Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Through the well-established grapevine, I've discovered that Rainbow Lake reservoir has many uses other than the obvious one of holding the town's water supply. Local young people have found that when there's water in the lake—it makes an apparently good place to ice skate in the winter.

I say "apparently," because in fact, it isn't. I'm not holding the kids responsible (for I understand one town leader gave them tacit approval to skate there). I realize no one gave any thought at the time to the fact that the water in Rainbow Lake, frozen or not, eventually ends up in our drinking glasses.

I'm not one of those environmentalists who might say ice skating pollutes the water, but I know that where people congregate, especially for a good time, they tend to leave "souvenirs" behind... bottles, cans, wrappers, and so forth. Then, of course, there are no bathrooms up there (and I dare say that won't stop anyone).

My real concern, however, is the potential danger of skating on Rainbow Lake. After all, it's a fairly deep body of water, and from what I've been told, the layer of ice that covered it this weekend was not enough to safely support the 25 to 30 skaters who were on it. And I wonder whose idea it was to build a fire out on the ice?

There are a couple ponds in Emmitsburg that might be better suited for group skating. Might be worthwhile to check into those.

That "fact-finding" committee I mentioned last week met with the sisters at the Provincial House and discussed with them the plans each has developed for the future development of the town. The committee hasn't officially reported to the town council, yet, but I understand their fact finding paid off with a few surprises. Could it be the sisters have considered selling off some of their land to commercial developers? I suppose I'll have to wait 'til the next town meeting to find out just what those surprises are.

That brings something else to mind: Ramada Inn. Mean anything to you? Looks like I'll have to pick some more fruit off that grapevine I mentioned earlier.

Buddy Poppy Queen Contest Feb. 21

The Ladies Auxiliary to Emmitsburg Memorial Post 6658, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is sponsoring a Buddy Poppy Queen Contest on Friday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m., in the Auxiliary Room of the Post Home, Queen contest rules include: 1) Contestant must be at least 16 years of age and not older than 18 years of age; 2) Have knowledge of Buddy Poppies; 3) Dress for the contest is optional; and 4) All contestants will be judged on Buddy Poppy knowledge, personality, poise, and appearance.

In April of 1915, a battle-weary Canadian soldier viewed the final resting place of thousands of young men who had fallen in the second battle of Ypres in Belgium. Dispondently, he contemplated the rows of hastily dug graves—each marked by a lonely white cross.

In a sudden revelation, he heard the singing of larks in the sky, and amid the graves he saw gay little patches of red—wild poppies, struggling through the battle-torn soil and through the clay mounds of the graves, to bring their message of life among death.

Inspired Col. John McCrae penned the three short verses of his famous poem, "In Flanders Fields". Although Col. McCrae never lived to see the end of World War I, his poem has survived print. The poppies which provided his inspiration still bloom in Flanders Field, but their message of hope has become reality thru

SJHS Girl Cagers Win Championship

St. Joseph's High School girls' basketball team captured the Blue Ridge Conference championship Tuesday by trouncing Prospect Hall, 57-15. Senior Lynne Phelan led the scoring with 23 points, and junior Elaine Hobbs had 16.

The Trojan girls played a shifting 1-3-1 defense with an effective press led by Colleen Devlin and Cindy Stewart. They also controlled the boards with Elaine Hobbs grabbing 20 rebounds and Joan Muir with 10. The winners cleared the bench in the easy victory.

An added dimension to the girls' win was the fact that their coach, Mary Martha McWilliams, was killed in an automobile accident in December. Mr. Lu Norris, acting coach since then, had this comment to make following the game:

"The league title is a fine tribute to the girls. They came back after the tragedy of Mrs. McWilliams' death with the determination to win. They all had a singleness of purpose—to play the games and win the championship for her. They earned it and they deserve it."

He added that during part of the season, the girls had to schedule and run their own practices, but that they were willing to work together for the good of the team.

This victory gave the Trojans a 7-1 league record, 8-3 for the season. Remaining games on the schedule are at Catoctin on Feb. 14, and Francis Scott Key on Feb. 19.

Letter To Editor

As tourists and visitors enter our town from Route 97 they see to their right a huge yellow house that retains only a small portion of the dignity and splendor it once possessed. In front of that house a sign reads: Future Site of SUPER THRIFT.

People of Emmitsburg have for long years pleaded for support of a town swimming pool and additional recreational facilities—and quite understandably so. Recently this dream has expanded into plans with a public park, including tennis courts and picnic areas. How is it that no use can be found for the grand old relic of our past that overlooks east Emmitsburg? Must we be lost in the mass of steel and neon that slowly suffocates our nation?

