Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Everybody seems to have something to say about the weather lately. Most of us are complaining. For all the good it is going to do us. With rain one day and freezing temperatures the next, a lot of folks are already wishing that summer was back again. Many folks took advantage of the sunshine last Sunday and went for a drive or made one last effort to do just a little more outside work around their houses in an effort to beat "Old Man Winter."

The firemen were out Sunday, taking advantage of the nice weather to get an early start on installing the town's Christmas decorations. Can't blame them a bit for taking advantage of the weather while they may, hanging lights and such in freezing rain or snow is a job nobody wants to do.

Hunting season seems to have gotten off to a busy start for many people around here. Too bad all of our local "sportsmen" don't concentrate on the wild game, some appear to prefer target shooting instead. Shooting out headlights on moving cars may be a challenge for a self-proclaimed marksman, but it's darned dangerous sport. Too bad, too, as it tends to make non-hunters a little more jumpy and crabby when the real sportsman shows up. This is the kind of thing the anti-gun people use when they say it's not safe for people to have guns. If this kind of activity keeps up around here, I'm going to have to agree with them.

I'm still not used to the time change; having darkness settle down before supper is a bit unsettling. I understand that in some areas of the country, folks just go to work an hour earlier, thereby getting off earlier while there is still daylight. That's the human animal for you, we invent the clock and figure out a way to measure time, then we figure out ways to circumvent our own invention.

I see where a couple of our residents received sentences the other day in Hagerstown after they had pleaded guilty to drug charges. The charges were more than a year old, which says something, either about how slow our court system is, or how to "get charged now and pay later."

By now everybody knows that the only areas President Nixon didn't carry in the election were Massachusetts and the District of Columbia. Massachusetts doesn't bother me too much, but I can't help wondering what happened in D. C. Maybe those folks know something the rest of us don't know?

Letter To The Editor

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I was very happy to read the letter which appeared in last week's Chronicle written by Jack Crumlish. However, I was disappointed with your introduction which stated, "The following letter, received by James Kittinger, may be of some interest to Emmitsburg residents." Now of course his letter would be of interest to Emmitsburg residents, not "may be" and not "some."

I am sure that every adult in Emmitsburg is delighted to learn that an individual, long since moved from the area, has many fond memories motivating him to contribute to the Vigilant Hose Company Fund Drive.

I think it would have been more appropriate to say to Mr. Crumlish, "It was very kind of you to contribute to the current Vigilant Hose Company Fund Drive even though you no longer live in Emmitsburg. We want you to know that you are always welcome here and hope that you can stop by often to visit your remaining friends and relatives. Since we are certain that all the people of Emmitsburg would be interested in your letter we are publishing it in the Chronicle."

Sincerely yours,
Donald V. Joy
(formerly of Emmitsburg)

178 David Ave.
Westminster, Md.

P.S.—Incidentally, I visit Emmitsburg so often that my wife thinks there's a hidden gold mine there.

Construction On New Area Schools

A milestone in school construction in Frederick County will be marked today when ground breaking ceremonies will be held simultaneously in two different areas for elementary schools which will use the same plans and be constructed by the same contractor.

The architectural firm of K/M Associates, Inc., of Elkhart, Indiana, planned both schools and both will be constructed by Demory Brothers of Gaithersburg. Monocacy Elementary School will replace the present Walkersville Elementary School and the new Middletown Elementary School will replace the present facility there. In each case the elementary school is part of an educational complex which involves construction of a new high school and the conversion of an existing high school to middle school use. Changes in school districting resulting from construction of the new facilities will be announced later.

Representatives of the communities involved the Board of County Commissioners, Board of Education and administrative staff, as well as representatives of the architect and builder took part in the brief ceremonies. The site of the Monocacy ceremony is on Route 194, south of and adjacent to the carnival grounds of the Walkersville Fire Co. The Middletown school is located on the campus of the present high school.

Mounties Seek Fourth Victory

Mount Saint Mary's College will seek its fourth straight Mason-Dixon Conference cross country championship this Saturday when it hosts the 31st annual championship meet at Emmitsburg. Approximately 84 runners from 12 conference schools will be competing across the Mount's 5.2 mile barrier course.

Leading the field of contenders for individual honors will be Mount Saint Mary's own Gordon Oliver, the 18-year-old freshman wizard who just last weekend placed 9th nationally at the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 1972 Cross Country championships in Wheaton, Ill. Presenting threats to Oliver will be the conference defending champ, Bill Warner, a sophomore from Roanoke College in Virginia, and the Mount's Chet Bieganski, who holds the course record at 26:13. Doug Coleman of Bridgewater and Catholic University's Jim Blackburn will also challenge in a meet that may see records crumble.

Mountie coach, Frank Zarnowski, of York, Pa., noted that Oliver has not been defeated in dual meet competition at the Mount but said that he intends to add the running strength of seniors Steve Hanlon and Tom Curley, sophomore Ben Amos, and freshmen, Jim Draper and Bill Knapp to the Oliver-Bieganski duo in the Mount's effort to outrun the eleven other colleges.

Other schools competing in the 2:00 p.m. meet will include Johns Hopkins, Towson State, University of Maryland Baltimore County, Washington College, George Mason, Galaudet and Western Maryland.

Grand Knight George L. Danner reported that the officers will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 16.

