Most Anything At A Glance - By Abigail -

Well, folks, it's been an interesting week around here. I understand that the voter turnout in town here, may have set an all time record. Congratulations to all of you who went out and voted, whether it was your candidate who won or not.

Speaking of winning—seems there are a couple of fellows here in town who made a bet on the election outcome. As I understand it, the loser is going to push the winner one time around the Center Square in the oldest, hardest pushing, wheelbarrow that the winner can lay his hands on. The bet is supposed to be paid off at "High Noon" this Saturday. Now that should be some sight, think I'll just wander down that way come Saturday and take a look for myself.

The Town Fathers had their monthly meeting the other night. I heard that a grand total of seven people attended part of the meeting, plus the two reporters (one of whom was late, tsk, tsk). Looks like the community is starting to wake up a little with the cold weather and moving around a bit.

Came across a kind of oddity—had a groundbreaking ceremony here in town. Now, I always thought that a "groundbreaking ceremony" was a grand event where the very first shovel full of earth was dug up and everything proceeded from there. Not so. Seems it is kind of usual for construction to start, and then have the "ceremony" at some convenient time. "Course I really don't see where a cold, rainy day is so convenient, however, there's no accounting for some people's tastes.

One of the things brought up at the Commissioners meeting was the fact that a shot had been fired into an occupied building here in town. Now, breaking a window is one thing, destroying street signs and such another, but this would appear to me to be going a bit too far. If this was someone's idea of a prank, they have a sick sense of humor. If it was an accident, they are too negligent to be allowed to walk around with a gun. This is the kind of goings-on that can give a community a real bad name in a hurry.

I read where $400 million dollars has been spent during the presidential campaign; and both of the major candidates were at the same time expressing their concern over the poor and jobless. Doesn't make sense to me. Lot of things, though, about the way we hold elections seem a little screwy. In spite of that, the only government such as ours to last longer than ours is the British, and they've been known to suspend elections during time of war, which we have never done. So, with all its big and little flaws, it would appear that our form of government is still the best one devised by man, and we can look forward to another battle come 1976.

Marine Graduates

Marine Pvt. Russell D. Miller, Jr., husband of the former Miss Wilma L. Strassbaugh of Route 1, Fairfield, Pa., graduated from basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

New Assignments For Two Area Men

Master Sergeant William C. Mackinzie, Jr., recently returned from a thirteen month tour of duty with the Air Force Advisory Forces in Korea, and has reported to his new assignment at England Air Force Base, Louisiana. Sgt. Mackinzie, son-in-law of Paul Glass, near Emmitsburg, with 19½ years in the Air Force, was accompanied to Louisiana by his son, Billy, who flew back to Washington a week late by commercial airliner.

Pfc. Paul Mackinzie, USMC, the oldest son of Sgt. Mackinzie, has also reported to his new assignment at El Toro Marine Base in California. Paul, a January enlistee of the Marine Corps, graduated on November 3 from Air Crew Equipmentman Survival School at Lakehurst Naval Air Station, New Jersey.

Former Resident Donates To VHC

The following letter, received by James Kittinger, may be of some interest to Emmitsburg residents. The Vigilant Hose Company is happy to add Mr. Crumlish's name to their list of donors. Dear Mr. Kittinger: As a former resident of Emmitsburg, and as a typical example of the saying "You can take a boy out of the country—but you can't take the country out of a boy," enclosed find a modest check for your current fund drive.

The group which has served my old home town known as the Vigilant Hose Company—deserves all the support one can give it, and I would suggest that "The Chronicle" in its articles should repeat, repeat, repeat, in each article, each progress report, your address. You'll note I'm sending c/ Geo Rosensteel, who knows who I am. I live in Baltimore (Catonville). My home was on old Rt. 15 out near MSM where my father (who was killed 34 years ago last night) taught Latin. I still have a sister at St. Joseph's Provincial House by the name of Sr. John Mary. At 60 years of age my friends in Emmitsburg grow fewer by the year, but what you at the Vigilant Hose Co., will go on and may it do so to all of your members' credit.

Most sincerely yours,
"JACK" CRUMLISH

Letter To The Editor

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:
I would like to make the following comments in regard to the letter in last week's paper from Eric Glass, concerning the school which we should have gotten up ten years ago. I think the School Board and the County in general, have played Emmitsburg citizens for fools long enough. It seems it wouldn't make any difference how many people from this town went to meetings of this sort, it would still fall on deaf ears.

It would appear that every other community around gets what they want when they want it and Emmitsburg gets the leavings and the leavings don't seem to be very much for this town. I'd like any citizen to name one thing that the County or the School Board has done for this town. It seems as though other communities get what they want from the County and the School Board without going through a lot of meetings and begging. The County and the School Board are going to do what they dang well please when they're dang well ready.

Middletown and Walkersville each are going to get new Middle Schools according to last week's Frederick paper. Each is also supposed to get a new High School and they have each just gotten new High Schools not long ago. Middletown has a population of 1262, according to the 1970 census, Walkersville's is 1269, both of them less than ours. They both have good Middle Schools now, they both have good High Schools now—we have a Middle School that's ready to fall down, to put it mildly, and NO High School. If the School Board would not have taken our boundaries from us in the past, our school would have been over-crowded when they built Catoctin.

You would think that the School Board and County would recognize the fact that we are the second largest election district in the County; and the county runs all the way to the Pennsylvania line, it does not stop at Thurmont. The only time they know that we are here is tax collection time and when they want our votes.

Maybe if the people of this town would refuse to send their kids other places to school and also refused to send them to our dilapidated Middle School, there might be a slight chance that the County and School Board might recognize our needs—for once.

