Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

I'd like to extend a warm welcome to folks who are in our area for the Colorfest Celebration and to the Alumnae of St. Joseph College. Driving around the mountains the other day, I noticed that Mother Nature has done her part in decorating our landscape for the weekend festivities; the leaves on the trees have turned to beautiful reds and golds. Hopefully, the bright, brisk weather we've had this week will continue for a few more days so we can all get out and take part in some of the activities planned in the area.

The Firemen's Parade on Saturday (always one of my favorite events) should be even better than ever this year, if all I've heard is true. Can't get over that Grand Marshall we'll be having; coming all the way from Ohio to ride the steam train into Thurmont and then take part in the other activities.

Another thing that delights me at this time of year, is the way the whole community seems to pitch in and do their part to make the weekend such a successful affair. It would appear that this type of community spirit can only be found now-a-days in the smaller towns of our country, and I'm mighty glad we have it here.

This is a weekend to forget about politics, taxes, and such and go out and have yourself a good time.

I've just read that satellite named "Alouette," which the US launched, now holds the world longevity record. It's been out there in space for 10 years and is still sending back data. It has circled the earth nearly 50,000 times; which is a figure to stagger the imagination.

This is National Newspaper Week, so I really should say a few words on that subject, weekly papers in particular. The newspaper is still the place most people turn to find out who did what and who's going to do what. It's the best medium around when the ordinary man wants to publicly express his opinion on the state of things. Most papers are happy to print letters they receive, even though it sets up a free exchange between opposing factions. And over the years newspapers have been responsible for a lot of good changes in the communities they serve. Television will never replace "the paper". Think of all the things it's good for after you've read it; training puppies, wrapping garbage, washing windows, and wrapping dishes in before the moving van comes, among other things. Did you ever try to do any of those things with an old TV set?

Have a good weekend, folks, go out and enjoy the beauty of the country and all the special events that have been planned.

According to Thackston, on the dates noted the schools will be closed for pupils, but the teachers will be spending their day in professional meetings, training sessions with their colleagues and outside consultants, and various other activities which contribute to the general upgrading of the instructional program.

"King Of The Hobos" To Be Grand Marshal For Colorfest Parade Saturday

Maury Graham

Maury Graham of Toledo, Ohio, last of the old time hobos to follow steam, has been chosen as the Grand Marshal for the Emmitsburg Colorfest Parade, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, October 14, beginning at 4 p.m.

In making the announcement, James Kittinger, Chairman of the parade committee, stated: "We are indeed pleased to announce that Mr. Graham will be the Grand Marshal for this year's Colorfest Parade and we look forward with great interest to his visit. As plans near completion, all indications point to this year's parade as being even greater than last year's."

Mr. Graham, a cement finisher by trade, enjoys being a hobo as a hobby, and has become nationally famous for this role, which has taken him to all parts of the country. He likes to ride trains, but only steam trains... when he can... without buying a ticket, and because of this

William Sanders Knight Of The Year

William Sanders, Sr., was awarded the 15th annual Knight of the Year Award at Brute Council 1860 Knights of Columbus "Knight of the Year" dinner-dance, held last Saturday evening at the VFW Annex in Emmitsburg.

Sanders, married and father to five children, resides at St. Anthony's and is a parishioner at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. He is a past Grand Knight of Brute Council and is presently serving as a trustee. He is also a previous recipient of the Knight of the Year award. Not only active in council functions, he is active in the scouting program in Emmitsburg as he presently serves as a troop committee member of Troop 284. Also active in his parish, he serves on the church council.

Other awards made were certificates and pins to three 25 year members, John Christner, Roger Zurgable and James Topper. State Deputy Michael Sierca presented a plaque to Jacob E. Baker for recently completing 50 years as a Brother Knight. District Deputy Andrew Kominski presented a plaque to James Myers as the only surviving charter member of Brute Council. The Council will observe its 56th birthday December 10, 1972.

Scoutmaster Robert Rosensteel, Troop 284, presented Brute Council with a plaque for consideration and help shown during the recent Catholic Retreat held near Mt. St. Mary's College. State Deputy Sierca was introduced by Grand Knight George Danner. He encouraged the members present to get involved in a social action program to help the needs of others.

