Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

It appears that Emmitsburg's water supply is back to normal, for the Civil Defense pump, loaned to the town for the near-emergency a few months ago, has been returned.

I've been told the main reservoir, Rainbow Lake, is again full and water is running over the spillway now. That's a relief. I get thirsty just thinking about a "dry spell."

I know folks are beginning to think about the future—and the possibility of another water shortage like the one we recently experienced. Perhaps, when the pool project is completed, a new priority will be established: To improve the water supply and sewage systems servicing Emmitsburg.

I've got a good tip for you plant growers who have trouble with insects. From a small orchard grower in Thurmont, I learned that an oil and soap spray is very effective at controlling insects. Just mix together some light motor oil (10 weight, whatever that means), some liquid soap and some water. No fancy measurements to worry about. When it looks right, start spraying.

The bugs don't like clean plants, or at least they don't like soapy ones. The oil is supposed to make the mixture stick.

When do you start spraying? The orchard grower tells me you should spray as soon as buds and new growth appear. This upcoming week is of particular interest.

Emmitsburg Catholic Schools Week, and I hope you'll take some time off to visit St. Joseph's High School—they're having an open house the week of February 3 through 7.

Local parents have always taken an active part in the education of their children. It's a commendable tradition, to say the least, so I know there'll be quite a bit of activity around the high school next week.

That reminds me, there'll be a meeting of parents and faculty Tuesday, Feb. 4 at Mother Seton School. The meeting is called "Academic Encounter," and I'd be remiss if I failed to mention such an important get-together.

A sense of humor eases life's hard knocks, and prevents embarrassing moments when substituted for irritations.

Area Deaths

HENRY N. WARTHEN

Henry Norbert Warthen, 87, Emmitsburg, died at 9:03 a.m. Tuesday, at the Veteran's Hospital in Lebanon, Pa.

He was born in Carroll County and had been a life-long resident of the Emmitsburg area. He was the son of the late George W. and Clara M. Leivers Warthen.

He was a member of St. Anthony's Shrine Church and was also a member of the Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, Emmitsburg. He served in the U. S. Army from Sept. 4, 1918, to Dec. 30, 1918.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning with a Mass of Christian Burial at St. Anthony's Shrine at 10 o'clock, with the Rev. Fr. Edward Sargus officiating. Interment will be in St. Anthony's Shrine Cemetery. Friends may call this evening (Thursday) at the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg.

Byron Wants Fed. Budget Balanced

A resolution authorizing a constitutional amendment which would require an annual balanced Federal budget has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Goodloe Byron.

A similar measure was introduced last year in the Maryland Senate by Senator James Clark, Jr.

Basically, the amendment would require revenues to equal expenditures on a fiscal year basis unless a national emergency were declared by the President.

"Effective budget-making requires a policy for deciding not only whether each proposed outlay is worthwhile but whether it is worthwhile enough to be included within some predetermined spending limit," Byron said.

"Congress must decide what total outlays will be and also accept responsibility for keeping expenditures within the framework of total anticipated revenues."

"This is the non-existent element in our current process and as a result Congress tends to lean toward spending at levels that usually exceed revenues," he concluded.

Emmitsburg School PTA Birthday Calendar To Be Published Soon

Just about everybody in Emmitsburg knows that today is the birthday of Adah Keilholz, Ronnie Wagerman, Mark Carter and Michael Weimer. It is public knowledge that Mr. and Mrs. D. Richard Smith have an anniversary tomorrow (Friday) and that Saturday is Monica Elder's birthday.

In a community the size of Emmitsburg, nobody outside the immediate circle of relatives and close friends would know or care about such important dates in the lives of neighbors.

The Emmitsburg School PTA can be credited with helping neighbors know more about neighbors. This is the second year the PTA has sponsored the Community Birthday Calendar.

Last year the calendar listed the birthdays and anniversaries of 1650 individuals and couples living in our area. The Thurmont radio station, WTHU, used the calendar for birthday greetings and a cake drawing by a local supermarket.

Fund Raising Drive Toic At PTA Meet

John Watkins, vice president of the Emmitsburg School PTA, presided over the January meeting of the PTA at 7:30 p.m. on January 22 at the school.

Several committee reports were presented including the Book Fair committee, which reported about $175 profit from the fair held last fall.

Walter Bowers, reporting on the Teen Center, said that the Center has an administration problem as well as the building needing a lot of improvements. He is hoping the necessary steps can be taken to reopen the center in the near future.

The Community Birthday Calendar fund raising project, co-chaired by Audrey Glass and Sandra Watkins, will take place during February. Mrs. Watkins introduced the six team captains for each selling area in the town and surrounding community. Profits of this campaign will go towards athletic equipment, according to Fred Stambaugh who chaired the "profit" committee.

The $10.00 membership award, presented annually to the homeroom with the highest percentage of parents joining the PTA, went to Mrs. Scheek's first grade with 77% of the parents in her grade members of the PTA.

