Weekly Thought

Don't forget—Feb. 23 marks the return to Daylight Saving Time . . . clocks should be turned ahead one hour before retiring Saturday night.

Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Last week, if you recall, I mentioned that the Sisters of Charity had considered selling off some of their land for commercial development.

I should have been more precise, I'm afraid, for I've learned from a colleague that I ruffled a few feathers. Let me correct myself by saying that IF someone proposed purchasing land now owned by the sisters, they (the sisters) would consider such an offer.

I realize there's a fine distinction here, however I didn't mean to imply there's a FOR SALE sign on the front lawn of the Provincial House.

As I now understand the situation, the sisters are taking no initiatives, but like most folks in Emmitsburg, they're simply keeping the options open.

If you passed over the WEEKLY THOUGHT in this issue, you'd better go back and read it. Yes, the change-over to Daylight Savings Time will soon take place, and if you're like me, you probably still haven't adjusted to the time-change last fall. Remember, set your clocks and watches ahead Saturday night. That's two reminders in this paper, so don't try to miss church Sunday with the excuse, "Oh! I forgot to set my watch ahead." Ministers, be alerted.

I suppose Daylight Savings Time, along with the warm weather we've had recently, are both harbingers of Spring. As I see things, though, the real test that Spring has arrived are the construction crews. Like crows and robins, the building industry seems to know when good weather is here to stay.

Around here, the arrival of Spring also means the arrival of our swimming pool. Of course, that's assuming the target date for the completion of the pool is still Memorial Day 1975.

For several months, now, you've heard me say that Mother Seton's canonization will profoundly effect Emmitsburg. Well, I've noticed at least one change, and that's the price of land. Real estate has soared because folks are aware of the potential their land has, and are also aware that they stand to make a profit from the canonization.

I happen to know where there's a nice restaurant and motel for sale . . . nice from a logistics standpoint . . . but I dare not mention the price tag. I realize I've got a few older readers, and I don't want a sudden heart attack or stroke on my conscience.

Then, too, it's been said that one property owner is asking over $40,000 an acre!

Why, at a time like this, who would want to speculate in something as risky as gold when real estate apparently provides a much better return. (At least in Emmitsburg.)

Dr. Campbell, MSM

Folklore Expert

Dr. Marie Campbell, assistant professor of English at Mount Saint Mary's College, has been making a name for herself as an authority on folklore.

Recently appointed to an advisory panel on folklore and the folk arts for the Maryland Arts Council in Baltimore, she has been invited to speak at two different conferences in March. On Wednesday, March 12, she will conduct a seminar on "Gathering folklore in Maryland," at the Maryland Library Association's workshop to be held at the University of Maryland in College Park. At the fifth annual meeting of the Popular Culture Association to be held in St. Louis, Mo., from March 20 to March 22, she will speak on "Writing Oral History for the National Park Service."

Dr. Campbell, who teaches a course in folklore at the Mount, became interested in the field while doing work on popular culture and folklore for her doctoral dissertation, "Ditches and Dericks: Cultural History of Wood County, Ohio."

In October 1974, she organized a panel to appear at the Folklore and Popular Culture Conference held at Salisbury State College. In addition to Dr. Campbell, who spoke on legends and oral history in the Emmitsburg - Thurmont area, the panel included Sally Barach of Pennsylvania, who wrote Haunts of Adams and Other Counties, and Mrs. Alyce Weinberg of Frederick, who talked on Frederick folklore. Dr. Campbell plans to participate in the Maryland State Folklore Festival to be held this summer.

Double Ring Ceremony For Sandra Koontz, Daniel Johnson

Miss Sandra C. Koontz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Koontz, R1, Emmitsburg, and P. Daniel Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Keymar, exchanged marriage vows at the Keymar United Methodist Church on January 11. Rev. Kent Hall officiated at the double-ring ceremony amid a candlelight setting. Robie Johnson, brother of the groom, served as acolyte. Mrs. Rodney Bostian presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose a floor length satin gown with sheer yoke and long sleeves. Lace appliques adorned the skirt and bodice. Her full chapel train featured lace matching that on the collar and cuffs. Her fingertip veil fell from a cap of seed pearls and lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of daisies, carnations and baby's breath with light blue streamers.