Following the awards, dancing was held with 124 guests enjoying music by The Andy Ray Quartet.

Among those present were Past State Deputy, Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Gilligan, D.D.S., of Westminster, Md.

Twenty years ago in his classic "Fisherman's Spring," Roderick Haig-Brown spent a full chapter in exploring the character and moods of the rainbow trout. has become known as "Steak Train Maury." Graham ran away from home at the age of 12 and spent most of the next several years riding the rails in many states. This was during Depression.

"I was adopted by the hobos," he once remarked. "The showed me how to get something to eat, how to catch trains, and what places to avoid. It wasn't an easy life but I wouldn't trade the experience for anything."

Mr. Graham just recently completed a history of the hobos, which he had printed and took with him to the Hob Convention in Britt, Iowa in August. Here he distributes copies among the hobos who sold them for a small fee. "This provided them with some spending money during the convention," Maury stated, "for many of them have no work, with little or no income."

Maury was born in Atchison, Kansas, and at the age of 10, his parents moved to Idaho. It was during his stay in Idaho that he ran away from home, taking up the life of the hobo. When his family moved to Toledo, Ohio Maury returned to live with the family. But this wasn't for long, for he left a second time. As he rode the boxcars through the country in the Roaring Twenties and the Depression Thirties, he met a clan of people, who like him self, were either temporarily or permanently rejecting the values and the pressures of contemporary American society much the same way as the beat generation of the 50's and the hippies of the 60's.

As a hobo, Graham learned many things, including his present profession. Since 1940 he has been engaged in construction work as a cement finisher. In 1958 he took himself a wife and settled down to raise a family, all of whom are today grown up and have become quite successful in their respective fields.

Today, when Maury gets the urge to travel, he waxes up his three-tiered mustache, dons his battered black felt hat, bobby dark suit and padded burlap bedroll and hops a freight outside of Toledo. Why, one might ask, does he travel in this manner? When asked this question recently, Maury replied: "I think it's important to keep alive the memory of steam and the hobo."

Without question, Maury Graham is today, the hobo personified, although he now rides the rails as a hobo.

In 1969, when the "Golden Spike Special" made an overnight stop in Lima, Ohio, on its way to Promontory, Utah, for the 100th anniversary of the completion of the transcontinental railroad, Maury gained national recognition. When the train pulled out of Lima early the next morning, Maury was aboard, but not as a paying passenger. The train was stopped and Maury was put off. When a passenger asked the brakeman what the delay was, he replied: "Some nut playing hobo."

During recent visits to Thurmont to visit with his friend, George Wireman, who he met on a rail fan trip, Maury has expressed his love for the beautiful Catoctin Mountains and the friendliness of the local citizens. Wireman extended him an invitation to come for the Colorfest and reservations were made early.

When Maury learned that he would be Grand Marshal for the Colorfest Parade, he remarked, "It's the nicest thing that ever happened to me, and I look forward with pleasure to this visit."

Graham will arrive in Thurmont officially sometime Friday morning via the Western Maryland Railway's local freight. On Saturday morning he will be a guest on Wireman's radio program, "This and That," at 9:15 over WTHU radio, which will be broadcast direct from the Western Maryland Railway's exhibit, located at Carroll Street and Woodside Avenue in Thurmont. Following the broadcast, Maury will put in an appearance at the Midget Football game half-time ceremonies. In the afternoon he will journey to Emmitsburg to take up his duties as Grand Marshal of the Colorfest Parade.

Federal Money for Maryland

Two recent acts of Congress will bring $582 million to Maryland.

The first is the Revenue Sharing Bill, which means $107 million for Maryland. The second, the Water Pollution Control Act, would bring an additional $475 million in federal funds to the state.

Senate Finance Committee figures indicate that the state government will receive $35.7 million in revenue-sharing funds, while an additional $71.3 million will go to county and municipal governments.

The grants to local governments would bring relief to property owners who have watched their taxes soar as local governments strive to pay for schools, police, fire protection, water and sewer lines and other public services.