As to Mr. Glass' reference to no one being at the meeting from the Town Office, we have other commitments that we are taking our own free time to do without much pay and more than often without thanks. We know what we can do as town officials, but we don't know what the School Board is going to do regardless of how many times we meet with them.

Also, Mr. Glass is absolutely right in writing his letter to the Chronicle; I wish we had more interested citizens like him.

Again, I repeat, we have a dilapidated Middle School, no High School, fouled up mailing addresses, and state-owned streets that are terrible. So let's wake up Emmitsburg, and tell some of these present characters that we have in the County and on the School Board, and let them know that we mean business. We are tired of getting the run around.

Town Commissioner

Catoctin PTSA To Meet Monday

The next meeting of the Catoctin High School PTSA will be held Monday night, November 13, at 8 p.m. in the school.

The program for the evening will be a presentation and explanation of the Math Program as taught at the school, and will be presented by Mrs. Weigley, supervisor of Math for Frederick County, and by Mr. Lambdin, Math Instructor at the school. The membership drive for the PTSA is still on, and with 53 members presently signed up, all parents and students are urged to attend this meeting.

Only the local newspaper sounds the community heartbeat.

Seton Center Opens Doors To Celebrate 3rd Anniversary

Young Kevin Damuth leads his classmates in a "Lollipop Game" during activities at Seton Center.

Seton Center in Emmitsburg held Open House on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 5, to celebrate its third anniversary. More than 200 visitors toured the brightly appointed classrooms, saw a continuous slide presentation of Center activities and enjoyed refreshments.

In November 1969 there were 23 day care children under Seton Center's sheltering roof. Now there 83, ages 2-6, in the full-day program and 43 older children come for before and after school care.

In addition, the Frederick County Community Action Agency last month located a full-time Head Start Program in one of the Center's well-equipped classrooms. This program is funded by HEW and will provide a teacher, an aide, lunch, transportation, medical care and all types of stimulating experiences for 20 area children.

Seton Center estimates that 72 families are served through its programs for children. Of this number, 12 families would probably be on welfare if the mother were unable to go out to earn. Twenty-five families are served in cooperation with the county public health department.

Adult education courses are held at the Center. Basic education leading to a high school equivalency certificate is taught each semester and hobby and skill courses such as Home Nursing, Knitting, Bookkeeping and Physical Fitness, have also been given. The Adult education program is sponsored by the Emmitsburg Lifelong Learning Council in partnership with the Frederick County Board of Education.

Among its many programs, Seton Center stresses the need for family involvement. Movies, picnics, sing-alongs and demonstrations draw families to the Center where they may also receive counseling and referral services.

In conjunction with its third anniversary, Seton Center has published a two-fold brochure giving an overview of its activities. The cover picture was done by Paul J. Waddy from a photograph of a Seton Center day care child. The publication was authorized and edited by the Seton Center Advisory Board and will be distributed throughout the year as informational literature.

Finances at Seton Center have always been colored red, with the yearly deficit met by the Daughters of Charity at Emmitsburg who also provide the building and the administrative staff for the center.

Parents pay for day care on a sliding scale according to their means. In addition, public monies help with food costs, trainee salaries and purchase-of-care for eligible children. At present the salaries for two teacher aides and two members of the housekeeping staff are paid by the Frederick Community Action Agency.

Seton Center is a member agency of United Givers Fund and has also received donations from the Bishops Campaign for Human Development. Sister Mary Magdalen, Administrator of the Center, will appear on TV at 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 12, in an interview describing the use of the CHD grant.

The Center has been widely acclaimed for its excellent program. Last winter, Sister Grace, Program Director, received a request from the Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to train in-service day care personnel from Maryland institutions who need to upgrade their qualifications. As a result, a training program in Early Childhood Education was given at the Center last spring and another, expanded program, is currently under way.

In October, Sister Grace presented a session on Audio Visual Equipment for Pre-school Children at an Early Childhood Workshop at St. Ann's Infant Home, Hyattsville. During the past year, Sister Mary Magdalen and Sister Grace have attended a number of professional meetings concerned with social work and developments in the field of Early Childhood Education.

Seton Center operates a Thrift Shop. This bustling enterprise is run by Sister Esther with the help of Sister Vincent. It is open to the public and was a surprise money-maker last year.

In one of Seton Center's most valuable programs, students and other adults from St. Joseph's and Mount St. Mary's Colleges come to volunteer their time and talents.

Town Approves Annexation Of Emmitt-Ridge; Plans To Buy More Ground

At their meeting Monday night, the Town Council formally adopted a resolution calling for the annexation of Emmitt-Ridge on the Irishtown Road. The property, which is comprised of approximately 17½ acres, is the proposed site for 190 housing units. The property will become part of the town unless 20 per cent of the town's registered voters should request a referendum.

Mayor Sprankle informed the council that revision of the town code was "pretty much up to date", but noted that the charter would have to be amended with reference to property ownership requirements for persons wishing to run for Town offices. Attorney Bowers also suggested that because of the number of boundary changes the town has made, the area map needed revision to bring it up to date.

The Council discussed the problem of delinquent water bill payments and decided it was necessary to become more forceful in collection of such bills. They refused to act on a request for permission to install a house trailer until the water bill for the property had been paid.

The Council considered the necessity of buying a new back-hoe as it appears the present one has more wrong with it than right. A committee was appointed to check into the advisability of either buying or renting a new one.

Sister Elaine of St. Joseph's High School informed them that a shot had been fired into the office of the athletic director while he was in there one evening, that someone had driven a car over the school lawn, and a window in the school had been broken on Halloween. Sister Elaine told the Council that she realized that the town police could not be everywhere at once, but that she felt the Council should know that these things had happened. She noted that the situation on the street around the school had improved since the No Loitering signs had been installed.

Commissioner Myers reported that the new lights at the ball field were installed and that the new fence was presently going up.