Mr. Brake suggested that the PTA should be thinking of ways the PTA could help curb vandalism at the school. A window, broken over the holidays, cost $31 to be replaced. Sandra Shriver, Thomas May and Mary Springer will serve as the nominating committee for next year's officers.

The Iowa Test Results showed that the 3rd and 5th grades had a poor showing and the 7th grade did very well. Mr. Van Tries said that steps had already been taken to help the areas where the tests showed the students to be weakest.

Rev. Fearer closed the meeting with a prayer. Mr. May's fifth grade won the meeting room banner. Refreshments were served by Miss Wilfong's and Mrs. Stambaugh's classes. The next meeting will be Tuesday, March 25.

Church Women Plan Project Day

"Making Faithful Decisions" was the January study topic for the Lutheran Church Women of Elias Lutheran Church. Program leaders were Mrs. Harry McNair and Mrs. Weldon Shank, who presented the many facets involved in daily decision making. Stressed was the need for an understanding of our Christian faith in making decisions. Closing devotions were also conducted by Mrs. McNair and Mrs. Shank.

Mrs. Daniel McGarry conducted a brief business meeting. Plans were reviewed for several projects for 1975. It was announced that a pre-Lenten program would be presented February 11 by Mrs. A. W. McClellan and Mrs. James Small.

Emergency Grants For Fuel Oil

Emergency grants for fuel oil are now available for public assistance recipients in Maryland, according to officials of the Department of Employment and Social Services. Recipients without money for fuel, who have not received an emergency check for any other purpose within the last twelve months, may be eligible for an emergency grant for one month's supply of fuel to heat their homes.

Persons in need of such assistance who think they might qualify should contact their local department of social services.

College Director To Meet Students

Kevin J. Manning, assistant director of admissions at Elizabethtown College, will be meeting with interested students at St. Joseph's High School in Emmitsburg, on Tuesday, February 4.

Manning will be at the high school around lunch time. Elizabethtown is a private, liberal arts college in south central Pennsylvania. It offers majors in 26 fields including those in the business, education and health care professions.

Church Will Burn Mortgage Sunday

The $4,000 mortgage note which was received in January of 1969 to complete the construction of the Fellowship Hall of Incarnation Church, will be burned on Sunday evening, February 2, at the Annual Congregational Meeting.

Church Will Burn Mortgage Sunday

All members and friends of Incarnation United Church of Christ are invited and urged to attend the Covered Dish Supper at 6:30 p.m. Each family who attends is requested to bring one covered dish of food (either a hot dish or a salad). The meat, coffee and cake for dessert will be provided by the Women's Guild of the church. Annual reports will be presented by an officer of each organization of the congregation and by the pastor.

One item of business that will be considered, discussed, and voted on at the meeting, will be the possibility of sandblasting and repointing the front of the church building at an estimated cost of $2,400. It is important that a good representation of the congregation be in attendance at the meeting in order that an intelligent decision may be reached regarding this step of progress in the life of the congregation.

A colorful and inspirational sound filmstrip entitled "Time to Rejoice," will be shown during the Annual Meeting. This filmstrip has been produced by the Stewardship Council of the United Church of Christ to help the members of the congregation become excited about their part in the life and work of the United Church of Christ and to encourage them to provide more support for Christ Ministry locally, nationally, and globally.

The ceremony of Celebration for the Burning of the Mortgage Note will be the climax of the events of the evening. Participating in the Ceremony will be the following members: Mr. Eric E. Glass, who served as Chairman of the Building Committee; Mr. Donald E. Crouse, vice president of the Consistory; Mrs. Anna Margaret Martin, and the pastor, Rev. John C. Chatlos.

WASHINGTON EVENTS AFFECTING OUR COMMUNITY

Depression, recession, or just an "interim economic downturn"? No one seems to know for sure, but President Ford's red-and-white WIN buttons are blooming on Washington lapels these days. And while some look to the government for help in President Ford combatting inflation, it's ironic that many federal city observers attribute our economic woes to over-strict government regulations. Chief culprits—according to critics—are too many regulatory agencies, excessive red tape and burdensome rules.

Removal of arbitrary governmental price regulations would increase natural gas exploration, says gas-supply expert Collis Chandler. Such action would "result in additions to badly-needed reserves," according to Chandler, chairman of the Washington-based Natural Gas Supply Committee.

Ed Wheeler regulation is Ed Wheeler, president of the Fertilizer Institute. Testifying before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee, Wheeler pointed out that natural gas is a basic ingredient of nitrogen fertilizer, and said the current shortage can be traced to "20 years of federal control over the wellhead price of natural gas."

Most populated country on earth? China, with almost 800 million people. U.S. is fourth, behind India and Russia. Our population is expected to double in 116 years; China in only 41 years.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.) opposed those costly mandatory seat-belt buzzer and interlock systems, pushing through Congress an amendment banning such mechanisms from new cars. He's also urging a closer and harder look at air bags.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton belts," Eagleton says, "just costly devices which force people to use them."

