School is out for some and almost out for many others and that seems to be a time for youthful exuberance to show itself in many ways. There are great splashes of green paint on East Main St. The 30 MPH signs on South Seton Avenue has been crudely repainted to 80 MPH. Luckily the green paint is in the middle of the street where it won't do much harm. However the speed sign can be classed as vandalism.

You would think that our youngsters could find some constructive ways to leave their mark for the rest of us without destroying property. Heavens knows, there are so many things that Emmitsburg could use you would think that the kids would seek to find a real need to fill rather than do things that can only bring criticism. Let's put all that energy to constructive use.

On the positive side, I did notice a new basketball hoop on South Alley with some youngsters swishing the ball through the net. This is an excellent way for boys and girls to spend free time and I am sure that the practice will improve performance in the local games.

Maybe we need more activities in town for the youth. I wish the County Commissioners would decide if they are going to give Emmitsburg funds for a summer program. I understand there is some town money available but the County Commissioners can't seem to make up their mind. We need to get the summer program going. Why not give the Commissioners a call down in Frederick and ask about the hold up?

And then too, what was that I heard about a bowling alley sponsored by local citizens? Surely there is enough bowling business in Emmitsburg to support a local alley.

I'm told the new Street Commissioner took positive action on the sidewalk problem at the Town meeting Monday night. Horay! This is a project that has been on and off the fire several times in late months. Maybe we really will get the needed improvements started after all.

If anyone has an extra bag to cover parking meters I sure wish they would leave it in an out of the way place near the square where I could find it when I have to park in town. I understand there are several floating around that got a way from the Town office. Why not share the wealth?

Those who have had occasion to stop in the school's principal's office may have seen the current architect's proposal for the new school. Supposedly it looks pretty good. It should, for all the time it has taken to get this far. Let's hope that the planning work goes much faster from here on out.

Last Sunday's downpour caught many of us by surprise including the Town Council on Monday night. Emmitt Gardens residents showed up in mass to complain about the flooding from Flat Run. I wonder if they also had a word of appreciation for Company 6? Those who rode around town Sunday night could see flashing lights in many parts of town until well past midnight. The VHC members were out pumping basements for all those who needed it. I want to add my thanks to those they have received already.

Dr. Nakhleh Gets Fulbright Award

Emile A. Nakhleh

Dr. Emile A. Nakhleh, Associate Professor in the Department of History and Political Science at Mount Saint Mary's College, has been named by the federal Board of Foreign Scholarships as a 1972 recipient of a prestigious Fulbright Fellowship.

According to a notification letter from James H. Billington, chairman of the Presidential appointed Board, Dr. Nakhleh is one of only 200 college and university faculty members from all over the country selected to receive a Fulbright research grant. Dr. Nakhleh will spend the upcoming academic year on the island of Bahrain in the Arabian Gulf, conducting research on the process of nation building. All expenses for the program will be supplied by the U. S. State Department.

Born in Rama, Palestine, in 1938, Dr. Nakhleh received his Bachelor's degree in Political Science from Saint John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota. He did graduate work at Georgetown University and American University, both in Washington, D. C., and received his Ph.D. in 1968. He has been an American citizen since 1970, and has published numerous articles dealing primarily with Arab-Israeli relations and the politics of the Middle East, which have been published in several national periodicals and volumes.

In a letter of acknowledgement, Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr., President of Mount Saint Mary's, said that, "Dr. Nakhleh is a truly outstanding young educator who has developed our Political Science Department to the point where it has become one of the most exciting offerings on campus. He has the complete respect of all his colleagues among the faculty and administration. I can think of no one on our staff who is more capable of fulfilling in outstanding fashion all the demanding tasks of an American scholar abroad. I am sure that he will win the esteem of everyone with whom he comes in contact."

Only two others from the Mount have ever been similarly honored—the first was Bernard S. Kaliss in 1951, who received a Fulbright Scholarship for study in France, and is now Dean of Academic Affairs at Mount Saint Mary's.

President Larue Harman announces an Official Board meeting at the Center, Monday morning at ten o'clock on June 12. Be alert to the call as there is important business to be discussed.

The rummage sale held at the Senior Club Friday and Saturday amounted to about $36.00. From June 7 on, the used clothing center will be closed for two weeks. Look for further notice of opening.

Town Council Hears Flood Complaints Of Emmitt Gardens Citizens, Will Act

Former Mayors Guy Baker, Jr. and Samuel Hays were the spokesmen when eighteen residents of Emmitt Gardens appeared before the Town Council Monday night. Hays said that eighteen of the thirty-five homes in the development had been affected by Sunday night's heavy rain and flooding. Seven homes had backed up sewage, according to Hays.

The group asked the town council to clean and straighten Flat Run Creek and to assist them to petition the State Roads Administration to relieve the bottleneck at the bridge where Flat Run passes under Route 15. This bridge

Citizen's Comment

The following letter gives a local citizen's comments on a situation of importance to the people of Emmitsburg.