A sizable number of "city friends" who are familiar with my hometown have commented on its simple charm and memorable freshness. Considering their sincerely-spoken remarks and realization the uniqueness that abides in small towns, I shiver when I read the aforementioned sign.

Perhaps many citizens of our community assume their daily lives in oblivion of their fortune. I think not; I think that most appreciate the special atmosphere and take pride in it. If I am right, I cannot help but ask to what level of civilization have we ascended that we consent to mow down everything interfering with all that falls under the blanket term "progress." While I do not oppose a new store, I wonder whether it is really a necessity for which such a high cost must be paid. Do the people of Emmitsburg merely accept the fact that they must relinquish a fine architectural specimen without a murmur?

After reading the small article which appeared several weeks ago (in the Abigail column) in the Chronicle, I concluded that someone may share my convictions. Somehow I cannot believe that no one cares, anymore than I can envision that hill without the house.

The Proclamations form a series of presentations, which Canon Green will relate the Gospel to everyday living by preaching, teaching, and song. Although it is hoped that all people will be able to attend the entire series, it is possible to attend only one or two, as each evening will be complete in itself. Local Episcopal Clergy will be on hand to welcome and assist those attending.

Canon Green has set as one of his goals in the Mission the deepening of spiritual life of individuals and parishes. ## VA Questionnaire Must Be Returned Veterans Administration pensioners who failed to return a required income questionnaire mailed to them in November face a possible delay in their February pension checks.

VA Regional Office Director, Thomas H. Price, Jr., explained that the questionnaires are required by law. Income questionnaires are sent to veterans receiving pensions based on non-service-connected disabilities, to widows, to widowers of veterans who died of non-service connected causes, and to certain parents of veterans killed in service. Pensioners whose beneficiaries are based on income, and eligibility must be established each year. Persons over 72 years old are exempt from filing the questionnaires if they have been receiving benefits two years or more. They must report changes that might occur in income, however.

Mr. Price said that response to the questionnaire this year has been the best ever. More than 1.2 million were sent nationwide with the November checks, and al but 120,000 had been returned by January 15. Return was requested for January 1.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Population Slowdown Begins To Pinch

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., February 13, 1975—As birth and fertility rates in the U. S. hover at historically low levels, business and government should pay more attention to demographic trends and their implications. Failure to do so could prove costly to the economy, national security, and social security.

Of course, our population will continue to grow for some decades to come as births exceed deaths. But if the current trend continues, we could reach zero population growth well within the lifetime of youngsters now in grammar school. That may seem a long way into the future, but it is the continuing trend that poses the threat.

Early Impact

We have already seen what the birth decline has meant for baby foods, toys, children's clothing, and school supplies. Slowing demand is also being felt in certain teen-age markets. Both public and private education—especially at pre-college levels—has been markedly influenced by these swings in age-group numbers.

Population growth changes usually occur very slowly, but cutbacks in the birthrate in the late 1960s and early 1970s were faster than most demographers had expected. Repercussions are being felt in almost all segments of society, and they would be sharper were it not for the fact that the number of women of child-bearing age is now quite large. In fact, if these women were to have as many children as their mothers did, the U. S. population would quickly soar.

New Age Mix

But what we have now is a large group of people in their 30s or younger who have opted for far fewer babies and seem likely to stick to their decision. This means that well before the century's end the median age of the population will have risen so much that primarily we will be a country of middle-aged people, and a country of old people before we are very far into the 21st century.

Since the bulk of business productivity is the work of those under 65, the higher the median age of our population the more our production in real terms will shrink. This will up costs and further reduce the buying power of wages. Long term, it will decrease demand for autos and houses while it opens up vast new markets for the kind of products an aging population will require and/or desire.

National Security

All this poses new questions for business and government. Advocates of birth control or stricter family planning say that fewer mouths to feed will save sagging food supplies, lower consumption, assure less pollution. But if people consume, they also produce. Fewer people will not mean more wealth for those who remain. Population reduction may appear to solve a host of problems, but there is a growing suspicion that solution is only for the short term.

In the long run, vast new problems will be created, not the least of which could be the disruption of our tax base and the dilution of our national defense. The whole course of our country's history could be changed. Present sufficiency of armed force enlistments under a voluntary plan might have to give way to compulsory military service for both men and women. Even that might have to be augmented by the hiring of mercenary troops—if we could afford them.

