yet are more likely than staff to believe that students work hard because they enjoy learning. Staff members are least likely to believe in the motivational effects of grades, and also least likely to believe that students would work just as hard without grades or that they work hard because they enjoy learning.

St. Joseph's High School Drama Club Attends All Day Program At Theatre

The Drama Club of Saint Joseph High School in Emmitsburg journeyed to Olney, Md., last Tuesday for an all-day program of theatre experiences.

They saw two professional productions, rapped with the actors, heard the technical director explain set changes and use of lights. They went backstage to see workshops, costume rooms and prop storage.

The National Players of Washington, D. C. make Olney Theatre the last stop of their annual nine-months performing tour. There, for two weeks each Spring, they entertain and instruct students from the area high schools.

The group from Saint Joseph's joined a large audience of other young people to attend a morning performance of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew". The play was done in modern costume and set and was billed as "a rock, bell-bottom comedy".

Afterwards the actors came to sit on the edge of the stage and discuss the presentation with interested students. Visitors who went backstage at this point saw that all props were being exactly positioned for the afternoon's performance of "The Miser," by Moliere. "The Miser," a comedy, was tagged as a classical period piece.

Those attending from Emmitsburg were Marie Broussard, Wendy Barry, Joel Warthen, Rosanna Villares, Colleen Devlin, Joan Muir, Charlie Goetz, Jeanette Thomas, Kathy Muir, Daniel Tierney, Patricia Marshall and drama coach, Sara Marshall. Michael Hanning, a senior at Mt. St. Mary's College, and Father Joseph Sanino provided transportation and also attended the program. Mary Devlin and Tom Eckenrode are members of the Drama Club who were unable to make the trip.

The Drama Club at St. Joseph's which was almost defunct last fall, has snapped back with an unusually active schedule. In addition to the Olney trip, the young thespians attended the one-act Play Festival at Mt. St. Mary's College in February, which drew talent from four area colleges, and the musical, "Guys and Dolls," which closed this week after six successful performances.

They were guests of the Mount's Fine Arts Department, this semester, at a workshop on makeup techniques which was directed by Joan E. Thiel of the Speech and Drama Department at Catholic University.

The Drama Club is now in rehearsal for "Playboy of the Western World", a comedy of Irish folk-life by John M. Synge, which will be presented in mid-May. Sara Marshall, a sophomore at Mount Saint Mary's College who reorganized the club in December, is directing the play.

Reviewing TNT—A Book
Expert studies have led to the conclusion that 80 per cent of the news information received by the American public now comes from the newscasts of the three major TV networks—NBC, CBS, ABC. A new analytical book, "The News Twisters", charges that the networks are slanting the news (and thus to a dominant degree affecting the conclusions and actions of the American public) in favor of a "liberal" viewpoint. Allen Drury, noted journalist and Pulitzer Prize-winning author, calls it a vitally important book about one of the most deadly serious problems confronting America. The author does not present arguments — she presents facts, damning and conclusive. Every citizen should read this book." The author is Edith Efron, staff writer for TV GUIDE.

John P. Roche, Professor of History, Brandeis University, says: "Edith Efron has prepared a devastating indictment of network TV news bias." Sydney Hook, Professor of Philosophy, New York University, says: "Miss Efron's study, based on every impressive documentation . . . deserves wide and careful attention." Clark Mollenhoff, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist, says: "It should be required reading for all the network heads."
Book Burning!

But the network heads, after reading Miss Efron's book have, according to charges of a reliable private investigation organization, sought to "burn" the book by keeping it and its documented information off the air. Yet, there are sufficient revelations made by network news commentators themselves to substantiate to some degree Miss Efron's analytical conclusion of across-the-board bias in network news handling.
Howard K. Smith of ABC, one of the four or five best known TV news "commentators" in America, said in an interview with TV GUIDE (reproduced in Miss Efron's book) that network news bias is massive. "The bias," he says, "begins with the political composition of the staff, which is virtually all liberal. Liberals, by definition, have a strong leftward bias." (We will report the entire Howard K. Smith interview, as included in "The News Twisters," in next week's column.)