Rapid urbanization has caused severe problems in many areas of the state. Revenue sharing, as it is now constructed, will provide these areas with new federal money to help pay for the increased level of services they must now provide.

The direct aid grants also will make it easier for local officials to bypass much of the red tape which they now encounter when seeking federal assistance they are entitled to receive.

Maryland will receive the $475 million in water pollution funds over the next two fiscal years. The Water Pollution Control Act provides the state with $6.6 million for May-June period of fiscal 1972, $212 million for fiscal 1973 and $255 million for fiscal 1974.

The formula adopted in a House-Senate conference committee will allow Maryland to fulfill its commitment to expansion of the Blue Plains sewage treatment plant which serves Montgomery and Prince Georges County. This commitment can now be met without utilizing funds which are earmarked for sewage treatment facilities in other sections of the state.

If approved by the House and Senate and signed by the President, the bill will provide for reimbursement of states, including Maryland, which advanced funds for the construction of waste treatment plants since 1966. The legislation authorizes $24 billion for reimbursement and Maryland would be in line for some $54 million it has already spent.

Sewage treatment projects initiated after June 30, 1966 would be reimbursed for "at least 50 per cent of the cost of those projects." Projects constructed from 1956 to 1966 would also be eligible for reimbursement.

While the total funds provided by these two pieces of legislation, $582 million, is a tremendous sum of money, the funds will only allow us to catch up with present conditions.

For instance, Baltimore City's $24 million share of revenue sharing funds will not allow the city to initiate any new programs. Rather, the new federal money will allow the state's largest city to balance this year's budget without enacting a whopping increase in the property tax.

The new water pollution funds allow us to catch up on the state's sewage needs, but do not allow any margin to take care of anticipated population increases.

Hopefully, Congress has learned two lessons from its experience with these vitally important pieces of legislation. First, the Congress must move faster to meet such needs and, second, we must provide the funds to meet such problems on a "pay-as-you-go basis" and not allow the neglect of the past to occur in the future.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Frederick Beard, Soldier Of The Revolution

"When autumn cast a splendid, shining garment About the gray world's poverty and pain, When there is gold in every tired meadow When trees, half hushed to sleep, have bloomed again— Oh, then it is we feel God's depth of purpose, The mercy that His hand alone can show. If He can paint the very soul of nature, His love can cause our weary hearts to glow!" —Margaret E. Sangster

Located about the middle of old Elias churchyard, close to a large cedar tree, are the Frederick Beard family graves. Some years ago the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution placed a personalized bronze flagholder at Frederick Beard's grave — giving his name, years of birth and death, and the regiment of the famous Maryland Line in which he served during the War of American Revolution. At some time or other this marker was removed and placed in the basement of Elias church. It was recently re-discovered and will, in the near future, be placed once again at the grave of the soldier.

In addition to his war service Frederick Beard has the added distinction of being one of the first inhabitants of the infant settlement of Emmitsburg. He is listed as one of the first seven families to live within its bounds. His occupation was that of "carpenter." The Beards belonged to the Tom's Creek congregation and continued members of Elias church when the stone church was built in Emmitsburg in 1797. No doubt members of the clan were interred at old Tom's Creek Lutheran, but if so, the stones marking the graves have long since disappeared. It is an established fact that two-thirds of the original churchyard at Tom's Creek has been lost — only one third of the plot is enclosed by the fence erected in 1905. Helman states that for many years the churchyard at Tom's Creek was the only place of sepulchre, with the exception of the "family ground on the Close farm," within a radius of twenty-five miles. Here the dead were interred "three and four deep." Thru the years, time, greed, and vandals, destroyed the greater part of this plot and thereby was lost, for all time, a great deal of the historical background of Emmitsburg and vicinity.

In Elias churchyard there are, at present, five Beard family graves designated by markers. The inscriptions follow:

1. In memory of Frederick Beard, died March 9, 1842, aged 83 years, 5 months, and 9 days.

Note: Frederick Beard was a veteran of the War of the American Revolution as well as a pioneer settler in Tom's Creek Hundred. When Samuel Emmitt laid out his town and began selling lots therein, Frederick Beard with his family "moved to town." As stated before he was a carpenter and probably assisted in building many of the early structures in the village.