Social Security

The most widely felt impact of population aging could be breakdown of the social security system, since it is neither prudently managed nor backed by ample funds. Financially shaky, its liabilities only dimly understood, SS has kept functioning because new members of the work force have been numerous enough and the economy flexible enough to replenish funds paid out. As the falling birth rate leads to an older population mix, SS will sink into deeper trouble from which even heavy Treasury financing may not be able to rescue it.

Adult Ed. Learning Center For E-Burg?

Dr. Robert Smith, supervisor of Adult Education for Frederick County, addressed the annual meeting of the Emmitsburg Lifelong Learning Council on the possibility of opening a constant learning center in Emmitsburg. Such a center would be open and supervised on a regular schedule each week and would provide learning resources for the community. These would include special machines as learning aides.

Dr. Smith asked if Council members feel such a center is needed and would be utilized in Emmitsburg. The answer was generally affirmative and the possibility will be further explored.

Mrs. Ann Marshall, president of ELLC, summarized the activities of 1974. Twenty-three classes were given in the two semester. They include hobby and skill courses as well as Adult Basic Education classes and GED (preparation for the High School Equivalent Exams). More short courses of 4 to 6 weeks were offered than in past schedules.

A program of cooperation with Mount St. Mary's College was begun and resulted in two college-level courses being offered at nominal prices on a non-credit basis. A workshop of review for the CLEP tests was another innovation. Sister Grace, curriculum chairperson, reported to the Council that a course in upholstery has been added to the Spring schedule. There has been a demand for some sort of weight control class and the Council has inquired in progress about setting up such a class.

The Council has been asked to cooperate in sponsoring a workshop on alcoholism in October. This workshop will bring a nationally-known speaker to Emmitsburg as keynote. It is projected as an all-day conference for professional and lay people interested in helping alcoholics. Mount St. Mary's Seminary will be one of the primary sponsors and several other community groups may be involved. The ELLC agreed to cooperate in sponsoring the workshop for providing publicity.

Elections for 1975 were held with the following results:

President, Mrs. Ann Marshall; first vice president, Bernard Welty; second vice president, Sister Grace; secretary, Mrs. Sheila Chatlos; assistant secretary, Mrs. Clara Harner; treasurer, Joseph Zanella; and historian, Mrs. Lucille Beale.

Elected to a three-year term on the governing board were: Mrs. Clara Harner, Mrs. Mary Scott, Sister Grace, Bernard Welty and Mrs. Sheila Chatlos.

Mrs. Audrey Glass was appointed by the president to serve a two-year vacancy on the Board which was created by the resignation of Mrs. Mary Jo Wagerman. Mrs. Wagerman's resignation was accepted by the Board with thanks for her full-hearted participation in the past.

The Board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Mary Scott who has been active in the Council since its inception and has served as secretary from the beginning. The Board thanked Mrs. Scott for her many hours of volunteer effort as an officer of ELLC and expressed pleasure that she will continue her interest as a member of the governing board.

Other members of the governing board elected in previous years for three-year terms are: Norman Flax, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Mrs. Jane Orndorff, Mrs. Mariah Baker, Sister Mary John, Mrs. Dolores Henke, Sister Celestine, Joseph Zanella and Mrs. Ann Marshall.

Sen. Urges Fair Energy Program

By Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. A Fair And Responsive Energy Program

I am heartened by the candor and firmness displayed by the Administration in dealing with energy conservation.

But I am concerned that a number of the President's specific proposals will not accomplish their stated objective and, indeed, may be counterproductive in the long run.

The President's plan to increase import fees on oil and to lift domestic price controls are of particular concern, because these measures will reach every sector of the economy.

On a personal level, each of us will pay more for our energy resources and related products. The impact will be especially severe on low-and-middle-income Americans.

I believe it is important to concentrate our efforts in the near term on conserving energy in areas where meaningful savings can be realized. This means we must concentrate on the automobile.

Accordingly, I have urged President Ford to revamp his program so that it aims at sharp cutbacks in gasoline usage without increasing the price of home heating oil, other petroleum products, or utility rates.

The alternative program I have proposed would couple a higher gasoline tax with reduced income taxes and withholding rates.

I envision a gasoline tax that would significantly reduce consumption, along with a reduced payroll withholding system, with increased income supplements for those outside the tax system.

Thus, money taken out of the economy by the gas tax would be brought back in on a regular basis through reduced withholding of income taxes.

In this way, consumer buying power could increase, but the consumer would have a strong incentive not to buy gasoline.

