From all indications, the Frederick County Square Mall will be humming next week. Just about everyone in Emmitsburg will be there to participate in the Bicentennial project, a "Salute to Emmitsburg."

I got a chance to talk with one of the mall people and I was pleased to discover there's been much enthusiasm for this event.

Most of our local clubs and organizations will be represented there, and there are individuals who'll be donating a great deal of time and effort, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Stine plan to be at the mall, I've heard. They'll be representing the Emmitsburg Grange with a display and demonstration of antique farm equipment. That should bring back a lot of memories...

I understand the Stine's have an old butter churn complete with dog treadle; that lets Fido help with farm chores, too. (And in these days, when so many dogs are running loose, in town, an old butter churn like that would serve two functions.)

Then there'll be all those lovely art works from our elementary school children. That display will start Monday, April 21; what better way to begin a "Salute to Emmitsburg?"

I surely plan to visit the mall during the upcoming week, and I know I'll see many familiar faces.

St. Joseph's Church is on the road to salvation... in this case, I mean physically, not spiritually. It will be no easy job to repair that roof, though. Those rafters measure over 27 feet long. I can imagine the look on a lumber salesman's face if you asked him for a rafter that long...

Anyway, I'd like to thank Paul Humerick for his dramatic photo of the church roof that ran in last week's Chronicle. I heard that some one took some aerial shots of the damage, too. Even with the pictures to prove it, it's all rather hard to believe...

An election for one town commissioner's seat is scheduled for the last Tuesday in April. That's the 29th. Since I usually get a sneak preview of the news, I know there's one name on the ballot so far. If anyone's considering political life, registration for candidates ends tomorrow at 3:00 p.m.

Before I forget to mention it, I want to ask that all bound editions of the Emmitsburg Chronicle be returned to the office soon. We have most of the old copies, though some were borrowed and not returned. We haven't levied fines for overdue books—yet.

Flax Announces Candidacy Tuesday

Emmitsburg Town Commissioner J. Norman Flax, an incumbent, announced Tuesday his decision to run for re-election. Flax faces no opposition as yet in the election to be held Tuesday, April 29. However, registration for candidates does not end until Friday, April 18 at 3:00 p.m.

Said Flax about his decision, "The only reason I've decided to run again is because we're right in the middle of the EPA business... updating our water and sewer systems." He added, "For a stranger to come in here, it would be a hardship."

"This will be my 6th term," he remarked, "...if I make it." Commissioner Flax has been involved in local government for over 15 years.

St. Joe's Defeats 2 Rival Ball Teams

The St. Joseph's High School baseball team loomed as the team to beat in the Blue Ridge Conference, as the locals defeated long time rival, St. James of Hagerstown, 20-3.

Harold Engelstatter scored his initial win of the year, giving up six hits while striking out six, on the one-sided triumph. Hitting stars for St. Joe's were Ed Miller with three hits and seven runs batted in, and Mike Rosensteel with two triples and three RBI's. Engelstatter, Greg Adelsberger and Jeff Wivell joined in the hit parade with one hit each. Joel Neighbours, leading off, scored four runs. The game only went five innings with St. Joe's batting four times because of the new ten run rule.

The Trojans continued their winning ways by beating Baltimore Lutheran, 8-4, on Saturday, in the first game of a doubleheader. Joel Neighbours won his second game of the year and gained his 14th career high school win with the victory. Lutheran had recently defeated Boys Latin, 21-1, so our boys were quite happy to win this game away from home. Ed Miller, Engelstatter and Adelsberger were once again the hitting stars with two hits apiece and two RBI's each. Carmel Kelly, a St. Joe freshman, was the pitcher in the second game, and pitched well with five strike-outs and gave up only two walks, but was beaten in his first start of the year. But big things are expected of Kelly, and Coach Custer told this reporter that he expects the Trojans to repeat as league champions and also lead the county in baseball wins.

Notice To All Little Leaguers

Robert R. Sayler, president of the Emmitsburg Little League, this week issued the following statement concerning the league:

"The Emmitsburg Little League has had an overwhelming response this year in the registration of new players into the league. Rather than turn away a number of newly registered players, the league unanimously agreed to carry larger rosters than has been our policy in the past. Unfortunately, this will result in less playing time for some of the players.

"In order to alleviate this situation for next year, the league is seriously considering the addition of a new team to be added in 1976. We trust that the parents and friends of our Little Leaguers will understand our dilemma and give them the loyal support which has been typified in seasons past."

Girl Scouts Discover "Hidden Heroines" In Emmitsburg

"Hidden Heroines" discovered so far in Girl Scouts' Bicentennial search for outstanding women and girls were honored recently at a dinner at Eudowood Gardens, Towson. Eighteen Frederick County girls attended along with three of their six "heroines."

In row three are Debbie Main, Troop 919, Braddock Heights; Kim Smith, Troop 919; Lita Brandenburg, Troop 1446, Myersville; and Anne Batdorf, Troop 1303, Walkersville.

Eighteen Frederick County Girl Scouts recently joined more than 150 of their sister Scouts from all over Central Maryland at a dinner honoring the women and girls so far discovered in the Girl Scouts' Search for Hidden Heroines.