Church Council Has Assembly

St. Joseph High School, Emmitsburg, was the venue on Tuesday, November 14, for the seventh annual assembly of the Emmitsburg Council of Churches. Elias Lutheran Church, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Incarnation United Church of Christ, Trinity and Tom's Creek United Methodist Churches and the Emmitsburg United Presbyterian Church are the participating churches in the Council.

In his report to the assembly, the Rev. W. Ronald Fearer, observed that the spirit of ecumenical co-operation and the work of the council has drawn very favorable comments from those who visit the churches in the community. The Council has the concerns of both church and community in mind as it seeks to present its programs. Pastor Fearer called for an even greater effort on the part of the church membership to participate in the administration and program work of the council. He felt that it was important that the mission of the Church in the Emmitsburg community be channeled thru the Council calling this the only effective way for the Christian community to make the best use of its time and resources.

Reports were also received from the other committees of the Council: Parish Education, Social Ministry and Worship. The Education Committee reported that while the Vacation Church School program during the summer was most successful there was room for concern over the Week-Day Church School program where attendance this year has fallen from 60 during 1971-72 to 30 in the 1972-73 enrollment.

Plans were announced at the assembly for the participation of the Council in "Key 73", a nationwide program calling for commitment to the Christian way of life. This evangelistic and renewal program will involve the Council and its member churches in a call to prayer, a series of year long short term studies and courses on the Bible and an attempt to reach young people through participation in a coffee house ministry given the name of the House of Shalom.

Following the report of the nominations committee those currently holding office in the Council were re-elected for a one year term. They are: the Rev. W. Ronald Fearer, president; Mrs. Joyce Grindler, vice president; Miss Betty Jane Koontz, secretary; and Mr. D. Fred Wolfe, treasurer. These officers will be installed during the Thanksgiving Day Service, sponsored by the Council, at Incarnation United Church of Christ. The Service will commence at 10 a.m.

Firemen Host Shooting Match

The Vigilant Hose Co. will hold a shooting match this Sunday at Stouter's Meadow, south of town, beginning at 1 p.m. 12 ga. shotguns will be used and shells furnished. Refreshments will be on sale.

TOWN ASSURED OF NEW SCHOOL

According to T. Meade Felton, of the Board of Education, the new Emmitsburg School can be considered an accomplished fact. The budget has been approved and the architect is finishing the working drawings. The architect's drawings should be completed by the end of November, after which they will be submitted to the Board of Education and the Inter-Agency for final approval. According to Mr. Felton, the drawings will be approved, with only minor details being changed, if any change is necessary.

Mr. Felton noted that although it would probably be possible to ask for bids before Christmas, this will probably not be done until the first of January, when bidding conditions are more favorable.

After the bids are in and one is accepted, it is only a matter of getting construction going and finished.

Mr. Felton stated that from this point on work on the school is of a routine nature, and no major obstacles to the construction of the new school are expected.

Area Worship Service Planned

Thanksgiving Day comes each year as a time to sit back for a moment and to think on those things for which we can give thanks. The churches of Emmitsburg believe that it is important that on this great national day we should do as the pilgrim fathers did and take this opportunity to give thanks to God for his goodness over the past year.

The Emmitsburg Community Thanksgiving Day worship service will, this year, be held in Incarnation United Church of Christ. The service will begin at 10 a.m. and the sermon will be preached by the pastor of the Emmitsburg United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Eugene R. Ackerman. The sermon subject will be, "The Heart's Grateful Attitude."

As the sponsors for the service, the Emmitsburg Council of Churches asks that we also show our thanks by contributing, through a special offering, to the financial needs of the Emmitsburg Community Fund. This fund seeks to serve those in need of emergency help as a service to and from the community. Your generous support would be greatly appreciated by the group that operates the fund on your behalf. Those who operate the fund represent each of the various community organizations in Emmitsburg.

One other feature of the Thanksgiving Day service will be the installation of the officers who will make up the leadership of the Council of Churches for 1973.

AUTO TIPS By John Collins

CAN YOU REALLY GET MORE BY PAYING LESS FOR A CAR?

Car prices, which used to be as indefinable as the shape of a beautiful girl in a "granny dress," are getting a lot more exposure these days — not unlike some of the girls in current fashions. But, that doesn't mean all the mystery is gone.

"Sticker" pricing has gone a long way toward helping the buyer compare prices on a fairly reasonable basis. The only drawback is that you can wear out a lot of shoe leather running from dealer to dealer. As a result, most buyers rely on advertised prices to help them select the models they want to consider seriously. And there's the rub.

If you've ever walked into a showroom to see the "special" being offered, then you've undoubtedly found that there was only one special on hand to begin with, and that's been sold! If you really want the special, you can place an order with the hope of getting the car in six or ten weeks, or so, if you can resist the pressure to go for the little beauty, loaded with "extras," that's waiting on the lot right now.

Mike Sanyour, who's in the enviable position of heading an independent company that imports cars from Japan, has some thoughts about price I'd like to pass on. "Our advertised price includes virtually every option the average driver would want in his car," says Mr. Sanyour. "I think the American public has been 'optioned' to death. To me, there's no reason why a buyer should leave a showroom with a brand new car with a great big dent right where it hurts most — in the pocketbook."

It is, of course, the options that add up to a bank-account-breaking price, once you've been lured by a low advertised price. Everybody pretty much knows that shipping charges, dealer preparation and an essential thing like tax has to be added to Strong feelings about prices, and the way they're advertised, are part of Mike Sanyour's efforts to make car buying easier. The sporty GL Coupe shown here is another; it's helped to boost Subaru sales by 100% over last year.