Miss Shirley Snyder, Emmitsburg, was maid of honor. Bridal attendants included Miss Teresa Koontz, Emmitsburg, sister of the bride, and Miss Jeanne Johnson, Keymar, sister of the groom.

Jeff Johnson, Keymar, was his brother's best man. Greg Johnson, Keymar, brother of the groom, and Kenneth Koontz, Emmitsburg, brother of the bride, were ushers.

A reception followed at the Union Bridge Fire Hall. Miss Helen Ritter attended the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Virginia, the couple is residing in Keymar, Md.

Mrs. Johnson will be a June graduate of Catoctin High School and is employed at Villa, St. Michael, Emmitsburg.

Steering Committee Airs Specifics

The Bicentennial Steering Committee held its second planning meeting February 11, 1975, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Joseph's High School. The townspeople and the Mount professors involved exchanged ideas on the topics to be included in the Bicentennial program next fall, which is entitled "Little America: A Small Town Reflects on the Bicentennial." It was generally agreed that the written program be expanded to include topics of specific concern to Emmitsburg and that the community be strongly encouraged to participate in the program. Following is a summary of the topics suggested thus far:

1. A historical presentation on the Revolution and on the establishment of this nation.

2. A comprehensive presentation of the social, political, economic and demographic history of Emmitsburg during the past 100 years.

3. A presentation on values and education, which could include a panel of selected students from St. Joseph's and Catoctin High Schools.

4. A presentation on the social make-up of a small town in America.

5. A presentation on the role and influence of the churches in Emmitsburg since the 18th century which would also include specific contributions of specific churches.

6. A presentation on industry, crafts, agriculture and architecture in the history of Emmitsburg (clockmakers, Kentucky rifle makers, blacksmiths, silversmiths, the Emmitsburg railroad, slide show of architectural styles).

7. Dramatic presentations by students from St. Joseph's and Catoctin High Schools highlighting important events in the history of Emmitsburg and the nation. Dramatizations could be made, for example, of the original ruling bodies in Emmitsburg, the Great Emmitsburg Fire and local craft industries, using periodic costumes.

8. Musical presentations by the Emmitsburg Community Chorus, which might also use as part of the decor posters of Bicentennial themes prepared by art classes at St. Joseph's and Catoctin High Schools.

9. A presentation on the life and times of Mother Seton and her contribution to the Emmitsburg community.

10. A presentation on government in Emmitsburg (Town Council, Parks and Recreation, Planning and Zoning) and how government developed in this community.

The preceding summary indicates that the Bicentennial project in Emmitsburg is geared toward the average adult citizen in this community. In addition to the contributions of the Steering Committee members, the success of the programs will depend heavily on community participation. Specifically, we would like to ask teachers of art, music and drama at St. Joseph's and Catoctin High Schools to plan on participating in this program. Nominal prizes could be awarded next fall to the best drama, musical, poster, painting and costume presented during the programs. We would also like to encourage the art classes at these two schools to design some posters for the program; one poster could be chosen to symbolize the Bicentennial project in Emmitsburg.

This program is sponsored jointly by the Maryland Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy and Mount St. Mary's College. The Steering Committee is made up of the following townspeople and Mount professors: Rev. Eugene Ackerman, Rev. Walter Bowers, Mr. Francis Brewer, Rev. John Chatlos, Rev. Ronald Fearer, Sr., Ethelreda Flanagan, Mr. William Kelz, Mr. Lawrence Kolb, Sr., Rev. Harry Kuhn, Mr. Eugene Myers, Mr. Lumen Norris, Mrs. Kathryn Plumb, Mr. Edward Puhl, Mr. Eugene Rosensteel, Mr. Ernest Shriver, Mr. Richard Sprankle, Mrs. Kathleen Warren, Prof. Robert Milne, Prof. John Morrison, Prof. Richard Muller, Prof. Emile Nakhleh, Prof. Robert Preston and Prof. Olaf Tollefsen.