Mr. David H. Fisher, State Highway Administrator and Chairman of Commission 300 W. Preston Street, Baltimore, Md. 21201 Dear Mr. Fisher:

This is another letter concerning Flat Run Creek in Emmitsburg, Maryland and the problems it has caused, and will continue to cause, the residents of the Emmitt Gardens section of town. However, this letter does not concern itself with the previously requested footbridge next to the bridge over said creek on E. Main Street despite the fact that no action has been taken by your office on this matter. Rather, this letter addresses itself to the flooding problem which has plagued the residents of Emmitt Gardens for the past few years primarily due to an inadequate bridge which the State of Maryland has built over Flat Run Creek at U. S. 15 North.

In layman's terms, the flood is caused by the fact that the volume of the water which flows in Flat Run Creek, especially after a heavy rain storm, is greater than the opening of the bridge in question. The result is a disastrous flooding in practically every basement of every house adjacent to the creek. The answer, also in layman's terms, lies in the construction of a larger bridge which would be able to handle the waters of the creek.

The people of Emmitt Gardens need action and need it now. I am sure your office can always offer some rationalization as to why the present bridge and not another one, but when water, mud, dirt and backed up sewage rush into one's basement every year as a part of this flood, the cold logic of an engineer sitting in a sterilized office in Baltimore is hardly convincing. I also would like to point out that on the average the residents of Emmitt Gardens pay higher property taxes than any other section of Emmitsburg. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely yours, Emile A. Nakhleh

Emmitsburg PTA Has Last Meeting

The fifth and final meeting of the Emmitsburg School PTA for school year 1971-72, was held May 24, in the school auditorium.

The meeting followed a very enjoyable program by the 5th through 8th grade students. The program consisted of a group of songs by the 7th and 8th grade Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Linda Swears, Music Instructor. Also enjoyed were a few instrumental numbers given by members of the band. Mrs. Swears announced 3 achievement winners for the school year. They were: Berry Wivell, the 7th and 8th grade chorus award; Bob Ohler, 5th and 6th grade chorus award; and Denise Sanders, Veterans Award.

Concluding the program were members of the Modern Dance Club dancing to a number of tunes. The Modern Dance Club is under the direction of Mrs. Jean Backus.

The business meeting was then opened by Mr. Kenneth Fields. The secretary's minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given with a balance of $231.00, with expenses of $61.21 for the month.

is near Emmitt Gardens. All storm water from points of higher elevation in Emmitsburg and nearby areas north-west of town collects in Flat Run and has to pass under the bridge. This area has been flooded several times since the bridge was built in 1964 as part of the Route 15 By-pass.

Spokesmen for the Emmitt Gardens residents requested the town take advantage of heavy construction machinery now being used in their area to see that the stream bed was cleaned and deepened.

Commissioner Eugene Myers, chairman of the board, said that would be only a temporary measure which the town would be willing to undertake. However, it would not solve the overflow problems even if the stream were dredged to a depth of 10 feet.

Some of the solutions that were proposed by spokesmen for the complaining citizens and by members of the town council were that additional "overflow" valves should be constructed at points of higher elevation, and that the homeowners should protect themselves by having check valves in their sewer lines.

Hays warned that the proposed construction of yet another bridge on U. S. 15 would be "nothing short of criminal."

One member of the audience said that Emmitt Gardens becomes like a "circus arena" when the rains are heavy because the people come from all over to see what is going to happen to the homes and people there.

Commissioner J. Norman Flax said that the area had been a serious situation for 10 years, and that the solution was check valves and more overflows.

Commissioner Myers reported that the Vigilant Hose Co. worked from 7 p.m. Sunday night to 12:30 a.m. Monday pumping out the homes of the residents in Emmitt Gardens.

Mr. Charles Linn reminded the Board that it is imperative that a new sewer line be installed on Frailey Road; and that the overflow of water from the County be corrected. Mr. Linn also stated that a dusk-to-dawn light should be installed at the entrance to Emmitt Gardens.

Chairman Myers read the police report. Officer Fuss will go to school for three weeks beginning July 17 and an additional three weeks in September. The course will be given in Hagerstown.

Police Chief Henry Filler requested that the town consider part time help for his department to cover vacations and forthcoming school. The town force worked 82 hours above schedule in May. Chief Filler was instructed to obtain part time help when absences occur.

Commissioner Myers made a motion to purchase 14 five cent half hour meters in red for around the square. The vote was unanimous.

Dusk to dawn lights at Reservoirs 1 and 2 were discussed. This will be checked by Commissioner Goulden.

Water and sewer lines to a proposed apartment house was discussed. The matter was referred to Commissioners Flax and Goulden.

The Mayor and Commissioners will make a survey of alleys to be resurfaced.

Replacing of sidewalks were discussed. Commissioner Topper will contact the contractor to get a bid for the 10 town residents who have made application for reimbursement.

The town's house and property were again discussed. It was decided to keep the property and to paint the outside of the house and to repair and paint the downstairs apartment.

The tank at the water plant is in need of cleaning and painting. Commissioner Goulden will get bids for this work.

A donation of $500.00 was approved for the Emmitsburg Public Library and $50 for the Emmitsburg Senior Baseball League.