At dinner with the girls were three of the six women that Frederick County Girl Scout troops selected, because of their outstanding contributions to the community, to be "hidden heroines." Illness prevented the other three from being present. The six Frederick County women were among approximately 50 "heroines" chosen by Girl Scout troops in all parts of the Central Maryland Council, which includes Baltimore City and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick, Harford and Howard Counties.

A Bicentennial project of Girl Scouts of the USA, the Search for Hidden Heroines is taking place all over the United States. Its aim is to spotlight the many contributions women and girls have made and are making in the Nation's development, and to help girls realize how much they themselves can contribute. The dinner honoring heroines discovered so far was the first public event in the year-long Bicentennial observance of Girl Scouts of Central Maryland.

Frederick County's six "heroines" are Sheila Chatlos, nominated by Troop 30 of Emmitsburg for her work with education, the library, the Planning and Zoning Board and the Homemakers Club, as well as Girl Scouting; Eleanor Fisher, selected by Troop 473, Frederick, for her helpfulness as media specialist at the Green Valley School in Monrovia; "Boots" Kehne, chosen by Troop 83, Frederick, for her efforts on behalf of children and young people who are physically or mentally handicapped; Martha Meadows, nominated by Troop 1519, of Frederick, for her work as youth counselor, YMCA Board Member, Girl Scout Leader and Boy Scout helper; Margaret Myers, selected by Troop 405, Emmitsburg, because of her work with youth through many years of leading Girl Scout troops and teaching religious education classes; and Peggy Offutt, chosen by Troop 1372, Yellow Springs, for the love and care she brings to her work as a nurse at Frederick Memorial Hospital and for the extra richness she has added to many troop activities.

Plans for the Search for Heroines call for the girls who discovered heroines, where appropriate, to work along with them to improve their communities.

Girl Scouts of Central Maryland is an agency of the United Givers Fund of Frederick County and of the United Fund of Central Maryland.

FHS Play, "Once Upon A Mattress"

As the curtain rises on Frederick High School's production of "Once Upon A Mattress," the house might very well come down (and for one admission price you'll not only see a spectacular play, you'll experience the drama of "Earthquake," too-) "Once Upon A Mattress," produced under the stern but authoritative instruction of Ms. Carol Gutwalt, is likely to be the most talked about area high school production since "Gypsy."

The title of the play, in fering a risqué performance in a dark, dingy theater somewhere off Broadway, is quite deceptive. The sparkling musical comedy, adapted from "The Princess and the Pea," is set in the enchanting medieval time, complete with beautiful maidens, besieged princes, magical wizards and story-saving minstrels. There are troubled kingdoms, scheming queens and homeless kings, too.

Much time, expense, work and practice have gone into the production of "Once Upon A Mattress." There will be only two performances, however; Friday, April 18 and Saturday, April 19. In this time when entertainment costs are high, come spend an enjoyable evening with the Frederick High School Players. They're a bargain.

Some people say that if a bright spark shoots up from a candle nearby, you will receive a letter.

Beall To Aid Poor Readers With NRIP

Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) has called on the Senate Appropriations Committee to approve $25 millions for the national reading effort. Beall is the Ranking Minority Member of the Senate Education Subcommittee and is co-author, along with Senator Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.), of the National Reading Improvement Program. Beall says funding of the program is needed to combat what he terms the "Achilles' Heel" of American education — large numbers of children in some schools with severe reading difficulties.

"Eighteen and a half million adults in this country are classified as functional illiterates," says Beall, "and some seven million elementary and secondary school children are in severe need of special reading assistance. In large urban areas, 40 to 50 percent of all school children are reading below grade level." The Maryland Senator says that the Beall Eagleton bill will help prevent these problems. "The measure is based on the premise," says Beall, "that it is much easier to prevent reading difficulties than to remedy such difficulties once they occur."

The program consists of reading improvement projects, special emphasis projects and reading academies. The improvement projects make grants to states and local educational agencies for projects designed to overcome reading deficiencies. The special emphasis projects would provide for the special teaching to those children in grades three through six who have reading problems. The measure also provides for the training of reading specialists in the grade school systems and the establishment of Reading Academies which would provide assistance to youths and adults excluded from other assistance and instruction.

"As a member of the Budget Committee," said Beall, "I am well aware of the need for spending restraints. However, the ability to read is an essential one and this program addresses a critical problem that demands a solution. We must fund this program in order to prevent the dangerous condition of massive numbers of children with reading difficulties. Without the ability to read an individual cannot grow, learn or earn."

NEWS OF HEALTH

BEAUTY IS MORE THAN SKIN DEEP

Beauty may be enhanced by cosmetics and other adornments, but essentially, a good diet, sleep and exercise play a far more important role.

The current trend toward "natural" foods and cosmetics shows a growing awareness of the important role of proper nutrition in maintaining health.

Some cosmetic manufacturers have added vitamins such as A, D and E to their cosmetics in order to produce products that contribute to maintaining healthy skin and hair.

One of the more recent ingredient discoveries has been Panthenol does not enhance hair growth, say the Roche scientists, but rather gives the hair body, keeping it thicker and fuller looking.

When damaged hair was examined under a microscope before and after treatment with Panthenol, panthenol showed and ability to repair hair damages such as those caused by excessive drying, harsh chemicals and brushing.

Panthenol is currently listed as an ingredient in several cosmetic products.