Characters Created Good or Bad
Since the 1972 Presidential and Congressional elections are of such vital importance to the shape of America's future both domestically and in foreign relations, a few paragraphs of Miss Efron's book concerning the media coverage of Presidential candidates Humphrey and Nixon in 1968, may be valuable for a clearer public weighing of what they see and read in the forthcoming campaigning:
"(The) contrasting portrait of the characters of Richard Nixon and of Hubert Humphrey is exclusively the result of the combined opinions of politicians and reporters. Network reporters in alliance with Democratic-liberal politicians portrayed Hubert Humphrey as a talkative Democratic saint studded over with every virtue known to man. Deprived of reporters in league with Republican-conservative politicians, Mr. Nixon is not portrayed as a human being at all but is transmogrified into a demon out of the liberal id."
Destroying Character
"Given this loading of the political decks, there is no need to analyze the other types of pro-and-con opinion on Messrs. Nixon and Humphrey. The opinion in Appendix D is worth reading—particularly the one-sided editorial assault on Nixon as an evader of the issues, while Mr. Humphrey, whose ambiguities merited a similar charge, is spared. But when an assault of this magnitude is directed at the most crucial aspect of a human being and Presidential candidate — his mind, his morality and his character—nothing else is of much significance."
"If Richard Nixon is President of the United States today, it is in spite of ABC-TV, CBS-TV, and NBC-TV, together they broadcast the quantitative equivalent of a New York TIMES lead editorial against him every day — for five days a week for the seven weeks of his campaign period. And every editorial technique was employed on three networks to rend-

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

Can We Still Teach Values?
There is much uncertainty today about values in our changing society. Some people feel we are losing our values and that there seems to be no means of return.
The older generation tends to fear for the future of the young people. They see a world of instability and find it very difficult to adjust. The young people, however, seem to be searching for new values and are finding little support or guidance from their parents. To the schools, therefore, seems to have fallen the mantle of teaching the acquisition of values.
The youth of today have more freedom to seek new values than any other group. They have accepted this freedom and seem to find seeking new values as a form of motivation. They have so many materialistic things available to them that acquiring or accumulating wealth has little merit or reward. We see the results of their search in the many fads and tastes of this generation.

Educators and parents can help young people to develop the necessary values by teaching them to have an objective and an open mind. In order to retain values, in spite of unique situations, a person must be taught to be flexible, adaptive and creative—always ready for the unexpected.
It isn't easy to select the values and attitudes which everyone needs to learn as there are so many different social groups and subcultures holding different values, but the acceptance of constant change and lack of stability has to be recognized. Learning to cope with change and to accept a certain amount of insecurity are the necessary elements of survival in this technical space age.

We should teach empathy for differences and acceptance of human rights. The respect of other people, their attitudes and beliefs, is essential. The world we live in gets smaller every year. Today's youth will be facing new ventures which we can't even imagine or project. If we can teach them the value of respect for others, then they will gain enough self-confidence to claim their own self-respect in any situation.
There are certain common denominators that are a part of a democratic society which must be accepted. These values and attitudes have to be learned if the democratic way of life is to continue and to be cherished.
We must also teach that the process of education is significant to all members of society. The values and attitudes we cherish can be continued if we teach the importance of education in solving problems and in dealing with life's situations. If the youths are taught to use their abilities effectively within the society in which they live, they will be able to examine what they believe and then establish some priorities. We can never tell them what to value but we can help them to de-

More About The Motters
"If but one message I may leave behind
One simple word of courage for my kind,
It would be this—Oh, brother, sister, friend,
Whatever life may bring—what God may send—
No matter whether clouds life soon or late—
Take heart and wait."

The notes pertaining to the Mottor family of Emmitsburg, Maryland, are continued at this time.

Last week the column concluded with Anna Margaret (2) Annan, the daughter of Lewis (1) and Mary Motter, who, in 1828, became the wife of Dr. James W. Eichelberger. Listed next in the Mottor family Bible is another daughter—as follows

5. Elizabeth (2) Motter — born November 19, 1810—baptized February 15, 1811 by the German Reformed minister — Confirmed on April 22, 1827 by the Rev. John Hoffman — married to Andrew Annan, M.D., on April 27, 1830 by the Rev. J. Bossler.