Commissioner Flax will proceed with the repair or replacement of three motors needed at the sewage plant.

Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder has returned home after spending several months visiting her daughters in Timonium and Silver Spring.

Air Pollution Bills Become Law

Farmers of Maryland expressed their thanks in a telegram to Governor Marvin Mandel following his signature into law on May 31 of the two measures on "bees wings", or chaff from grain. The telegram was signed by G. Willard Oakley, president of Maryland Farm Bureau, who represents approximately ninety per cent of farmers within the state.

Both Senate Bill 612 and House Bill 1000 were signed into law at the final major bill-signing ceremony of the year in the State House. The bills vary only slightly in amending the term "air pollution" in the Air Quality

Dinner Slated For Senator Mathias

Friends of Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., R-Md., have scheduled a dinner to take place June 13 at the Hunt Valley Inn near Cockeysville. Called "Dinner with Ann and Mac Mathias", the non-fund raising event is co-chaired by Robert O. Bonnell, Jr. and Leonard C. Crewe, Jr. Some Control Act to eliminate from control the "bees wings" in the grain drying process.

800 people from Baltimore County and City are paying $16 per pair for tickets for the dinner which was conceived as an opportunity to get together informally with the Senator and his wife. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr., R-Md., will be toastmaster and a high ranking Nixon administration official will be guest speaker.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK

The Sluss Family
 "So many Gods,
 So many creeds,
 So many ways that wind
 and wind
 While just the art of being kind
 Is all this sad world needs."
 —J. W. Wilcox

The notes pertaining to the Sluss family, one of those who played a part in the founding of the Tom's Creek (now Elias) congregation, are continued at this time.

The following are taken from the records of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, Maryland, of which Tom's Creek was a part until 1851.

1. Baptized—Alfred Taylor Sluss—son of John and Susan Sluss—born February 28, 1849—baptized April 14, 1849.

2. Buried—John M. Sluss—died January 3, 1852—aged 15 years, 3 months, and 29 days. Funeral at home.

Note: This young man (or boy) was interred in old Tom's Creek Lutheran and Reformed churchyard. His grave was marked but the stone has long since disappeared. It is reasonable to assume, however, that his grave is in that part of the burial ground where other members of the same family are buried.

Last week the inscription from the marker at the grave of Susan, wife of John Sluss, was given. She is buried beside her husband, John Sluss, who had died some six years previous, according to the records of Elias church—John Sluss died February 13, 1890, aged 8 years. He was interred at old Tom's Creek churchyard.

There is only one other reference to the Sluss family in the records of Elias church—as follows:

4. Married, January 22,

1852, by the Rev. S. Sentman, William Henry Hess to Lucy Ann C. Sluss, both of Frederick County, Maryland.

Mrs. Carrie (Fuss) Long, of Emmitsburg, Maryland, re-members the funeral of a member of the Sluss family (a young man) in Tom's Creek churchyard. The passing of the horse-drawn hearse, en route to the burial ground, made a lasting impression on the children who watched it pass the Ridge school, located in that neighborhood. The body had been brought from some other locality for burial with the "ancestral dust" at old Tom's Creek.

In 1957 the inscriptions from the gravemarkers remaining at Tom's Creek Lutheran and Reformed churchyard were copied. Comparison of this list with one made several months ago "tells a sad story." Many markers have disappeared in the fifteen-year interval—three of them from the Sluss family plot.

The grave of John Sluss, husband of Susan, was marked as the following inscription proves—beyond the shadow of a doubt.

4. In memory of John Sluss, died February 15, 1890, aged 81 years, 2 months, and 1 day.

Two other gravestones have disappeared from the Sluss plot within recent years—as follows:

5. In memory of David J. Sluss, son of John and Susan Sluss, died February 19, 1854, aged 15 years, 5 months, and 5 days.

6. In memory of John Michael Sluss, son of John and Susan Sluss, died January 1, 1852, aged 15 years, 3 months and 29 days.

Note: This burial is noted in the Taneytown records, which gives the date of death as January third—while the gravemarkers records it as being two days earlier on January first. At this late date it would be impossible to determine the correct date. It is known, however, that the Rev. S. Sentman conducted the funeral service "at the home."

It would be impossible to estimate just how many tombstones have "mysteriously disappeared" from Tom's Creek churchyard during the period from 1797 (when the church was removed to Emmitsburg) and the present day. Of course many graves were never marked—gravestones were "hard to come by on the frontier"—but a considerable number were designated by stones—of one type or another and obviously many of these have succumbed to time and vandals." The entire middle row—and this includes members of the pioneer Smith family—were ripped out in the early part of the present century and piled beneath the large hickory tree, which still stands within the churchyard. These gradually disappeared and today no one knows their whereabouts!

Without a doubt there were other gravestones in the Sluss family plot at Tom's Creek. They were an old family in the locality—Lutheran by faith—one of those "gathered together by the Rev. John George Bager" to form the nucleus of the Tom's Creek congregation.

