Most Anything At A Glance
- By Abigail -

A very hot and humid Fourth of July has come and gone leaving most of us none of the worse for the wear and tear. The one accident that took place here in town turned out to be not as serious as it might have been and from the reaction of folks around town, everyone seemed to consider it a very successful celebration.

I do hope that those in attendance were listening when Dr. Cadle commended the celebration because of the sense of community spirit being shown. Many folks spent the whole day in town enjoying the activities before going on to other communities to see their fireworks. I heard of one group that managed to see fireworks in three separate locations around the area.

Did anyone besides myself notice our Town Fathers out Sunday morning? They appeared to be inspecting the town, though I haven't found out yet exactly what they were looking for or at. At least it is a good sign—they were out looking things over.

Congratulations to those folks who were traveling our state highways last weekend and made it home safely. Seems that we are bound and determined to do ourselves in on the roads of this state—425 people have lost their lives in Maryland this year as compared to 408 last year at this time.

Congratulations to the several local students winning special awards and all those on the honor roll who were recognized at the Awards Assembly ending the Emmitsburg school year. With so much emphasis being placed on the bad things today's kids do, all of us need to take more notice of the good things. If you add it all up, there is no doubt in my mind there would be much more good than bad. One wouldn't get that impression, however, if he looked at the electronic media full time and did not take time to read the newspapers.

A lot of local governments in the area and the County Commissioners have now gone on record as being against the proposed Sixes Bridge Dam Project. We should congratulate our Town Fathers for being one of the first groups to do this, seems to me their protest was registered a couple of months ago, thereby making them one of the leaders of the opposition in this area.

From the news accounts it would appear that our local sheriff has gotten himself into more than a little bit of a mess. It will be very interesting to see how it turns out. Between that, Watergate, and the divorce threatening in the Governments' Mansion, there is enough to keep a columnist busy for quite some time.

I hear a good turn-out is expected for the Donkey Baseball game to be played this Saturday. Having seen a few before, I urge everybody who hasn't had a every body in a while to come out to Community Field to see what really turns into a match between men and beast, with the beast usually winning. Hopefully, the game will not be interrupted by the fire siren—the men might have a bit of a time getting off the field and over to the Firehouse.

Talk about ridiculous—a high school teacher lost his umpire job in California because somebody thought that a clean shaven image is better for youth, the teacher was sporting a mustache but very noticeable. Guess we can expect a "Men's Liberation" group to soon take up his cause... maybe "Mustache Anonymous?"

Seton Center Graduates Five

Five students from the adult education class at Seton Center received their high school diplomas, last week. This brings to 11 the number of area residents who have passed the General Education Development test since Christmas. The GED test (high school equivalency) is given in Frederick on two consecutive Saturday mornings, each month. Classes to prepare for the test are held two nights a week during the school year. Each session is two hours long with a coffee break.

Students who wish to upgrade basic skills in reading and writing (Adult Basic Education, equivalent to elementary school) can also attend class at Seton Center on a similar schedule. The classes are offered by the Emmitsburg Lifelong Learning Council and the Frederick County Board of Education. All materials and instruction are free with the exception of a $3 charge for the GED textbook.

Classes are informal. Mrs. Mary Seess and Mrs. Ann Marshall, who teach at the Center, make every effort to provide individual instruction whenever necessary so that students do not waste time in repeating work they already know. In similar manner, students who are having difficulty in a certain area, are helped while proceeding at their own speed. New students joining the class do not undergo placement tests. ## Squires Win In First Series Game

The Columbian Squires trounced the Knights of Columbus in the first of five slow pitch softball games last Sunday evening on the Emmitsburg Little League diamond, by a score of 35 to 28 with the Squires scoring fourteen runs in the second inning.

Home runs did most of the damage in the early innings by the Squires, along with Bud defense by the Knights. But along about the sixth inning, the Knights started to put everything together, but the deficit was too much to overcome and the Squires fell short in winning the first game.

The next game will be announced soon by the Squires who will select the date, time and place.

Any member of Brute Council 1860 who is interested in playing or serving as an umpire, water boy, etc., is welcome and may contact Deputy Grand Knight Larry Kolb as soon as possible, at 271-7131, or contact William Austin at 447-2717.

Boor-Hahn Vows Exchanged In Ceremony At Elias Lutheran Church

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Hahn, Jr.

Miss Bonnie Marie Boor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Boor, Jr., of Cabins, West Virginia, and Harry Scott Hahn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Hahn, Sr., Emmitsburg, were married June 23 in Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastors, Reverend Ronald Field, and Reverend Robert Fier, in a setting of two altar arrangements of yellow gladioli and white mums flanked with two candelabra. Striped bows of yellow and orchid marked the family pews.