The next meeting of the Steering Committee will be held at St. Joseph's High School on Tuesday, March 11, 1975 at 7:30 p.m. Suggestions are most welcome.

York Springs Girl Fatally Injured

Katherine M. Hollabaugh, 21, daughter of Raymond C. and Virginia (Sharer) Hollabaugh, York Springs, R2, Pa., was struck by a car and killed about 10:50 Friday night as she and a companion, Keith A. Griffie, 20, Gardners R1, were leaving the Blue Duck Inn, near Emmitsburg.

Maryland State Police said Miss Hollabaugh and Griffie were apparently crossing Rt. 97 from south to north in front of the inn to return to their parked car when an auto driven east on Rt. 97 at a "normal" rate of speed by Frederick C. Flemming, Leesburg R2, Va., struck both pedestrians.

Griffie was taken in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, suffering from facial and right leg injuries.

Miss Hollabaugh was pronounced dead at the scene by the Frederick County Medical examiner. A Maryland State Police helicopter called to the scene was not needed to move the victims.

In addition to her parents, Miss Hollabaugh is survived by nine brothers and sisters. She had been employed at the Pfaltzgraff Division of Susquehanna Broadcasting Co., Aspers.

Vandals, Thieves Strike 3 Farms

Equipment valued at approximately $5,000 owned by John Troxell, Emmitsburg, has been either stolen or damaged on his three leased farms in the Emmitsburg area since the first of February.

Troxell reported the latest crime occurred over the weekend when the culprits stole his New Idea corn picker model 7, valued at $2,500, from a farm shed at the west end of Emmitsburg. Over the last two weeks, Troxell reported the thieves have stolen 10 rolls of baler twine valued at $400, two hydraulic cylinders, an assortment of Craftsman and other tools in four large tool boxes and other items from two wagon sheds and a milk house on farms he leases on W. Main St., Emmitsburg, Welty Road, north of Emmitsburg, and Scott Road, south of Emmitsburg.

Besides the thievery, Troxell said, the culprits have set a couple of fires, severely damaged gasoline pumps and tanks, and cut up an old corn picker.

Both Emmitsburg and State Police are investigating the crimes.

David Hartman

Story On TV Tues.

Television viewers across the country will experience the feelings of a "handicapped" person as they watch NBC's two-hour Movie of the Week, "Journey from Darkness," Tuesday, February 25, from 8 to 10 p.m.

The fascinating story of David Hartman, a 1972 graduate of Gettysburg College, vividly portrays the frustrations of a blind student bent on achieving his goal of becoming a medical doctor.

"David Hartman is really an inspirational human being," Producer Stephen Poulit of Bob Banner Associates, Beverly Hills, said in a recent issue of The Lutheran magazine.

"When you're around him, your life changes a little bit. Through him, we've all learned to 'see' that each of us has handicaps and must do some rethinking about what they are, what they mean, and what they do to each of us," Poulit declared.

The "Journey from Darkness"—from an eight-year-old school boy rendered sightless by glaucoma to a 25-year-old medical student in the top quarter of his class—is a poignant story of a "handicapped" person who never knew the meaning of the word impossible.

Turned down by nine leading medical schools, Dave Hartman became the first sightless student to be admitted into a medical program in more than 100 years when Temple accepted him and his goal to become a psychiatrist for the handicapped.

The movie reveals the many heartbreaking barriers thrown across Dave's path by skeptics who considered his ambition unrealistic.

But there were also those who shared his beliefs. Perhaps the one who offered the most hope was Cheri, the 1973 Gettysburg alumna who was to become Dave's wife. And there were his professors at Gettysburg whose patience, confidence and support proved almost incredible. And last but not least, Dave's parents and sister who made immense sacrifices to open avenues that would enable Dave to overcome his handicap.

In "Journey from Darkness," actor Marc Singer plays the role of David Hartman; Kay Lenz is cast as Cheri; Jack Windom and Joe Campanella portray Gettysburg College professors A. Ralph Cavaliere and Allen C. Schroeder.