The next family to be included in this study of the

Byron Backs Rural Development Bill

Rep. Goodloe Byron this week urged Congress to "move with all expedience" on legislation which would improve the economy and living conditions of rural America.

Byron co-sponsored the Rural Development bill which is currently in conference after different versions passed the House and Senate several weeks ago.

"The differences in the two measures are not so insurmountable as to delay action on legislation that is immediately needed and that will have significant positive impact for our nation's rural areas," he said.

"A compromise would mean almost certain passage in this session of Congress and would play a great role in helping to provide necessary jobs and employment opportunities to attract and hold young people in rural areas such as Central and Western Maryland," Byron concluded.

"founders of old Tom's Creek" is that of George Smith. On a large, four-sided stone, that disappeared within the past year—the statement was made that "George Smith was amongst the earliest settlers in the locality. On March 26, 1746 a patent was issued for a tract called 'Cattail Branch,' where they lived and died."

The data on the George Smith family of "Cattail Branch" will be continued in this series next week.

Group Questions Planning & Zoning

This week a group calling itself Good Government Advocates asked the Frederick County Commissioners to make a study of the activities of the Planning and Zoning Commission to see if their power exceeds that authorized by State law.

This group, headed by retired news man, Will Allen, of Frederick County, says its purpose is to obtain the best government at the lowest cost to the taxpayers, but does not want to be labeled as a group opposed to progress.

According to the group's attorney, Herb Morrison, of Frederick, "We are going to ask questions and continue to ask questions until more is known about the Planning and Zoning activities in Frederick County and about whether these activities can be curbed to benefit the taxpayers." The full text of Mr. Morrison's letter to the County Commissioners reads as follows:

I represent a group calling itself "Good Government Advocates" which has adopted the following goal. "The best government at the lowest cost to the taxpayers."

Pursuant to this goal the group has asked me to write you to ask that you withhold approval of the Planning and Zoning Commission's budget until such time as you ascertain if the Commission has presently been given more power than is authorized by State law.

At the very least, the Good Government Advocates ask that any budget approval you give be subject to cuts during the fiscal year if the taxpayer's dollars could be spent with more care or the activities of this Commission could be curtailed.

My clients would also like to ask you if you believe it's time for you to set definite policies and guidelines for growth of Frederick County which will take into consideration the present public facilities and the taxpayer's ability to pay for more.

Please let us know what you decide to do within the next few days so that we may react accordingly.

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

Performance Contracting

There have been few really innovative programs in education during the past few years, but one of these has been performance contracting. Companies with programs for teaching reading, study skills and math were asked to submit bids to the local school boards. The programs were usually in the form of audio-visual teaching machines, programmed texts to be used with the machines, technicians to supervise the use of the equipment and incentive awards for improved performance by the students. The companies promised success according to an agreed upon contract.

The most interesting concept of the performance contracting was that the contract spelled out the margin of profit to be earned by the company and this was to be commensurate with the improvement shown by individual students. Financial penalties were exacted against the company for students who did not meet success or show progress.

The beginning of the performance contracts was in Texarkana, Arkansas during the 1969-70 school year. This program was financed under Title VIII of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and was operated by Dorsett Educational Systems, Inc. The estimated cost for just one year was about $250,000.

Now the studies are being done to determine the merit of the programs, and many educators are suggesting that the performance contracting experiments should be abandoned.

The attractive aspect of the plan, the fact that the company was held accountable for success, has proven to be a problem. In the first year, the agreement was over-rated. Educators and evaluators have accused the Dorsett Company of teaching for the tests. Some educators say that the students were given the answers to questions so that results on examinations would show a margin of profit for the company.

Teachers organizations have fought performance contracting as an infringement upon their responsibility and authority. Several congressmen have spoken out against the programs because they are "not accredited."

Even with the criticism of the performance contracting, many educators predict that the concept will grow and become more refined. It has considerable potential if the school personnel can become involved and learn to use it effectively.

Some programs were tried in 1970-71 by the Office of Economic Opportunity which involved contracting with individual teachers. Teachers were guaranteed a base salary with profits if students showed measurable progress. This type of performance contracting has shown some success, especially with teachers of low achieving students.

The trend is definitely toward accountability for performance. The public is demanding to know the results of the tax monies being spent for education. This will probably lead to more programs, such as performance contracting, where the results can be measured against the expenditures. We all need to watch these innovations carefully as the victims of unsuccessful programs are our children!

Now Hear This!

The viewpoint of the United States Navy on the present status of America's national defense was voiced at our 35th Freedom Forum by Vice Admiral Means Johnson, Jr., Inspector-General of the U. S. Navy. Here are excerpts of his presentation which was illustrated with projected photographs, charts and graphs:

"The Soviet Union has been building missiles, aircraft, and tanks as well as ships, and we need balanced defense forces to meet the threat. It is true, however, that their most spectacular gains have been made in strategic nuclear arms and in naval power.

"Although we are truly an island nation, many Americans do not full comprehend the implications of our national security of the declining balance of our Naval strength relative to that of the Soviet Union . . .