Mrs. Beverly Adams, organist, presented a program of wedding music preceding the ceremony and the traditional wedding march. She accompanied the soloist, Miss Janet Springer, who sang, "Oh Promise Me" and "We've Only Just Begun."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire A-line gown of white organza veiled over taffeta. The high neckline, bishop sleeves, and front panel were accented with Venice lace appliques and white satin ribbon. The chapel-length train was attached at the waistline. Her veil of bouffant English illusion fell from a Juliet cap to the end of her chapel-length train. She carried a white prayer book topped with a bouquet of yellow roses centered with a white orchid.

The attendant was Mrs. Brenda Sites, sister of the bride, who served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carole Ball, sister of the bride, Mrs. Harriet Valentine, sister of the groom, and the junior bridesmaid was Miss Carla Boor, niece of the bride. Flower girls were Miss Amy Valentine, niece of the groom, and Miss Becki Boor, niece of the bride.

The honor attendant wore a floor-length empire-waist orchid chignon dress. The bodice, high collar, and bishop sleeves were of lace intertwined with pale orchid ribbon. A chignon sash was attached to the back of the straight gown. She carried an arrangement of white and orchid daisies in a flower basket with white ribbon streamers attached to the side. She wore matching shoes and a wide brim white hat with orchid streamers.

The bridesmaids wore floor-length empire-waist yellow satin dresses with a white over lace spotted with pink flowers. They wore white shoes and a wide brim white hat with yellow daisies. The flower girls wore floor-length white polyester dresses with long bishop sleeves and high collar. A printed white-orchid ribbon was attached to the empire waist with a bow falling in the back. They wore a lace doily with orchid ribbon attached on their heads. They carried a white and orchid flower basket of daisies with daisy petals.

Randolph Valentine, brother-in-law of the groom, served as his best man. Groomsmen were Jack Boor, brother of the bride; Eric Glass, brother-in-law of the groom; Richard Masser, cousin of the groom; and Gene Eyer, friend of the groom. The acolyte was Chester Masser, Jr., cousin of the groom.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Boor wore a floor-length pink polyester A-line dress with the bodice and long sleeves of lace. Her corsage was an arrangement of white daisies with white ribbon.

The step-mother of the groom wore a floor-length blue flowered chignon dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was white daisies with white ribbon.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social room of the church where a color scheme of white, yellow, pink and orchid was used. Aides were Mrs. Margie Baker, Mrs. Chester Masser, Mrs. Mahlon Masser, Mrs. Clarence Hahn, Mrs. Smith Hahn, and Mrs. Richard James. Peggy Hahn attended the guest book.

Following their trip to "The Summit", in the Poconos, the couple is residing at Rt. 1, Emmitsburg.

The new Mrs. Hahn received an AB degree in Education in the secondary fields Mathematics and Physical Education. She hopes to be teaching in Frederick County this coming fall.

Mr. Hahn, a graduate of Emmitsburg High School, served three years in the military service, and is now employed with Taney Supply and Lumber, Taneytown.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK

Robert and Rosanna Duphorne "Lo, it is I, be not afraid! In many chimes, without avail, Thou has spent thy life for the Holy Grail; Behold it is here—this cup which thou Didst fill at the streamlet for me but now; This crust is my body broken for thee; This water His blood that died on the tree; The Holy Supper is kept, indeed, In whatso we share with another's need; Not what we give, but what we share— For the gift without the giver is bare; Who gives himself with his arms feels three— Himself, his hungering neighbor, and me." The Vision of Sir Launfall by James Russell Lowell

The data — odds and ends that might contribute to the whole—pertaining to the Duphorne (Duphorne) family, of Emmitsburg District, is continued at this time.

A list of the members of this family buried in Elias churchyard was begun in last week's column is concluded — as follows:

5. Emma Barbar Duphorne — daughter of Samuel and Maria Duphorne—born 1852—died 1852.

6. Sarah L. Duphorne — daughter of Samuel and Maria Duphorne—born 1843—died 1853.

7. Our Son—Soldier Rest Thy Warfare O'er—Thomas W. Duphorne—Born 1839—died 1862.

Note: Thomas W. Duphorne, who was probably a son of Samuel and Maria Duphorne, obviously died while serving with the armed forces during the War Between the States (Civil War). Whether he died in battle or of disease is not known at this time. His body was returned to Emmitsburg and interred in the family plot.

8. John H. Duphorne—born 1836—died 1867.

Note: Probably another son of Samuel and Maria Duphorne—a brother of the Thomas W. Duphorne listed above.