The Council also discussed making Patterson Ave. and Berry Alley one-way, the possibility of restricting Trick or Treat next year and having a party for the children instead, and decided to look into obtaining insurance and retirement for the town employees. In response to a suggestion that the Town hire a Metermaid, they felt that there would not be enough income to offset the extra expense of another salary.

Groundbreaking Ceremony Held For New Apartment Development Here

The official groundbreaking for the Creekside Garden Apartments was held Wednesday, Nov. 9, at the construction site off Patterson Alley in Emmitsburg. According to Frank Darcey, President of Central Maryland Corporation, construction should be completed by April 1, 1973.

The building will consist of 10 2-bedroom and 2 one-bedroom apartments, plus two centrally located laundry rooms. The units will feature wall to wall carpeting, custom wall-paper, air conditioning and electric baseboard heat.

Mr. Darcey noted that all rooms will be large and there will be plenty of cabinet and closet space. Kitchens will feature built-in dishwashers and garbage disposal units. Anyone interested in further information may contact Central Maryland Corporation in Thurmont.

Churches To Hold Annual Assembly

The Emmitsburg Council of Churches will hold its annual assembly on Tuesday evening, 8 p.m., in St. Joseph's High School. Every member of the parish's six congregations has a voice and vote at this meeting. Written reports from the three standing committees, the treasurer and president, have been prepared in booklet form.

Although the Council began in 1966, this year was the first year this ecumenical body encompassed all of the local churches and was administered by a constitution. The officers during 1972 were Pastor Fearer (Elias), president; Mrs. Joyce Grider (Trinity), vice president; Betty Jane Koontz (Elias), secretary; and Mr. Fred Wolfe (Incarnation), treasurer. The election of officers for 1973 will take place at the Tuesday assembly, with the installation of same at the Thanksgiving Service on November 24.

Athletic Banquet At Catoctin High

Charley Eckman is "A Man With A Message." In his own unique style he manages to weave a message which has been a source of inspiration to youth and youth leaders across the land.

Mr. Eckman has been coach of the Detroit Pistons of the NBA, former NBA official; featured in Saturday Evening Post and Sports Illustrated. He is Sports Director of WFBR Radio and commentator for Channel 13 TV.

The "Cinderella Man" of the sports world will be a sure hit and will provide entertainment with a message. Tickets are on sale at the Thurmont Bank, and Boyle's Market in Emmitsburg. Get them while they last. The price is $2.50.

Sock 'N Buskin Presents Comedy As First Production

The assembled cast of the Mount Saint Mary's-Saint Joseph College production of "You Can't Take It With You," to be presented on the Mount campus, November 9-13.

Sock 'N Buskin, the cooperative drama society of Mount Saint Mary's and Saint Joseph Colleges, will open its Fall production to a five-day run this evening (Thursday) at 8 o'clock in Flynn Hall on the Mount Saint Mary's campus. The play will be the Kaufman and Hart Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," which enjoyed over 800 Broadway performances.

The show will begin at 8 p.m. on November 9, 10, 11, and 13, and there will be a matinee performance at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 12. It is directed by Mount drama instructor, Mr. Paul O'Connell, and stars members of the Mount Saint Mary's and Saint Joseph College communities.

The story centers around the household of incredibly eccentric Grandpa Vanderhof, a lively little man who for the past 35 years has been diligently "relaxing" and having fun—collecting snakes and attending commencement exercises. Surrounding Grandpa in his New York City home are the unusual members of his family, who keep busy, like Grandpa, by doing whatever they like. His daughter, Penny, is writing her 11th play—playwriting having suggested itself to her eight years ago when a typewriter was delivered to the house by mistake.

Penny's daughter, Essie, is a dance enthusiast and, wearing ballet shoes almost constantly, enjoys making "Love Dreamtandy" for her xylophonist husband, Ed Carmichael, to sell. Penny's husband, Paul Sycamore, manufactures fireworks in the cellar aided by Mr. DePinna, who delivered ice to the house eight years ago and has never left.

The public is cordially invited, and tickets will sell at the door—$1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. I deducted a casualty loss on my 1971 return for damage caused to my house by a hailstorm. This year, my insurance company gave me a greater reimbursement for my loss than I had originally estimated. Is this taxable?

A. Yes. If you receive a larger reimbursement than you estimated you would recover, after you claimed a deduction for the loss, you must include in your income, for the year of recovery, the amount that exceeds the loss you deducted in your tax return. You do not recompute the tax for the year you claimed the deduction.

Q. I just took a job as a waiter. My employer tells me that I must report my tips to him each month. Is this true?

A. Yes. If you receive cash tips of $20 or more in a month while working for any one employer, you must report to that employer the total amount of those tips on or before the 10th day of the following month. Your employer needs these reports to collect the social security and income tax due on the tips. He will deduct these from your regular wages.

Q. My teenage son wants a new car for his birthday. Would it make any difference from a tax standpoint whether he buys the car or I purchase it for him?

A. If you purchase the car and are liable for payments, you may deduct the interest payments and sales tax on the car. However, if the car cost more than $3,000, you will have to file a Federal gift tax return.

If you plan to claim your son as a dependent, it would make no difference whether you or your son bought the car because such an item is not considered in determining total support.

Q. Does the IRS automatically impose a penalty on a taxpayer who underpays his estimated tax installment?

A. A penalty of 6 per cent per year is imposed by law for underpayment of installments of estimated tax except in certain situations. The penalty does not apply if each installment is paid on time and (1) is at least 80 percent (66-2/3 percent for farmers or fishermen) of the amount due on the basis of the tax shown on the return for the taxable year, (2) is at least as much as would have been paid if based on the tax shown on your prior year's return, or (3) is based on a tax computed by using your income for last year and this year's tax rates and exemptions. For additional exceptions in unusual cases see Form 2210, Underpayment of Estimated Income Tax By Individuals, available at your local IRS office. Farmers and fishermen should use Form 2210F.