2. In memory of Magdalena Beard, wife of Frederick Beard, died August 19, 1849, aged 86 years, 5 months, and 10 days.

Note: A pioneer wife and mother — of whom little is known — but who nonetheless played a large part in the founding of this great nation. Full credit and appreciation has never been given these heroic women. Life on the frontier was difficult and the burden of living fell mainly on the women. They helped to "push back the frontier" for they established and maintained the homes.

3. In memory of George Beard, died November 18, 1843, aged 49 years and 16 days.

Note: Probably the son of Frederick and Magdalena Beard — buried beside his mother in the family plot in Elias churchyard.

Buried just back of the plot in Elias churchyard, in the next row of graves to the east, are the following:

4. Sacred to the memory of Lydia Sylvia Beard, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Beard, died January 10, 1845, aged 4 years, 6 months, and 10 days.

Note: Probably a granddaughter of Frederick and Magdalena Beard, the child of their son, Samuel Beard.

5. In memory of Sarah Beard, died July 7, 1838, aged 64 years, 6 months, and 1 day.

Note: Sarah Beard is interred beside Lydia Sylvia Beard and this points to some sort of relationship. Was Sarah Beard a daughter-in-law of Frederick and Magdalena Beard? Is her husband buried near her in an unmarked grave? These questions cannot be answered at the present time.

In the records of Trinity Lutheran church, Taneytown, Maryland, of which the Emmitsburg Lutheran church was a part until 1851, the following facts pertaining to the Beard family are to be found.

1. Baptized, Catharine Ann Beard — daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Beard — born January 29, 1842 — baptized April 30, 1842 — sponsors John Hildebride and wife.

Note: The sister of this little girl, Lydia Sylvia Beard, is interred in old Elias churchyard.

The data pertaining to the family of Frederick Beard, soldier of the Revolution, will be continued in this series next week.

Methodists To Burn Mortgage

In 1966, the Trinity United Methodist Church, Emmitsburg, and the Tom's Creek United Methodist Church joined to form the Emmitsburg-Tom's Creek Circuit. As part of this venture in faith, a parsonage was planned and built in Emmitt Gardens. On Sunday, there will be a celebration to mark the fact that this summer the building be-

The celebration will commence with an open house from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., when interested members and friends are invited to see the results of their efforts, as well as being the guests of the Pastor, the Rev. Adrian S. Brown, and his family. Following the open house there will be a service of dedication and this will begin at 6:00 p.m. During the service of dedication the mortgage will be burned as a symbol of the end of the indebtedness. Presiding at the service will be the Superintendent of the Frederick District of the Baltimore Conference, the Rev. David H. Andrews. In the event it should rain, the service will be held at Trinity United Methodist Church.

A covered dish supper at Trinity Church for the circuit will conclude the celebrations. Those attending should bring a covered dish and their own place setting. The Circuit Charge Conference will also be held at Trinity and it will follow the covered dish supper.

The leadership for the building and maintenance of the parsonage has been in the hands of the Parsonage Trustees: Ralph Lindsey, chairman; Robert Grimes, treasurer; Charles Brauer, secretary; Jones Baker and Ambrose Eckenrode. These men have served the Church well by their enthusiasm and interest in seeking to ensure the proper care and maintenance of the parsonage as well as seeking to improve the building. The Circuit is indeed indebted to these men.

As well as the trustees, the members of the Circuit deserve to be commended. It has been through their strong sense of purpose that it took only six years to erase the parsonage debt. When the building began it was said that ten years would represent an excellent effort; those who contributed to the building fund surpassed that goal and their interest is an indication of what a firm resolve and dedication can accomplish in reaching the financial goals of the Church.