Mr. Sanyour's approach to the problem makes sense — the advertised price on every car his company sells under the Subaru name includes just about everything except air conditioning. Like radio and heater, trip odometer, reclining bucket seats and other convenient items. The Subaru GL Coupe, for example, has front disc brakes, radial tires, tinted glass and many other so-called "extras" all in the quoted price of $2499.

So, yes, it looks as though you can get more car for less money if you start with an advertised price and stick to it. Let's hope everyone starts to follow the Subaru example.

Health Dept. Issues Winter Precautions

In anticipation of winter's freezing temperatures, wind, ice, and snow, the Frederick County Health Department issues the following precautions to help countians get safely and healthfully through the season's hazards.

"As the mercury declines," County Health Officer Dr. Spicknall said, "individuals consume and expend more oxygen to maintain normal bodily functions. On exceptionally cold or windy days, persons with heart conditions and chronic respiratory diseases may be more subject to the severe physical strains of labored breathing, shortness of breath, and heart palpitations."

Dr. Spicknall recommends that these persons go indoors at the first sign of strain, and remain indoors until weather conditions improve.

The County Health Officer also cautions that shoveling snow is especially dangerous for middle aged and elderly persons who are "out of shape."

"These persons should have someone shovel the snow for them whenever possible," Dr. Spicknall continued. "Failing this, middle aged and elderly residents should wait at least an hour after eating before shoveling snow, and be certain to stop and rest at the first sign of fatigue."

Finally, the Health Officer warns, the annual increase in respiratory illnesses is expected again this fall and winter. "Avoiding large crowds as much as possible will reduce ones' risk of infection."

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wivell of Seven Valleys, Pa., announce the birth of a daughter, Lisa Ann, on November 13.

Newspapers help people live more pleasantly, buy intelligently, improve their community, vote wisely and live as a reasonably knowledgeable person.

STYLE IT SMARTLY — AND GO

Whatever style you're sporting this autumn of '72, hair has a cared-for look. The day of the shaggy head for gals is over and while long hair still seems to be the most popular, hair stylists hint that a shorter look is on the way. No matter what the look, however — classic, casual or curly — to be beautiful hair must be clean and than just a lick and a promise. Start by brushing your hair to get rid of hair spray and loosen any dry flakes on the scalp. When you do begin to wash, use a shampoo that's right for your type of hair and warm water, not hot, please. Use your fingers and really massage the shampoo into the hair and scalp. Pay particular attention to the hair line and the back of the neck.

Rinsing hair until it "squeaks" sounds like something of a cliché but it's still the best test of clean, well-rinsed hair. And you'll find your hair is easier to untangle and shinier if you make the last rinse a cold one. Now's the time, too, to use a special rinse or conditioner if you're in the habit of doing so. Finally, wrap your head in a turban towel and let the towel soak up the water.

There are many ways to dry and style your hair. GE offers a variety of dryers, a mist/condition speedsetter and a new styling dryer with two heat settings — high for dry, low for styling.

To keep the men happy, there's also a grooming dryer for them that's especially designed to create and maintain today's longer, thick-looking styles.

Free and easy that's her style. Fresh out of the shower, hair squeaky clean and shining, she can dry and style it in minutes with General Electric's new styling dryer and be ready to go.

that starts with good washing habits.

Of course, you'll shampoo your hair as often as necessary even if that's every day, but a good washing is more

WASHINGTON REPORT

FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

The first bill introduced in the 92nd Congress, and just about the last to be acted on, was H.R. 1—the Social Security and welfare reform legislation.

It is now history, of course, that some of the major differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill could not be resolved, and a result the section on welfare reform was eliminated before it was finally enacted.

Because of the way that welfare reform dominated the headlines on H.R. 1, it may seem that the sole purpose of the bill was lost. Actually, there was a lot more to it, and those provisions have now been signed into law by President Nixon.

One aspect of welfare reform—the part dealing with the aged, disabled and blind—did survive, and those programs will be taken over by the federal government in 1974.

Most of the other changes deal with Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid programs, and some of these changes are quite significant.

For instance, persons receiving Social Security benefits will be able to earn more money without forfeiting any of their Social Security payments. The ceiling on earnings will go from $1,680 a year to $2,100. The Senate favored a ceiling of $3,000 and I am hopeful this can be achieved in the next Congress.

Persons earning more than $2,100 will lose one dollar for each additional two dollars of income. However, the new law abolishes the dollar-for-dollar reduction which now occurs when earnings exceed $2,800.

Nearly 4 million older Americans will be affected by the 17.5 per cent increase in survivor benefits which becomes effective in January. A widow will be entitled to the full amount of her deceased husband's Social Security benefits, at the rate he would have received at age 65. The same will be true for a dependent widower.

Another change taking place over the next three years will do away with the different retirement formula for men and women, thus making men eligible to retire at age 62.

For those who continue working beyond 65, there will be a 1 per cent increase in Social Security benefits for each year a person delays his retirement. This feature will begin in 1974.

Another change will reduce the waiting period for Social Security disability insurance from six months to five. And people who have been receiving Social Security disability insurance for 24 months will now become eligible for Medicare coverage as well.

Also beginning next July 1st, the Medicare hospital insurance program will be opened to persons over 65 who, for various reasons, are not now eligible or enrolled.