Library Offers 3 New Choices

Some new paper backs that have been added to the collection in the Emmitsburg Public Library, are as follows:

"Give Me One Good Reason," by Norma Klein. Life centers around Gabrielle who is thirty-two, single, a successful career woman, fiercely independent. And she wants a baby—but doesn't want to get married. Written by the same author of the million copy bestseller, "Sunshine."

"W. C. Fields," by himself. He tells in his own words the true story of his early years, his marriage, his tours. Here are revealing letters to his family and to his friends: Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Fanny Brice, Mae West, Jack Benny and Bob Hope.

"Kissinger." He is Sadat's brother, Golda's son, Chou's strolling companion. He is also a Nobel Laureate and a charming hieroglyphic whose skill, wit, and total aplomb have virtually eclipsed the presidency. The world is his stage—Peking, Moscow, Cairo, Tel Aviv—and to all these arenas of power, Marvin and Bernard Kalb have traveled with him. This is their portrait of Henry Kissinger, giant of the twentieth century.

Come in for these and many other selections.

Whither The UN?

"The time has come now, ... when we must frankly face the fact that the UN, dominated by the General Assembly, no longer offers any hope or promise of furthering peace."

These are the words of U.S. Senator Peter Dominick, a long-time defender of the United Nations, in a speech before his colleagues late in 1974. He was reviewing the actions of the UN General Assembly with particular reference to the appearance before that body of Yasir Arafat, leader of the terrorist group called the Palestinian Liberation Organization. Arafat was given a heroes' welcome by a majority of the 138 member nations, permitted to wear his gun, the symbol of the PLO and by resolution, the PLO was given permanent observer status and the right to attend all conferences under UN auspices.

The PLO claims credit for the Munich murders during the Olympic games there, the LOD airport massacres and the murder of the US Ambassador to Khartoum and his deputy, among many other acts of terror.

Ambassador Scali's Warning

During the 29th annual session of the UN General Assembly, a coalition of African, Asian and Latin American nations joined the communist bloc lead by the Soviet Union to form what US Ambassador to the UN, John Scali, called, "a tyranny of the majority."

In a speech on December 6, 1974, Ambassador Scali warned: "My country cannot participate effectively in the United Nations without the support of the American people and the American Congress. For years they have provided that support generously. But I must tell you honestly that this support is eroding — in our congress and among our people."

Scali was referring to the appearance of Arafat in the UN, but even more, he was referring to the resolutions passed in the wake of that appearance.

UN General Assembly 1974

Arafat demanded "a Palestine state under PLO control."

After a short, unprecedented, restricted debate, the General Assembly passed a resolution recognizing the "Palestinian peoples' right to independence and sovereignty in Palestine."

The resolution defined the phrase "in Palestine" to mean "what has, at this moment, been replaced by Israel and by the Israel occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip."

While many nations feel that Israel should return the territory seized during the 1967 war, this resolution would effectively erase Israel from the map of the world.

Another action was taken by UNESCO. That agency receives some of its budget from Israel and Israel gets back about one-tenth of its contribution for projects in Israel. UNESCO voted to condemn and exclude Israel, to cut off aid to Israel, and to supply funds instead to the PLO and African Liberation Movements.

During 1974, the UN Security Council held one of its sessions in Panama to dramatize the movement to take the Panama Canal away from the United States and give it back to Panama.

And just before adjourning, the UN General Assembly voted itself a six percent increase in salary and that salary level is already above the civil service level of the US.

Who Pays The Bill

When everything is averaged out, the United States pays 30 percent of the total cost of the UN. The Soviet Union pays 12.97 percent, China 5.5 percent and Cuba, Panama, Kuwait, Libya, Iran, and Saudi Arabia combined paid only 0.59 percent in 1974. During the early years, the US paid more than 50 percent of the total cost. The Maldives Islands, population 101,000 on 15 square miles, has a vote equal to the United States in the General Assembly. No wonder US officials are concerned.

Senator Dominick further said: "I do not believe that the United States needs to or should stand, sit, vote, or listen to those whose hands are so bloody." He did not ask the withdrawal of the US from the UN Security Council, however.

American Freedom Train: A Local Event

President Ford welcomes all Americans aboard the American Freedom Train during the Train's Bicentennial dedication ceremonies in Alexandria, Virginia.

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, VIRGINIA (ED)—The American Freedom Train will "provide a unifying symbol of the heritage that made America's great past a great one, and will make its future an even greater one," remarked President Gerald Ford at the dedication ceremonies of the American Freedom Train.

The Train, featuring a steam-engine locomotive and 12 cars filled with priceless treasures from our heritage, will journey to some 80 cities in the 48 continental United States during its two-year mission to remind Americans of the challenges we have met and overcome, and the growth that has taken place during the past two centuries.

HOW TO PLANT THE TOWN RED

What's a spring without tulips preening themselves in still-crispy air to brighten the spirits of a winter-weary world? It's even better if the bulbs are bursting into bloom in your own garden, making your home stand out with a colorful and cared-for look among your neighbors!

Now you can have a bed of scarlet tulips from bulbs sent directly to you from Holland and you get them in an inexpensive, fun way. These new tulips, called Johnnie Walker Red Tulips because their color matches the famous Johnnie Walker's scarlet waist coat, can be found growing in your garden next spring. You can pick up an order form from the special Johnnie Walker Red label flower cart at any participating liquor supplier.