I think this is a fair program that would have meaningful results. It would be responsive to our national needs with unduly complicating our already complex lives.

Perspectives In Learning

By Hazel Brown, President Harry Lundeberg School Teaching Your One Year Old

A child begins the learning process the day he is born. If the parents accept the role of the child's first teacher, there is every chance that the child will grow to be a healthy and intelligent child.

During the age of one, a child is usually capable of learning many things. He will begin to learn moods and be able to show how he feels by facial expressions, voice tones and words. If parents aren't careful about being positive, the word "no" may become a too frequently used one.

At this age, he becomes very aware of the surroundings and wants to see everything, throw things and experiment with dropping things. This is the time to give him articles which are nonbreakable such as wooden blocks and toys, plastic containers, kitchen items such as spoons, pans and lids, etc. He can then explore and experiment in an atmosphere of acceptance rather than always being scolded for touching items that are "untouchables."

Pets and animals are very important to a youngster at this age. He should be taught about animals and have the opportunity to see them and, whenever possible, touch them. If you are considering buying your child a pet, this age is not too early.

Age one is very important for speech and vocabulary development. He should learn about 20 to 40 words this year and should understand the meaning of at least 100 words. In teaching vocabulary, you should name items that are familiar to him. Please no baby talk! Using baby talk will only slow down the development of his speech.

Take time to have private conversations with your one year old. When talking to him, have him point to his shoe and say shoe. This activity can be used to teach many new words. Just one word of caution. Don't pressure! He will tire easily and must not be forced. Forcing the child to attend when he is tired will cause him to dislike the learning activities and your efforts may get negative results.

Variety is the way to teaching a one year old. You must keep him alert by changing the activity frequently. He must think the learning games are fun so that he will want to learn more and more.

Gossip would be less dangerous if there were more good people unwilling to believe it.

FIRE SAFETY COLUMN

(Prepared by the Fire Prevention Committee of the Frederick County Firemen's Association) Kitchen Fires

Many fires each year are caused by carelessness and forgetfulness in the kitchen. These fires often take the lives of the very young and the elderly people by burns, scalds and asphyxiation by smoke.

The unattended forgotten pan of food left on a stove or in an oven may very well burn and set your stove aflame. The use of deep fat for frying is another hazard, if the pan is filled too full, the fat bubbles over when the food is added, thus starting a fire.

Elderly people are more prone to forget they are cooking things and should never be left unwatched when they are in the kitchen. The small child left alone in a room, may climb and upset boiling pots from the stove, causing not only fire but serious injury or death to themselves.

When cooking, never leave the room without making sure your iron is off or unplugged, thus preventing the ironing board or floor from catching on fire if the iron should fall.

Always check gas stoves to be sure they are not turned on and left unlit. Make sure all stoves are lit rapidly to prevent flare ups. Be sure that deep well cookers, electric stoves and electric cooking appliances are not turned on and forgotten. Check all electric appliances to make sure they are working properly. Remember that defective or misused stoves and heaters are one of the worst fire hazards in the home.

Every kitchen should have a fire extinguisher placed in a manner in which it can be quickly put into service. Burner fires can also be put out with ordinary baking soda, so trying keeping a box near your stove. Another method of putting out burner fires is to place a pan lid, larger than your burner over the blaze and turning your stove off. Keep your kitchen Fire Safe.

Roman Empire Relived

Some people think the United States is moving along the same path as did the Roman Empire in its later days. There are some striking comparisons:

As the family, which was the basic unit of Roman civilization, fell into disrepair and moral degeneracy increased, Roman education was caught up in many so-called "progressive" changes. M. L. Clarke, in the book, Roman Civilization (p. 208), says: "The Roman schools did not profess to do anything more than inculcate a particular branch of learning. They did not claim to build character, to teach religion or patriotism or morality, and some ancient teachers were notoriously ill equipped for such teaching . . ."

Christianity became the most powerful religion in the Roman Empire. But it deteriorated rapidly after Emperor Constantine stopped all persecution and made Christianity popular in the early fourth Century. Historian E.B. Castle tells us that religion became a form with very little substance in the lives of the masses. Another historian says: "For the vast majority or ordinary men Christianity caused no fundamental change of attitude." (A. H. M. Jones, The Later Roman Empire, p. 1063)

William Stearns Davis, in his book The Influence Of Wealth In Imperial Rome, says: "The period of peace and prosperity brought many blessings; it made possible the greatest luxury, the most active commercial life the world ever saw."