A broader range of medical services, including those of a chiropractor, will be available under both Medicare and Medicaid. Kidney ailments also have been added to the category of disabilities which will be covered by Social Security.

Many other changes will be taking place as a result of this legislation, and there has also been a 20 per cent increase in Social Security benefits this year. It would not be fair, therefore, to conclude without mentioning the fact that Social Security deductions will increase next year to help pay the bill. The present 5.2 per cent FICA tax will go up to 5.85 per cent on earnings up to $10,800.

It might be helpful, though, to look upon this as a sort of retirement savings plan. We are putting more into it now in order to get more out of it later, when we retire—and that's when people often need it most.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Future Of Rubber Industry

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass. — Most of the outstanding tire companies experienced an encouraging rebound in sales and earnings during 1971 and a continuation of this uptrend has been seen thus far in the current year. Looking across the threshold into 1973, the Research Department of Babson's Reports expects still another period of good business for the rubber industry.

There are a number of compelling reasons for this optimism. One factor is the heartening outlook for the automobile market next year, with the probability of another record for car and truck production. More cars on the road mean heightened sales of tires, not only for vehicles just turned out but for those older models requiring replacements. More stringent state auto inspections also result in increased tire sales. Demand for higher-margined and higher-priced tires is on the upward track, due at least in part to the safety-oriented attitude of today's consumers. In addition, there are the natural repercussions of the greatly improved economic climate.

No New Runaway Expenses

A few years ago tire makers suffered the high costs of changing over to production of bias-ply tires. While profits were temporarily marred by these heavy outlays, the companies involved knew they were going to reap the rewards later on from this pace-setter. And this has taken place. Some observers fear that another costly change-over is on the way to establish facilities for producing radial tires. We do not, however, anticipate such need. Rather, we expect that the alteration will be gradual.

Thus far, radial tires are featured as standard equipment only on certain luxury-model cars. They are, in fact, largely restricted to the optional-equipment category. The bias-ply construction is still the standard tire turned out by companies today and used by the auto manufacturers. This type is getting the bulk of the new and a fair part of the replacement markets. The phase-in of radials will, in our opinion, take time, depending more on the eventual desires of the auto manufacturers than on the rubber firms.

Investment Changes Coming Even the favorable financial results of this year and last have not brought about comparable strength in the equities of tire companies. This is due to a number of unanswered questions bothering investors. One of these is the aforementioned fear of heavy expense in change-over to radial-ply tire production, a possibility we find over-stressed as we have indicated. Other concerns include effects of long-wearing tires on replacement markets, the cost factor of tire recalls and government-mandated tire registry, and the likelihood of increased labor costs when present union agreements expire next year and are replaced by more expensive provisions.

Babson's Research Department finds these problems less menacing than some investors do. As earnings and sales gains continue, we anticipate a healthier uptrend for the stocks of major tire firms. Even the longer-wearing tires should not hurt the future of the industry since the increasing mileage, horsepower, and speed of today's cars are resulting in heavier tire wear. And the tougher safety regulations are forcing more replacement sales. The net effect should, in fact, be to the benefit of the tire companies.

Tire Stock Prospects Among the tire fabricator stocks supervised by Babson's Reports, retention is recommended for the common issues of Goodyear, Goodrich, General and Armstrong. For those interested in taking on repre-

Byron Thanks Voters For Re-election

Rep. Goodloe Byron this week issued a statement of thanks to Sixth District voters and pledged two more years of responsive representation to all the people. "I want to thank the citizens of Central and Western Maryland for giving me the opportunity to serve for another two years in Congress," Byron said.

"During my first term I sought to provide responsive representation to all the people—by working closely with you on your government problems and by listening to your views on legislation and putting your opinions and ideas to work.

"Concerned representation can best be achieved by involving the citizen at the local level, and with vote of confidence you have given me I will continue to run my office along these lines," he concluded.

Byron said he is also scheduling a post-election "thank you" tour of the district with details to be announced in the near future.

sation in the rubber industry, we recommend purchase of the common stocks of Firestone and Uniroyal for capital appreciation. Both these firms are leaders in the production of tires, and should reflect the expected improvement in this field.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias
U.S. Senator

Senate Passes Land-use Bill

In 1739, Jonathan Hager built a house over two springs in what was then Prince Georges County. Years later, the county was named after George Washington and the area around the Hager house became Hagerstown.

Jonathan Hager built his house over those springs to insure that he would always have a supply of clear, cool, fresh water, even when his home was under siege from Indians or other enemies. As I visited the Hager house during the recent celebration of Frontier Days, I labelled Jonathan Hager as an earlier practitioner of efficient use of his land.

His plan to use those springs probably saved Jonathan Hager's life a number of times. Today, we are faced with the same problem: How do we use our land to insure our survival?

This question was discussed at hearings on land use policy I held in Towson and Columbia. Many of the ideas brought forth at those meetings were included in legislation I introduced in the Senate. I am pleased that sections of my land-use bill were incorporated in the bill which recently passed the Senate.

The Senate-passed legislation aims at the establishment of a national policy on the use of our most precious natural resource, land. The bill encourages state, county, and municipal governments to draw land use plans, but it does not create federal zoning nor is its goal the federal control of land use policy.

The land-use legislation simply recognizes the great pressures facing our land and seeks the cooperation of state and local officials to deal intelligently with these pressures.