YOUR VETERINARIAN SPEAKS

Pets And Small Children

People who have both pets and children know that, while playing, there is lots of contact between them. What they do not know, possibly, is that the microscopic eggs of a common worm (Toxocara canis) found in dogs can be transferred to children and cause "visceral larva migrans."

According to a recent editorial in the "Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association," pet owners should take particular care that their pups and kittens are free of worm parasites.

In children, the disease results from the migration of worm larva through the various body tissues. Pre-school children are the usual victims because of their habit of putting their fingers or contaminated toys into their mouths. To prevent infection, the editorial points out, make certain that the pets have no worms.

Although it is advisable for the pet's own well being, it is even more important with children in the family, to have dog and cats "dewormed." If transferred to a child, worm larva may lodge in the eyes, severely affecting the sight.

The editorial writer estimated that there are 18,000,000 dog-owning families in this country today and that as many as 90% of young pups are infected with these worms. A periodic examination of pets by a veterinarian should be made to protect the health of children and that of the pets.

The Maryland Veterinary Medical Association and the American Veterinary Medical Association consider it their duty to alert parents to this danger. As a public service, editorials have been printed in the "Medical Journal of Australia," and "Archives of Pediatrics," the "New England Journal of Medicine," and the "Saturday Evening Post."

The articles all underline the health hazards to children of playing with untreated pets.

NEWS OF AUTOS

SAFETY WITH STYLE

If you're one of the more than 100 million drivers in the United States, experiencing the full joy of a motor trip depends in a large degree on the automobile you drive and the expertise with which you drive it.

Things were a bit different at the turn of the century when a motor trip was strictly a sporting occasion, often fraught with hazards. Motoring was more of a pastime then, a sport for a handful of gentlemen who drove vehicles that were really mechanized carriages, retaining all the appearance of a horse-drawn buggy.

We've come a long way since then and most Americans, when choosing a new car, now consider safety as important a factor as styling. Volvo, for example, which redesigned its model line for the first time in eight years, reshaped the front end of its new 240 series for safety as well as styling, based on lessons learned from its experimental safety vehicles. The 240 series has more than 30 major engineering changes, including a totally new front suspension system.

Though good driving is an art, the good driver also knows that he can't be at his best if his equipment also isn't topnotch.

HE ASKED FOR IT—Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) reviews response to his recent questionnaire asking constituents' views on a variety of national issues. Beall has received a substantial response and the mail is still coming. The Senator is assisted by staff member Jean Barker in sampling some of the replies.

Bible Facts

As the old saying goes, there's nothing as sure as death and taxes. But when a person dies, will he or she live again? At the very center of the Christian Gospel stands the fact of Christ's resurrection. Death couldn't hold Him (Acts 2:34).

Christians confess, "I believe in the resurrection of the body and the life everlasting." This is hooked right into Christ's becoming alive again. The Bible says that He is the "Firstfruits," (1 Corinthians 15:20), the first in the long line of those who shall experience resurrection from the dead.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

I recently read that you sponsored legislation to lower Federal estate tax assessments on farm lands. What happens to this lower tax assessment after an heir dies?

The new family heir or new owner can apply for the lower assessment as long as the property continued to be substantially devoted to farming, woodland or scenic open spaces.

I understand that Maryland residents on military leave may hunt game without a license. Is this true?

ice Center at Highfield Estates, Naves Crossroads, Cumberland.

I read with interest your proposal to establish nationwide physical fitness facilities for adults. By what standard would these facilities be built?

A non-profit Athletic Foundation would oversee all such questions and recommendations. It would, for instance, encourage such projects as the construction of athletic facilities built in accordance with Olympic standards.

What can be done to control our mushrooming Federal budget?

I believe the concept of fiscal discipline must regain a central position in the budget policy and the key to regaining this sense of discipline is in the Congress.

Effective budget-making requires a policy for deciding not only whether it is worthwhile enough to be included within some predetermined spending limit. Congress must decide what total outlays will be and also accept responsibility for the individual expenditures which are the result of their individual program decisions. This is the nonexistent element in our current process and as a result Congress tends to lean toward larger spending than the public may really want or can afford.

What reduced fee is charged senior citizens entering Maryland State Parks?