"Believing Rome would always have peace and prosperity, men went on getting studying, enjoying, dissipating—doing everything except to prepare for defense, until Alaric sacked the Eternal City . . . and so the barbarians at length destroyed a society that was more slowly destroying itself. Dishonesty, Selfishness, And Greed

"The excessive desire for wealth without regard to methods, or to duty to posterity . . . the downright sensualities were accomplishing their work. The economic evil was at the bottom. First Italy, then a vast Empire, devoted itself for centuries to a feverish effort for getting money by any means, and to spending that money on selfish enjoyments. Other things went for little . . ."

Daniel P. Mannix wrote a book entitled Those About To Die, in which he contrasts the economic position of modern America with Rome in efforts to maintain peace in the world. He wrote: "In a sense, the Roman people were trapped. Rome had over-extended herself. She had become, as much by accident as design, the dominant nation in the world."

"The cost of maintaining the Peace of Rome . . . over most of the known world was proving too great even for the enormous resources of the mighty empire."

"The cost of its gigantic military program was only one of Rome's headaches. To encourage industry in her various satellite nations, Rome attempted a policy of unrestricted trade, but the Roman workingman was unable to compete with the cheap foreign labor and demanded high tariffs . . . The government was finally forced to subsidize the Roman working class to make up the difference between their 'real wages' and the wages required to keep up their relatively high standard of living."

"As a result, thousands of workmen lived on this subsidy and did nothing whatever, sacrificing their standard of living for a life of ease."

The Roman Empire also experienced a mania for gambling and pornography. Listen to Carcopino (pp. 220-221) "But the passionate devotion which they (the charioteers) inspired in a whole people was fed also from more taint-ed sources. It was related to the passion for gambling . . ."

"The victory of one chariot enriched some, impoverished others: the hope of winning unearned money held the Roman crowd all the more tyrannically in its grip even though the larger proportion was unemployed. The rich would stake a fortune, the poor the last penny."

As for pornography, Myers, in his book, Rome, It's Rise and Fall, (pp. 515, 516) tell us: "Almost from the beginning the Roman stage was gross and immoral. It was one of the main agencies to which must be attributed the undermining of the originally sound moral life of Roman Society."

Is America now where Rome was then.

Briefly, let us look at what growing taxes and inflation did to farming in the Roman Empire. Then as now, the small farmer was driven from his land.

"The big farmers could undersell him, both in cattle and in produce, in the market. The result was that in course of time, the small, independent farmer was driven to the wall". (James Westfall Thompson, Economic and Social History of the Middle Ages, p. 33)

The Romans even gave America the idea for our copper-nickel "sandwich" coins. Listen to historian Balsdon: "By the third quarter of the third century, the silver coins had become copper pieces washed in silver and issues of gold had virtually ceased. There was a vast inflation; by the end of the third century prices had risen to two hundred times those of the second century level" (Roman Civilization, edited by J. P. V. D. Balsdon, p. 73).

Is America where the Roman Empire was in the third century?

Ultimately, the ancient practice of modern Keynesian economics, put from one third to one half of the entire population of Rome on welfare.

As H. J. Haskell puts it: " . . . The history of the decline carries a warning . . . Even under the Empire it became a permanently demoralizing factor in the social and economic life of the people."

Is America now where the Roman Empire was as it approached the end?

The three great principles upon which America built were Faith in God, Constitutional Government, and Private Enterprise. We must restore faith in all three.

Some people believe that laurel leaves can cure madness.

PRE-STORM STOCK-UP
Prepare for a storm-caused power failure by collecting most of the necessary items to keep you comfortable and put them in an out-of-the-way spot until they're needed. This way, you won't use your supplies before the emergency.
Store small items in a picnic basket or a box with a closable lid. These include:
* Several flashlights with fresh batteries so you can light a few rooms at a time.
* A supply of unspoilable food: canned soups, dried fruits, instant tea and coffee, sealed packages of crackers, dried milk, a cream substitute, a jar of peanut butter.

* Dixie paper plates, bowls and cups to brighten your simple meals and eliminate any need for clean-up.
* Large, slow-burning candles with safe, flat holders, and matches in a metal container so they'll be dry and usable.
A small stove run on canned heat will cook simple one-pot meals for you.
Make sure you know the best information station on your portable radio and keep some extra batteries in stock.

Beat The Fashion Frizzies And Be An Old Smoothie On A Penny-Wise Budget!