I think the significance of this legislation is apparent when we consider the rate at which America's open spaces are being gobbled up. Before the end of this century, the amount of land classified as urban will triple. The acreage, which is now agricultural, is comparable to the size of the state of Indiana.

In the face of such facts, the need for new legislation that promotes coordination among the states and the federal government becomes obvious.

As we approach the American Revolution Bicentennial, we must consider what we will bequeath to future generations who will carry the nation to its tricentennial. We owe it to ourselves and them to prepare the way now.

Drugs—Ultimate Red Weapon

The most comprehensive and thorough investigation of international traffic in narcotics and dangerous drugs has just been completed under the jurisdiction of the United States Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security. The investigation was conducted by a Subcommittee Special Task Force which spent time in 15 nations involved, in one way or another, in the international drug traffic. Head of the Special Task Force was four-star Marine Gen. Lewis W. Walt, who recently retired after having commanded Marine and Naval forces in Vietnam. General Walt is a friend of mine and I have his 105 page report to the Senate Subcommittee.

It is significant that the U. S. Senate Internal Security

Subcommittee made this world-wide investigation, for only a very few American leaders and hardly any of the news media have publicly recognized that the almost epidemic spread of Marijuana and Heroin use in America during the last few years poses a grave internal security problem and has ramifications reaching into the centers of aggressive Communism. The question of whether the Communist subversion apparatuses are using drugs as a weapon in subversive activities within America as well as in the Vietnam war has been raised—but until now has had no official definitive answer. General Walt now gives a carefully documented answer to the question: "Is There A Communist Involvement?"

Red's Involved

His report shows there is mounting clear evidence that there is Communist involvement and no convincing facts to the contrary. He recommends further and more far-reaching investigation and widespread exposure of the facts. General Walt's report and his two sessions of testimony at Subcommittee hearings are extremely important to the security of the United States. They got only scant reportage in the news media. And for these reasons—their importance and the virtual news blackout—we will devote a series of columns to them.

Sen. James O. Eastland, Chairman of the Subcommittee, explains how General Walt was selected to head up the task force: "General Walt was selected for the assignment not only because he is one of our most outstanding officers and most distinguished citizens but also more importantly, because his personal experience and his interests preeminently qualify him for the assignment."

Uniquely Qualified

"As an allied command in the north, corps area in South Vietnam during 1967 and 1968, General Walt saw the beginnings of the marijuana epidemic and as Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps from 1968 to 1971 he closely followed the development of the heroin epidemic which hit our Armed Forces in Vietnam immediately after our Cambodian incursion in 1970."

"When General Walt retired from the Marine Corps a year and a half ago, he became the director of the U. S. Marine Youth Foundation. In this capacity he traveled around the country meeting with thousands of students at college and high school levels. As a result of this exposure, General Walt became aware of the terrible inroads that the drug epidemic was making among the youth of our country. He decided to study the problem and to do something about it. At this point there began a contact between General Walt and the Senate Subcommittee. When the Subcommittee asked General Walt to head up the investigation which it had been contemplating, General Walt replied with an enthusiastic, 'Yes!'"

The Problem is Global
This background serves to place weight on the Walt Report's findings. Here is one finding: "The evidence is clear that Communists in various parts of the world have been involved in the drug traffic in a variety of situations in which they felt it would serve their interests. In fact, I find it impossible to understand how our media can ignore the clear evidence of Communist involvement while exaggerating out of all proportion the charge that corruption among our Southeast Asian allies is the primary cause of the drug epidemic in our country."

General Walt and his Task Force visited Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, South Vietnam, Thailand, Laos, Hawaii, Okinawa, India, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey, France, Germany, and Mexico. He says, after his intensive investigations, that the spread of illicit drugs and their epidemic use is a global problem. "The war against it," he told Congress, "has to be fought on a global battlefield. We intend to publicize his findings which are most pertinent to our problem in America."

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
The Grabbill Family
"Support us all the day long of this troublous life until the shadows lengthen and the evening comes and the busy world is hushed, the fever of life is over and our work is done. Then in Thy mercy grant us a safe lodging, holy rest, and peace at the last. Even so, Lord Jesus. Amen."

The Book of Common Prayer
The obituary of Mrs. Sallie (Rudisel) Grabbill, wife of the second Peter Grabbill, as included in last week's column was not given in its entirety — therefore — the whole is presented today — as taken from the "Emmitsburg Chronicle" of Saturday, January 19th, 1889.

"Died recently, Mrs. Peter Grabbill — daughter of the late Tobias Rudisel, of Taneytown, Maryland. Mrs. Grabbill lived in the old Grabbill Homestead at Locust Grove, near Emmitsburg, Maryland, for many years. Mrs. Grabbill died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fleagle, at Mayberry, Maryland. Burial in the Baust churchyard, near Uniontown, in Carroll County, Maryland."

Note: Sallie (Rudisel) Grabbill was the sister of Alice (Rudisel) Motter, the wife of Lewis Martin Motter, whose graves are in Elias churchyard.

Peter Grabbill, husband of Sallie (Rudisel) Grabbill, is interred in Elias churchyard. Just why his widow was interred at the Baust church is not known. A thorough search has been made but no grave-marker has been found for Sallie (Rudisel) Grabbill. Quite possibly her grave was marked — if so — the stone has long since disappeared.

This concludes, for the present, the notes pertaining to the Grabbill family of Tom's Creek Hundred, Frederick County, Maryland.