Note: This particular family line was given, in great detail, in the history of Tom's Creek Presbyterian church and burial ground published in this series several years ago.

The Dr. Andrew Annan family burial plot is in the old Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard, located just north of Emmitsburg. A black iron fence of quaint design encloses the same. Members of this family interred here are as follows:

Elizabeth (Mottor) Annan, wife of Dr. Andrew Annan, born November 19, 1810, died June 5, 1884.

10. Lieutenant John M. Annan, United States Army, died November 14, 1861, aged 20 years, 7 months and 28 days.

Note: John M. Annan enlisted in the Union Army shortly after the outbreak of the Civil War. He was killed, while in camp, when the gun of a comrade when off acci-dently. At the time he enlisted he was studying for the Presbyterian ministry.

11. In memory of David Landales Annan, son of Dr. Andrew and Elizabeth Annan, died August 25, 1838, aged 3 years, 5 months, and 24 days.

13. In memory of William M. Annan, son of Dr. Andrew and Elizabeth Annan, died December 29, 1847, aged 14 years, 5 months and 22 days.

14. In memory of Charles E. Annan, died January 3, 1848, aged 12 years, 8 months and 11 days. Son of Dr. Andrew and Elizabeth Annan.

Note: It will be noticed that the brothers, William and Charles Annan, died but five days apart. The cause of their death was probably diphtheria or some other highly contagious disease.

15. In memory of Helen Farnes Annan, daughter of Dr. Andrew and Elizabeth Annan, died June 4, 1851, aged 1 year, 11 months and 8 days.

6. The sixth child of Lewis (1) and Mary Magdalena (Martin) Motter, was another daughter:

Magdalena Motter — born June 25, 1813—baptized June 30, 1813—died July 1, 1813—aged 5 days and 16 hours—and it pleased the Lord to take her to Himself.

Note: The grave of this little girl is undoubtedly in Elias churchyard—near that of her father and mother. It was probably marked at one time—but the stone has long since disappeared.

7. Louis Martin Motter—born February 6, 1815—baptized March 14, 1815.

Note: This son remained in Emmitsburg and followed his father's trade. According to the Historian William Lewis Martin Motter — for many years engaged in tanning. He also devoted much time to agricultural pursuits. Since 1849 he has been a director and stockholder of what is now the Gettysburg National Bank, Gettysburg, Pa.

As a Whig he was a member of the State Legislature in 1853-54.

Lewis Martin Motter, married in 1840, Alice Rudisel, the daughter of Ludwig Rudisel, of Taneytown, Maryland. They were the parents of the following children:

Note: This son is interred, with other members of his family, in Emmitsburg's Mountain View cemetery. The inscriptions follow:

THE NEW MASCULINITY... "A Pox on Symbols"

It's enough to make America's cowboys blush with shame. But the harsh, fiery liquors supposedly belted down by today's cowboys and yesterday's frontiersmen as a sign of masculinity are virtually a thing of the past, according to distillery industry researchers. Slowly, but surely, they report, the lighter-tasting and smoother alcoholic beverages have taken over, and this taste trend will continue for at least another decade.

The belief that it wasn't a man's drink if the liquor didn't burn going down and then "explode" in the stomach continued until after World War II. Then, in a drastic change that even the distillery people can't explain, Americans demonstrated a surprising shift in tastes.

Capitalizing on what the industry has called the "trend to lightness," a totally new alcoholic beverage called "Light Whiskey" will take its place in the market next summer. It will have a milder aroma and smoother flavor.

The new category of whiskey was authorized by the government in 1968 and since it requires four years' aging, won't be available until 1972. One brand of whiskey — Barton's QT — on the market today, was distilled four years ago and has since been maturing in selected seasoned casks. Like Light Whiskey it has the aroma, body, color and character of Light Whiskey but is currently sold under a "premium American whiskey" title to meet government regulations.

Does the trend away from the robust tastes of yesteryear indicate, a blurring of sexes, the feminized male, a loss of manliness? Researchers think not. Based on in-depth surveys of consumers, they're inclined to think that young adults are changing the definition of masculinity and are less concerned about outward symbols. You can be a man without consuming liquors that are almost literally firewater, young people seem to be saying in their liquor purchases.