"Rich" is a look, not a position in life, and it doesn't take high finance to give every prospective style-setter a seemingly extravagant, high fashion wardrobe by doing a little arithmetic.
One and one doesn't always make two. Our new math tells us that if you buy a two piece pantsuit, you may have a lovely, two piece pantsuit, but you don't need to stop there. That same pantsuit can take on a different look with the addition of a crisp, color-coordinated blouse. Not different enough? Keep right on going.
Take the same, bright jacket, put it together with a perky, pleated skirt, add a soft, fresh scarf at the neck, and you've got an entirely new, dressy look... and only your closet will know for sure that you don't have two completely separate outfits.
"This is the time to WIN," advises Elizabeth Erotas, fashion director for Queen's-Way of Fashion of Niles, Illinois, a leading direct selling firm featuring fashions and accessories for women, men and children. "Put your fashion dollar to work by using your imagination to mix and match one pantsuit into several impressive take-you-everywhere outfits."
One pair of slacks, teamed up with a sweater, blouse, jacket or halter top, in an array of matching or contrasting colors, can fool even Mother Nature into thinking you've got a trunk full of fascinating fashions. Then let your imagination take over with the top half of your pantsuit, and blend it with other slacks, shorts, long or short skirts, or just wear it as is, over a dress. No need to go on a shopping spree when you can coordinate just one pantsuit and last year's wardrobe into dozens of brand-new-looking, original creations.

Adorn yourself in a designer look highlighting your own personal fashion flair, and emerge as a model of high style in fashion ensembles created especially for Ms. Jones by Ms. Jones.

APPLE FACTS ENIGMAS "As American as apple pie," the saying goes, and the apple pie probably IS the country's favorite. But the apple can be used in many other bakery forms: apple upside down cake, apple dumplings, apple strudel, apple muffins, apple pancakes, applesauce cake and many delicious others. Thriftily, apples require little or no sugar in cooking. Too much spoils natural flavor and makes them mushy.

Apple varieties do not grow true from seed. Consequently, each seedling rootstock has to be grafted with live buds of the desired variety. Varieties have been perpetuated for hundreds of years by grafting buds from old trees to young trees.

The pectin in apples helps keep the cholesterol count down, and many doctors believe this to be a big boon to your heart.

Imagine picking 270 bushels of apples in eight hours. Harold Oaks, 22, did it on Sept. 30, 1972, at his father's ranch in Hood River, Oregon. It's the best performance on record. He didn't even stop to take a delicious bite.

The scope of a man's mind is accurately indicated by the type of honor that he cherishes.

Letter To Editor

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: THANKS! THANK YOU! THANK YOU-I wish I could say "Thank You" 250,000 times because that is how many children are born less than perfect in our country each year.

THANKS TO OUR CAPTAINS! Our gratitude cannot be measured in words. I know you spent many hours on the telephone recruiting "marchers" and, in many cases, assumed additional, unexpected duties. Accepting the duty of a Mother's March Captain not only shows you want to help, but it shows that you care.

THANKS TO ALL MARCHERS! The love and concern for the future health of America's next generation which you've displayed by battling ice, snow and cold is truly the kind of love given to us freely by our God. Yours was a difficult task, but you did it willingly out of love for your fellow human beings and a desire to "Give the Gift of Health to America's Next Generation."

THANKS TO OUR CONTRIBUTORS! I am sure that it must warm your heart to know that you have helped to open a door of hope for thousands of birth defect children and their parents. Our National Chairman, Beverly Sills, once said that the heart of the matter motivating the Mother's March is the dream of whole and healthy, brave and beautiful babies to inherit the earth. You have helped to make that dream come true.

In past years, it has been our custom to send individual Thank You Letters to businesses who support us with their gifts, as well as private clubs and individuals who were extremely generous with large contributions. Due to the constantly rising costs of printing and postage, we also use this means of extending our most sincere gratitude to you. It is our wish that you realize we don't appreciate your gift less, but rather, feel it is our duty to put as much of your contribution to work in Research on Birth Defects as possible. We're certain you will agree.

Last, but by no means least, we extend our appreciation to the Frederick News-Post, Brunswick Citizen, Catoctin Enterprise, Community Reporter, Emmitsburg Chronicle, Frederick County Sentinel, and the Valley Register, plus Radio Stations WFMD, WFRE, WMHI, WTRI and WTHU for announcing pre-march information. Through your efforts many ladies and gentlemen heard about the Mother's March and called to volunteer their services. We would never have known about them, nor they about us, had it not been by the way of the news media in Frederick County.