The Gillelan (Gilliland) Family
This clan came into the Province of Pennsylvania early in the eighteenth century. They were numbered among the Scots from the North of Ireland, who first fled from Scotland to Ireland, because of their adherence to the Stewart causes or other political and religious difficulties. Then because they differed with the Irish after a time they emigrated to the New World by the thousands.

They arrived in such numbers that at one time the officials of William Penn's Province feared that the colony would be taken over by the "wild Scots." These fears were well justified for that very state of affairs came to pass in due time. As a matter of fact the War of the American Revolution was also known in Pennsylvania and Maryland as the "Scotch-Irish Rebellion."

William (1) Gilliland and his family, after a brief stay at the Forks of the Delaware, followed the tide of emigration to the then frontier. The Scotch were an independent people and they preferred a "good fight" to all other recreation. There was method to the senior William Penn's "madness." There was a frontier to be held and defended — so — he encouraged the Scotch settlers to settle on the frontier. He believed they would "take care of the Indians" no matter how the natives were tricked and cheated by the white man. In justice it must be said that William Penn, the Founder, tried, in his way, to deal justly with the resident tribes, but his immediate descendants were of "another breed." Trouble came only too soon — but the Scotch of the border settlements held their ground.

The very early Gillelan (Gilliland) graves are to be found in Great Conewago churchyard, at Hunterstown, in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania (Straban Township). According to tradition there are some Gilliland graves (now unmarked) in the Presbyterian section of the old churchyard at "the Pines," near New Chester in Adams County. Now owned by a Lutheran congregation it was at one time the site of a Presbyterian church and burial ground. These same people became at an early date, part of the Great Conewago Presbyterian church and sold their church edifice and lands to the Lutherans — retaining only their part of the old graveyard.

1. In memory of Catharine Gilliland, wife of William Gilliland, and who departed this life, August 13, 1798, aged 45 years.

Note: Catharine, the wife of William Gilliland, was born Catharine Fleming and other members of her family are interred at Great Conewago.

2. In memory of William Gilliland, who departed this life, July 7, 1831, aged 78 years, 5 months, and 25 days.

Note: This William (1) Gilliland, born, according to his tombstone in 1753, was probably the son of the pioneer member of the family, another William (1) Gilliland, the first of his immediate clan to emigrate to Penn's Province. Probably this early settler along with other members of his family, are buried in the churchyard at "the Pines."

3. In memory of Samuel Gilliland, late Surgeon of the United States Army, died September 16, 1817, aged 37 years.

Note: This inscription speaks for itself. Dr. Gilliland was a son of William (2) and Catharine (Fleming) Gilliland. He died unmarried and comparatively young.

The notes on the Gilliland (Gillelan) clan of the Province of Pennsylvania and Tom's Creek Hundred will be continued in this series next week.

What's New for Night?
Evening clothes needn't be restricting, uncomfortable... and this fall they won't be. The new easy-fitting longs look good and you feel good in them. Short dresses are of soft fabric, easy styling. Meant to go with the new alluring flower garden eye shades like plum and blueberry.

There will be no end to those halters and bare backs of summer. It's almost as if the daring décolleté has taken a backward turn! So don't forget lots of moisture for a silky, smooth skin. And why not "blush" your back with a bit of bronzer or transparent gel. And around your bare shoulders? Spanish shawls are now swirling in at the most posh evening functions.

The latest evening color—navy. Surprised? Long a hit for daytime, navy now makes a beautifully understated entrance on the evening scene. Although it's not predicted as a replacement for black, it now looks like the newest color for after five. And it's offset so smashing with the new deeper eye shadows and lip shades. Lip shades—reds of course.

And—only for you who are especially daring and craving something new—well, here it is: nails lacquered black! You who were intrigued by Liza La Cabaret might prefer green. But for me, I prefer the shades of pinks, reds and plums. They're so much prettier and more feminine, the way you and the men in your life want you to look at night!

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Why must servicemen pay both Federal and State income taxes, since many of them are not even in the U. S. for the large part of their military obligation?

The Soldier - Sailor Relief Act requires that servicemen pay income taxes in their state of permanent residence. There is consideration being given in Congress, however, for modifying this legislation to give additional relief to our G.I.'s. I would, of course, support such a move and shall keep you informed of any concrete efforts in this direction when they occur.

Where can I obtain information on the Youth Conservation Corps?

Young men and women 15 through 18 years of age should contact the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250 or the U.S. Department of Interior, Washington, D. C. 20240.

My father worked in the mines for 30 years before he had to stop because of a breathing difficulty. He filed for black lung benefits but was denied. I wonder if you could aid us?

Upon receipt of your letter my office contacted the Social Security Administration in Baltimore. As you are now aware, based on a review of the records and your additional evidence, benefits have been approved for your father. Individuals experiencing similar difficulty in obtaining benefits justly due them should feel free to contact my office for assistance.

I am writing to tell you that it is very hard to get a repair man out to my house to fix broken appliances. People are ready and willing to sell you appliances but seem pretty reluctant to service them. Can't something be done?