Knights Plan Tour For Altar Boys; Hear Directors' Reports

Altar boys from the five parishes that make up the Brute Council, Knights of Columbus, will take a tour of Mt. St. Mary's Seminary this Saturday afternoon, November 11 at 1:30 p.m. Boys going are to be at the Council home prior to 1:30 and parents of the boys are also invited. This along with many other activities, were discussed at the meeting of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, held on Monday evening in the Council home with the Grand Knight, George L. Danner, presiding.

General program chairman Raymond Sanders called on the directors to give their monthly reports.

Council Activities Director Eugene Rosensteel reported that an oyster feed will be held this Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:00 p.m. Members and their guests are cordially invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained at the door, at $2.50 each. Edward Myers is chairman of this event. Mr. Rosensteel also reported on the recent Halloween party held in the council home, and said it was a success.

Mr. Henry Gerken is compiling a scrap book of council events for future reference. It was decided that the next corporate Mass will be held at St. Rita's Parish, Blue Ridge Summit, on Sunday, November 26, at the 9:00 a.m. Mass. Members and their families are urged to attend this Mass in a body.

Thomas Topper, youth director, reported that the newly formed Columbian Squires Circle will hold their first investiture service on Friday evening, November 17 at 8:00 p.m. in the council home. Topper also reported that 21 young men have signed up for the Squires and is inviting other interested Catholic boys to join, as they still have time to become charter members. To join a boy may contact either Thomas Topper, Sterling (Butch) Myers or Greg Hollinger. Squires, and their parents are urged to attend this first investiture. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Council membership chairman, Lawrence Kolb, urged the members to keep soliciting new members.

Paul A. Keepers, Financial Secretary, reported that nine wall clocks have been delivered to St. Joseph's High School and given to the principal, Sister Elaine. The clocks, purchased by the Knights, will be hung in the class rooms.

Grand Knight Danner reminded the members that the annual commemorative service and mass for deceased members of the council, will be held Monday, November 20, at 7:30 p.m. Members of families of deceased members are most cordially invited to attend this service. Chaplain, Rev. Carl J. Fives, will offer the mass.

John T. Ott, Emmitsburg, was voted into the council as a new member.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, November 20 at 8:00 p.m.

The data pertaining to the Grabill family, of Tom's Creek Hundred, Frederick County, Maryland, is continued at this time.

Peter Grabill, soldier in the War of the American Revolution, is interred in the old section of Elias Lutheran churchyard. His grave is marked by a marble "altar tomb" — of rich simplicity in design. The second Peter Grabill, a veteran of the War of 1812-14, is buried in the same plot. According to a fairly reliable tradition this second Peter was hard at work helping to build the steeple of Elias church when the call came for men to help defend the City of Baltimore. He laid down his tools—marched with others to Baltimore—and when the emergency was over—returned to his home and the work at hand.

The first Peter Grabill, soldier of the American Revolution, was the father of at least three sons—namely Peter (2) Grabill, Frederick Grabill, and John Grabill. There may well have been other children but—if so—their names and places of burial are unknown.

John (2) Grabill is interred in Elias churchyard and the inscription from the marker at his grave reads as follows:
2. In memory of John Grabill, died February 17, 1836, aged 61 years.

Note: John (2) Grabill was a married man and the given name of his wife was Elizabeth. The records of the Taneytown Lutheran church (Trinity) contain the following record of baptism:

1. Baptized—John Stewart Grabill—son of John and Elizabeth Grabill—born December 27, 1832—baptized January 15, 1833—sponsors—the parents.

It is quite possible that Elizabeth Grabill is interred beside her husband in Elias churchyard and that her grave was never marked or the stone has long since disappeared.

Peter (3) Grabill married Sarah Rudisel, the daughter of Tobias Rudisel, of Taneytown, Maryland. Her sister, Alice Rudisel, became the wife of Lewis Martin Motter. Mrs. Motter and her husband are interred in Elias churchyard.

Again referring to the records of Trinity Lutheran church, Taneytown, Maryland, and the Grabill family—the following is to be found:

2. Baptized—Margaret Ann Grabill—daughter of Peter and Sarah (Rudisel) Grabill—born

November 25, 1842—baptized March 26, 1843—Sponsors—the parents.

3. Baptized—Sarah Jones Grabill—daughter of Peter and Sarah (Rudisel) Grabill—born January 3, 1945—baptized January 15, 1845—Sponsors—the parents.

Note: This little daughter died young and a record of her death is contained in the Trinity church book—as follows:

4. Died—Sally J. Grabill—March 15, 1853—aged 8 years, 2 months, and 4 days. Funeral preached by the Pastor.

5. Baptized—Harry George Grabill—son of Peter and Sarah (Rudisel) Grabill—born August 12, 1851—baptized October 12, 1851.

Note: This child, too, died at a comparatively early age. His grave is in Mountainview Cemetery, Emmitsburg, Maryland. The inscription follows:
3. Sacred to the memory of Harry G. Grabill, died October 12, 1863, aged 12 years.

Note: There may be other members of the Grabill family interred at Mountainview but this is the only marked grave having to do with that clan.

6. Married—October 16, 1841—Peter Grabill, of Frederick County, Maryland, to Miss Sarah Rudisel, of Carroll County, Maryland. License issued in Carroll County.

7. Married—December 20, 1860—Samuel Grabill to Jeanet Ingle—both of Carroll County, Maryland.

Note: Sam Grabill could have been a brother of Peter (3) Grabill. It must be emphasized, however, that no proof of this relationship has been found.