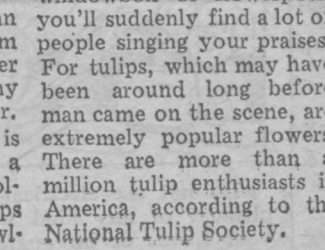

Soon after your order is received, you will receive a picture postcard from Holland showing lovely tulips in full bloom and acknowledging your order. In September, shortly after they've been taken out of their Dutch soil, your 12 tulip bulbs will arrive in an attractive box, complete with a jaunty Johnnie Walker Red border marker and planting instructions.

Then you plant them five inches deep and five inches apart in a sunny or semi-shady place before the first frost of fall. By the next spring you should have a dozen 20-inch-tall tulips. And, if you've filled out a few cards as thoughtful gifts for friends or for a shut-in, who can plant them in a windowbox or flowerpots, you'll suddenly find a lot of people singing your praises. For tulips, which may have been around long before man came on the scene, are extremely popular flowers. There are more than a million tulip enthusiasts in America, according to the National Tulip Society.

are fairly recent developments and still others are being formed right now through hybridization, mutation and cross pollination. But for bright, showy blossoms, your Johnnie Walker Red puts you ahead in any flower bed.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

What Price Prosperity?

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., April 17, 1975 — Amid increasing signs that the nation's economic slide is slowing, there is now a greater tendency to look ahead toward recession's end. Still lagging industrial production and deepening unemployment may hold the headlines, but those who are wise to the ways of business cycles and the challenges of their ebb and flow are ready to focus on the recovery and what it may be expected to bring.

Encouraged by what they see ahead, many company managements are giving evidence of their faith in the future by making plans for expansion and/or plant upgrading even though the capital needed for these programs and projects is still lacking in many instances. That is why there has been such a boost in bond market activity. That, too, is why you will soon see a resurgence in short-term borrowings.

In all this, business is taking a calculated risk. It is acting quickly and in many cases daringly to take advantage of the reader availability of funding at more favorable rates than prevailed only a few weeks ago. It may turn out to be an illusion, but there is a feeling that business is going to get a speck more freedom to operate and a fairer chance to recover.

Boost of the investment tax credit to 10% is looked upon in some circles as an augury of better things to come. While there is little disposition to expect miracles from a Congress that generally regards business as a whipping boy, there is hope—and some foundation for it—that Washington will be inclined to lessen its overstrain on regulations and restraints on business.

More Tax Relief For Business?

"Any relaxing of the bureaucratic urge to distaste and regulate (often in considerable excess of what Congress intended) would be welcome. But this type of relief will likely come slowly, with its progress subject to frequent interruptions. What business really needs (and did not get

NEWS OF SAFETY

By Experts At The Plastic Bottle Institute

Each year millions of people are injured in household accidents. In order to avoid becoming a painful statistic, here are some helpful household safety hints.

Never insert a knife or other object into a toaster when the toaster is plugged in.

Do not wear frilly clothing that could catch fire easily while you are cooking.

Never extend appliance or extension cord wires in areas where people could trip over them. Disconnect and remove extension cords when they are not in use.

Do not use electrical appliances of any kind when your hands or any part of your body is wet.

Use shatter-resistant plastic bottles whenever possible, especially in kitchens and bathrooms.

Wipe-up all kitchen spills immediately. A solution spilled on the stove could cause a fire. Something spilled on the floor could cause a fall, which could be made more serious by contact with a hot stove.

ment of the measures that would facilitate procurement of business capital, but the outlook for congressional acquiescence is no more than fair.

Recovery Limitations

Business would like the fairer shake that additional tax adjustments could bring, and the economy could profit measurably from more realistic levies on capital gains. But business is used to having its knuckles rapped and being told to make do with what it has. So what we are likely to see is the fullest exploitation by business of every opportunity offered to improve its position. It will capitalize on lower interest rates to build, improve, and expand facilities that in time will lead to encouraging boosts in employment.

Just how far business can take the nation on the recovery road depends on the kind of roadblocks Congress places in its way. The consensus is that we will have turned the corner to better things economically well before year's end. How far we will progress along the up-trail hinges on consumer confidence as reflected in buying volume and on the ability of the President and Congress to keep deficit spending within bounds. Overstimulation by way of further heavy federal deficit spending would gravely impair the ability of business to finance needed expansion next year, and could lead to an inflationary upsurge more damaging than anything yet seen.

Enjoy A Money Saving Vacation

In these inflationary times, people need all the bargains they can get. Some of the best travel buys are available only off-season . . . and here's one that certainly calls for an early vacation this year!

You can see all of America on Greyhound's new $87.50 Ameripass—a 15-day unlimited travel ticket. It's an inflation-fighting travel bargain never before available, but with most of the features of the now famed 30 and 60-day Ameripasses. Available for a limited time only the 15-day Ameripass must be purchased by May 31. The last day for its use will be June 15.

In describing the plan, James L. Kerrigan, president of Greyhound Lines, Inc., said, "Inflation is an economic fact of life, and we are doing something to help the traveling public now."

You can travel for 15 days, most anywhere in the U.S. and Canada, and enjoy all the comfort and safety of Greyhound travel. It's an unheard of opportunity to go where you want, when you want to, as far as you want to, at an extremely low price.