Again, sincere thanks to anyone who played any part in the success of the Mother's March on Birth Defects. May God surely bless you and yours with good health and happiness. Gratefully, A. Irvin Renn Campaign Chairman, 1975 March of Dimes

YOUR VETERINARIAN SPEAKS

Infectious Hepatitis Nearly 75% of all dogs under one year of age are exposed to a highly contagious virus disease known as infectious hepatitis. The disease is not known to affect humans but dogs of all ages may contract it.

The death rate among puppies is usually high, according to the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association. Among older dogs, only about 10% of those who contract hepatitis will die.

Effective and safe vaccines will provide maximum protection against the disease. Vaccinated dogs rarely, if ever, contract hepatitis. Not all dogs are vaccinated and unfortunately, many die.

The first stage of hepatitis is difficult to recognize because the symptoms closely resemble those of a cold, canine distemper and leptospirosis. The dog may cough, wheeze, have a poor appetite, have a fever, and often, diarrhea. A veterinarian should be called at once.

After the disease is well advanced, other symptoms may include an intense thirst, bloodshot or jaundiced appearing eyes with a watery discharge, and swelling of the head, neck, and lower part of the abdomen.

Hepatitis usually attacks suddenly and severely. Quite often dogs contracting the disease die within a few hours after symptoms first appear unless veterinary care is undertaken at once.

The pet owner should not wait until hepatitis strikes. Vaccination that provides lasting immunization may be given at any time after 10 weeks of age. Single and combination distemper-hepatitis vaccines are now available and it is wise to have your dog revaccinated yearly for continuous protection.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. Is it possible to appeal a Medicare claim?

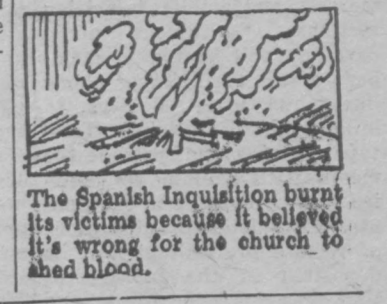

If you disagree with a decision on the amount of Medicare will pay on a claim or whether services you received are covered by Medicare, you always have the right to ask for a review of the decision. Under Medicare's hospital insurance, the health facility that provides the services submits the claim for payment. But, Medicare will send you a notice of the decision made on the claim. If you feel that the decision is not correct, you can ask for a review of the claim. Any social security office can help you request a review. If you are still not satisfied after the review and if the amount in question is $100 or more, you can ask for a formal hearing. Cases that involve $1,000 or more can eventually be appealed to a Federal Court.

What was the final authorization figure for the emergency railroad aid bill that just passed the Senate?

Last week the Senate amended the 1973 Regional Rail Reorganization Act to authorize increased financial assistance to railroads in the northeast and midwest. The bill would authorize an additional $150-million in federally guaranteed loans and $125-million in grants. How many people voted in the 1974 election? According to the Census Bureau, of 141 million persons aged 18 or over, only 62 per cent registered to vote and only 45 per cent went to the polls. This turnout was 18 percentage points lower than in 1972.

Beall Says Yes To Senae TV Coverage

Citing the decline of the public's confidence in the workings of Congress in recent years, Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) is co-sponsoring legislation that will open up actual sessions of the Senate to radio and television coverage.

The bill, to take effect as soon as possible this year, will at first provide continuous video feed to monitors in several locations in the buildings of Congress. After a 60-day trial period, the coverage will be extended to commercial and public television stations. Continuous audio coverage will be fed to Members offices via existing phone lines, and after 30 days, to broadcasting stations. Teletype machines will provide the media with running summaries of floor debates in the Senate. All video and audio tapes of Senate proceedings will be deposited in the Library of Congress for educational and historical reference. At the close of the first session of the 94th Congress, the bill calls for an evaluation of the effects of the coverage on the Senate, and the response of the public.

Senator Beall points out that the proposal has been carefully researched for possible problems, and that it offers safeguards against commercialism and other abuses of the live or taped sessions. "The purpose of this experiment," says Beall, "is to better acquaint Americans with their Senator's activities and the issues being debated on the floor of the Senate. Hopefully, this increased familiarity with the processes of government will boost confidence in Congress, while making Senators more accountable to their constituents."

Asking for media coverage of Congressional proceedings underlines Senator Beall's previous calls to "put government back in the sunshine." In addition to this bill, the Maryland Senator is also co-sponsoring a measure to open up Senate committee hearings to the public.

FOCUS on FUN

WINTER'S BEST-KEPT SECRETS

If visions of unhurried, undiscovered vacation paradises dance in your head, you're ripe to share some best-kept secrets of winter travel. Color photographs can preserve those vacation memories.