Navy's Role

"As in the past two centuries, when Russian objectives of expansion were forestalled by the British and Japanese fleets, the Soviets today perceive the U. S. Navy as the key obstacle standing in the way of their goal. Our Navy has four principal functions and capabilities which it must provide:

"First, in this nuclear age, it must contribute to deterrence of nuclear war by assuring a second-strike capability. We do this with our Polaris-Poseidon ballistic missile Nuclear Submarine force. The capability of this force is a keystone of our national ability to remain free and independent.

"Second, it must be able to control the areas of the sea that we wish to use—in short, to keep our sea lanes of communications open.

"Third, when it is our national policy to do so, it must be able to project U. S. power ashore on foreign soil and against opposition to protect our own vital interests, or support our own or allied ground forces.

"Finally, Naval forces manifest a visible overseas presence in areas of possible conflict, forces to convince our allies and possible adversaries that challenges to our vital interests and those of our allies will be met at the outset with U.S. National power. Sea Control A Must

"After the strategic nuclear role, the most essential of these capabilities is that of sea control—for a number of reasons. In an economic and political sense as well as geographically, the United States is an island nation, separated from all but two of our friends and trading partners by open oceans. The preservation of our economic and military strength is dependent upon our ability to use the seas. The significance of foreign trade to the American economy and national defense is growing rapidly . . . Of the 72 raw materials and commodities that are critical to our security and essential to our industrial base, 69 must be imported in whole or in part.

"But the most significant of all the products that move in international trade is oil. America is rapidly outstripping its ability to satisfy its energy requirements from domestic sources. We already import 25 per cent of our oil and 5 per cent of our natural gas . . .

Our Fleet Obsolete

"The Soviet Union quite logically has perceived our dependence on the free movement of supplies over the seas as a weakness, and they have chosen their weapons well. The Soviet Navy . . . is designed . . . to deny us the use of the seas and to drive us from the positions from which we support our alliances.

"The Soviet fleet now approaches the U. S. fleet in total numbers of combatant ships and theirs are relatively new. Over half of their major warships are under 10 years old and about 40 per cent of ours are over 20. On a ship-for-ship basis, many of the Soviet combatants are today faster, more modern, and more heavily armed than U. S. counterparts . . .

"Americans know that the paths of history are littered with the remnants of great nations whose strength at crucial times was proved second best — and I believe very strongly that the dynamic ideology of individual freedom espoused by most Americans will not permit such a tragedy to overtake us. I also believe that the form of military power most likely to be relevant to the international security issues we may face in the coming decade is Naval Power, and that the maintenance of sea control superiority should be our predominant concern after providing for nuclear sufficiency."

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Revenue Sharing

It has become almost automatic, when discussing the problems of state and local governments, to hear someone say that Congress must pass a revenue sharing plan.

For many of these governing bodies, confronted as they are with a limited tax base and a rising demand for public services, revenue sharing has ceased to be merely a desirable concept. It is now an urgent necessity.

Last year, President Nixon took the initiative when he submitted his proposals for a revenue sharing plan in the opening days of the 92nd Congress.

Finally, after 16 months of hearings and committee work, a revenue sharing bill containing most of the President's proposals has been brought to the floor of the House of Representatives. Sometime within the next month, this bill will be voted on by the House, and there is little doubt that it will be approved and sent to the Senate.

We are now reaching a critical stage of our work schedule, however, so I have joined with a number of my Senate colleagues in sponsoring an identical bill so we may begin work on this legislation without waiting for final House action.

The legislation authorizes $29.6 billion for a five-year revenue sharing plan. Bloc grants to the states, with no strings attached, would start at $1.8 billion this year and increase to $3 billion in the fifth year. Local governments would be entitled to $3.5 billion each year for specific high-priority expenditures. These would include public safety, environmental protection and public transportation, to mention a few.

A preliminary computation based on this formula shows that Maryland would receive $117.5 million this year, with $50.1 million going to the state and $67.4 million to county and municipal governments. This is the 12th highest amount nationally, but it should also be pointed out that in 1971 Maryland paid $1.38 to the federal government for each dollar of federal aid returned to the state. That was the eighth highest ratio in the nation.

The grants to local governments, especially, would bring much-needed relief in the property tax, which has become oppressive because it is virtually the only source of income to pay for schools, police, water and sewer lines, and other public services.

In Baltimore City alone, the $19.4 million that would be made available through revenue sharing could, if applied to the present budget with no other changes, reduce the present $5.65 property tax rate by 85 cents.

In Montgomery, Prince Georges, Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties, where rapid urbanization has caused serious problems in providing sufficient sewer service and education costs have placed severe strains on the budget, revenue sharing as it is now proposed would contribute a total of $37.25 million this year.

Another benefit of these direct aid grants would be the elimination of the maze of conflicting, duplicated and restrictive categorical grants now confronting local policymakers as they seek the federal assistance they are entitled to receive.

I have said repeatedly that revenue sharing is an idea whose time has come. The legislation which I have joined in cosponsoring in the Senate is our best hope for getting the job done this year.