Rogers Morton, latest U.S. energy "czar," has given us a choice: save fuel your own voluntary way, or expect some form of rationing and/or taxation. The Interior Secretary says our nation must reduce oil imports, and "energy conservation is a vital part of this effort."

May New County Fire Investigator

State Fire Marshal J. C. Robertson has announced the appointment of Timothy S. May of Walkersville as Fire Investigator assigned to Frederick County. In this assignment Mr. May will be responsible for investigation of fires and the conducting of fire prevention inspections in the county.

Prior to joining the State Fire Marshal's staff, Fire Investigator May was an officer in the Frederick City Police Department for 4½ years and is a graduate of the Frederick City Police Academy. He is an active member of the United and Citizens Fire Companies in Frederick and of the Walkersville Volunteer Fire Company. Fire Investigator May is assuming responsibilities in Frederick County formerly carried out by Fire Investigator Earl Shipley who was assigned to the county on a temporary basis for the last seven months.

An additional Fire Investigator will be selected for assignment to Frederick County to replace Mr. Donald C. Barnes, Frederick County's new sheriff. This investigator will be selected as a result of a competitive examination to be conducted by the State Department of Personnel in the near future.

HANDY GEORGE'S FIX-UP TIPS

A CONCRETE IDEA
If you're thinking about paneling your basement this winter, there's an easier way to fasten the furring strips to the wall.

Use a Speed Fastener powder-actuated stud driver—a tool that instantly drives a hardened steel pin through wood or metal into a concrete wall or steel beam.

The powder-actuated stud driver is replacing the star drill and anchor or the electric drill and masonry bit for this purpose because the stud driver is faster, easy to use—it actually takes only 1/10 the time.

Speed Fastener, Inc., a leading manufacturer of powder-actuated drivers, took a device widely used by construction crews and adapted it for home-use, to transform what was once a tough and time-consuming task—fastening wood or steel to concrete—into something relatively simple.

The stud driver has varied uses throughout the home—installing furring strips to concrete, fastening metal hangers to basement walls, securing metal supports for posts and railings, and fastening tables to the concrete surfaces of patios and porches.

Speed powder-actuated tools, along with Speed drive pins and powder charges, are available in most rental stores as well as home improvement centers, lumberyards, and hardware stores. Or for the location of the outlet in your area write Speed Fastener, Inc., 2470 Schuetz Road, Maryland Heights, MO 63043, or call 314/587-9750.

Major O'Hara Retires After 36 Years On State Police Force

Major William Elwood O'Hara, a State Police veteran with 36 years service, has retired from the State force following a long and colorful career including the investigation of one of the last train robberies in United States history.

Major O'Hara was born in Frederick, attended local schools, and graduated from the Frederick High School. He was appointed to the Maryland State Police as an officer on November 16, 1938 and was assigned to the Conowingo Barrack. Officer O'Hara was transferred to Waterloo the following March and then on to the training school in October 1939.

Following his successful completion of the training program, O'Hara patrolled Cecil County atop his motorcycle. He was assigned to the Ridgeville Detachment in 1941. Promoted to Corporal in November 1942, O'Hara returned to his native Frederick County as Assistant Barrack Commander of the Frederick Barrack. Promoted to Captain in 1963, O'Hara was given command of the Western Troop. In September 1970, Captain O'Hara was promoted to Major and was transferred to Headquarters in Pikesville as an Assistant Chief of the Services Bureau, a position he held until his retirement on December 31, 1974.

Major O'Hara has been commended by many citizens of Maryland for outstanding service. He is a graduate of the FBI National Academy, Northwestern University's Traffic Institute, Harvard University's Medical School Homicide Investigation Course, as well as many other police management courses.

Governor William Preston Lane, Jr. commended Sergeant O'Hara for his action in taking command and directing operations after a tornado struck Hagerstown on June 7, 1947.

Major O'Hara now lives in Hagerstown with his wife, Mary Margaret. He is an avid gardener and railroad buff and is well-known as a supporter of "steam" which stems from the time his father was an engineer for the B&O Railroad and would take the young William Elwood O'Hara along for an occasional trip aboard one of the gleaming steam engines of days gone by.

Major and Mrs. O'Hara will be honored at a reception and dinner-dance on Friday evening, February 7, at the Venice Motel in Hagerstown. Persons wishing to attend can contact any State Police installation for ticket information.

Sr. Citizens Set Up Agenda For 1975

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club was held Tuesday evening, January 21 in the Center. The meeting opened with singing, followed by silent prayer in memory of a recently deceased member, Carrie Rodgers, and the Lord's Prayer.

