Jeremiah Wynkoop is coming to town.

Mr. Wynkoop is a fictional character who will be guide and commentary for the events of the revolutionary era at the program to be presented at the VFW September 2 at 7:30 p.m. "Those Revolting Americans," a portrait of Revolutionary America based on the Jeremiah Wynkoop collection, will be the first in a series of programs presented in the special bicentennial project, "Little America — A Small Town Reflects on the Bicentennial."

All the citizens of Emmitsburg have been cordially invited to attend the presentation. I hope you'll all be able to make it. You better circle the date on your calendars. I know that a lot of work has gone into this project and hope you'll give them your support and your interest.

Attendance at the VFW Memorial Swimming Pool is still very good. High attendance is the best way of saying thank you to all the people who devoted so much of their talents and efforts to building a pool in Emmitsburg.

The number dropped off a little on the days when the weather was a little on the nasty side. That's to be expected though. Rain and the threat of a thunder shower has kept many a swimmer out of the water.

I'm glad to see that you're enjoying the pool so much.

Well, they've resurfaced main street again. As much as I like to see the streets being kept in good repair, I hate to see another layer of paving material added. Parking on main street is a problem and it gets worse with each resurfacing. Why, it's quite a project for me to get out of a car that's parked on one of those inclines — particularly those on the south side of East Main Street. Parking for shoppers patronizing our merchants on Main Street is scarce enough as it is without making shoppers get through an obstacle course to get out of their cars. What can be done about this?

I just want to remind you that this paper is here to air other people's opinions besides mine. If you have something to say, write a letter to the editor. It's the newspaper's policy to require a signature on each letter to the editor and names can be withheld if requested. The newspaper would be glad to see more response from the community. Interest and concern over community affairs is a healthy sign for any town.

There's going to be a meeting next Monday evening, August 18, 7:30 p.m., at St. Joseph's High School, for all those local non-profit organizations who are interested in providing some sort of eating arrangements for the day of Mother Seton's canonization. You probably remember that at the last council meeting it was determined that permits would be necessary for setting up eating places and a lot of other planning will be necessary to make sure that all arrangements are co-ordinated. If one of the organizations you are affiliated with is making plans for September 14, make sure someone is representing your organization at Monday's meeting.

Senior Citizens Plan Picnic

Tuesday, August 19, is the evening for the last picnic of the summer for the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens. It will be held at Kump's Dam Park at 6:30 p.m. The club will furnish meat, bread and beverage. Each member is to bring a covered dish of food and place setting.

In case of inclement weather the picnic will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the United Church of Christ on West Main Street, at the same hour. Come spend an evening of fun.

Area Deaths

MARIE G. RIAL

Mrs. Marie Gloninger Rial, 86, Rt. 1, Emmitsburg, died at Carroll Manor, Hyattsville, on July 10. Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., the daughter of the late James Ledlie and Mary Walsh Gloninger, she came to Emmitsburg with her family after her father's death while still in her teens. She graduated from St. Joseph's College's first graduating class in 1910; was married to Dr. Bruce Poole Rial, of Pittsburgh, at St. Anthony's Shrine in 1911. After extensive travel in Europe, she returned to Emmitsburg, and in 1939 made her home at Clairvaux.

A dedicated member of the community, she engaged in many activities including catechetical work and civic duties in connection with elections.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. G. Edward Borst of Bethesda; Mrs. James A. McKenna, Jr., of Chevy Chase, and Mrs. John L. Cunningham of Blue Ridge Summit. Her youngest daughter, Aileen Rial Schwartz, died in 1959. Also surviving are 20 grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Simon Klosky of St. Anthony's Shrine, and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at St. Anthony's Shrine July 12, with Rev. Edward Sargus officiating. Monsignor Phillips of Mt. St. Mary's College, and Rev. Thomas Caulfield, were on the altar. The homily was delivered by the oldest grandson, G. Edward (Nick) Borst, Jr. The music was provided by members of the Emmitsburg Chorus under the direction of Sister Jean Marie Perrot, D.C. The honorary pallbearers were Mrs. Rial's four sons-in-law. Six grandsons carried the coffin: Nick Borst, Matt and Mark McKenna, Philip and Mark Cunningham and Paul Schwartz.