An invitation to attend the celebrations is extended to all members of the Circuit and to other interested friends and neighbors.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Fourth-Quarter Investment Prospects
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 12, 1972—For most of August and much of September, a drifting pattern prevailed in the stock market with a net trend on the downside. The Dow Industrials and Rails followed this pattern, while

Utilities displayed surprising strength for a time, only to drift downward again. Volume was average until near Labor Day when investors turned to recreational activities and trading dropped off sharply. Brisker Activity Ahead? As we move along in the early part of the 4th quarter, it appears that more vibrant stock market action lies ahead. At the present time, there is a good deal of apathy among investors generally, apparently a result of the numerous uncertainties existing in this country and throughout the world today. Chief among these are the war situation in Vietnam and the uneasy psychological mood that always precedes a Presidential election. While a peace settlement in Southeast Asia is possible before the election, it is unlikely that the North will hand President Nixon a gift like this to support his campaign. On the other hand, if the polls continue to show Senator McGovern lagging badly, the North Vietnamese might not feel any further need to withhold their trump card. Thus, if they sincerely want peace, they might adopt a more reasonable posture toward settlement.

Effects Of Election
Investors must, of necessity, eye the election warily. While President Nixon would seem to be far ahead, the possibility still exists that McGovern might come out on top. Though he has modified some of his pie-in-the-sky concepts, his position on a number of questions is still somewhat unpalatable to many, especially investors and share owners.

Another area of doubt, even before the election, is the possibility of a change in wage-price policies if inflation fires begin to heat up again. It is easy to see how such uncertainties have made many investors—particularly the smaller ones—adopt a cautious attitude. While institutional traders have been active, individuals have tended to stick to the sidelines. However, if one or more of these nagging problems were to be suddenly resolved, it could well be the signal for a renewed pickup in investment activity. After all, it should be kept in mind that the economy looks quite healthy. Effect Of Outcome At Polls

It is difficult to correlate numbers as expressed by the Dow Jones Averages with the stock market as a whole. These figures, however, are widely followed and carry considerable psychological weight. Thus, the Research Department of Babson's Reports suggests that the indexes for the fourth quarter will show more backing and filling by the stock market. This will probably persist until election time. Then, if Nixon turns out to be a second-term, we would expect a strong post-election rally — one which might join forces with the traditional upward move often seen at year end.

Movement Of Individual Iss.
One flaw that has characterized stock market performance in 1972 has been lack of breadth. In other words, price trends have been dictated by comparatively few issues, principally in the high-flying glamor group. These have risen to exceptionally high levels, as expressed by their price-earnings ratios. On the other hand, the so-called "cyclical" experienced less participation. Cyclical may be termed issues selling on the basis of their relationship to the state of the economy or separate parts thereof. Hence, a vitalized economy could generate more interest in these types. Rather than anticipating vigorous improvement for the glamor stocks in the fourth quarter, we would expect that a great deal of investor attention will be directed toward the basic industries, with some "rotation" of market leadership among industry groups from time to time.

Area Schools In Lunch Program

The Mother Seton School and the Emmitsburg School are participating in the National School Lunch Program and serve well-balanced and nutritious lunches. Free or reduced price lunches are available to children who are unable to pay the full price. The income scale is used to determine which children are eligible to receive free or reduced price lunches.

Families within this income scale or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships may apply for free or reduced priced lunches for their children. They may apply by completing the application form sent home with a letter to parents. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. Additional copies are available at the school office.

The application is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for the school lunches. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Children receiving free or reduced price lunches shall be treated in the same manner as paying children. Every effort shall be made to insure that the children do not know who are paying and who are receiving free or reduced price lunches.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local officials, he may make a request to the school his child attends either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision.

The policy concerning free or reduced price lunches is available at the schools for review.

Justice is often on the side of the litigant with the most money.

12th Open House At Maryland ABC And Sire Power Oct.

Frederick County dairymen are extended a warm welcome to attend the 12th Open House program at the Headquarters of Maryland ABC and Sire Power (south) on October 19 beginning at 10 a.m.

The program for the 12th Open House is planned in the interest of dairymen and beef producers. It will consist of the Annual Meeting of the Maryland Breeding Cooperative, Annual Meeting of Maryland Dairy Shrine, a 40 minute speaking program, a Barbecued Chicken Dinner and a parade of bulls and daughters of Sire Power bulls.