Tom's Creek Dairy Club Hears Reports

The monthly meeting of the Tom's Creek 4-H Dairy Club was held recently at the home of Naomi Weimer. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mike Weimer. The American and 4-H Pledges were led by David Hill and Bobby Wivell. Twelve members, two leaders and two parents were present at the meeting. Roll call was answered by a dairy feed. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were approved with a balance of $49.70.

Susie Weimer reported on Rural Life Sunday with 17 representatives from the club. Four members plan to attend McDonough School Fair. Stanley Gregg reported on the Radio Broadcast which he and Mike Wivell attended. George Kaas reported on DHIA which was very interesting. Charlie Kaas reported on Catocin FFA Dairy Judging with 4 members participating. Cathy Wivell and Stanley Gregg reported on Demonstration Day where they both placed Champion. Cathy Wivell was appointed chairman to take care of drinks at the next county council meeting. Susie Weimer was appointed chairman of the Dairy Window Display for June is Dairy Month. Cathy Wivell was appointed chairman of a bake sale which will be held in June.

Mr. Hill brought samples of different kinds of dairy feed, and conducted a quiz on how many knew them. Lee Bassler and Phil Wivell had the highest scores in the senior and junior divisions.

After the meeting was adjourned, Charlie Kaas, the recreation leader, lead the club in Farm Tic-Tac-Toe. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Weimer and enjoyed by all.

EXPRESS GRATITUDE

The Maryland Association for Retarded Children resolved unanimously to express its gratitude to the Senate and House of Delegates of the State of Maryland for legislation on behalf of the retarded, enacted by that body at the state-wide annual meeting of the Association on May 3, in New Windsor, Md. The resolution said in part: ". . . we honor the members of the General Assembly and extend to them our deep and heartfelt appreciation of their contributions to the mentally retarded citizens of this state."

There eventually comes a time when anyone gets tired of work.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Opportunities In Lower-Priced Stocks
 By Babson's Reports Inc. Wellesley Hills, Mass., June 8, 1972—Lower-priced stocks—those selling under $20 a share—can offer aggressive investors a chance to achieve smart capital gains on a modest investment. These issues allow the small investor to deal in round lots (usually 100 shares) and chalk up good percentage gains on a relatively limited increase in price. For example, a stock selling at $14 a share will show almost a 29% advance on a four-point market gain. In contrast, the price of a $50 stock would have to jump almost 14 1/2 points to provide the same percentage increase. Selectivity Important Naturally, not all low-priced issues are good buys, and a stock should not be purchased merely because it is selling under a certain price level. Many investors, however, are attracted to such issues solely on the basis of price and without regard to the fundamentals of the companies themselves. They become especially intrigued with a low-priced stock if it has sold at far higher levels in the recent past. While one such issue may return to a previous high level, many others are as likely to decline further even when the general market is in an uptrend. Hence, those who buy lower-priced stocks and indiscriminately may find their money tied up in profitless situations. Market timing is another important consideration. Regrettably, the investing public tends to become overly enthusiastic about lower-priced stocks at or near market tops. In fact, expansion of trading in cheaper issues is seen by many technical analysts as a warning of a possible market decline. Thus, lower-priced stocks should be bought when relatively inactive and not after a period of brisk turnover. Determine Objectives Inexpensive stocks are not appropriate for all investors. A number of issues selling under 20 entail more risk than many are in a position to assume. These should be considered for the most part only by aggressive investors who can afford the added risk. An individual's overall investment program and personal circumstances are important factors to be considered. For those who do decide to consider the "under $20 group," it is essential to outline their objectives before making commitments. If a stock is being purchased for shorter-term capital gains, there is justification in taking profits once the issue has made a worthwhile percentage advance. If purchased for longer-term growth prospects, however, a stock should not be sold just because it has risen a few points. Too often, investors forget their objectives. As a result, a stock bought for a short-term capital gain is held too long, with the purchaser riding the stock up and then back down again without taking profits. Conversely, many who buy lower-priced stocks for their long-range growth sell out after a rise of several points and miss out on some exceptional long-term profits. Thus, it is important for an investor to set his aim beforehand and stick with it. Some Current Recommendations

 Among lower-priced stocks currently recommended by the Research Department of Babson's Reports are Apeco Corp., Giant Portland Cement, Houdaille Industries, Servico, and Superior Surgical Manufacturing.

Apeco Corp. (formerly the American Photocopy Equipment Company) has lessened its dependence on the office equipment sector by diversifying into the expanding mobile homes industry and the recreational products area. Giant Portland Cement is now enjoying a smart earnings rebound and is in a strong financial position. Houdaille Industries has pursued an aggressive acquisition program over recent years, and has a favorable outlook. Servico is engaged in the work-clothes rental field, and earnings here have rebounded. Superior Surgical produces uniform and service garments, and has compiled an enviable record in sales and earnings.

President Nixon At the Summit

Some measure of the risk that Richard Nixon runs in having made a trip to Russia is the memory of Yalta. It's an interesting statistic that most Americans who are alive today were not alive at the time of Yalta, that the memory of most Americans may not include the actual events which surrounded President Franklin Roosevelt's historic and precedent-making trip to Russia when he met with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at the Black Sea resort.