Interment was in the Mount Cemetery of St. Anthony's Shrine.

MRS. H. ROBERT GILLEAN

Mrs. Mary Louise (Beam) Gillean, 80, 224 W. Main St., Emmitsburg, died Tuesday morning at Michael Manor, Gettysburg.

She was a daughter of the late Harry and Lucy Hundly Beam and was the last surviving member of her family. Her husband, H. Robert Gillean, died in August, 1960.

She was a member of Elias Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg.

Surviving are four children, Robert M. Gillean, Biglerville; Mrs. Edward Straub, Gettysburg; Mrs. A. J. Wood, Finksburg; and Mrs. Michael Kornanski, Pearl River, N. Y.; 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held this morning (Thursday) at 11 o'clock from the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. W. Ronald Fearer and Rev. Philip Bower, officiating. Interment was in the Emmitsburg Memorial Cemetery.

St. Joseph's Church Picnic Saturday

A new feature at this year's St. Joseph's Church Picnic will be the "dunk tank" game. Chairman Chuck Dillin said this should be one of the most popular booths at this year's festival. Hopefully, many volunteers, both male and female, will sit on the bench to make the booth a popular attraction.

Volunteers are also needed on Friday evening to help set-up for the event which will begin at noon on Saturday, August 16, in the church grove on DePaul Street. Workers are asked to assemble at 5:30. With many willing workers it won't take long to get ready for the picnic. Helpers are also needed on Sunday morning to clean up the grove.

A chicken barbecue dinner will be served from noon until evening. Other attractions include the corn game, a fancy table, cake and homemade candy table and many games for the young and old. Plan to attend and help make it a social and financial success.

In the event of inclement weather the picnic will be held in St. Joseph's High School on the same day.

Kindergarten Lists & Time Schedules

Emmitsburg School will open for students on Tuesday, September 2, with homeroom period starting at 8:50 a.m. Bus routes will be basically the same as last year.

Mud College Marks 105th Anniversary

The "little red school house" will come alive next Sunday, August 17, when former pupils, teachers, and others interested in "Mud College" on the Littlestown - Gettysburg Pike will celebrate the 105th anniversary of this nostalgic landmark.

The school house, built in 1870, has been preserved just as it was for the last century through purchase by ten Crouse brothers who attended classes there. Organ, pot-bellied stove, window lanterns, double desks seating as many as 72, and the belfry bell which summoned pupils to classes in the one-room structure, all have been left in place and can be seen by the public.

The reunion and public celebration will be held Sunday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. Ice cream and corn on the cob will be served at conclusion of the program.

The schoolhouse, used in filming "Birch Festival" starring Eddie Albert, is located two miles north of Littlestown on Route 140 between Littlestown and Gettysburg. The public is invited.

Open Letter

TO THE CITIZENS OF EMMITSBURG:

I want you to understand my role in the Town Meeting of August 4.

First of all, each member of the Citizens Committee, approved by Mayor Sprinkle and our Commissioners, was asked to bring the comments, observations and complaints of townspeople to their attention. Acting in just that capacity, the complaints presented regarding our pool were those of citizens who had asked me to represent them at the meeting.

The rumor, that complaints were registered with the Health Dept. is just that—a rumor—not a fact. In order to verify that the complaints were justified, I called and received general information — never using my name or our town's name—which any citizen can do with any government agency.

I do not apologize for my actions, my intentions were honorable. I'm sure we are all extremely grateful for our pool, and only desire that the highest standard be maintained.

Letter To The Editor

We, as members of the Citizens Committee, would like to call to the attention of the Town Officials and the citizens of Emmitsburg, the fact that Mrs. Gail Harris, the Chairperson of the Committee, did not speak in our behalf at the town meeting of August 4, 1975.