There is one other Grabill grave to be found in Elias churchyard. The inscription follows:

4. Sacred to the memory of Frederick Grabill, died November 12, 1807, aged 9 months and 14 days.

Note: This child is somewhat of a mystery. It is reasonable to assume, however, that Frederick Grabill was a grandson of the first Peter Grabill, soldier in the War of the American Revolution.

In the files of the "Emmitsburg Chronicle", under date of January 19, 1889, is the obituary notice of Sarah (Rudisel) Grabill, wife of Peter (3) Grabill.

1. Died, recently, Mrs. Peter Grabill, the daughter of the late Tobias Rudisel, of Taneytown, Maryland. Mrs. Grabill lived for many years at the old Grabill homestead at Locust Grove, near Emmitsburg, Md. Died at the home of her daughter at Mayberry, Carroll County, Md. Burial at Baust Church.

These notes will be continued next week.

The Model "T" — Now The Teakettle?

Not many years ago a kitchen was almost thought incomplete if a teakettle was not present. And most of us remember waiting for the shrill sound of the whistle, telling that "the water's hot enough for use". Today, however, there's an appliance that could make the need for the old-fashioned teakettle a thing of the past. It's called a Hot-water Dispenser by its maker, the KitchenAid Division of The Hobart Manufacturing Company.

According to the manufacturer, the Hot-water Dispenser will provide water up to 190° F. with the turn of a knob. That's sufficiently hot to make instant drinks and soups, give you a quick start on cooking, and shorten the time needed to prepare most of the convenience and frozen foods that are on the market.

A spokesman for KitchenAid said that the unit is composed of a reservoir tank which mounts in the cabinet below the sink, and a tastefully designed tap which installs on the sink or the adjacent countertop. A turn of the top of the tap provides the amount of hot water needed for the food you are preparing. Water temperature is controlled by a thermostat.

With water practically "teakettle hot", available immediately by simply turning a knob, the need for the old-fashioned teakettle might, indeed, disappear.

COOKING CORNER TIPS FROM THE COOK BOOK GUILD

By CHARLOTTE B. GREENE

It's time to put away the grill and think of indoor entertaining for the fall. Be different—forget the Saturday-night-syndrome and try a Sunday morning brunch or a cozy midnight supper. Plan an intimate buffet-style party, prepare food in advance, let everyone serve themselves, and you'll have time to enjoy your guests. Here's a great make-ahead dessert for any time of day: from Suppers and Midnight Snacks by George Bradshaw (McKay)

CHOCOLATE—HAZELNUT POTS OF CREAM

- 1/2 cup hazelnuts (shelled), 1 cup light cream.
- 6 oz. semisweet chocolate bits, 4 tbsp. milk,
- 1 oz. unsweetened chocolate, 4 egg yolks,
- a dash of salt.

Place the hazelnuts in the blender and run the motor until the nuts are reduced to a powder. Loosen this thoroughly with a rubber spatula or spoon. On top of it place the semisweet bits and the unsweetened chocolate (cut up). Heat the cream and the milk together (don't boil), then pour it into the blender. Now hold the top of the blender firmly in place with your hand and turn the motor to high. When the racket has stopped and the mixture sounds smooth, pour in the four egg yolks. Let run for another half-minute, then pour into pots de creme dishes or champagne glasses. Chill in the icebox, but remove an hour before serving. Serves 4.

WASHINGTON REPORT

FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL, JR.

The Home Stretch

The 92nd Congress is moving rapidly towards adjournment, and although its work is not yet finished, there already are some indicators of the kind of session it has been.

In a word, it's been long, and busy, too. In fact, as we moved into October, the Senate also moved past the 1,000 hour mark for time in session this year. During these hours of floor debate—which do not take into account the additional time for committee work—the Senate has set a record for the number of roll call votes in a single session with more than 525 already recorded. This is more than 100 ahead of the previous high of 421 roll calls in a single session.

The votes that are cast in the House and Senate are the last word in shaping the policies of the federal government and the laws of our land. In the final analysis, the vote cast by a senator or congressman also is the most fundamental part of his job in Washington.

Just as a senator or congressman would be powerless without his vote, a citizen who does not exercise his right to vote also is powerless to shape his government. Election day is now only a month away, and this year more Americans than ever before will be eligible to vote because of the law which reduced the voting age to 18.

Helping to pass the legislation to grant 18-year-olds the right to vote was one of the most gratifying moments for me since coming to Washington. It was a vote of confidence in the young people of America, and nothing would please me more than to see the young voters turn out in the highest percentage when we go to the polls next month.

The 92nd Congress will probably have adjourned by the time the November elections roll around, and I believe we have succeeded in meeting our highest priority by passing a revenue sharing plan that President Nixon has been seeking for the past three years.

Maryland's portion of the revenue sharing fund will be about $107 million for this year. Of this amount, more than $71 million will go directly to county and municipal governments, where local planners have just about reached the end of their rope in trying to support schools and local services through the property tax.

The $35.7 million allocation to the state government may well be the difference between a balanced budget and a deficit this year in Maryland.

In the past week, the Senate and House of Representatives also have given final passage to a truly landmark bill to control water pollution.

The $24 billion authorized in this clean water bill gives high priority to construction of sewage treatment plants. In the case of Maryland, it authorizes $475 million over the next three years for improving sewage treatment facilities.

Sports fans may have heard about legislation which I am cosponsoring to end TV blackouts of professional sports events if a home game is sold out in advance. I am hopeful that the hearings we conducted will result in a voluntary action to end this practice, which is especially unfair to professional football fans.

Who Are The Skyjackers?