Start any day, there are no restricted periods, no fuss, no reservations necessary and no waiting period before your ticket is good for travel.

"Even though the airlines are beginning to offer discount fares and Amtrak's fares are artificially low because of massive subsidies, bus transportation continues to be the most economical way to travel. The new $87.50 Ameripass makes traveling by bus an exceptionally good buy," Kerrigan said.

CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING WITH YOUR CAMERA

Snow-covered fields and woods have always been good picture subjects for the photographer hardy enough to explore them.

When the photography is combined with cross-country skiing, hardiness is no longer needed. Given good physical condition and an enterprising spirit, photographers of all ages can seek out the beauties of winter.

So natural is the affinity between ski touring and photography, that Eastman Kodak Company, in co-operation with the United States Ski Association, is sponsoring a "Medals for Miles" program. A skier simply picks up a log book from a photo store shop containing a "Medals for Miles" display and then records the mileage as he or she skis. Metallic lapel (or sweater) pins will be awarded on a basis of bronze for a total of 75 miles, silver for 150 miles, and gold for 300 miles.

Cross-country equipment and clothing should be lightweight for maximum ease of movement. It is important to select a camera which will add the least possible bulk and weight. A Kodak pocket Instamatic camera weighs only ounces and fits easily into a pocket. Remember that moisture and extreme cold can hurt your camera's performance, so keep snow from collecting on the camera. Reload with bare hands rather than wet mittens. Shield the camera when not in use.

Vary your angle. Shooting with the sun in front of you catches the rays of light, so the white carpets look diamond-flecked. Pose a skier in the foreground, 15 to 20 feet from the camera, to add depth. You can achieve an interesting effect of a person's face by shooting close-ups within a 3 to 6-foot range, available Miles" program. A skier simply picks up a log book from a photo store shop containing a "Medals for Miles" display and then records the mileage as he or she skis. Metallic lapel (or sweater) pins will be awarded on a basis of bronze for a total of 75 miles, silver for 150 miles, and gold for 300 miles.

Organize your photos to tell the story of the expedition. Shoot the group eagerly bracing up in the brisk morning air, plunging into the white world and sharing the evening's dusk. Titles, written in snow, add an unusual touch. Frame your companions through snow-tipped rocks or trees for depth and interest.

A small light camera will preserve your adventure and fun. You can relive winter's magic kingdom in any season through photographs.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Where can I obtain a 1975 Golden Eagle Passport?

The 1975 Golden Eagle Passport, for persons under 62 years of age, provides unlimited admission to selected National Parks for one calendar year. The Passports cost $10 and admit the purchaser and all persons traveling with him or her in a single, private, non-commercial vehicle. The Golden Eagle Passport may be obtained at National Park entrances or the National Park Service Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

Have social security benefits increased in recent years kept up with benefit increases of the past?

Social Security benefits were increased 20 percent in the 1950's, 20 percent in the 1960's and, counting the 11 percent boost last year, already 56 percent in the 1970's.

In light of the high cost of food, several families in our area have decided to grow their own vegetables next year. I'm wondering, are there any government publications on this subject you could send us?

Yes. The Agriculture Department has several booklets which might be of interest to you including its bestseller, "Growing Vegetables in the Home Garden". If you don't have room for a full-fledged garden, you'll find instructions for growing vegetables in windowsills, on balconies or patios in a 12-page guide called "Minigardens for Vegetables". Copies of the Consumer Information Index which included ordering instructions for these two booklets, and dozens of other gardening publications, is available free from my office here in Washington.

What deficit costs are estimated for oil imports over the next ten years?

A study prepared by the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy cites projections of $14 billion in deficit costs for oil imports in 1975, $30 billion by 1980 and $54 billion by 1985. These figures, however, are quite conservative since the report was issued prior to last year's Arab embargo and the subsequent price increases declared by the Middle East oil producing countries.

How did you vote on the Elementary & Secondary Education Act and also the bus-ing amendment to that bill?

I supported passage of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act including an amendment to prohibit any appropriated funds from being used for busing to achieve school desegregation. The amendment passed the House 239-168 and the entire bill extending the Education Act through fiscal 1977 passed 380-26.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

FINDING ADDITIONAL PROFIT CENTERS

Good news for American stockholders has been made quietly by top American business executives and an executive of the American Chamber of Commerce.

Aware that money can be made for American companies not only by investing in this country, but also by finding profitable investments abroad, our financial executives have been studying foreign opportunities to see which ones offer the best returns.

Interestingly, we're finding that we don't have to go far from home. Charles Mayer, Executive Vice President of the American Chamber of Commerce, has reported that "Mexico boasts, if not the best, one of the best possibilities in Latin America for foreign investment."

The rules of the game were clarified recently in a meeting between U.S. businessmen and Mexican officials presided by President Luis Echeverria and Jose Campillo Sainz, Minister of Industry and Commerce. The meeting was held at the home of industrialist Alejandro Alvarez Guerrero, and was attended by Antonio Ruiz Galindo Jr., an industrialist, and Jorge Orvananos Zuniga, President of the Mexican Employers confederation.

The latter pointed out the little known fact that foreign investments represent a majority of Mexican management.