The end result may well cause anguish for the ghosts of yesterday's firewater drinkers and their ironclad stomachs, but it will be in keeping with the liberated tastes of today's taste pioneers.

Leathy A. Motter, wife of Joshua S. and Leathy A. Motter, born February 11, 1895, died March 2, 1948.

Note: Joshua S. Motter and his wife were the parents of other children—as a matter of fact they had a "fair-sized family." Data pertaining to them can be found in the records of Elias Lutheran church.

Notes on the Motter family will be continued in this series next week.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Invasion of Vietnam

South Vietnam, during the past three years, has been the scene of diminishing combat, political stability, economic recovery, a restored sense of national well-being, and a far greater degree of personal freedom than is enjoyed by their countrymen ruled by the communist regime in Hanoi.

This progress towards rebuilding a war-torn nation is now receiving a severe test because of the full-scale invasion by North Vietnamese regular army troops supplied by the Soviet Union.

Hanoi has committed 13 of its 14 regular army divisions to the current struggle and has called up the scattered remnants of the Viet Cong forces to join in the attacks.

The massive assault on South Vietnam was spearheaded by a march across the Demilitarized Zone with the support of Russian tanks, causing more than 150,000 South Vietnamese civilians to flee for their lives. It clearly was the first note of an all-out effort to sabotage Vietnamization.

The President, as commander-in-chief, has retaliated by bombing North Vietnamese installations, supply routes and petroleum storage tanks in the Hanoi-Haiphong area. Critics have called this an abandonment of past policy, but anyone who has listened to the President's statements should know that Hanoi was aware of the risks of the invasion.

In July, 1970, President Nixon told a television interviewer, "I am going to use, as I should, the air power of the United States to interdict all flows of men and supplies which I consider are directed toward South Vietnam. That is my role in defending American men."

There have been other statements by the President equally clear, and there also have been repeated efforts to conduct meaningful peace negotiations.

The stated Paris Peace Talks have accomplished little despite the fact that they began four years ago. Similarly, we have learned of the President's secret 8-point proposal to the North Vietnamese which also was rejected earlier this year.

When President Nixon took office 40 months ago, there were 549,000 American fighting men in Southeast Asia, and they were dying at a rate of close to 300 a week. It was a war that nobody wanted, but no one seemed to be able to halt our deepening involvement until he took office.

However, on May 1 the number of United States troops in Vietnam will be down to 69,000 as a result of the Vietnamization policy being carried out by the President.

The troop withdrawals have continued without interruption during the futile efforts at negotiation, and even as the North Vietnamese mounted their invasion another 10,500 American soldiers were boarding ships and planes to return home.

I believe that the President has shown steadfastness and courage in responding to the challenge from Hanoi. The objective of American policy for the last three years has been to withdraw all American combat forces while giving the 19 million people in South Vietnam the right to determine their own future.

This policy is being put to a very severe test. Hopefully the South Vietnamese people have the resolve and the American people have the patience in the next few weeks to allow the policy to succeed.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Women And Buying Power
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., May 4, 1972 — Women have been earning an increasing share of the nation's personal income as a result of a number of factors, including equal job opportunities, the same compensation for any given work classification, entree into trades and careers traditionally monopolized by men, and a more highly educated female population. There is also a related benefit, namely the boosting of the average annual income per family unit. It is estimated that more than half of the adult women in this country currently contribute to family income.

Changing Life Styles
On the whole, women are waiting longer before heading for the altar of matrimony, and there is a tendency to delay raising a family. Both of these developments have served to increase the earning power of women, while the preference of "mini-families" means that modern mothers are ready to return to the labor force sooner than was the case in yesteryears. In addition, it should be kept in mind that over recent years mothers of the infants born in the post-World-War II baby boom have been moving back toward full-time work as their parental responsibilities have tapered off.

Control Of The Exchequer
The more equitable status of women has given them a considerably greater economic clout, but—everything considered—it has not created a really new condition. After all, American housewives have long held the power of the family purse, determining much of the spending for the household and its members.