Here's a possible solution—why not contact the Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel (MACAP). MACAP was founded two years ago by several trade associations to solve difficulties between consumers and manufacturers of freezers, stoves, ovens, refrigerators, washers, dryers, dishwashers and air conditioners. According to the Office of Consumer Affairs, "MACAP is an important organization capable of making authoritative recommendations toward equitable resolutions of problems arising between the consumer and the home-appliance industry. The panel has been open-handed and fair in its dealing with the consumer and the industry." The organization apparently wants to help more consumers, so if you have an appliance problem, such as repair service, drop them a line at 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60606. Remember though, it is usually better to discuss your complaint first with the dealer from whom you bought the appliance.

Q. I am planning to attend a convention sponsored by my employer. Can I deduct travel expenses to and from the convention?

A. You may deduct the unreimbursed travel expenses, including the cost of meals and lodging, you incur in attending a convention, but only if you can show that your attendance benefits or advances the interest of your own employment or business. The agenda of the convention need not deal specifically with your official duties. It is sufficient if the agenda is so related to your duties and responsibilities that attendance for a business purpose is indicated.

If your wife accompanies you to the business convention, that portion of the expenses attributable to her travel, meals, and lodging are not deductible, unless you can establish a bona fide business purpose for her presence. Incidental services, such as typing notes, assisting in entertaining customers, etc., are not sufficient to warrant the deduction.

Q. Several of my friends and I are setting up an investment club as a partnership. How will we be taxed on partnership earnings?

A. A partner must include as income on Schedule E of Form 1040 his distributive share (as defined in the partnership agreement) of all partnership earnings, gains, losses, deductions or credits, regardless of his actual withdrawal. The partnership, although it pays no tax, must file an annual information return, Form 1065. This shows the results of the partnership's operations for its tax year and the items of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit affecting its partners' individual income tax returns.

For more information on investment clubs established as partnerships, see IRS Publication 550, "Tax Information on Investment Income and Expenses." It's available free by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Q. My son is paying his own college tuition this year. Will this have any effect on whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes. Payments for educational expenses are counted in determining total support. If you and your son furnish his total support for the year and your son spent more on support items, such as food, shelter, clothing, education, etc., than you spent for his support, you will not be able to claim him as a dependent.

Q. Is it possible for me to reduce the amount of tax withheld from my pay?

A. Yes. This is done by filing a new W-4 form with your employer, claiming all the exemptions to which you are entitled. In addition, you may also qualify to claim the new special withholding allowance. For details, see your employer or call your local IRS office.

To Take Vote Census In Area

Did you vote November 7? Were you registered but did not vote?

The Bureau of the Census will ask these and other questions about voting activity in the 1972 national election of persons 18 and older in a sample of households in this area during the week of November 20-24.

John G. Gibson, Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Philadelphia, stressed that no questions will be asked about party affiliation or for whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of the typical American voter and non-voter: age, sex, residence, education, labor force status, and family income.

In a similar survey following the 1968 presidential election, higher voting participation was found among men, persons 45 to 64 years, whites, people living outside the South, those with higher educational attainment, larger family incomes, and in white-collar occupations.

The voting questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the country. The September survey showed that employment continued to rise, while unemployment was essentially unchanged. The September unemployment rate of 6.9 percent was about the same as in the previous three months, but below the 6.9 percent mark around which it had fluctuated between late 1970 and May 1972.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is confidential and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Students Hold Mock Election At MSS

Tuesday, October 31, the seventh and eighth grade students at Mother Seton School had a Mock Democratic and a Mock Republican convention. Beth Miller was the chairlady and Sue Siske was the vote tallyer. The purpose of the conventions was to get representatives for George McGovern, Sargent Shriver, Richard Nixon, and Spiro Agnew, for the mock election held Nov. 6.

Forty-two students attended the Democratic Convention. Four candidates, Joe Broussard, Paul Carter, Anne Williams, and Mary Morningstar, were present to give speeches on McGovern views. Anne Williams was voted as representative for George McGovern by 21 votes. She picked Mary Morningstar as her running mate.

The Democratic delegates to the Electoral College were as follows: Terry Baker, Sherry Topper, Teresa Willard, Brigitte Mazzyck, Kathy Hardagen, Joe Broussard, Paul Carter, Stan Antolin, Mike Hobbs, and Greg Dewees.

The Republican Convention doubled the Democratic Convention with 86 attending. Tim Cole, Mike Antolin, Gerald Holland, and Maureen Devlin, were the four candidates to give speeches for President Nixon. Mike Antolin received the most votes—46. He represented Richard Nixon at the mock election and during the campaign. Mr. Antolin picked John Gorman as his running mate. The Republican delegates to the Electoral College were: Suanne Rockwell, Mark Hasty, Sandy Hollinger, Patricia Marshall, Angele Wivell, Chris Chase, Christine Barry, Maureen Devlin, Mike Nadolski, and Cecil Krietzi.

Thursday, following the conventions, a debate was held. The Democratic and the Republican teams consisted of the two nominees and their campaign managers. They discussed several important issues including the McGovern Withdrawal Plan, the Paris Peace Talks, Taxes, Inflation,

Why Americans own $54,000,000,000 worth of U.S. Savings Bonds.

One good reason is the Payroll Savings Plan. About three-fourths of all Bonds are purchased through the Plan. It's helping Americans save more money than they ever dreamed they could.

That's because the Payroll Savings Plan is such an easy way to save. All you do is sign up where you work and the amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's the easy way to build a nest egg.

You've got your reasons to save money. There's one great way to do it painlessly. Join the millions who are buying Bonds the Payroll Savings Way.