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources recently announced earlier this year that citizens 65 and older will be eligible for free admittance to day-use facilities in the State Park system. Currently, 12 of our 35 State Parks charge a $1.50 admission fee including Cunningham Falls, Deep Creek Lake, Gunpowder, Herrington Manor, New Germany and Rocky Gap. Applications for a "Golden Age Pass" are available from the Department of Natural Resources, Tawes Building, Annapolis or the Regional Service Center at Highfield Estates, Naves Crossroads, Cumberland.

FIRE SAFETY COLUMN

Can You Get Out?

(By the Fire Prevention Committee of the Frederick County Firemen's Association.)

Thousands of lives are lost each year because people are trapped in their burning homes. Many of these may have been prevented. It is too late to plan when fire strikes. Fire spreads rapidly and quick action is needed to save lives. Plan now and know what to do. Set up a family escape plan and make sure each member of your family knows what to do. Make an escape floor plan, with at least two escape routes from each part of your home, especially bedrooms. Figure out what to do if your hall or stairs become blocked by fire, remembering that closed doors can hold back flame and smoke. If windows are used as a second exit, make sure they can be easily opened and are large enough to get through. This can be done with the aid of a rope ladder or by climbing onto a porch or garage roof, and even by climbing into a tree that is near your house. When your plan is complete, conduct fire drills and determine a certain spot for all members of your family to meet if there is a fire.

Some good escape rules to remember are: 1. Get everyone out fast, don't stop to dress or save valuables; 2. Stay low because heat and smoke rises and the air is better near the floor; 3. Call the fire department by using a street alarm or by using a neighbor's phone; 4. Have your family meet at an agreed spot; 5. Never re-enter a burning home.

If you become trapped in a burning home, remember close door against flame, heat and smoke, seal cracks around the door with blankets, sheets or pieces of clothing. Await rescue at a window, but please do not jump except as a last resort.

Be sure all babysitters know your escape plans, so in the event of fire they can get your children out fast and safe.

Don't let the headlines in your paper read: "Family Dies In Burning Home."

NEWS ABOUT ENERGY

HOME ENERGY SAVING TIPS

You can save on rising home heating and electric bills, and still stay warm, by following these suggestions.

1. Have your heating fuel dealer send an expert to clean, adjust, repair, and run an efficiency test on your heating unit. If your furnace is not running at peak efficiency, you're wasting energy and dollars. Clean oil filters to insure greater heating efficiency. If it is a hot-air system, change the air filters at least once during the winter.

2. Careful maintenance of your hot water heater can also save you money. Keep the temperature at 140°. Check your hot water taps for leaks: one drop of water a second can waste up to 700 gallons a year. Drain a pair of water from hot water tanks every month to remove sediment and improve efficiency.

3. Don't be a thermostat fiddler. Switching room temperatures back and forth wastes fuel. Lower the thermostat at night. By setting it back 10 degrees for 8 hours, you can save 10 percent or more on your heating bills. Lower the thermostat to 55 degrees when you are going to be away for more than a day.

4. To keep the warm air in and the cold air out, close windows and doors promptly. Keep children from running in and out unnecessarily. Experts estimate that fuel bills are three percent higher for each child who has a window being stripped, storm windows and insulation. Storm windows will cut in half the heat needlessly lost through ordinary sashes. Six inches of thermal insulation over your top floor ceiling pays for itself by helping to hold heat in.

5. Check radiator enclosures to be sure they are not trapping heat. If you paint them, use enamel, which permits greater radiation. Check steam radiator valves for proper function. Replace non-adjustable valves with adjustable ones. Drain air or water from steam radiators to allow them to heat up fully. Bleed air from circulating hot water heating systems. Remove rugs and furniture from places where they block radiators or registers.

6. Close fireplace dampers when not in use. If dampers are missing and fireplace is not used, close chimney openings.

7. Open window shades, blinds, or draperies to let sunshine and warmth into the rooms during the day. It's a free source of home heating. Another way to save—turn off heat in rooms being ventilated or not in use.

The kitchen is especially important for energy savings. There are many ways to conserve energy that can be used year round.