Little wonder that a good deal of promotional and merchandising effort is directed toward the female—the housewife in particular—on matters related to consumer-oriented goods and services. With the greatly increased number of shopping-center complexes catering to the suburban clientele and with the extremely high degree of mobility afforded by the prevailing trend toward more than one auto per family unit, it is not surprising that women are largely responsible for channeling back into the economic stream each family's uncommitted current income.

Women And Wealth
A widely accepted traditional concept in the fields of investment and personal finance has been that the women of this country own the lion's share of the total wealth of the population. The idea is still widely held today, and the greater earning power of women has undoubtedly accentuated the premise of their financial superiority. One example of growing female financial independence: The Institute of Life Insurance reports that close to one-fourth of new ordinary life insurance policy purchases are being made by women, compared with less than 20% in the early 1950s. The fact of the matter is that women today are creating more of their own wealth, whereas in earlier years the factor of inheritance was just about the whole show.

Ladies' Day In The Stock Market

As mentioned at the beginning of this article, the influence and scope of buying by women extends to practically every facet of consumer expenditures. Therefore, investors who may be on the lookout for vehicles likely to participate in the prosperity stemming from this powerful economic force will probably have little trouble in doing so. The choice is, in fact, extremely wide.

Within the confines of this discussion, the Research Department of Babson's Reports can only touch upon the highlights of "female economic power." But for all practical purposes it can be claimed that virtually every day is ladies' day in the stock market. For longer-term accumulation, stocks in the more prominent areas affected by heavy female purchases include convenience foods, cosmetics and personal care, clothing of all types, home furnishings including appliances, and industries related to leisure-time and recreational activities.

McVey Gets Eagle Award At Ritchie

With only a little over two years in Boy Scouting, Walter E. McVey, son of Air Force Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Edward McVey stationed at Ft. Ritchie, was awarded the final rank of Eagle Scout at Fort Ritchie at the Troop 118 Court of Honor March 29.

Scoutmaster Matt Donohue, who has worked with Walter since he joined the troop in 1969, says of the 14-year-old, "He is a real hard charger, has great potential and is a fine example of young manhood." With many more Merit Badges to his credit than most of the Eagle Scouts, Walter also is required for the attainment of the Order of the Arrow, a special award presented after the completion of a wilderness ordeal. He has worked part-time at the post Commissary and has been active in Little League and as an altar boy at Saint Rita's Catholic Church, Blue Ridge Summit.

Born in Japan during his father's assignment there, Walter is now an eighth grade student at the Mother Seton School, Emmitsburg. He has two sisters, Lisa, 11, and Dawn, 3.

The ITT Case

As I make this report, there are many unanswered questions in the Senate Judiciary Committee's investigation of the relationship between ITT and the Justice Department. Many of these questions probably will never be answered. Some of them have become so complex, involve so many people and so many events that conceivably there will never be any really definitive resolution of the questions that have been propounded.

However, one issue has been raised that I think is fully developed at this point. It is an issue which involves the responsibility of Congress and, if you like, the failure of Congress as represented by the facts of the ITT case.

Consider how this case arose. It was a question of whether or not the 19th century anti-trust laws which are now on our books were adequate to confine the growth of a giant conglomerate such as ITT. The Justice Department originally felt, but was not sure, that the law was adequate to control the growth of ITT, and it proposed a series of law suits to take this question to the Supreme Court of the United States where the question would be settled by judicial determination.

While there was hope that the law would be upheld, it was also felt that at least the court action would settle the question. On the other side, there were a great many experts in anti-trust law who felt that the Justice Department could not win its case on behalf of the government, that it was better to settle the case out of court, as was ultimately done and in doing so create a situation that would perhaps make other large companies more cautious in the future. However, the settlement left both management and the government officials somewhat in the dark as to the law's requirements. The Congress has the clear duty to make a Constitutional definition of what we feel is in the best interest of the country but it has instead allowed a vague and confused situation to persist.

This, to me, is one of the great issues which has arisen from the ITT case. For several years, I have felt that the time was right to review what our anti-trust laws ought to be and then to revise our statutes in conformity with the policy that we think is right for America today.