9. Hannah Duphorne—born 1811—died 1882.

10. Samuel Duphorne—born 1798—died 1883.

Note: Samuel Duphorne and his wife, Maria Duphorne, were the parents of at least seven children. There are many references to Samuel and his family in the files of the "Emmitsburg Chronicle"—for example:

Under date of Saturday, October 7, 1882—
"The venerable Samuel Duphorne celebrated his golden wedding on October 4, 1882. In addition he was 84 years of age on that day."

Under date of Saturday, August 31, 1889—
"Public Schools—Our public schools will open this season on Monday, September 2nd and continue until the last of May. The teachers appointed for the school year in Emmitsburg are Miss Annie Duphorne, principal, and Miss Fannie Fraley, assistant."

Note: Miss Annie Duphorne, who is still remembered by some of the older citizens of Emmitsburg, was the daughter of Samuel and Maria Duphorne.

Friday, September 13, 1889: "Miss Mary H. Duphorne has returned to the Hagers-town Female Seminary where she will resume her teaching career."

In the "Gettysburg Compiler" for Tuesday, May 12, 1840, an additional note pertaining to the Duphorne—
"Married, Tuesday morning, May 6, 1840, by the Rev. James C. Eatson, Mr. John Duphorne, of Emmitsburg, Maryland, to Miss Rose Anna Dinwiddie, of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania."

Note: John Duphorne could well have been a brother of Samuel Duphorne. His marriage to Rose Anna Dinwiddie was an alliance with one of the oldest families in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania. It is not known just where John Duphorne and his wife are buried but they were probably interred in Elias churchyard in graves that are now unmarked. Two of their children are to be found there.

1. Emma H. Duphorne — daughter of John and Rosanna (Dinwiddie) Duphorne — born 1845.

2. Robert Duphorne — son of John and Rosanna (Dinwiddie) Duphorne—born and died in 1842.

"Gettysburg Compiler", Monday, July 17, 1867—
"Died, July 23, 1867, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, very suddenly, Mr. John H. Duphorne, son of Samuel and Maria Duphorne, aged 31 years, 1 month, and 21 days."

Note: Body returned to Emmitsburg and interred in the family plot of Elias churchyard. The grave is marked and the stone is in good condition.

Saturday, February 28, 1887—
"Died, February 24, 1884, at his home near Emmitsburg, Maryland, after a protracted illness, the venerable Samuel Duphorne, aged 85 years, 6 months, and 15 days."

Now to return to the list of Duphorne family burials in Elias churchyard—

11. Maria Duphorne — born 1815—died 1888.

12. Mary Heagen Duphorne — daughter of Samuel and Maria Duphorne — born 1833 — died 1906.

Note: Miss Mary H. Duphorne was an outstanding teacher in her day and age. She, as stated in her obituary, "gave her life to the cause of education." A good life and a good cause.

This concludes for the time being at least, the study of the Duphorne family, of the Emmitsburg District.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

"Regardless of how enthused he may be about the boundless rewards of camping, many a beginning camper is temporarily up the wall because he is checkmated in one area — knowledge of campsite essentials," John Jobson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield reports.

Here are some essential points to consider:

The camp must be pitched and utilized at a reasonably proper site. Disturbing incidents occur otherwise—tents collapse, adequate rest is nil on account of steeply inclined beds punctuated with rocks and flint-hard root. Bugs voraciously assail tender epidermises, sniffles abound from dank miasma, and an unexpected flood could wipe you out.

The ideal campsite is an unused one. Old ones often are populated with rodents and bugs (including bedbugs). The best firewood is gone, and there is evidence of garbage, buried and otherwise. The ideal campsite is fairly level with a gentle slope, but your tent site should be level as a slate billiard table. Sometimes this must be accompanied by judicious shoveling. Remove all stones and offending roots. Earth is preferred, but if you are forced to pitch a tent upon humus or sand, special stakes, or other inventive devices like old logs and boulders may be used to secure the tent's bottom perimeter.

Excluding a desert "dry" camp, the classic, traditional campsite is near stream or lake water, but not on the shore. Camp should be respectably above the highest waterline. It should be up in the prevailing breezes, which have several salubrious effects such as discouraging mosquitoes et al while keeping tent, bags, and clothing well-aired and dry. In hot weather the slightest breeze is cooling. Willy old-timers try to catch a campsite that is sunny the day, yet shady in late afternoon.

About the problem of underbrush and thick weeds, my advice is not to camp in or near it. If your camp must be about brush, the thing is to mow it with an ax and machete, as this thick growth does harbor insects and reptiles, which unless one is an entomologist or herpetologist collecting specimens, it's best to put distance between.