President LeRue Harman called for the secretary's report of the Board meeting held Monday, Jan. 20. Secretary Edie Baker reported the balance made at the Call Bazaar to be $1,000. The following agenda was set up for the remainder of the year:

Feb. 18, covered dish supper at VFW Annex; March 18, Bingo; April 22, Fashion Show and Skit; May 20, Sister Paula's Glee Club; June 17, Picnic in Community Park; July 22, local Picnic; August 13, Kump's Dam Picnic; Sept. 16, Garden Bingo. The Spring Festival will be held April 19.

The president reported on Food 'n Friends, urging all to be sure to call the day before for reservations or cancellations. She also introduced Mrs. Joan Hutt from Frederick, who is on the Committee on Aging. She spoke on the food project.

The president also expressed a need for used cotton blankets to line quilts being made at the Wednesday workday meetings.

Sister Marcia made a plea for any members desiring to act as foster parents and also invited interested club members to attend the games sessions at Seton Center Feb. 9.

The entertainment was furnished by the Sunrise Singers, a group of ten lively youngsters singing and playing both popular and secular numbers in which club members lustily joined. The music and young performers were truly enjoyed by everyone.

Refreshments were served by the committee.

The name of a new member, Mrs. Birdie Newall, was also added to the club roll.

YOUR VETERINARIAN SPEAKS

Cat Distemper

One of the most serious diseases of cats is distemper, also known as the cat plague, agranulocytosis, panleukopenia and infectious enteritis.

Cat distemper is a highly contagious virus disease, according to the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association. The fatality rate runs as high as 90% in areas where there is a large kitten population.

Cats with distemper lose pep and refuse to eat or drink. Often they will be seen sitting with their eyes half closed. Temperatures are usually high. They appear to recover after one or two days but usually the symptoms return and the cat becomes very ill.

During this stage, the cat appears dazed and is likely to become dizzy. It may lie on its stomach, or hover over a saucer of milk or water and be unable to drink. Unless treatment is started at once, a cat with distemper usually dies within five days after becoming sick. Treatment in later stages is usually unsatisfactory. Nearly all successful treatments are given by injection since cats with distemper tend to vomit medication given by mouth.

Excellent vaccines are available to protect cats against distemper. Preventing this disease is much better than attempting to treat it after symptoms develop. Your veterinarian can recommend a vaccination program.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Movie Makers Doing Well

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., January 30, 1975—Despite — or perhaps because of — the slumping economy, movie makers enjoyed thriving business last year. The Motion Picture Association of America estimates that over one billion people bought movie tickets in 1974, almost 20% more than during 1973. Last year's attendance, though well below the peak of four billion customers in pre-TV 1946, was still the highest in over a decade.

Trend To "Disaster" Films

Of the reasons offered for the renewed popularity of motion pictures, perhaps most compelling is that they offer a form of escape. During periods of economic stress and dislocations such as the present, people eagerly seek at least a temporary respite from their daily cares and worries. Some of the most popular movies last year were "The Sting," "American Graffiti," "Blazing Saddles," "That's Entertainment," and "The Exorcist"—not "message" films, but diverting escapist fare.

Lately, perhaps symptomatic of the times, there has been a turn toward "disaster" films, depicting catastrophes of epic proportions. After the success of 20th Century Fox's "Poseidon Adventure" (terror at sea) and Universal's "Airport" (terror in the air), moviegoers can now vicariously experience such perverse pleasures as an earthquake, the bombing of an ocean liner, fire in a New York skyscraper, and an attack by giant insects. Ticket buyers presumably feel their money is well spent if they find themselves more terrified by the make-believe of cataclysmic events than by the realities of inflation, unemployment, recession, and other economic ills.

TV Advertising Bolsters Box Office

Other factors associated with the renewed surge at the box office include an increase in "quality" pictures, the energy crisis causing people to substitute neighborhood movies for expensive far-from-home recreation, and the industry's new marketing and distribution strategies. New films are currently shown in many area theaters at one time instead of in a few centrally located cinemas. This mass introduction enables a great many people to view a film at the height of its popularity, and helps generate greater public interest. Ironically, advertising of theater films on television has proved successful in getting people out of the house and into the movie showhouses. Network television was used to build pre-release publicity for "Airport 1975," which grossed some $10.6 million in its first five weeks. In the first half of 1974 alone, the motion picture industry spent close to $36 million advertising its wares on rival TV.

Prospects For Movie Makers In 1975 While some have expressed fear that the movie manufacturers may be courting serious financial problems by spending too much money making films with a similar theme—as in the case of the recent "disaster" shows—the outlook for 1975 and beyond still appears generally favorable. According to U. S. Department of Commerce predictions, motion picture box office receipts could well exceed $1.9 billion in 1975, 15% above the $1.7 billion estimated for the year 1974. Over the longer term, the Commerce Department foresees receipts averaging 10% higher each year, to about $3.1 billion by 1980.