Speakers for Open House this year will be Bennet Cassell, a recent graduate of VPI in dairy cattle breeding whose subject will be "Tomorrow's Actions For Tomorrow's Results." Sharing the speaking program this year with Mr. Cassell will be Nelvin Empet, a former dairyman and breed fieldman. Nelvin's subject will be "Sire Power—Where The Action Is."

The 8th Annual Meeting of the Maryland Dairy Shrine will be conducted by its President, A. Doty Remsburg. After a noon time chicken barbeque, bulls and daughters will be paraded. Quitting from the President of Maryland Breeding Cooperative, Richard Remsburg of Jefferson, an invitation is extended to all dairymen and beef breeders to be present on the 19th at the Annual Meeting and Open House. Are You Sexy or Slumpy?
Ever since man started standing on his own two feet instead of four he has been prone to curve a bit too much one way or the other. Due to our evolution, the back is one of the weakest parts of the body. However, it can be strengthened and straightened by exercise. You'll look taller, thinner, more graceful and sexy just by improving posture. According to many doctors, women in particular have to make an extra effort because the structure of their pelvic area puts more stress on their back muscles.
To firm your back, lie on your stomach, hands clasped behind small of back. Raise head, upper chest and legs as high as you can. Hold for three to six seconds, lower slowly. Relax. Repeat. Breathe: exhale as you raise. Relax your back by sitting up straight on end of bench or chair, hands dropped loosely in front of you. Now "shrug" shoulders up and roll them around to front in circular motion. Reverse the motion to back. To increase the effectiveness of this, hold some kind of weight loosely in your hands. (A jar of your favorite moisturizing cream will do.)
If your shoulders need to be straightened, place your middle fingers together, just touching at the base of the neck, arms outstretched straight to elbows. Slowly circle the elbows forward, up, back and down. Do five circles forward, five circles backward, to a total of fifty. Now take a beauty bath and relax as you moisturize from tip to toe!

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT WOOD IN HOUSING
A little-known fact about wood explains why this house survived ten generations of Americans.
The Whipple House in Ipswich, Massachusetts had its beginning in 1640. In all, ten generations of Americans have lived here—one family for almost 200 years. Today it stands as handsome as ever.
Not all of this celebrated house dates from the first John Whipple. But much of the frame and sheathing does. So do the corner posts, the husky exposed beams and gunstock posts. Even some of the fireplace sheathing is over three centuries old.
Why does wood last and last? Wood's tough cellular structure is cemented together with a natural glue called lignin, a substance that's not only strong, but impervious to extremes of heat and cold.
That's why a well-built wood house will last generation after generation, and why it makes sense to demand wood in a new home.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. What federal loans are available to students going on to college?

In order to reduce the hardships incurred by the expense of higher education the Federal government and numerous private organizations provide programs of student financial assistance. The House Committee on Education has published a booklet entitled "A Guide to Student Assistance" which shows the loan options available so that individuals may gear their efforts at acquiring aid toward the area which best suits their needs. This booklet provides a firm foundation for initiating steps to relieve financial burdens and includes chapters on major federal programs, selected federal graduate fellowship programs, federal programs for undergraduate students, non-federal undergraduate assistance programs, and suggestions on the process of seeking financial aid. If you would like a copy just drop me a line, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Twenty Mount Seniors Honored

Mount Saint Mary's College has announced that 20 seniors have been selected to appear in this year's national awards volume, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Dean Bernard S. Kaliss said that the seniors were chosen on the basis of academic achievement, community service, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and future potential.

Among those named was Francis X. Ryan, of Emmitsburg.

Mount Saint Mary's the second oldest Catholic College in the country, is presently in its first year as a resident coed institution, after 164 years as an all-male college.

Students In Work Study Program

The transition from school to work is not an easy one as many a newcomer to the workaday world will attest. A program which is in operation locally, however, helps ease this transition. The work study program, involving all county high schools and approximately 270 employers locally, exposes students to work and teaches consumer awareness by relating problems directly to actual job experiences.

Any twelfth grade student is eligible for the program which combines practical work experience in vocational areas with regularly scheduled related classroom instruction. Approximately 60% of the classroom time is spent in general related instruction and 40% in specific areas. Students in the program are scheduled for four classes in the morning at their home school. One of these is the related class, which became a part of the program for the first time last year.