When camping in a regulated commercial public campground, you won't have much choice, but in good ones you'll have an adequate, even a proper campsite with leveled area, fireplace and picnic table, with garbage cans and restrooms available. This is one popular method of camping, and at the proper location, away from the more frenzied vacation meccas, it's worthwhile.

But there are increasing numbers of those who prefer to venture farther afield to camp on their own in lonelier surroundings, and when you have that option, it's good to know what to look for in a campsite.

The News Coverage

In the midst of sensational revelations in the Democratic Party's Baker scandal of 1964, Walter W. Jenkins, who held highest security clearances as President Lyndon Johnson's most intimate political and personal friend on the White House staff, was arrested for alleged homosexual acts. The arrest came on October 7, 1964, a month before the Presidential election in which Mr. Johnson was the incumbent Democratic candidate. At the time Jenkins also was a major figure in the Baker case disclosures. News of the arrest (and the long-suppressed fact that there had been a previous arrest on the same charge) would have been a blow to the Johnson campaign.

Major elements of the national news media suppressed news of the arrest for several days. During this period the details became common knowledge in the National Press Club in Washington, whose membership included the whole Washington press corps. Yet the news was totally suppressed until October 15. Suppressing The Facts

On October 14, a full week after the arrest, when many newsmen "sitting" on the sensational news began to grow nervous for fear somebody would "break" the story, two close personal and political friends of President Johnson paid a call to the Washington Post, the Washington Daily News, and the Washington Evening Star. They left with the belief that none of the papers would "break" the news story. They were Abe Fortas, lawyer, who later was to be appointed to the Supreme Court by President Johnson; and Clark Clifford, lawyer, who later was to be appointed Secretary of Defense in the Johnson cabinet.

Subsequently, Newbold Noyes, Editor of the Star, said: "They made what I would regard as a plea to have us not break the story. I agreed to go along at the time."

John T. O'Rourke, Editor of the Daily News, made a similar statement.

J. R. Wiggins, Editor of the Post, reported the same facts about the visit, but he said he made no promise to Fortas and Clifford who were asking that the news be suppressed. Security Jeopardized

One of my closest friends is a former Washington and New York newsman. He was in Washington at the time of the Baker - Johnson - Jenkins - McClosky Democratic scandal. He said that it was common knowledge that its ramifications were far-reaching but that none of the major media in Washington and New York chose to set their investigative reporters at work on it. Known facts in the Jenkins affair indicated that national security had been in jeopardy for at least the duration of Mr. Johnson's administration of the Presidency.

It was confirmed, after the efforts of Clark Clifford and Abe Fortas to suppress the Jenkins story had been disclosed, that police reporters on the Washington newspapers had been given details of the Jenkins arrest by the Police Department on Monday, Oct. 12. It was known also that Jenkins had extremely sensitive "Q" security clearance and "knew everything the President knew" of a classified secret nature. It became known that this clearance prevailed although he had been arrested on the same charge at the same place—the YMCA mens room, two blocks from the White House—in January 1959. Both times he was permitted to post "appearance" bonds which were forfeited. Leads Not Pursued Publication of the sensational news came into the open on December 15, when the UPI Washington bureau broke the story on orders from its New York headquarters office. The rest of the press then published the news.

Between October 7, the day of the arrest, and October 15, the day the House had reported the absence of Jenkins from his White House office as due to "nervous exhaustion" requiring hospitalization. The Washington press knew this was not true. In time an FBI investigation "cleared" Jenkins of any suggestion he might have participated in any security break. But there were many unanswered leads in the case, as there were in the Democrat's Baker scandal in which Jenkins was allegedly involved. The major Washington-New York news media were apathetic compared to their day after day energetic pursuit and investigative momentum in exploring Watergate over a period of many months.

The Bill of Complaint recites that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose address is Lot 400, Triangle Trailer Park, Jacksonville, North Carolina; that the parties were married on July 9, 1960 by Reverend Seay, a regularly ordained minister of the Gospel, in a religious ceremony; that as a result of this marriage two children were born, namely, George Robert Castle, Jr., born November 15, 1964 and Gregory Scott Castle, born July 6, 1966 both of whom are in the care and custody of the Defendant; that the parties to this cause have voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the Bill of Complaint and the separation between the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

The Bill then prays that the Complainant, George Robert Castle be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Shirley J. Castle, and be awarded any further relief as is the nature of his case.

ORDER OF THE COURT

It is thereupon this 5th day of July, 1973, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland sitting as a Court of Equity ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of this object and substance of the Bill by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 11th day of August, 1973, commanding her to be and appear in this court before the 11th day of September, 1973 and show cause if any why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

My wife and I are thinking about establishing a childrens camp and wonder if the federal government has any "advice" booklets covering this sort of thing?