A Stock To Buy

For investors seeking initial representation in the motion picture industry at this time, the Research Department of Babson's Reports recommends purchase of the speculative-grade common stock of MCA, Inc. The Universal Pictures subsidiary of MCA enjoys one of the best records of any company in the field. For the future, the firm's revolutionary new "Disco-Vision" video playback equipment has promising implications. For a free detailed report on MCA, write to Babson's Reports, Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass. 02181.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. What kinds of legislation will you be introducing in Congress this year?

In the coming weeks I will introduce four pieces of legislation: 1) On estate taxation, a bill to allow family farms to be assessed at farm value so that the farm can be passed on from generation to generation; 2) A constitutional amendment to require that the budget be balanced except in time of national emergency declared by Congress; 3) A bill to exempt the first $5,000 of pension retirement income from federal income taxes; and 4) A bill to create an 800-acre Monocacy Battlefield National Park.

Can you please send me a copy of Consumer Product Safety Commission laws?

A compilation of laws administered by this independent Federal regulatory agency can be obtained by calling the toll-free number 800-492-2937.

How do I enroll for the medical insurance part of Medicare and what does it cost?

If you have Medicare hospital insurance, but do not have the medical insurance part of Medicare, you can sign up for medical insurance in the first 3 months of any year. Generally, for each year you delay signing up after you were first eligible to enroll, your monthly medical insurance premium increases by 10 per cent. This basic premium is $6.70 through June 30, 1975 and may go up if the costs of medical care rise. Under the law, however, the premium cannot be raised unless there has been a general increase in social security cash benefits since the last premium change. Your medical insurance premium is never more than one-half the cost of your medical insurance protection.

LOOKING AHEAD

By George S. Benson, President, National Education Program
Searcy, Arkansas

Communist Inflation

Are the Communists trying to increase inflation in the Western world? Is there a deadly game going on between the planners of Russia and the planners of the free world? Is the stake in that game the freedom of all mankind? These are serious questions and deserve the dedicated, intense study of all Americans.

Recently, the First Secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington was seen on a talk program on a local television station in Tennessee. He seemed quite confident that Russia was succeeding through the world in every way. Then he was asked this question: "Is Russia trying to increase inflation by running up prices in necessities? Is not Russia now practicing robber-baron capitalism by ignoring the UN embargo on Rhodesian chrome and then selling that chrome to the United States at greatly inflated prices; and by forcing the Arab states to sell to Russia oil at $8.00 per barrel, which Russia then sells to the United States and other free world countries at $17.50 per barrel; and finally by buying U. S. wheat at very low prices and then reselling it (some even back to the United States) at more than three times the buying price?"

He Was Confused
It was evident the question upset the Russian Communist. He finally denied the chrome and oil sales, but admitted the wheat deals with these words: "Just because we have learned to be sharp traders, doesn't mean we have adopted capitalism."

This act of the Communists to stoke the fires of inflation doesn't hurt the Russian economy for there is not the same relation between price and supply in a Communist country as there is in a free economy. For example, there have been almost annual wheat and grain shortages in Russia ever since the revolution of 1917. Russian farmers revolted against losing their land to the state and their freedom to the Communists right off the bat. They refused to produce and food became very scarce in Russia. The Communists really didn't worry about it, for they had all the guns, they took all the food, and they could care less about the protests of peasants. They did not have summit conferences to try and decide what to do about the food shortages. They did nothing and millions of Russians starved to death.

In the energy crisis of last year and the present one of this year, there is no denying that the United States continued to receive oil from the Persian Gulf oil producing countries. But there was an embargo on selling to the United States by the Arab countries. How did we get it? When the price went up to everybody else, the price to Russia stayed at $3.00 per barrel, but the price Russia charged the United States went as high as $17.50 per barrel.

Due to all the other increases in prices, the spiral of inflation has continued to climb. One national columnist back in the Summer of 74 stated categorically that it was the money in the Arab nations which had the sugar market cornered. The more than 300 percent increase in the price of sugar has increased the price of everything sweet. More recently Russia is reported to have made a very big purchase of sugar in the Philippine Islands. This will further drive up the price of sugar in the free world.

Then there came the panicky crisis of food . . . and the economic war was going exactly as the Kremlin evidently wished, with the added bonus of a psychological dread and fear of depression, hunger, and joblessness in the hearts of the American people. I would say, we have been softened up pretty well from many different angles.

We have noted before, in recent months there has been one common problem seriously threatening the governments of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Greece, Canada, and the United States, along with some other small world nations. The problem is and continues to be inflation. That inflation is not running so harmfully through the iron curtain countries. There the control of inflation is simple . . . eat less, wear less, drink less and work more and produce more . . . all at the point of a gun.