1. When baking or roasting, avoid peaking in the oven. Every time you open the oven door, you lose one-fourth of your heat. Not all foods require a pre-heated oven. The rule of thumb is, if it takes more than an hour to cook, start with an unheated oven.

2. Try to cut down on opening and closing the refrigerator/freezer door by removing and replacing several articles at one time.

3. Start with hot tap water for boiling; a major part of the heating will already be done.

6. Close fireplace dampers when not in use. If dampers are missing and fireplace is not used, close chimney openings.

How To Select An Engagement Ring

It's one of the most important pieces of jewelry a young woman ever has to choose, so of course she doesn't want to make a mistake selecting her engagement ring.

Sometimes an eager fiancé buys it to present to his beloved as a tender surprise.

She is so stunned by happiness that she doesn't realize until after the "I do's" that it won't fit on the same finger with the wedding band.

So it's best to have the bride help make the choice. To many women, an engagement ring means a perfectly cut, perfectly clear white diamond. And the setting? The trend over the years has been to the white metals, particularly platinum.

What makes platinum the perfect setting for the diamond is, among other things, its purity. (White gold may contain as much as one-half non-precious metal.) Platinum is also tough so it resists nicks and scratches. It's stronger, meaning it can hold the precious stone most securely. It's tarnish proof and doesn't need polishing—ever. No other metal reflects the lights of a diamond quite like platinum. So, naturally, the bride wants it for her wedding ring too.

For a free brochure on platinum, send your name and address to Platinum Information Bureau/USA, P.O. Box 415, Malvern, Pa. 19355.

Helpful Ideas from the International Lutheran Laymen's League

GIVE AND FORGIVE
The English writer Samuel Johnson once noted "A man, sir, should keep his friendship in constant repair," and "on clean shirt days" he went to see his friends.

If you know the art of friendship—giving and forgiving—you stay alive. You put a smile of contentment on your self-image.

Friendship is not what we take from others but what we give to others—not so much in material gifts as the gifts of compassion, sincerity, understanding. It is instilling courage in someone else. It's the transfer of some of our self-respect to others. It's the sharing of our confidence in ourselves with others. It's the gift of what we are to others.

Always keep in mind that you are part of the human family; you become what you are in relation to others. You expand in your capacity for love in a vast communal sense which incorporates the acceptance of human fallibility. You understand that your friend can make errors that distort his perspective; he can mistakenly feel that you are his enemy, not his friend.

The whole world is looking for friendship. Everyone seeks forgiveness as ardently as he seeks food and shelter. Yet often we are ashamed to forgive as we are ashamed to make a mistake. But this shame corrodes us, dehumanizes us. It is unhealthy to be ashamed of error in yourself and stubborn not to forgive error in someone else.

The capacity to forgive should be as great as the capacity to survive because you cannot attain true stature in living unless you make a habit of forgiving.

To really get along with people requires the compassion of forgiveness. To err is human; to forgive is human achievement. But, first, you must forgive yourself so that you can accept yourself as a human being, as a somebody with dignity.

To help you learn how to appreciate yourself and others, send for a free pamphlet based on a sermon on "The Lutheran Hour," called "Respect Is A Two-Way Street." Write to Room 220, International Lutheran Laymen's League, 2185 Hampton Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri 63139.

The word "salary" comes from "salt rations." The Romans paid workers in rations of salt and other staple items.

FUEL SAVING TIPS

1. Be sure humidifier is functioning properly—to increase comfort in the home.
2. Add shield of metal or aluminum foil behind radiators to reflect heat into rooms.
3. Have an expert serviceman check, clean and adjust your heating plant each year.
4. He will inspect and replace, if necessary, your burner nozzle — clean filters, rherk blower, controls, ignition, etc.
5. He can perform tests on your furnace to determine its combustion efficiency for savings.

How long can you live on love?

Love. It can move mountains. But it can't run a household. Or meet all the bills. Or put kids through college. That takes money. And one good way to make sure your money will grow along with your marriage is by signing up now for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Then an amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You don't have to worry so much about the future. And you'll have a little more time for love.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.