"Camping With a Purpose, a 4-H Handbook" contains principles used by 4-H leaders in developing childrens camps. All phases of organization are explained including staffing, publicizing, financing, laws and emergency facilities. You may order a copy by writing the Public Documents Distribution Center, 5801 Tabor Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa. 19120.

Is it true that a man retiring at the same age as a woman will get lower social security benefits even though they make the same salary?

This was true in the past when a woman's averages were based on working up to age 62 and a man's until age 65. However, by 1975, under new changes in the law, a man's work will be averaged to age 62.

Who comprises the Water Resources Council?

The Council is comprised of the Secretaries of the Departments of the Interior; Agriculture; Army; Transportation; Health, Education & Welfare; and the Chairman of the Federal Power Commission. For information on grants and loan procedures interested communities should write the Assistant Director for State Grants, care of the Water Resources Council in Washington, D. C.

What is the status of the Murphy Pesticide Bill?

The Chemical Pesticides Co-ordination Act (H.R. 854) is currently pending before the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. The proposed legislation would require written notice to the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service and an appropriate State agency before beginning any Federal program involving the use of any chemical to be used in eradicating or controlling animal or plant pests.

Some time ago I decided to receive veteran's benefits under the new pension law because my income exceeded the annual limitation that would result in termination of benefits under the old pension law. Can I now go back to drawing pension under the old law since the income limitations have since been increased?

No. Once you have chosen benefits under the new law, you cannot go back to the old law.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Future Of Supersonic Transport
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., July 12, 1973 — Most authorities within the industry still believe that the future of air travel will hinge to a large extent on the supersonic transport, despite the setback suffered as a result of the crash of the Soviet Tupolev-144 (TU-144) in Paris last month. The recent history of SST in this country has been discouraging, with ecologists and environmentalists putting up a stiff battle against basic research and development. Thus far, the opponents have prevented progress here.

The only two SST prototypes to have a tryout thus far have been the French-British Concorde and the US-SR TU-144. Before the tragedy in Paris, which resulted in the injury and death of quite a number of crew members and citizens of the town of Goussainville near the field, prospects appeared relatively bright for both models. While details were not entirely established, it was in the cards for passenger operations to start on both supersonic airliners in 1975. Insiders now admit that the accident will undoubtedly set the schedule farther into the future since it will be some time before it can be determined exactly what went wrong and caused the crash.

Concept Still Unaffected
Proponents of the SST concept have been quick to point out that both the Concorde and the second and improved prototype of the TU-144 logged a great many hours of successful flight without any trouble. Also highlighted is the fact that the SSTs are designed for flying at supersonic speeds, and the accident occurred during a show-off act over the field at Le Bourget not only at low altitude but also at slow speed. There was little disagreement about this aspect of the situation, although the general investigation continues.

British-French Concorde backers anticipate that public afterthoughts will persist for some time as a result of the TU-144 crash, but they are prepared to continue their plans for future SST transports despite the tremors. President of the French member of the Concorde's manufacturing group stated that one accident cannot be expected to hobble the future of one aircraft type. He has been among the most dedicated supporters of supersonic travel and is fully aware that fresh opposition will be stirred up because of the crash.

Making Use Of The Delay
SST insiders do not intend to waste the inevitable delay that lies ahead. The Russians realize that in their second prototype of the TU-144 there were certain design changes that had not been sufficiently tested in operation prior to the crash. Hence before the Soviets can consider undertaking passenger service, they must try out some sister craft and check all results. At the same time, makers of the Concorde will likely incorporate into their new prototypes some of the alterations made by the USSR, especially such economic advantages as increasing the passenger capacity. This will be a reflection of the fact that the reluctance of airlines to order the new enormous ships of the sky has stemmed to a large degree from economic objections.

U. S. Interest Still Alive
There are still many industrial and financial forces in this country watching the slow but continuing developments abroad that signal the eventual acceptance of the SST in the aviation field. It may be later rather than sooner because of the Le Bourget setback, but fresh endeavors to get this country involved in the SST will definitely be seen. The opponents are waiting in the wings for any such recurrence and they will not hesitate to try everything to block our participation. But eventual success of the TU-144 and the Concorde would certainly bring about a new campaign for our involvement. If detente with the USSR continues, as the Research Department of Babson's Reports expects, an adaptation of the TU-144 might even be made here, with help from the Soviets. Not a sure thing. But possible.

Sgt. Portner In Honored Group

Master Sergeant Robert Portner, son of Mrs. Mildred E. Portner, Thurmont, is a member of a U. S. Air Force organization which has been honored with the Republic of the Philippines Presidential Unit Citation.