We should allow our business management to take advantage of new, efficient methods of both production and administration and we should point the way to them so that they can make the business decisions which will achieve that efficiency and increase the productivity of the country. Management deserves no less than that. At the same time, I think the public deserves the assurance that sheer size alone is not going to create so much economic power that large firms unlawfully influence decisions of government. This is particularly true in the case of a conglomerate which in itself does nothing special to produce a value for the people it serves.

I hope that my bill, now pending in the Senate for the appointment of a commission to determine what the anti-trust law ought to be, will be adopted and that such a commission will get to work in the near future.

This is one of the answers the public is entitled to hear as a result of the ITT investigation.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

How does the Social Security Administration determine if a deceased miner has died due to Black Lung?

According to the Social Security Administration death will be found due to Black Lung pneumoconiosis if the miner suffered from the disease which was shown medically to have reached an advanced and complicated stage. Or if the miner was employed for ten years or more in the Nation's underground coal mines and died from a respirable disease associated with a chronic dust disease or to another chronic disease of the lung. If the disease reported does not suggest a reasonable possibility of Black Lung (e.g. cancer of the lung, disease due to injury etc.) then benefits will not be awarded. Finally, under circumstances other than those outlined, an individual may submit evidence necessary to establish the miner's death due to Black Lung.

Our civics class is currently studying the Constitution of the United States and I wonder if you might be able to send me a copy of it?

During the past year I have received numerous requests for copies of the text of the Constitution together with the amendments. To help satisfy that need and to promote familiarity and understanding with American basic law I maintain a supply of pamphlets in which the Constitution is reprinted. Copies may be ordered through my office by writing me at above address.

Has the federal government released the $58 million FHA funds it is holding up?

The Office of Management & Budget has not yet released the withheld funds, however, and House has now made a formal request to the President to release the monies. As you may be aware, these rural development funds are critical in providing small communities with financial assistance in developing water and sewer systems. Last year Congress appropriated $100 million for such public facility grants and the FHA currently has a backlog of applications totalling $150 million which cannot begin to be processed until the balance of money is released.

What kind of aid does the VA provide for a veteran who is blind in both eyes?

The VA informs me that qualified veterans with such a service-connected disability receive approved electronic and mechanical aids, including their necessary repair and replacement. Guide dogs, including the expense of training the veterans to use the dog, and the cost of the dog's medical attention, are also covered. Your local VA office can provide you with all the details.

Rev. Knoche To Speak At Service

The featured speaker at a Christian Unity Service on Sunday, May 21 at the Grotto of Lourdes near Emmitsburg, will be the Rev. H. Gerard Knoche, Jr. Mr. Knoche is the Assistant Chaplain at Gettysburg College. Music for this gathering for informal worship and fellowship will be provided by the Emmitsburg Community Chorus and the youthful Sunrise Singers from St. Joseph's Church. The music will be a blending of the new and the traditional, from hymns to modern folk music.

A professional from the parking lot at the foot of the Grotto at 4:45 p.m. will lead the worshippers to the Grotto itself where the worship proper will begin at 5:00 p.m. with the theme of 'Unity through Experience.' An offering will be taken to cover expenses. The service will be followed by a picnic supper designed to provide an opportunity for the members of the various churches to meet and talk together. Picknickers are asked to bring only sandwiches and a hand-held dessert to facilitate the smooth running of a gathering involving an estimated several hundred people. Visitors are welcome and church members are therefore asked to bring more food than they would need personally. Beverage will be provided.

Parking will be available at the Grotto parking lot (for 'early birds') and at Mt. St. Mary's College and Seminary. In the event of inclement weather, the College Chapel will be the site for the worship services. Arrangements are still being completed for a site to hold the picnic supper if it should rain.

The service has been organized by the Emmitsburg Council of Churches who want this occasion to be a friendly, informal, family get-together for worship and fellowship. An invitation has been extended to the members of St. Anthony's parish church nearby. All members of the community are invited to participate and share this experience of Christian Unity.