The work study program, designed as a continuum for on-the-job training for vocational students, is one of the components of career education, which has been designated a first priority item by the U. S. Office of Education. Approximately two hundred such programs are now in operation in the state of Maryland. Three hundred eighty of these students are enrolled in Frederick County's program. Some indication of the variety of occupations involved is shown by the following list:

Secretarial, Technical, Mechanical, carpentry, Warehousing, Retail sales, Electronics, Plumbing, Restaurant, Receptionists, Food store checking, cabinet maker, farming, Ceramic tile work, Custodial, Service Station, Printing, Beautician, Machinists, Housekeeping, Drafting, Auto Mechanic, and Filing Clerk. For further information contact county coordinator Dick Flaherty at 662-9200, ext. 327.

SUPPORTING LIBERTY

YOUR COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER

With more governmental powers centered in Washington, D.C. and the state capital to direct our businesses, help finance our schools, master-mind our public works and supervise our shopping, it becomes increasingly essential that citizens be well informed.

When proposed panaceas for solving economic and other problems are glibly voiced, we see our newspaper role as furnishing sound journalistic judgment and interpretive reporting to put the proposals in true perspective.

The political, economic and individual freedoms of the American people can be preserved only if the public is aware of the facts which bear on current issues.

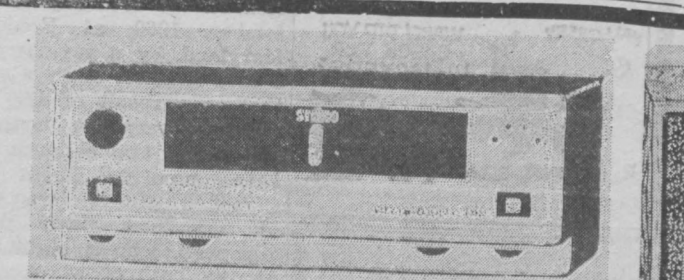

This is where newspapers, especially community newspapers, serve a unique function. We provide the "grass-roots" reaction to events taking place in the state and the nation. We serve as a unique two-way communications medium between the people at home and their elected representatives.

This community newspaper provides the most complete local coverage of social, sports, educational and other news events in more detail than any other medium. We also try very hard to be the community's conscience.

Senators Pushing Sixes Bridge Project

Senators J. Glenn Beall, Jr. and Charles McC. Mathias have urged a Senate-House conference committee to authorize the Sixes Bridge and Verona dam projects in order to "avert a crisis of the highest proportions—a dry Potomac River."

The two dams and reservoirs in Maryland and Virginia would help regulate the flow of the Potomac, which is the sole source of water for the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. The demand for water, especially during the dry summer months, is growing at a rate that could soon exceed the river's normal flow.

Noting that local, state and federal agencies have joined in supporting the projects, Senators Beall and Mathias said it was time for "a strong commitment by the Congress to avert the threat of a serious water shortage in the metropolitan (Washington) area, and we urge their inclusion in the present legislation."

Judges were Mrs. Cecelia Farley, Mr. Chris LePara, Mr. Lew McAllister, Rev. Daniel C. Nusbaum, Mrs. Emily O'Connell and Dr. Olaf Tollefson. All plays were produced entirely by students with the advice of Mr. Paul O'Connell, Mount drama instructor.

General Norstad To Speak At Tribute

Gen. Lauris Norstad, former Supreme Allied Commander, Europe (NATO), will speak Friday, October 13, at 11 a.m. in the Student Union at Gettysburg College as part of a program sponsored by the Eisenhower Society.

Norstad, now chairman and chief executive officer of the Owens-Illiglas Corp., was a close friend of the late Gen. Eisenhower, and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The program is an annual tribute to the 34th president of the U. S. who resided in Adams County, Pennsylvania, during his two terms as this country's chief executive, and for the eight succeeding years prior to his death in March of 1969. Mrs. Eisenhower continues to reside at their farm at the edge of Gettysburg.

The program is open to the public.

Nothing else deals in such detail with the people and events around you as the home town newspaper.