Sergeant Portner is a communications supervisor at Clark Air Base with the 1981st Communications Group which received the award for providing flood relief and recovery support to the Philippine government last July 21 to August 15.

More than 100 inches of rain fell on regions of Luzon last July. Air Force units at Clark were cited for carrying out a massive, well-organized humanitarian operation that included evacuation of refugees, aerial and land transport of medical teams and supplies to remote areas, and delivery of vital medical, food and other supplies to population centers. The sergeant will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

Sergeant Portner is a 1955 graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg.

Youth Conservation Corps Members Working At Catocctin Mountain Park

Forty young people are members of the Youth Conservation Corps at Catocctin Mountain Park near Thurmont, this summer. Funded by the Federal government and operated by the Departments of Interior and Agriculture, there are 96 camps throughout the United States involving approximately 3,000 teenagers 15-18 years of age. The Catocctin Mountain YCC involves 30 youths from Frederick County and 10 from Baltimore City.

The YCC is designed to fill three vital needs: (1) to improve the quality of public lands and waters, (2) to gainfully employ the youth of our country, and (3) to build a reserve of environmentally aware young citizens with knowledge of the natural and historic heritage of their country and of their own place in the ecological cycle.

One aspect of the Catocctin YCC is the work program. Corpsmembers spend an average of 30 hours per week doing conservation work in Catocctin Mountain Park and Cunningham Falls State Park.

NO. 24,382 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND

RUTH JENETTE DYKEMAN ON PETITION FOR THE GUARDIAN OF THE PERSON OF MICHAEL JAMES NELSON, AN INFANT

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The object of this proceeding is to procure the appointment of a guardian of the person of Michael James Nelson, an infant.

The Petitioner recites that Petitioner, Ruth Jenette Dykeman, is a resident of Frederick County, residing at Route 2, Reels Mill Road, Frederick, Maryland, is 55 years of age, and is the paternal grandmother of Michael James Nelson, an infant; that Michael James Nelson, an infant, was born June 29, 1968, as the lawful issue of Jack Nelson, and Elsie Mae Nelson, said marriage being terminated by a Decree of divorce granted to Jack Nelson in No. 23,840 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, wherein the said Jack Nelson was granted the care and custody of Michael James Nelson, the infant child issuing from the marriage of the parties; that Jack Nelson departed from this life on June 7, 1973, as a result of injuries sustained in an accident which occurred on May 31, 1973, leaving surviving him his infant son, Michael James Nelson; that Elsie Mae Nelson, the natural mother of Michael James Nelson, an infant, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address is Apartment No. 14, 1287 Elm Street, Manchester, New Hampshire, and that the said Elsie Mae Nelson has not visited with her infant son since the separation of the parents on September 5, 1970; that the said infant, Michael James Nelson, has been in the care and custody of your Petitioner, Ruth Jenette Dykeman, since May 31, 1973, and that your Petitioner avers that the best interest and future welfare of the said infant child will be promoted by the passage of a Decree by your Honorable Court appointing your Petitioner the Guardian of the person of Michael James Nelson, an infant.

The Petitioner then prays that the Petitioner may be appointed Guardian of the person of Michael James Nelson, an infant; and for such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

ORDER OF COURT
It is thereupon this 6th day of July, 1973, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Petitioner give notice to the natural mother of said infant child, Elsie Mae Nelson, of this Petition, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks prior to the 11th day of August, 1973, commanding her to be and appear in this Court, in person, or by Solicitor, on or before the 11th day of September, 1973, and show cause, if any she has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

According to the Camp Director James Schafer, being able to recruit from all income brackets, ethnic groups, and sexes creates in microcosm a community representative of the U. S.—a tremendous opportunity in social education for all participants. Furthermore, the corpsmembers have the opportunity to control various parts of the camp program through the camp government, promoting within corpsmembers increased self-discipline and self-dignity.

Through the education program corpsmembers learn about management and protection of natural resources. The corpsmembers examine the Catocctin habitat through studies of streams, ponds, and soils.

During the next six weeks trips are taken to the western Potomac, Baltimore Harbor, and Chincoteague Island to compare and contrast these habitats with Catocctin. One trip to the western Potomac was just completed this past weekend. Programs in surface mining and timber management were held in Garrett County, with subsequent testing of the air, soil, and water near Westernport. Corpsmembers found much evidence of the influence of large manufacturers in the area on the streams which feed the Potomac. A study of Baltimore Harbor commences on July 12 with the main emphasis being on water problems. The results of this 3-day study will be forwarded to Senator Mathias who is investigating the health of the upper Bay.