American Aid To Russia

Now, back to the important question of the help Russia has been getting from U. S. officials, in this matter of fueling the fires of U. S. inflation. Not only has Russia had and continues to have important advantages in essential products not available elsewhere such as chrome, but in oil, food and other materials which influence every facet of American life. What is more important, officials of the United States government insist on forcing the American taxpayer to subsidize these transactions by our financing the Communists in almost everything they do. We finance their purchase of American wheat at 6 per cent interest, which is much below the market rate. American dollars through the Export - Import Bank and other International banking institutions such as the World Bank, are subsidizing the exploration and development of oil and natural gas fields in Siberia. This aiding a dangerous enemy which is seeking our destruction is indefensible. It is a strange foreign policy. It could mean that America is much more infiltrated with Communists in influential places than most Americans suspect. There must be some explanation for the many unreasonable things America has continued to do for Russia during and ever since World War II, while Russia all the while announces her determination to destroy all capitalist nations and to create a Communist world.

PERSPECTIVES IN LEARNING

By Hazel Brown, President
Harry Lundberg School
The Critical Years

The most important educational discoveries made during the 20th century are in the area of early childhood learning. There is strong evidence that the capacity to learn can be increased during the very early years of life. Psychologists have been finding through recent research that the intelligence quotient (IQ) is not fixed but can be increased if satisfactory learning programs exist during the first five years of life.

It is during these early years that parental love and caring is so very important. Early childhood is a period during which emotional security is essential. Parents need to make their youngsters feel accepted and relaxed so that learning is encouraged in an atmosphere of few fears and anxieties. The warmth and love that parents can give their youngsters during these early years can make them feel safe in the world of newness and capable of exploration, curiosity and discovery.

Many psychologists are saying that the youngster's intellectual potential has been developed by the time he is of school age. If this is true, the parents' role is one of great significance. The home environment in which the child lives before he enters the first grade, therefore, plays a very important role in his future.

Parents should take this responsibility for building basic intellectual potential seriously. Providing and nurturing learning experiences during early childhood could be the difference between developing average or creative children. The home must become a learning laboratory in which

PIZZA SPORTS A NEW LOOK

What does the word "pizza" bring to mind? Visions of that delectable Italian pie, smothered in tomato sauce, laden with melted cheese. It was just such a pie that turned King Ferdinand, of 16th century Italy, into a pizza fan. So enamored was he by the Neapolitan pie, that he retained a special pizza chef to bake for him and his court.

Ferdinand's favorite food is still popular today, but now there's a version to rival it... Meatza. Pizza. It's not a traditional pizza; not quite a meat loaf. It's a meaty pizza using ground beef in place of the bread dough crust. For those interested in economy (and who isn't these days?), the recipe is just as good when made with a ground beef-veal mixture.

To make Meatza Pizza, just mix ground beef or ground beef-veal mixture with other ingredients and pat into a 10-inch circle. Bake for 15 minutes then spoon on Condensed Tomato Soup, made from juicy red tomatoes. Top with Mozzarella cheese and bake an additional 5 minutes. What could be easier... or more delicious?

MEATZA PIZZA

1 can (10 3/4 ounces) Condensed Tomato Soup	1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 pounds ground beef or ground beef-veal mixture	1 medium clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs	1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
1/4 cup finely chopped onion	3 slices (3 ounces) Mozzarella or mild process cheese
1 egg, slightly beaten

Place a 16-inch long sheet of aluminum foil (double thickness or heavy duty) on a baking sheet, turning up edges and sealing corners to hold drippings. Mix thoroughly 1/2 cup soup with all ingredients except cheese. Pat evenly on baking sheet into 10-inch circle with 1-inch stand-up rim. Bake at 450°F. for 15 minutes. Spoon off fat. Spread remaining soup on meat; top with cheese. Sprinkle with additional oregano. Bake 5 minutes more. Cut into wedges and serve. Makes 6 servings.

BUILDING A BETTER WORLD

HOW AMERICAN BUSINESSES HELP DEVELOPING COUNTRIES DEVELOP

From a speech by C. Jan Bubela, Vice President of the Grace Ore and Mining Company, a division of W.R. Grace & Co.

In business today, we are well aware of the importance of healthy development of those countries engaged in narrowing the gap between their expectations and their present standards of living. This requires investment capital from various sources:

their own governments, though all but oil-producing countries find this hard; local business, which usually has insufficient capital; foreign aid, grants or loans, an unhealthy phenomenon often creating animosity; commercial bank loans which are expensive and hard to get; and direct foreign investment that's unpopular due to emotional nationalism.