YOUR VETERINARIAN SPEAKS

Ticks And Mites

Domestic animals that investigate shrubbery and undergrowth are very likely to become the unwilling carriers of ticks. The tick, says the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association, is a parasite that attaches itself to the flesh of animals and sucks their blood.

Initially, the most common sites for tick infestation are the head, shoulders and neck. Dips, sprays and powders are effective, but daily examination and grooming during the summer "tick season" may be necessary. Pick off and destroy any that you see.

Cats, too, will require careful attention. No preparation will keep the parasite away.

Mites

Mites are more serious as they cause the skin condition known as "mange." In dogs there are two principle types of mange, "sarcoptic" or "scabies" and "demodectic" or "red" mange.

The former is highly contagious and causes the dog to scratch incessantly because the mite that causes the skin condition burrows deeply into the skin and produces severe irritation. If not controlled, mange may spread until it covers the entire body.

With demodectic mange, there is little scratching but a considerable loss of hair. The mites that cause this disorder will seldom be a problem to your pet unless there is a history of illness or nutritional deficiency.

The treatment of both complaints is usually long and difficult. Your veterinarian's advice should be followed carefully, if the treatment is to be successful.

A cat that shakes its head excessively or paws at its ears is likely to be afflicted with mites infesting its ear canals. A veterinarian can advise you of the best treatment.

PERSPECTIVES IN LEARNING

By Hazel Brown, President Harry Lundeberg School Adults Are Learners, Too!

Adult learners are the most neglected persons in our present society. We have fewer programs to meet their needs and spend less money on their education than any segment of our population.

Last year the federal government spent over $9 billion on education—but less than $300 million was used for adult programs. Most of this adult education money was used for high school equivalency programs and adult programs for military personnel and veterans. But, many adults with severe education needs were overlooked and neglected. It is obvious that the priorities in education have not been directed toward the needy adult learners.

It is a shame to continue ignoring such a large segment of our population. There are adults who are yearning for educational help and assistance. These people are self-motivated and want to learn. They desire new job skills as well as assistance in meeting their economic and human needs. All they require is someone to care and give them guidance in exploring educational activities.

Today's adults are in need of the ability and confidence to accept the challenges of our ever-changing technology. Without the confidence that education brings, many adults will remain helpless. They will continue to lack the basic skills necessary for job competence, social interaction, and development of an adequate self-concept.

Lifetime learning or continuing education must be recognized as an essential aspect of the total concept of education in a democratic society. Adults are in need of equal opportunities for educational experiences if they are to adequately participate in the democratic process. Public decision making can be meaningful only when the people can read, write and understand the issues and public concerns. To preserve our democratic form of government, all citizens must be capable of understanding and participating.

It is essential that our educational priorities include adequate recognition of the needs of adults for opportunities to participate in lifetime learning experiences. Education must be available to all who seek it regardless of age, background or economic status. Education can no longer be available just to children. Adults are learners, too.

Oppose Weakening Of Voting Rights

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has urged the Senate to extend the Voting Rights of 1965 past its expiration date of Aug. 6, 1975. Senator Mathias said he will oppose any efforts to weaken the landmark civil rights legislation as Congress acts to extend it.

In a statement before the Senate Judiciary Committee's Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, Senator Mathias described the 1965 Voting Rights Act as "one of the most successful legislative actions that I have ever worked on during my time in Congress." He noted that in the seven Southern states among those areas affected by the Act, the disparity between white and black voter registration rates has been reduced from 44.1 percentage points to 11.2 percentage points.

Senator Mathias also cited the increase in the number of black elected officials, well under 100 before the passage of the Act, and now estimated at 963.

Senator Mathias, a cosponsor of legislation to extend the Act, said that problems remain, despite tangible signs of progress. "There is evidence that the Act has not cured discrimination; rather that it has merely contained it," he pointed to wide differences in progress, and the gap between numbers of black officials and the overall ratios of black and white citizens.

"The closing of the gap between white and black registration rates, for instance, has not been uniform. In some states they have remained quite large. Similarly, the increased voting in the South has been the average trend but it is down in three states while up in four," Senator Mathias said.

Senator Mathias cited the work of historian C. Vann Woodward showing that "segregation in all walks of life was really a product of the 1890's." He said it "grew out of a disenfranchisement which itself developed in response to clashes of political power."

"Once before the clock was turned back and rights which seemed secure have been lost. We are here to insure the continued progress of this movement, the continued thrust towards equality. Our constant vigilance is required," Mathias stated.

"Sugar," the musical comedy based on the movie "Some Like It Hot," will be presented at Mount Saint Mary's College April 18 through 22.

The inane plot guarantees an evening of laughter. The two principals, Jerry and Joe, are two out-of-work musicians who accidentally witness the St. Valentine's Day massacre. Subsequently pursued by Spats and his gang, the two try to cover their tracks by disguising themselves and joining an all-girls band on their way to Florida. Complications arise as Joe falls in love with the lead singer, Sugar, and Jerry, as Daphne, becomes engaged to an aging millionaire, Osgood Fielding.

The title role is played by Jackie Bilz and Jerry and Joe are played by Lou Fabbri and Bob Golibart. Other principals are Bob Zanican as Osgood Fielding, Tony Patane as Spats, Vicki Consentino as Sweet Sue, and Bernie Delia as Bienstock. Directing the Sock 'N Buskin players is Professor Phil Wychodzki, and conducting the score is Professor Lewis McAllister.