St. John in the United States Virgin Islands offers low-cost camping. Here the snorkeler will find an underwater fantasy world. For the hotel lodger, the Out Islands in the Bahamas still offer sparkling beaches and invitingly warm water. Snow lovers can ski the little-known runs in Jasper, Alberta, Canada, or schuss down the Italian Alps, nestled near the almost undiscovered one-street town of Livigno, Italy, whose mountains feature 17 lifts and 26 runs. Ride an elephant past sacred Indian mosques, or picture wild game roaming in the primitive Indonesian islands of Bali and Java.

Whatever wonderland you discover, follow these photo tips from Kodak experts to help take excellent shots. Plan ahead. Read about your destination. When you arrive, look around to get a feeling for the pace and activity.

Select your subject carefully. One subject taken from various angles will make better pictures than many subjects quickly and carelessly snapped.

Use equipment that's simple to operate, such as the Kodak pocket Instamatic 10 camera. Take plenty of extra film. Be ready and familiar with your equipment.

Simplify. Often vacationers try to cram their shots, forgetting that size is reduced and the space flattened out. Try eliminating objects that don't contribute to the picture. Focus on one central subject.

Find a good foreground object and add depth to your subject by framing it.

Utilize varying weather conditions. Welcome rain, fog and clouds for their unusual patterns which lend a unique atmosphere to your pictures.

Your photos can let you relive the days you enjoyed one of winter's best-kept secrets, time and again!

TAX—Q & A

Q. Is it true that the IRS will figure my tax for me?

A. Yes, but you must meet certain qualifications. On 1040, your income must be $20,000 or less on line 15 and be made up only of wages or salaries, and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities. In addition, you must choose the standard deduction and file by the due date. Then the IRS will figure your tax for you. If you file Form 1040A, you may have the IRS compute your tax regardless of the amount of your income. The instructions for both forms explain what lines to fill out so the IRS can determine your tax from the proper tax table. You will then receive a refund for any overpayment or a notification of the amount of tax due.

Q. When will I get my refund?

A. The IRS makes a special effort to send refunds back to taxpayers as quickly as possible. This normally takes from three to five weeks after the return is filed. Several factors can delay a refund, but you can avoid some of them. For example, be sure all the arithmetic on your return is correct, and make certain your Social Security number and your spouse's are right and that they are written in appropriate order in the blocks provided. Place the peel-off pre-addressed label from the forms package mailed to you on your return. Its use will speed the processing of your return. Finally, remember that the IRS cannot send you your refund unless you sign your return.

Q. How do I report my dividend and interest income for 1974?

A. Schedule B, Dividend and Interest Income, has been reinstated for those who have such income to report in detail. If you have $400 or less of dividend or interest income, you will not have to list it on Schedule B, but only include the totals on lines 10a, 10b and 10c of Form 1040.

Q. How can I correct the information on my W-2 Wage and Tax Statement for 1974?

A. If you receive an erroneous Form W-2, you should ask your employer to issue a new W-2 to you clearly marked "corrected copy." You should then file Copy B of the corrected statement with your Federal tax return.

Queen Contest

More than 14 million people each year purchase and wear a VFW Buddy Poppy to renew their pledge to Col. McCrae's fallen soldier. Since the first nation-wide sale was conducted in 1922, nearly half a billion Buddy Poppies have been distributed and proudly worn by concerned Americans.

The VFW Buddy Poppy is made by patients in veterans hospitals throughout the United States. The work provides needed therapy for hands and minds, crippled by the ravages of war, and the pay earned provides a few simple luxuries to ease the boredom of hospital life.

In keeping with the pledge to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living," the Veterans of Foreign Wars dedicates the profits to the aid and assistance of disabled and needy servicemen and veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

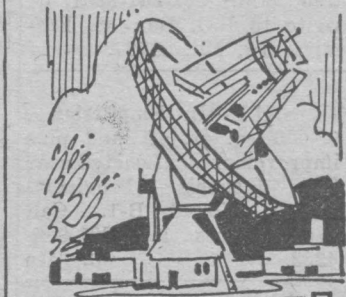

Counseling service for disabled veterans and entertainment of hospital patients, are also provided.

After more than half a century, the poppy still brings its message of hope to those who have borne the brunt of battle.

All girls desiring more information or wanting to enter the contest, please call 447-2744. Lovely prizes are to be awarded to the winner on the local, district and state level.