While countries should try tapping all these sources, the amount of investment capital a country can absorb is limited by resources, labor and market conditions. What is often misunderstood is the investor's decision making process. A series of factors are examined which determine the investment climate: the prospective recipient's political, economic and social structure, current and future. If the government is Marxist, the legal system can't guarantee justice; the bureaucracy is restrictive; tax rates are too high; the general economic situation is poor; laws regarding foreign ownership are unacceptable or the country has a record of expropriation of foreign interests; it is considered to have a negative investment climate. No matter how profitable the project or important the product to be produced, the investment won't be considered. It is often nationalism that precludes foreign investment. Emotionally, this sentiment is understandable but economically, it slows down development. There are romantic notions of the "sinister" intentions of multi-national corporations. Actually, their interests in a developing country are those of any investor: to run an efficient operation and make a profit, and not get involved in politics. The multi-national realizes he must be a good citizen in the host country. Frequently, workers employed by multi-nationals receive better treatment than those working for nationals. W.R. Grace & Co., multi-national corporation, is engaged in chemicals, consumer products and natural resources in 39 countries. Grace employs 75,000 people of which 32,000 are overseas with fewer than 50 Americans employed abroad. Grace shares are traded in New York, London, Paris and Frankfurt and in the future, may be traded on the exchanges of Iran, Indonesia or any country with an organized financial market. While the developing countries are heading in a restrictive nationalist direction, the ownership and management of multi-nationals is progressively more international. This should eventually end any idea that they're extensions of "American imperialism."

Unfortunately, some countries insist on national control of at least 51 percent, a major obstacle to investment when it is often difficult to find nationals willing and able to invest the required capital. The greatest detriment to foreign investment is the threat of nationalization, the insecurity of negotiated contracts and the high taxes many countries impose that practically cancel profits.

The problem is finding a common ground between national interests and aspirations and providing incentive for foreign investment. Developing countries often believe they're being cheated because of their lack of knowledge and experience of international investment markets. There are two ways to improve their knowledge: by sending key government people to study foreign industrial and banking institutions, and by hiring foreign business consultants.

Essentially, developing countries have a choice to make: stable, reasonable policies that will put them on the road to prosperity or restrictions and unchecked emotional nationalism which will hinder their progress and maintain them in poverty. I hope their decision will help us increase the flow of investments to them in the future.

Mount To Perform "Dickens" Musical

In the world of college theatre, where favorites like "Charley's Aunt" and "Oklahoma" perennially find their way to the stage, producing an original musical generates a lot of excitement.

That's true, at least, at Mount Saint Mary's College this month as students rehearse "Dickens," a fast-paced musical, written and scored by two Mount professors. The play, which opens on campus on Friday, January 31, will run for three straight nights.

The book and lyrics were written by Phillip E. Wychodzki, a three-time Emmy Award winner and now a professor in the Mount's Fine Arts Department. The music was composed by Lewis W. McAllister, Chairman of the department, and musical director for Sock 'N Buskin, the campus drama society.

A musical biography of Charles Dickens, the prolific writer of Victorian England, the musical is historically factual without being cumbersome. It combines song and dance in a delightful tour of nineteenth-century London.

After researching the life of Dickens, Wychodzki comments, "I fell in love with Dickens. He had such energy. He was continually writing but still had a full social life."

The play portrays Dickens, played by Dan Noll, as a charming rogue and successful man-about-town, who is adored by Londoners in the musical's rousing opening number, "It's By Boz and Phiz." A song sung later by Dickens, "What Is It I Want?" focuses on the key conflict of the play, namely the author's felt frustration that in spite of fame and fortune he is missing something in life. In the course of his career he turns from his wife, Kate, played by Vicki Cosentino, and finds fleeting satisfaction in a love affair with Ellen Ternan, played by Jackie Bilz. Neither the affair nor his success as a writer and actor give him the exact fulfillment he seeks. At the play's end as he sings "Great Expectations," Dickens has not resolved his frustrations but neither has he given up the search.

Supporting Dickens in his ups and downs are his collaborator, Phiz, played by Hugh Breslin, and his best friend, John Forster, played by Leonard Knight.

Other characters are: Crampton, played by Bernie Delia; Chapman by Jay Powell; Hall by Mark Infusino; Seymour and Ainsworth by Tom Wittington; Lyle and Wilkie Collins by Karl Chudnoc; Matreedy by Doug Kent; Fagin by Joseph DiStanislaw; William Makepeace Thackeray by Steve Colferai; Grandfather and Stage Manager by Brian Sugrue; and Doctor and Prince Albert by James Parker.

Also, Georgina Hogarth by Monique Fouant; Bea by Nora Ann Ligorano; Claire by Katie Marshall; Maria Beadnell and Queen Victoria by Maryanne Solak; Edmund Yates by Mario Ligorano; George Frock by Irving McCrae; Street Vendor by Barbara Betzler; and Oriental Girls by Barbara Bathon, Mary Hupfer, Melinda Ingram and Colleen Long.

Musical accompaniment will be provided by Prof. McAllister on piano; John Chenoweth, lead guitar; John Spielberger, bass guitar, and Mike Rhoades, percussion.

Additional members of the cast are: Stage Manager, Steve R. Colferai; Costume Consultant, Nancy McAllister; Scenic Designers, Ed Horn & Nora Ligorano; Interior Setting, Mario Ligorano; Technical Director and Light Designer, Ed Horn; Construction and Lights, John Martiny, John Jaffee and Mark Infusino.