Curtain time will be 8:00 p.m. on every day but Sunday, April 20, when a 2:00 p.m. matinee will be presented. Tickets, which are $2.00, may be reserved by calling Flynn Hall (447-6122, ex. 310) during the evenings.

More Than Day Care At Seton Center

Finger painting

Seton Center, Emmitsburg, is usually thought of as a day care facility but the Annual Report for 1974 pinpoints a widening range of community service.

The report, released this week by Administrator Sister Grace Calvisi, D.C., reveals the continued popularity of the day care program which has been in operation since November 1969. In 1974, the Center provided 18,010 days of care and served a total of 193 children who represent 111 area families. On any given day, pre-school children make up about two-thirds of the enrollment and youngsters who come before and after school for care constitute the remaining third.

In addition, the report names 13 continuing education courses which were held at the Center in 1974. Two hundred and thirty-five adult students signed up for these courses which ranged from cake decorating to range of community home nursing.

Adult Basic Education and preparation for the High School Equivalency tests are on-going courses. In the past few years, three dozen people have obtained high school diplomas through the GED program. Most courses at Seton Center are co-sponsored by the Frederick County Department of Education and the Emmitsburg Lifelong Learning Council.

In addition, a teacher training program, underwritten by the Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, provided 64 hours of instruction and participation for each of 21 interns from day care centers in Frederick, Washington and Carroll counties. Seton Center was chosen as a pilot center in 1972 to upgrade the training of area day care personnel. The Center was selected under criteria which require fully meeting state requirements and the presence of an outstanding program director.

Special services to children rendered by Seton Center during 1974 included hearing tests, 72; vision tests, 72; psychological tests, 2; speech evaluations, 13; speech therapy, 1; health clinic visits, 25.

Under Psychotherapeutic Services, the annual report lists 50 group sessions for alcoholics and 22 sessions of family counseling.

The Senior Citizen program at Seton Center was enlarged during 1974 under the direction of Sr. Marcia Conilus, D.C., who joined the staff. Three hospital visits and 86 home visits to senior citizens were reported for the year.

The per diem rate at Seton Center for day care is $7. The Center is financed principally through parents fees, purchase of care from Frederick County Social Services, and support from United Givers Fund. Other contributions come from the Campaign for Human Development and private sources. Nominal monies collected for recycled clothing in the Seton Center Thrift Shop also help defray expenses.

Seton Center Advisory Board members for 1975 are: Rev. John Chatlos, Chairman; Paul A. Keepers, Vice Chair-

Bottle Institute. These bottles can't shatter and are much less likely to slip out of hands, since they often have molded-in handles or ribbed sides for easy handling. Some even provide other safety features such as molded shields and dispensers to protect hands from harsh chemicals. Finally, they're lighter than most other kinds of containers for easier handling at home or in the supermarket.

It seems safe to say that there are a lot of safe features in plastic bottles.

for the Bakeless Bake Sale held recently by the Auxiliary. Chaplain Frances Rosensteel reported that a planter and card had been sent to members recently hospitalized.

A letter was read from the St. Joseph's High School Athletic Association asking for our financial support. Members later voted to send a donation to the Association.

The District meeting held at Brute Council 1860 on Saturday was a success. The auxiliary assisted in serving light refreshments to the visitors during the day's activities.

The "Salute to Emmitsburg" week at the Frederick County Square Shopping Center was discussed. Members to help on Wednesday, April 23, are Alice Boyle, Frances Rosensteel, Mary Scott, Anna Gerken, Ann Welby, Virginia Sanders, Nancy Danner and Sharon Danner.

The subject of Mr. Marsden's talk will be, "The Maryland Militia Man, 1776-1780, His Arms and Personal Equipment."

Mr. Marsden will wear an authentic uniform and display various artifacts of that period. An original land grant deed from the Emmitsburg area will also be shown.

Mr. Marsden's wife, a niece of Masie Sebald Alvey, South Seton Avenue, Emmitsburg, will accompany her husband. She will not be in costume at this meeting but has promised to wear a gown of the Civil War period when she and her husband return at a later date, with artifacts and information of that time in Maryland's history.

Knowing that this presentation will have wide appeal, to all ages, the Society will welcome the attendance of all who have an interest in Maryland's early history.

The Society will hold its regular meeting on April 24 at 7:30, at which time Ernest Shriver will present a slide show of interesting views of Emmitsburg, covering a span of 75 years. It is expected many members and guests will view scenes that haven't been seen by them before. Every one interested in seeing the contrast between the past and the present, is welcome to attend this meeting.

Speaker To Don Revolution Uniform

The Emmitsburg Historical Society will hold a special meeting on April 18, at 7:30, in the meeting room of the Methodist Church, in order to present a program of particular and timely interest to members and guests.

At this time, the Society will have the great pleasure and honor of presenting as their guest speaker, Dick Marsden, of Rockville and Emmitsburg, who for many years has been engaged in extensive research on the Revolutionary War and Civil War periods.

Mr. Marsden is a charter member of Potomac Arms Collectors Association, a member of the Company of Military Historians, an 18 year member of the North South Skirmish Association, and a member of the Loudon Militia.

The subject of Mr. Marsden's talk will be, "The Maryland Militia Man, 1776-1780, His Arms and Personal Equipment."