But the fact that Yalta has been the constant target of criticism and attack, I think, makes it clear that any President who attempts a summit meeting anywhere is taking some serious personal and political risks. An American President who goes to the Soviet Union to meet with the leaders of Russia takes particular risks because of the political climate in Russia and in the United States. But President Nixon was aware of these risks when he went to Russia and I think that everything that he accomplished in his trip will have to be measured against this background.

In the first place, he was very careful himself to dispel any notion before he left Washington that enormous, earth-shaking, revolutionary changes would be made in the relationship of the United States and Russia. And, of course, he was exactly accurate. No such changes did or could have taken place. The fact is that, some small, fundamental, important, significant steps were taken. They are small in the sense that they are not going to turn either nation from its geographically set course of development. They are significant in that they will help each nation to make the small course changes which may avoid collision in the future. This is really what is important about the Nixon visit to Moscow. The trip will return some specific dividends, some specific benefits for the American people. If we can reduce the pace of the arms race, which is something very different from disarmament, we can relieve the American taxpayer of a very great burden. If we can make the kind of auxiliary agreements that have been made in areas of pollution, in areas of cooperation in living together on this globe, then his trip will have paid peace dividends to every American.

While the results of the trip are not yet known, the American people owe President Nixon their thanks for arranging a summit meeting with the leaders of the Soviet Union.

There can really be no man of good will in this country who cannot salute the President sincerely for the effort that he made in going to Moscow and in developing a series of positions on which we could find agreement with the Russians. If we can agree on taking the small steps together, perhaps someday in the future we can take the long strides which will bring about world peace.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

My daughter draws a A pension based on her father's death in World War II. If she works during the summer, will her earnings affect her pension?

No. Income earned by a child will not affect this benefit.

Does your office have any information on what to look for when buying a new home?

"Wise Home Buying", a free booklet published by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, may be ordered from Consumer Product Information, Washington, D. C. 20407.

What is the gist of the CAB ruling which would cut air fares for passengers who have to fly on two different airlines to reach their final destinations?

The Civil Aeronautics Board rule you are referring to goes into effect by June 11 and requires airlines to offer a single "joint fare" to such passengers. Joint fares will save the passenger at least $4 for each connection he has to make. Formerly, passengers had to pay each airline the fare for its portion of the trip unless the carriers had voluntarily arranged a joint fare. The new rule will require joint fares minus $4 for each inter-airline connection. CAB officials say the $4 represents the amount of money the airlines save in clerical work when only one passenger needs to be processed for two airlines. The joint fares will not apply to passengers who want to stay over in a city or to various types of discount travel.

What specific driver exemptions are now granted to those who operate farm vehicles?

Your question can best be answered by reading a new pamphlet on this matter being distributed by the Federal Highway Administration's Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety. The booklet is entitled "Important—Operators of Farm Vehicles," and lists the conditions under which the farm exemptions apply. Initial distribution is being made by the Extension Service of the Agriculture Department and various farm groups. Or you may write the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety, Department of Transportation, Washington, D. C. 20590.

I have diabetes and am on a very strict diet. Three years ago my leg was removed and as a result my income dropped to the $70 a month I receive from Social Security. I applied for public assistance but was turned down for food stamps (which I need for my special diet) because I live with my niece. Please help me as I cannot get along on $70 with no aid in buying the special food I need.

Upon receipt of your letter my office contacted the Department of Employment & Social Services in Baltimore. As you now know the matter has been straightened out in your behalf. You will be receiving $32 worth of food stamps each month as well as a lump sum check retroactive to the time you applied for additional assistance.

INVITATION TO BID

Seton Center Receives Care Funds, Reviews Expenses

For two and a half years, Seton Center in Emmitsburg has operated in the face of a running deficit. Quality day care is not cheap. As enrollment grew and programs expanded, administrators at the center watched the budget balloon until at times it seemed the center might become the victim of its own success.

Partial support for the day care program came recently when the purchase of care funds were made available through the Social Services Department of Frederick County. Thirty-two children have been certified for these funds which amount to $6.50 per day per child. Many of these youngsters are from families who are welfare recipients or potential welfare recipients.

Purchase of care funds are allotted by the Social Services Department when an eligible child attends a day care center other than one operated by a public agency.

This is the first steady and sizable source of revenue which the center has been able to tap. Approximately 90 children now attend the center on a full-time basis and 38 more come for before and after school care. The center opened in November, 1969, with 20 children enrolled. Children are accepted at the center without regard to race, color or creed.

Concurrently with the brightening of the financial picture the Board of Advisors for Seton Center recommended that some of the costs of operating the center and sources of revenue be made to the public.

Seton Center functions on a cash outlay of $4.94 per day per child. If contributed costs were included the outlay would actually be $7.93 per day per child.

The Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent DePaul, who have their Provincialate in Emmitsburg, contribute the multi-colored sixteen-room school building which houses the day care facility and also the services of the administrator, the program director, one part-time teacher aide and two sisters who work part-time in the thrift shop.