Several national and international bodies are groping now with the problem of air terrorists and skyjacking. In his book, The Subverters, former Communist Minuteman member J. Bernard Hutton says the first step in stamping out skyjacking is to understand that it is almost entirely a Communist operation, directed mainly from Peking and in a few cases from Moscow.

"Peking's Special Division for Subversion originated 'air terrorism,'" says Hutton, who renounced Communism and fled Russia after serving as foreign editor of the official Communist evening newspaper in Moscow. "It set up training courses for terrorists whose task was to attack and hijack airliners. Cold-blooded men and women have been drilled in the technique of attacking aircraft with submachine guns and incendiary bombs; of concealing plastic handgrenades and pistols in luggage and upon their persons, and smuggling them through airport checks. These air terrorists are of non-Chinese descent. They are recruited from the ranks of Arab guerrillas and from hard-core Communists in all parts of the world."

Knowledge Before Acts

Hutton's dramatically revealing book was written in early 1972, months before the "Black September" terrorism at the Olympics and the previous attacks on Israeli airliners. He said that Moscow's Special Division for Subversion has ordered its master-subverters to recruit and train groups of air terrorists. He gives names and all of the undercover details of many of the more dramatic skyjackings of the last several years. For instance, he presents heretofore unpublished facts about the December 1968 attack on an Israeli airliner in the Athens, Greece airport (one passenger was killed, the aircraft was destroyed):

"Airport police arrested the two attackers. They were identified as Arabs, aged 19 and 25. They told the Greek authorities they had attempted to destroy the Israeli airliner on orders from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. The Popular Front promptly issued a statement in Beirut; it accepted all responsibility for the attack and added, 'It is a warning to Israel of more to come.'"

Red Operation
"This statement was intended to convince the world that the outrage was 'just another move in the Arab-Israeli conflict.' But its real purpose was to conceal Peking's complicity. The Mao-inspired leaders of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine had sent two Arab air terrorists to a Red Chinese air terrorists training camp, and had pledged themselves to accept all responsibility for the two men's subsequent acts of terrorism."

In 1970, both Peking and Moscow put forth a determined effort to gain a political stranglehold upon world affairs through chaos created by the hijacking of airliners, according to Hutton, who is considered one of the best authorities on Communist intrigue. He fills in details on scores of subsequent skyjackings and destruction of airliners.

Target: Western Civilization

"The hijacking of these airliners was investigated thoroughly by the Intelligence and Security Services of six nations," Hutton says. "Their investigations provided factual evidence that the claim by Arab guerrillas that they had masterminded this grand-scale operation was a blatant lie intended to cloak the true sponsors of this skyjacking coup. Investigators proved that these acts of air piracy were part of a political plot to destroy the uneasy Suez and Middle East truce . . . The skyjacking conspirators were all undercover subverters, trained by Red China's Special Division for Subversion. . . (and by Moscow's)."

Halloween Safety

Besides ghosts and goblins, there's often real danger lurking in the Halloween night air. Every year many trick-or-treaters are seriously injured or poisoned from eating candy and other goodies given to them by strangers. Youngsters have been known to receive candy coated with rat poisoning and fruit containing razor blades. Parents should give their children strict instructions not to eat anything given to them by strangers until they arrive home. At home, parents should carefully inspect everything received.

Also, if youngsters trick-or-treat at night, be sure they wear light colors so they can be seen by cars, walk along the shoulder of the road facing traffic if there are not sidewalks, wear makeup instead of a mask to see better, wait outside of homes of strangers for treats and carry flashlights instead of candles or jack-o'-lanterns.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias
U.S. Senator

Social Security Benefits

The last session of Congress was one of frustration for almost everyone. It seems hard to imagine that the outcome of months of work manages to leave everybody—Congressmen, Senators, and the President—upset at the final bell. It seems that much of the hard work only served to postpone the issues until next session.

However, Congress has managed to pass some vitally important legislation and I'd like to devote this report to one of the most significant bills to make it to the President's desk this fall.

The Social Security amendments go a long way toward the goal of providing for the nation's aged and disabled—the ones who get left behind as the value of the dollar shrinks. This bill, signed by the President only a few days ago, increases monthly social security benefits and perhaps just as important, it extends medicare coverage to almost two million disabled persons who are already in the social security and the parallel railroad retirement system.

For those who have worked under social security coverage for the basic thirty-year period, the minimum benefit per month will increase from the present $84.50 per month to $170 per month. For couples the benefits will come to $255 per month after thirty years of contributions to the system. These increases will take effect on January 1st of this year.

This boost in the basic monthly payment takes a giant step toward proper retirement benefits for those who may never have earned a lot of money, but who have put in a lifetime of solid work.

The bill also ends the penalty on widows and widowers, who are now entitled to get one hundred per cent of what their spouse was eligible to receive before his or her death.

Another major addition is an increase in the amount which those on social security can earn on their own without losing their benefits. Right now, the ceiling on outside earnings is $1,680 while under the new law the ceiling will be $2,100 a year.

For those on social security already, the bill provides a long list of additional benefits, all of them aimed at ending the second class status of the nation's retired workers.

The bill also touches on other areas, including improved benefits for those who retire early, between the ages of 62 and 64 years. In several ways, the bill expands the availability of hospital insurance, and even allows those over 65 who aren't eligible for medicare now to join the program voluntarily and pay premiums for coverage.

There is new aid for state governments who are paying the aged, the blind and the disabled more than federal minimums.

The provisions of this bill cover 30 pages in a summary and I can not list them all in this space. However, I urge anyone who might be affected to read carefully the information which will be coming from the social security administration and be sure to follow up with social security officials if you have any questions about the new rules and benefits.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Banks Face Brisker Business

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Bank stocks have displayed a considerable degree of disparity in their performances for the greater part of the current upward phase of the business cycle. This has been a reflection of the lack of uniformity in operating earnings because of the spotty economic climate. Even though the nation's Gross National Product (in terms of constant dollar value) and industrial output have both been trending steadily higher, there has not been an upthrust of sufficient intensity to stimulate business borrowings.