Mental Health

Goal Exceeded

The 1973 Mental Health Drive in Frederick County has exceeded its local goal. With a few Bell Ringers still to report, the month-long campaign for funds to support the Mental Health Association's fight against the community's number one health problem has resulted in total contributions of $10,320.25, the Reverend Loren Gisselbeck, President of the local association, announced this week.

"The splendid response of the people of Frederick County to the 1973 mental health appeal," he said, "is dramatic evidence that they understand the seriousness of mental illness. It also demonstrates their strong conviction that the Mental Health Association's program of science, service and social action is the most effective way to combat and eventually to control this leading health menace."

Mr. Gisselbeck added, "and it proved the point of our campaign slogan, 'You can make a difference'." In addition to applauding the public's support of the drive, he extended the Association's thanks to the local newspapers and broadcasting stations for their cooperation, and to the volunteers who contributed their time and efforts to help conduct the drive. "Without such wholehearted support, we would have had no way of bringing the mental health message to the people of this community," he concluded.

Lisa and Michelle Tyler visited with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Myers, East Main St., last week. They returned to Washington with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tyler, and brother, Norman, Jr., on Sunday.

Perspectives In Learning

Reading Help When Needed
The summer months are vacation time for some children but for many it is the time to attend remedial summer sessions. The children attending the summer classes are hopeful that a few more hours of classes will be their magic formula for success.

Fortunately there are some programs in the area of reading which are successfully helping students who need the extra remedial work. Does this program sound like the summer school in your community?

A program known as the Intensive Reading Instructional Team has provided a learning environment which is fortified with media and materials designed to teach, motivate and encourage the development of reading skills. The IRIT consists of three highly trained and sincerely dedicated reading specialists. These individuals work as a team to create a total reading environment. The children are taught by all three specialists. The Reading Laboratory for this intensive program is a fully equipped area where teaching machines, tape recorders, record players, filmstrip viewers, and projectors are just a few of the visual and auditory aids available for use in developing language skills. Reading games, puzzles and puppetry are used to help create an interest in reading and listening. Exhibits are always on display to create background experiences which are often lacking in children who have difficulties with language skills. Creative writing and artistic expressions are an integral part of the program.

There is a no-nonsense approach to the program which indicates that results are expected. Children arrive daily ready to experience something new and exciting. The classes are filled with meaningful activities and learning experiences. The children appear to be alert and involved in what they are doing, and none of them are eagerly awaiting the arrival of the bus to take them home. Parents, teachers, and students are interested and involved. They all feel that the program has much to offer. Parents feel free to discuss their concerns with the teacher who, in turn, is a willing listener. A team effort pervades the entire atmosphere, and everyone is working for success and expects it to happen if they work hard enough and long enough.

Parents are given kits which can be used at home in helping their children to continue the learning process which occurs at school. The "helping kits" give parents some responsibility for educational experiences. Most parents are very willing to help teachers and to give their children meaningful guidance and reassurance.

If this program sounds like something you wish were happening in your community, you could write the Hartford, Connecticut Public School System for more details. They have had the intensive reading program since 1966 and are adapting it each year to their ever-changing needs. It is quite possible that a program such as this could be adapted to many other school systems.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fuss visited with Mrs. Carrie Fuss Long at Frederick Nursing Home early this week. Mrs. Long is very well at the present.

TAX—Q & A

Q. Is it true that many students with summer jobs may qualify for exemption from Federal income tax withholding?

A. Yes, many students with summer jobs, retired persons, and others working part-time, may be able to qualify for exemption from withholding by filing a Form W-4E with their employer. These forms are available from employers and many IRS and school placement offices.

Individuals who qualify for exemption from withholding are those who did not have to pay income tax for the previous year and do not expect to have to pay tax for the current year. These eligible taxpayers generally will be in one of three categories:

1. Single persons with an annual gross income for both the previous year and the current year of less than $2,050 ($2,800 if 65 or older).
2. Married individuals entitled to file jointly with a combined income of less than $3,550 if one is 65 or older or $4,300 if both are 65 or older) for each of the two years;
3. Individuals with unearned income (such as interest or dividends) who may be claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer, but have gross income of less than $750.

Those who have a question about whether or not they are eligible should contact their nearest IRS office.

Q. Will IRS publications tell you about court decisions that take a position on tax matters more favorable to the taxpayer than the IRS position?

A. Explanations and examples in Internal Revenue Service interpret the official IRS interpretation of tax laws enacted by Congress, regulations issued by the Treasury Department, and pertinent court decisions. There are certain matters in these publications on which some courts have taken a position more favorable to the taxpayer than the official IRS position. Until these varying interpretations are resolved by higher court decision or otherwise, the IRS must necessarily continue to state the Service viewpoint.