In addition, the Daughters of Charity have contributed $75,000 to the operation of Seton Center.

Sr. Mary Magdalen, director of the center, said that the purchase of care funds had done much to raise the spirits of the staff.

"The purchase of care funds came at a crucial hour," she said. "We didn't know how much longer we could continue to keep open. Receiving them in the future will enable us to continue to give quality service to the community."

Seton Center Advisory Board hopes that the center will eventually become self-sustaining with the exception of the use of the building and contributed services from the Daughters of Charity. Purchase of care slots are available for as many as 40 children but can be utilized only by those certified by the county.

During the last fiscal year, the center received $5,000 from the National Campaign for Human Development and $735 through the archdiocesan campaign funds for Region Five in Frederick County. The United Givers Fund contributed $6,800 to the center.

Parents, who pay on a sliding scale geared to income, contributed $16,253. A surprise money-maker was the thrift shop which raised $4,423. The shop sells contributed items for token amounts to anyone in the Emmitsburg area.

Under the Special Food Service Program, the center received $6,019 from the State of Maryland last year and under the Manpower Development Program, Community Action contributed half the salaries of four employees.

Students at St. Joseph College raised an additional $1767 by conducting a charity fair on behalf of the center.

The total budget for 1971 amounted to $73,893. Salaries are the single biggest expense.

KEEP YOUR COOKING COOL

Planning ahead is a virtue... especially when the hot sun makes afternoon cooking impractical. Next time you need some perky make-it-in-the-morning fare, think of delicious Tuna-Egg Boats.

You can prepare the filling early in the day and refrigerate 'til later. Just mix tuna, hard-cooked eggs, cucumber, pimiento, dill, and mayonnaise with double-thick condensed Cream of Celery Soup. No need to chop celery for this dish... it's in the soup. The rolls, too, can be hollowed out beforehand and kept fresh in plastic bags.

At serving time, line the roll shells with lettuce and fill with the tuna mixture. Pimiento strips add a colorful garnish.

A chilled fruit punch or hot coffee makes a nice go-along.

- TUNA-EGG BOATS
- | | |
|---|---------------------------------------|
| 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed Cream of Celery Soup | ½ cup chopped cucumber |
| 2 tablespoons mayonnaise | 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento |
| 1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked | ½ teaspoon dried dill leaves, crushed |
| 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped | 6 round hard rolls |
| | Lettuce |

Combine all ingredients except rolls and lettuce; chill. Cut tops from rolls; hollow out leaving ½-inch thick shells. Line shells with lettuce; fill with tuna mixture. Garnish with pimiento strips. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Catoctin High School Awards Honors To Spring Athletes

James Kehoe, Jr., Athletic Director of the University of Maryland, was the speaker at the First Spring Athletic Awards Banquet at Catoctin High School Wednesday, May 31. The Spring banquet recognizes the athletes in Baseball, Basketball, Tennis, Track and Cheerleaders. Kehoe complimented Catoctin on having a clean school with clean, well dressed children and parents who show their interest in the school by their attendance at school functions. Kehoe believes in winning. "First place is the goal of all people," he said. A winner is the athlete who pays the price to be number one by sacrifice, hard work, and desire. He is not satisfied to be a mere member of the team. "An athlete has to be better because of the added burden of sports," Kehoe continued. There is a need for these young people who show the right way in school and life. One good leader can change a whole group and lead it away from the many temptations facing youth today. Kehoe was particularly pleased with the number of girls participating in sports at Catoctin and indicated there should be more opportunity for girls in sports. Awards and recognition given at the banquet include the following: Achievement Awards Baseball—Catoctin Diamond Award: 1969 Allen Zentz 1970 Allen Zentz 1971 Eddie Gills 1972 Bernard Sweeney Tennis: Gold Racket Award 1969 Dwight Culler

Vacation School Schedule Listed

As summer comes to the community of Emmitsburg, so does the Emmitsburg Community Vacation Church School. This year the school will run week nights from 7 to 8:30 p.m., June 19 through 30. The Vacation Church School is another service to the Emmitsburg Council of Churches and is planned through its Parish Education Committee.

For 1972 the overall theme is "Live in harmony with one another." Classes will be offered for children, age four through Sixth Grade.

Children and teachers alike will come from the various Emmitsburg churches: Roman Catholic, Lutheran, United Church of Christ, Methodist, and Presbyterian.

Pre-registration is now taking place and all children participating should meet at Elias Lutheran Church at 7 p.m. on June 19 for opening worship, class assignments, and room locations. An offering will be received each evening to help defray expenses and contribute towards the School's special project which will be for the work at Seton Center.

Last year over 100 children participated in what was regarded as a highly successful School. It is hoped that this year, last year's record enrollment will be surpassed.

Mrs. John C. Chatlos has again been appointed to be Director of the School with Mrs. Guy A. Baker, Jr. as Assistant Director. Any inquiries concerning this year's Vacation Church School should be directed to either the directors (at 447-2270 or 447-2212) or one of the ministers or priests. The School is open to any child in the community who meets the age requirements.