Profits Squeezed

In the case of many commercial banks, much of 1971 and the first nine months of the present year saw quarterly operating results (profits before gains or losses from securities transactions) either unimpressive or downright disappointing. Except for a few individual exceptions, the prime motivators of inventory stockpiling (buying to hedge against strikes, vigorous consumer spending, and full capacity operations in key production areas) simply were not in evidence to boost corporate demand for working capital funds.

In addition, since the year 1970 many corporations have floated long-term debt and equity financings. Part of the proceeds have been used to repay short-term borrowings and to rebuild working capital. Bank-credit requirements have also been lessened considerably by the increase in corporate cash flow as a result of the tax incentives established as part of the economic revitalization program. At the same time, of course, the operating expense of the banks themselves have continued to rise.

More Rewarding Times Ahead

As of now, however, prospects favor a more uniformly favorable environment for commercial banks. After a long laggard spell, both consumer spending and the accumulation of inventories are exhibiting new-found strength. Hence, the demand for bank loans and the rate structure for such borrowings should evidence increasing firmness as this fall season moves along. For the balance of this year, moreover, neither the Fed nor the Administration is likely to adopt measures that would tighten credit to any extent.

The regulatory authorities have also clarified the "letter and spirit" of the Amended Bank Holding Act which had been adopted in December 1970. Although recent interpretations of the revised ground rules restrict bank holding companies solely to subsidiaries which engage in banking-related activities (except in the case of nonbanking subsidiaries acquired prior to 1968), there still remains sufficient latitude to permit moves into more profitable fields. Also, in view of the increased emphasis by the leading banks on expanding overseas operations, timely benefits should be derived from the current efforts to boost the nation's exports of goods and services.

Long-Pull Investments

Investments in bank stocks tend to find a long-term haven in most portfolios. This is particularly true in the case of commitments made in a local or regional bank. However, those investors who are conscious of performance should bear in mind that bank stocks can become over-priced relative to near-term growth. At this time, however, the Research Department of Babson's Reports recommends holding such bank stocks as Chase Manhattan and First National City in N. Y., and Continental Illinois, which have performed especially well over the past two years. Also, bank stocks of institutions in rapid-growth areas should be retained, including Wachovia and Citizens & Southern (Atlanta). The aforementioned issues have all been recommended for purchase by Babson's Reports over the past two years at materially lower prices. For current purchase, Western Bank Corporation and Chemical New York Corporation appear to be attractive for appreciation.

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

The Gifted Child: Undiscovered Or Neglected?

Special classes for the disadvantaged and disabled students are found in most schools today but there is little being done to encourage the gifted students. Few schools have enrichment classes specifically designed for the creative and gifted students, and it is this area that needs to be seriously reviewed.

Studies have been done since the 1920's by Terman, Oden, and Witte which have attempted to identify gifted children, and the findings of their studies have been confirmed and basic characteristics of the gifted children have been accepted.

The gifted child has been found to have an IQ of 130 and above. He is superior in physical development, social adjustment, character traits, and educational attainment. He is found to be socially accepted and not a misfit as some people frequently suggest.

Many gifted children learn rapidly and seem to need only half the time of the average child to acquire skills and knowledge. Therefore, many gifted children enter school already possessing skills in reading, writing, and arithmetic, and some verbally gifted children can read upon entering kindergarten.

This situation creates a problem for the student and teacher, especially if no enrichment program exists for the gifted child.

Unfortunately, many of these creative and gifted children are not identified and encouraged. They do not want to appear unusual so they attempt to be average by hiding their talents, and their creativity eventually becomes stifled. Their talents go undiscovered. They know that they are neglected and often develop a resentment toward the school, the teacher and even the parents. Schools should seek early identification of exceptional children whether they be disadvantaged or gifted. Special programs need to be available for them so that their special needs can be met.

Programs for the gifted should start at the pre-school level so that early opportunities for rapid learning can take place. These programs should advocate individualized instruction and emphasize interest and motivation.

A wide variety of activities should be made available so that the gifted children can develop through meaningful experiences. Experimentation must be a significant aspect of learning. Gifted children need self-discovery and need an environment where curiosity can be satisfied.

The diversity of learning experiences is the key to satisfying the needs of the gifted student. Variety and richness of activities are essential for fostering development and growth. All students need to be challenged with interesting materials and experiences, but gifted children thrive in a stimulating environment.

BRIGHT IDEAS

from MARY KAY OSWALD
Manager, Consumer Affairs
Reynolds Aluminum

When summer leisure turns to busy back-to-school days, it's time for a whole raft of new chores. To make some of those tasks easier... did you know...

- aluminum foil makes a perfect cover for books. It not only keeps the book clean, but also protects the binding from heat and water.
- you can keep knitting yarns clean, control unending and prevent tangling by wrapping balls of yarn in aluminum foil. Puncture a hole in the foil so the loose end of the yarn can be pulled through.
- you can still enjoy the wonderful flavor of an outdoor barbecue with little mess and cleanup. Even better... it's done in the oven! Add bottled barbecue sauce and liquid smoke along with chicken, ribs or brisket to an oven cooking bag. Follow manufacturers directions regarding cooking time.
- a two-inch wide strip of aluminum foil wrapped gently over the edge of a pastry shell will keep it from getting over-browned. Leave strip of foil on pie for first 15 minutes of baking. Remove with tongs.
- you can "double-batch" your favorite casserole recipe. Simply double the recipe and freeze half. Some day next week, dinner will be simply a matter of thawing and reheating.
- keep a small piece of aluminum foil handy at the range to catch the drip from spoons used in cooking and stirring. Keeps the top of the range clean, too.