Mr. Marsden will wear an authentic uniform and display various artifacts of that period. An original land grant deed from the Emmitsburg area will also be shown.

Mr. Marsden's wife, a niece of Masie Sebald Alvey, South Seton Avenue, Emmitsburg, will accompany her husband. She will not be in costume at this meeting but has promised to wear a gown of the Civil War period when she and her husband return at a later date, with artifacts and information of that time in Maryland's history.

Knowing that this presentation will have wide appeal, to all ages, the Society will welcome the attendance of all who have an interest in Maryland's early history.

The Society will hold its regular meeting on April 24 at 7:30, at which time Ernest Shriver will present a slide show of interesting views of Emmitsburg, covering a span of 75 years. It is expected many members and guests will view scenes that haven't been seen by them before. Every one interested in seeing the contrast between the past and the present, is welcome to attend this meeting.

Art Contest Begins Monday At Mall

The elementary schools of Emmitsburg have been invited to take part in an art contest sponsored by the Emmitsburg Historical Society and the Emmitsburg Lions Club. Outstanding entries in the contest will be placed on display at the Frederick County Square Mall from April 21 through April 26, during the "Salute to Emmitsburg," the mall management's tribute to our town.

The theme of the contest is: What does Emmitsburg mean to me? or, What I like best about my town, Emmitsburg.

The purpose of this contest is to stimulate in our children an awareness of our natural and cultural resources; to enhance their appreciation of life in a small town with its aspects of beauty, charm and historical significance.

Art work entries may be submitted in any medium: water color, ink, charcoal, pastels, etc. First prize will be a $25 U. S. Savings Bond. Second prize is a book, and the next four runnersup will receive souvenir Bicentennial coins of Frederick County.

Entries will be picked up from the schools today at 3 p.m.

Maddox Receives Commendation
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, R1, are proud to announce that their son, Private Robert D. Maddox, has successfully completed the CH-47 Helicopter Repair Course.

In a letter of commendation, Col. Nathaniel Thompson, Jr. lauded Private Maddox: "Your performance in such an energetic, enthusiastic and professional manner is to be commended."

"... by applying yourself as you have demonstrated, you will be making a significant contribution to the successful accomplishment of the mission of the United States Army."

8th Graders Hunt Indian Artifacts

Twelve eighth grade students from Mother Seton School, along with Mr. Jay Dickinson, and Rev. H. Austin Cooper of Burkittsville, will embark on an archeological expedition on Saturday, April 19. The trip will begin about 7:30, with the group meeting at the school to proceed to the Paul Burrier property on the Monocacy River, where they will hunt for artifacts left by Indians from this area.

The eighth graders studied archeology under Mr. Dickinson earlier this year.

Fashion FORECASTS WHAT TO EXPECT

IT GOES TO YOUR HEAD
The big thing starting this spring for smart heads to head into is a hood. It can not only keep away the sun, wind and weather all year long, but it can make you look so romantically pretty you'll probably think if a pity you ever wore anything else.

For the warmer weather, this heady look may be worn on a 100 percent cotton interlock shirt-jacket that can suit you to a t-shirt, really go over well when worn over a trim, tailored blouse and make you look cute as a button all buttoned up and by itself over pants, skirts, shorts or swim suits.

It comes striped for reactions in white with red, blue or green pin-stripes, has snappy elasticized cuffs and waistband to fit your form flatteringly and is created by the adroit designers at Garland who seem to have cottoned onto a way to help you stay casually, comfortably in such style, you may feel as if you were born with a caul (once considered the luckiest way).

The hood can do a good deal to help steal some gentlemen's glances your way, and the smartly seam-showing shirt attached to it may do its bit in helping you keep them.

Inflation-Fighting Home Fix-Up Ideas

When you start your home repairs this spring, consider the value aluminum nails can offer you in a variety of ways.

Aluminum nails don't rust. This means protection against staining and loosening in all kinds of weather.

Since aluminum nails don't rust, they don't streak. So there's no need for frequent paint touch-ups, as other types of nails might require.

You can use plain nails if you prefer. But you can also pre-paint aluminum nails for a complete color coordination in your home. Aluminum takes to paint very nicely.

Thanks to the latest developments in technology, alloys have been created to make aluminum nails even more durable, more dependable, and stronger than ever before.

You'll never have to take any special precautions, either. Just treat aluminum nails as you would any other kind of nail. They can take it.

Many people have been using a cost-per-pound guideline for pricing aluminum nails. This is because they probably don't realize aluminum is so light.

You can get about three times as many aluminum nails to the pound as ordinary nails. So budget yourself by the number of nails you need—not the weight.

Aluminum nails can be used effectively on all outside jobs you might find in your home. These include work on wood or asbestos siding and shingles, aluminum siding and trim, plastic panels, roofing, gutters and downspouts, porches and decks, fencing, and outdoor furniture.

Aluminum nails come in a great variety of sizes, ranging from 5/8" trailer nails to 7" gutter spikes. They have flat, finishing, casing, file grip, ring grip, and combination thread shanks for greater holding power.

Roofing and panel nails also come with diamond-embossed and stucco-embossed heads. They also have plain, spiral, screw thread, file grip, ring grip, and combination thread shanks for greater holding power.

For a booklet about aluminum nails for home projects, just write to the Aluminum Association, 750 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.