Nov E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Slate Country Butchering Sunday

A Country Butchering will be held and Folk Crafts demonstrated on Sunday, November 19 and Sunday, November 20, at Catoctin Mountain Park.

In making the announcement, Park Superintendent Franklin D. Pridemore commented: "Many urban dwellers today have never witnessed an old time country butchering and many farm families no longer butcher their own meat." The butchering demonstration will not include the actual killing of the hog but will show how a dressed animal is cut into the various cuts of the meat which would be found in the supermarket meat case. The hams will be prepared for smoking, the chops, loins and ribs cut out, and sausage ground and stuffed. The fat will be rendered and lard pressed. Even parts normally discarded, such as the head meat, will be utilized to make puddin' from which ponhoss and scrapple will be made. Fresh ground sausage, country ham, scrapple and other pork products may be purchased at the demonstration site or orders will be taken to be picked up later.

The continuous demonstration will be held at the Round Meadow Camp, site of the Folk Culture Center, which will also be open with demonstrations of traditional mountain crafts, such as blacksmithing, pottery making, shingle and broom making, spinning, weaving and the mountain home. The country store will be open where craftsman - produced articles may be purchased as well as other local handicrafts.

So heed Superintendent Pridemore's invitation and set aside Sunday, November 19 or 20 from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. to enjoy the sights and smells of "butchering day on the mountain." The demonstration will be held no matter what the weather sun, rain or snow.

"Madrigal Dinner" At Mt. St. Mary's

The Mount Saint Mary's College Gleemen and the Belles of Saint Mary's are busy preparing for the first annual "Madrigal Dinner" which they will present in Flynn Hall on the Mount campus on Friday evening, December 8. A "Madrigal Dinner" is a celebration in the style of England's 16th Century Christmas feasts.

The high-ceilinged Flynn Hall will be heavily decorated with banners and boughs to provide the appropriate setting and atmosphere of the Olde English castle. In full costumes, the "lord of the castle" will welcome the guests, trumpeters will sound the fanfare, and strolling minstrels and a court jester will entertain.

The dinner itself will be served in the full tradition of the day, with the flaming Was-sail Bowl, the Boar's Head on a silver platter, Roast Beef and Yorkshire Pudding, and the flaming Plum Pudding.

The Dinner is open to the public.

Tickets are $5.50 each, and will be distributed on first-come, first-served basis. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Mount Glee Club, or by contacting Mrs. Higgins at the Mount Saint Mary's Student Union Building, or telephone 447-6122, Ext. 249.

Be Prepared For That Lucky Day

Nobody is unlucky all the time, even a fisherman. By working hard enough, the poorest angler will someday stumble into a big school of feeding fish. Hopefully, he'll be able to catch enough to make up for all the bad times.

But what if it happens to you? If you've never experienced the frenzied action of a feeding school of fish, then you'd best be prepared. It's something entirely new to most anglers and many of them miss out on the fun because they don't know what to do. Here are some tips from the outdoor experts at Mercury outdoors that will help fill your stringer when that magic moment occurs.

The first item is to have your boat ready. Fishing tackle, rain gear, lunch and other clutter can get in your way fast if you're trying to connect with some hungry fish. Have everything in its place. Put the landing net where it can be reached quickly.

When fish are seen, mark the spot immediately. Put over a weighted marker buoy near the action, or fix your position by aligning the boat with natural features on shore. If you anchor, stay within easy casting distance but don't anchor in the school.

Select a lure that looks like the baitfish being fed upon. Cast this beyond the school, let it sink for eight or ten feet, then retrieve at a moderate speed. Vary the retrieve until you find the speed that works.

Fish systematically, work the lure from one edge of the school to another. When someone else has a fish on, stay out of his way. Land the fish quickly, with as little splash as possible. If you're keeping them to eat, don't bother stringing until the action is over.

It'll end soon enough, say the lads at Mercury, but you can prolong the fun by not spooking the fish any more than necessary. Stay low in the boat, don't make noise, and keep fishing.

Remember that when a school of fish is put down, it will soon rise again. Watch for them in nearby areas. It may not be necessary to move elsewhere, for often the school will come up where they went down.

***** THE STATE OF THE NATION *****

***** BUSINESS PROGRESS *****

Each year, more and more American companies get actively involved with the state of the nation; using their technical know-how and human resources to help upgrade it.

Focusing its attention on affording equal employment opportunities to racial and ethnic minority groups and improving the quality of education, one such company, Union Carbide, conducts large-scale technical and remedial education programs for both employees and potential employees.

At Oak Ridge, Tennessee, for example, over 1,500 disadvantaged individuals completed trade courses that have led to permanent positions with Union Carbide and other corporations. And over 90 percent of these people are employed at an average increase in annual income of over $3,000.

In the New York area, Union Carbide is one of six companies supporting individual street academies for ghetto youths who have dropped out of regular schools.

It is also furnishing partial funding and manpower assistance for mini-school experiments, in which small groups of students work together throughout the year, receiving counseling not only on problems affecting their learning performance, both inside and out of school, but also on career planning. This same process in a New York high school resulted in increased attendance from 15 percent to 90 percent.

And at UC's new petrochemicals complex at Ponce, Puerto Rico, nearly 1,000 employees have been receiving intensive basic on-the-job training. Nearly half of the approximately 125 operators on the payroll two years ago have been promoted to supervisors.

Which is saying a lot for the increasingly important role that corporate consideration is playing in the state of the nation.