By Congressman Goodloe Byron Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

I am a 68-year-old veteran with a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance term policy. Recently I suffered disability which kept me from working for six months. Can't I qualify for a waiver of premiums on my insurance?

The VA informs me that your disability must have been incurred before your 65th birthday in order to qualify for such a waiver.

How many interstate highways have been built in the U. S. and will construction continue indefinitely?

The ultimate goal of the Interstate Highway System is a 42,500-mile network of roads throughout the Nation. Almost 80 per cent of this goal has been attained and work is under way or near completion on another 18 per cent of the total.

Is one "central source" directory available outlining the various federal government agencies and departments?

The "U. S. Government Organization Manual 1972/1973" is the official handbook of the Federal Government and contains descriptions of the agencies of the legislative, judicial and executive branches and descriptions of, and brief statements about, certain boards, commissions, committees, quasi-official agencies and selected international organizations. The book is published by the Office of the Federal Register and is available for $3 from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Do you have any information on erosion control planning that it would effect farm land that will be used as the site for a housing development?

The Environmental Protection Agency informs me that they publish a manual, "Guidelines for Erosion and Sediment Control Planning", which is designed for constructors, local officials and others involved with urban and suburban development. The guidelines explain how to determine potential sediment and erosion problems at a development site and how to plan and manage an effective control program. For further information you may contact the EPA directly or write the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. and ask for report number EPA-R2-72-015.

I have diabetes and arthritis and recently I had a severe heart attack. I can no longer work but have been informed that I do not qualify for Social Security disability benefits. Why?

Upon receipt of your letter my office contacted the Social Security Administration requesting a re-evaluation of your claim. As you know, based on the additional evidence you submitted, your claim for disability benefits has now been approved.

Spotlight on HEALTH

YOUR HYPERSENSITIVE TEETH

Have you ever bitten into a candy bar and felt a twinge or more of pain? Unless you have an unfilled cavity, it is more than likely you have one or more "hypersensitive teeth."

Virtually everyone experiences this problem at some time. Adults after age 35 are particularly susceptible. When gums recede, those portions of the tooth which, in youth, are normally covered and insulated by gum tissue are exposed. Without this protective covering teeth react to stimuli that formerly were not felt or were pleasant rather than painful.

However, not everyone responds to the same stimuli, and one or more teeth may be affected. Pain may also be occasional or intermittent.

Hot drinks, cold drinks, food high in sugar-content, brushing teeth following a tooth cleaning, dental surgery, or any dental procedure or instrument may bring on the painful sensation.

Until only a few years ago, there was little that could be done for the problem that did not involve considerable time, money, and the possibility of irritation, tooth discoloration, or both.

in The Journal Of Periodontology that "the ideal solution to the problem of hypersensitivity would be a preparation that could be used in the normal activities of good home hygiene as a supplement to office care."

Dr. Skurnik, and a number of other dental researchers had their patients use a new dentifrice called Sensodyne, which had an exclusive formula especially to desensitize teeth.

In evaluating his double-blind study in the dental journal Dr. Skurnik found that 93 per cent of 86 patients had significant improvement just by brushing with Sensodyne twice daily. No other toothpaste was necessary.

The dentist reported that "the dentifrice was nontoxic, non-allergic and nonirritant, and had suitable polishing and foaming attributes."

Silver Fancy Garden Club Hears Reports On Area Meetings

A report by Mrs. James Lord was the highlight of the Silver Fancy Garden Club's meeting held on October 26th at the home of Mrs. John Chenoweth. Mrs. Lord, former member of the club, told of attending the Conservation Clinic sponsored by District V of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland, which was held in Frostburg on October 20. Mrs. Robert Clingan attended the Semi-Annual Meeting, Clinic, and luncheon, held on October 19—first of the two day event.

Correspondence read included an acknowledgement from the Federated Garden Club for Silver Fancy's contribution to world gardening. Possible entries were discussed for the flower show to be held at the Venice Motel on November 9 from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. and plans were made to participate. At the invitation of Mr. Harold Johnson, Acting Assistant Superintendent of Victor Cullen School of the Department of Juvenile Services, Sabillasville, the club voted to again conduct a Christmas workshop there on November 30. The next club meeting, scheduled for 10 a.m., November 16 at the home of Mrs. Theodore Fair, will be devoted to planning for this. The president, Mrs. Theodore Fair, named Mrs. John Zent and Mrs. Thomas Frailey to serve as co-chairmen for the club's annual Christmas party scheduled for December. During the social hour, Mrs. John Skiles and Mrs. John Zent assisted the hostess by contributing cookies and serving at the tea table. PARENTS MEETING Parents of children in the Dynamics of Emmitsburg, will have a meeting on Thursday, November 16, at Mother Seton School. The meeting will begin at 7:00 p.m. Expenditures on newspaper advertising have expanded five-fold since World War II.

Colts To Play In Punch Bowl

The Thurmont Midget Colts have been invited, and have accepted, an invitation to play in the Punch Bowl at Vienna, Va., on Nov. 17. This invitation was received due to the midget Colts having compiled an 8-0 season record in Mountain Valley Conference play, and having scored a total of 311 points, while holding their opponents to a mere total of 13 points.

They will face the Vienna team which also has an 8-0 record. The Vienna league heard of the outstanding record of the Midget Colts, and this led to the contact and agreement to meet in this game.

It is a distinct honor to be invited to this traditional bowl game, which is a big attraction in its area. Only top, crowd pleasing teams are selected, and the Midget Colts fit this requirement with an explosive offensive and rugged defensive style of play. Team and individual trophies will be awarded.

Readership among young people very nearly matches the 78% average among all adults 18 and over.