Also, Publicity, Monique Fouant and Barbara Betzler; Properties, Mario Ligorano; Paint Foreman, Nora Ligorano; Costume Executors, Barbara Bathon and Colleen Long; Make-Up, Jay Powell; and House Manager, Roni Martin.

Performances will start at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, January 31, Saturday, February 1, and Sunday, February 2, in Flynn Hall on campus. Admission is free and open to the public. Contributions will be accepted.

The committee will be known as the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Operations. Mathias was named to serve on the committee by Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott (R-Pa.). Other Republicans named were Sens. John G. Tower (Tex.), Barry M. Goldwater (Ariz.), Richard Schweiker (Pa.), and Howard H. Baker, Jr. (Tenn.).

Six Democrats, to be named by Mansfield, also will serve on the committee.

Saving Maryland's Farms

Maryland is losing about 35,000 acres of farmland every year, according to the Maryland Environmental Trust. We have some of the best farmland in the country, but we have lost more than 17 percent of it in the last decade.

One of the reasons is that federal laws affecting farmland and other open space actually provide an incentive for development of the land for other uses. Land is valued for estate tax purposes according to its worth as a possible shopping center or industrial park site.

This means that heirs who wish to continue farming often are unable to do so. Instead, they must sell the land to pay the taxes based on its speculative value.

I have introduced a bill in the Senate, similar to legislation I sponsored last year with the support of other members of the Maryland Congressional delegation, to remedy this situation. It would bring about a change in federal estate tax laws so that farmland may pass to heirs without the burden of crushing estate tax bills that might require the land to be sold.

My proposal would follow the example of many state and local governments by allowing farmland to be assessed according to its value as farmland as long as it continues to be used in that manner. Otherwise, the federal government will continue to help speculators drive the family farm out of business, and we all suffer from the loss of farmland and open space.

To qualify for the special tax treatment provided in the bill, inheritors of farms must continue to use the land for farming or as open space. Otherwise, it becomes subject to a higher tax. The bill allows the government to recapture taxes should the land be sold later at a value above its assessed value as farmland, to prevent speculators from taking advantage of a measure intended to protect lands from development.

The bill also would protect sites listed in the National Register of Historic Places by providing a similar mechanism to relieve heirs of crushing inheritance taxes based on a speculative development value. The special tax treatment would continue as long as the site continues to meet the standards for remaining on the National Register.

This proposal last year won the endorsement of the Maryland Farm Bureau, the Maryland Environmental Trust and the Maryland Historical Trust. I am hopeful that I will win Congressional approval in the current session.

FARM CENSUS TIME AGAIN—Farmers and ranchers throughout the United States are being asked to report on their agricultural operations during 1974. The 1974 Census of Agriculture is the 20th nationwide farm census since the first one in 1840. Report forms are mailed out in January and the Bureau of the Census would like to have them filled out and mailed back promptly. All information is confidential by law. The results, published only in statistical form, provide the yardstick by which American agricultural advancement is measured every five years. No information can be released which might reveal the operation of an individual farmer or rancher.

NEWS OF ENERGY
HOW THE SUN CAN CUT YOUR FUEL BILLS

What would you say to an entire winter's heating bill of $24 for a four bedroom home in Baltimore, Md.? The family must have frozen to death, right? Wrong! Harry Thomason, a patent attorney from Washington, D.C. can prove it.

That's all Harry paid to heat his home last winter. And that $24 was to fire a standby system, because actually his energy supply is free — solar energy from the sun.

Soon the sun may shine on all your fuel bill woes since solar energy can reduce by 75% what it costs to warm your house in winter, and heat your water. And this heating revolution could come within five years for new home buyers.

Even now, a lucky few around the country are basking in warmth from their homemade solar energy systems. These systems catch the sun's heat — usually by using glass panels over aluminum sheets or tubes filled with water and ethyl glycol. The hot liquid is stored and pumped around the house to distribute heat as needed.

After one sunny day the stored up solar heat will last up to three days and if the clouds persist, a standby furnace takes over. Although experts believe solar heating is most efficient south of 40° latitude (or in the southern half of the U.S.), a homeowner should be able to use it effectively in northern New York State and southern Minnesota.

The increased cost to a new home builder for such a system is estimated at $1,500 to $6,000 — a sum soon paid back by lowered fuel costs. Although it will be easiest to design into a new home, it sometimes may be possible to add solar heat to an older house. What's required to install such a system in your home is that your roof face south and have a fairly steep slope.

Glass or plastic covers the aluminum like a big picture window to hold the heat in as the fluid runs from the pipe down the aluminum, gathering heat.

The heated fluid flows through another pipe back to a storage tank — then is distributed through the house by usual means.

Perhaps you too will sometime soon be realizing the age-old dream of capturing power from the sun. If so, you'll also be realizing a way to stay comfortable all year while saving our energy supplies. A happy thought to let the sun shine in on.