The historic Grotto of Lourdes can be reached by taking the exit on U. S. Route 15, just south of Mt. St. Mary's College.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Erickson were, Mr. Erickson's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson of Superior, Wisconsin. They had spent some time with their daughter, Mrs. Carol Koby and granddaughter, Miss Kristin Koby, Rockville, and attended the seminar at St. Joseph College at which Nancy Dickerson was guest speaker. While here they plan to visit the Gettysburg Battlefield and points of interest in Washington, D. C.

Archbishop Hannan Learning Council Plans New Courses

Dr. Philip M. Hannan

The Archbishop of New Orleans, Most Rev. Philip M. Hannan, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the 164th graduating class of Mt. St. Mary's College this month.

Archbishop Hannan will speak during a Mass for the graduates and their families in the college chapel on Saturday, May 27 at 5 p.m. The prelate will then be given the college's highest honor, an honorary Doctor of Laws degree, during commencement exercises on Sunday, May 28 at 2:30 p.m.

Born in Washington, D. C. in 1913, Archbishop Hannan received his early education in Washington, and then spent three years at Saint Charles College, in Catonsville, Md. After his sophomore year there, he was awarded a three-year scholarship to Catholic University where in 1935, he earned his B.A. degree. From 1936-1940, he studied theology at the North American College in Rome, with courses at the Gregorian University, where he was awarded his S.T.L. degree.

Father Hannan's first pastoral assignment in the United States, after his ordination in 1939, as curate of Saint Thomas Aquinas Church in Baltimore. From 1942-1946, he served as chaplain with the Army's 505th Parachute Regiment, where he became known as the "Jumping Padre". After the war, he did parochial work in Washington and studied at the Catholic University School of Canon Law where he earned his J.C.L. and J.C.D. degrees.

Archbishop Hannan was appointed Chancellor of the Washington archdiocese in 1951, and in the same year became editor of the diocesan newspaper, "The Catholic Standard." In 1952, he was made a Papal Chamberlain and in 1956 a Domestic Prelate by Pope Pius XII. He was appointed by Pius XII as Titular Bishop of Hierapolis and Auxiliary Bishop of Washington, D. C. and was consecrated in 1956. In 1965 he was installed as Archbishop of New Orleans, the post he currently occupies.

Reveal Changes in MSM Requirements

The faculty of Mount Saint Mary's College, acting on recommendations of a joint faculty-student study committee, has made major revisions in the college's course requirements for graduation, according to Dean Bernard S. Kalliss.

At a recent meeting, the faculty accepted with amendments the recommendations of the Faculty-Student Academic Affairs Committee and the Academic Council and approved a reduction in the core curriculum to be effective for all students in September, 1972. The "core curriculum" is the group of courses selected by the faculty to provide the balance of knowledge generally expected of liberal arts college graduates.

Including courses from virtually every discipline taught on the campus, the core curriculum has been significantly reduced from 72 required credit hours in 1971-72 to only 48 required credits in September. While a total of 120 credits will still be necessary for graduation, only 48 specific credits will be required of every student. The move is intended to provide students with more freedom in choosing courses and pursuing their majors, and also allow students, in some instances, to pursue, with permission, interdepartmental programs of study apart from the traditional major. Requirements for all students, as set forth in the new core curriculum, will include 12 credits in Literature and the Arts, 9 credits in Philosophy, 9 credits in Formal Disciplines, 6 credits in Social and Behavioral Studies, 6 credits in Science or Math, and 6 credits in Theology. Among the changes, the foreign language requirement of 6 to 12 credits has been eliminated and now becomes optional. A 3-credit requirement in basic English composition for freshmen is being emphasized, and students have a further option of taking courses in logic, linguistics, or statistics.

The recommendations for the changes came from the Faculty-Student Academic Affairs Committee which undertook last semester the examination of the effectiveness of the core curriculum. Headed by Professor George Winnes of the Philosophy Department, the committee also included Professor David P. Chowance of the Languages and Linguistics Department and Dr. Robert E. Ducharme of the English Department. The two student members of the committee were Dave Fry, a sophomore from Wilmington, Delaware, and Paul Pometto II, a sophomore from College Park, Maryland, vice president of the Mount Saint Mary's College Student Government.