Q. My maid is quitting next month. Is it true that I'll have to give her a W-2 Form?

A. Yes. Under new IRS rules, you must report total wages paid (whether or not income tax was withheld) and social security tax withheld from maids, gardeners and other household employees. Normally, Jan. 31 is the deadline for giving the employee her W-2 form and for filing a copy with the IRS along with your Form 942 fourth quarter report of social security tax withheld. But if the employee leaves before Jan. 31, as in your case, you must give her the W-2 form within 30 days after her last payday. Include a copy of the W-2 with your final Form 942 for that employee.

For more details, see the instructions on your Form 942. Forms W-2 will be mailed to you along with your fourth quarter return. Extra copies can be obtained from

Local Children Compose Poem

The following poem was a group project composed while these sixth graders were studying a unit in history on the Westward Movement. The students attend the Emmitsburg School.

The Spirit Of The Pioneers
Come all ye farmers to the west
Where land is beautiful at its best.

There are many fox and beaver here
Buffalo, mink, possum and deer.

The land has plenty of soil
It is so good the crops won't spoil.

Our spirits are high, the valleys are low
We came all this way to hunt buffalo.

Our missionaries built a mission,
We are all learning the same tradition.

There is a wonderful summer breeze
Blowing through all the trees.

Our plants are growing fast,
Through the riches of the past.

In the west we are told,
There is a trace of silver and gold.

We have traveled so far for this land,
Holding each other hand and hand.

Now that we are finally here
We celebrate it with lots of cheer.

TOWN OF EMMITSBURG Proposed Charter Amendments

On July 2, 1973, at the regular monthly meeting of the Burgess and Board of Commissioners of the Town of Emmitsburg, certain Amendments were made to the Charter of the Town of Emmitsburg. A summary of those proposed and approved amendments appear below:

(1) Art. II, Sec. 2 of the Charter was amended so as to delete the requirement, for the office of Commissioner, of ownership of real estate within the town.

(2) Art. II, Sec. 9 of the Charter was amended so as to clarify the authority of the Board of Commissioners to appoint separate commissions for whatever purpose the Board might deem necessary. At all times such commissions are to act in advisory capacities only.

(3) Art. II, Sec. 12 of the Charter dealing with the powers of the Board of Commissioners was reworded and extended so as to expand and clarify their powers. Such powers as have been legally exercised in the past have simply been specifically included within this Charter provision for the sake of clarity. The zoning power and the power to regulate public recreation and park services as well as provide for and regulate a police department have all been specifically included in the Board's powers, again, for the sake of clarity.

(4) Art. II, Sec. 15 provides for the working structure of the Board of Commissioners. It provides for the election of the President and Treasurer of the Board of Commissioners by the Board of Commissioners.

(5) Art. II, Sec. 14 simply provides that the District Court of Frederick County, Maryland has jurisdiction over violations of the laws or ordinances of the Town of Emmitsburg.

(6) All of Article III of the Charter which deals with the office of the Burgess has been revamped so as to clarify the powers, qualifications and duties of this elected official. Under the amendment the Burgess need no longer be an owner of real property within the town. Generally, the Burgess is designated as Chief Executive Officer of the town, responsible both to the Board of Commissioners and the voters of the town for its sound administration. The Burgess has the power to veto legislation, which power may be overridden by the Board. The Burgess is in charge of the appointment and discharge of all town officers (other than elected officials) and employees, with the advise and consent of the Board of Commissioners.

(7) Art. I, Sec. 3 deals with the police limits of the town, which extend for one mile from the town boundaries. All that was changed by this amendment as the District Court for Frederick County shall have the power to try all violations within these limits, rather than the obsolete magistrate system.

(8) Art. IV, Sec. 2, dealing with elections, generally provides for the appointment by the Board of Commissioners of three persons to act as judges of elections. Voters may now register on any business day with the Town Clerk.

(9) Art. V, Sec. 15 was amended so as to provide that the town budget shall be adopted not later than June 27 of any year.

(10) Art. V, Sec. 23 dealing with collection of taxes sets the tax year from July 1 thru June 30. All taxes are due on July 1, and overdue and in arrears the first day of the succeeding October and at that time will begin to bear interest at the rate of 2/3 of 1% per month or fraction of a month until paid. When improvements are added to any property between July 1 and December 31, resulting in an increase of assessment in that period, then tax for the last half of the year on this increase shall be due on the first day of January and overdue and in arrears on April 1, succeeding.

(11) Art. VIII, Sec. 4 which provides for penalties for violation of any Charter provision having been amended to give judges of District Court of Frederick County jurisdiction over such actions.