The Committee has not yet held an official meeting and one is not scheduled until August 14. Therefore, complaints and criticisms spoken at the town meeting were not a result of the members' decisions and/or opinions. We do not feel that Mrs. Harris had the right to use the Citizens Committee as a platform for these comments until they were discussed, debated, and given the approval or disapproval of the Committee.

CB Radio Means Safer Highways

Modern two-way radio communications has become a necessity for safe travel in aircraft and boats. Driving on modern highways isn't all that different! This is a major reason why relatively inexpensive and convenient "Citizens Band" two-way radio is now one of America's fastest growing means of communication.

The Citizens Radio Section, Electronics Industries Association, reports 1 out of 28 of all American families and 1 out of 15 farm families now use this modern two-way facility, with over 64-million radios in use.

You can call from home, to car, to business. On the open highway, call to a volunteer base station on the official emergency channel (9) to seek road directions, get assistance in case of a breakdown or report an accident. In this way, approximately 20 million emergencies annually are reported by Citizens Radio.

Adding new dimension to this communications network are thousands of professional over-the-road truck drivers who have joined the ranks of Citizens two-way radio operators. Truckers have found this communications tool to be a great traveling companion with 1 out of 5 long-haul trucks so equipped. They talk to each other, to motorists in automobiles ("4-wheelers"), and recreational vehicles; as well as to truck stops and other fixed base stations. It helps drivers to keep alert on long trips, permits visual safety checks while moving and creates a fraternal spirit among the drivers.

The safety potential of this communications system is obvious. If an accident or breakdown occurs, communications from any radio equipped vehicle brings the required aid. Finding one's way on our modern superhighways can often be confusing and potentially dangerous, but having voice communications with a "native" can easily solve the traveler's dilemma.

A whole "army" of volunteer emergency monitors dedicate their efforts for the purpose of receiving such calls on the official emergency channel. These volunteers are being joined in increasing numbers by official agencies. The Ohio State Highway Patrol monitors the official emergency channel from all its 57 permanent installations.

Submitting a simple, non-technical form, any citizen may obtain an FCC citizens radio license that costs only $4.00 for 5 years. CB radios, including antenna, range from $100 and up. It is possible to equip both your car and home for a total cost as low as $250. A valuable investment providing safety, convenience and fuel economy.

The Citizens Radio Section of the Electronics Industries Association has an informative pamphlet available that answers many questions about personal citizens two-way radio. It may be obtained by writing to E.I.A. Service Dept., 21 E. Hubbard St., 7th floor, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

OLD ORDER HAS NEW WAYS

Automated Abbey. The Cistercian monks of Caldey Abbey, located on Caldey Island, southwest of Wales, use a Burroughs business mini-computer to handle the computation of payrolls, value added tax, inventory control and other tasks associated with running various business enterprises at the monastery. The abbey has a 600-acre dairy farm including 40 head of Jersey cows. The monks also operate an apriary, perfumery and confectionary. Totaled, these enterprises generate almost $250,000 in revenue annually. Couple the business enterprises with the 15 daily religious services, for which all commercial activities cease, and one can see the need for the time saved by the business mini-computer.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

ARE YOU A FIRST-RATE MATE?

Do you have a perfect memory? Are you absolutely consistent? Proud of being "well-adjusted?"

If you've answered "yes" to all these questions, beware! These are three of the six "deadly virtues" that can mar your marriage. To find out about these deadly virtues and how you rate, try this quiz.

If you get six right, you're a first-rate mate. Two to five right means that you can probably find ways to make your marriage a little more exciting. One or none? Back up and make a fresh beginning!

Choose either (a) or (b), whichever you think applies to you:

1. Have you (a) a perfect memory, (b) do you forget certain things said during a quarrel?

Answer: (b) The best mates are often shockingly weak in the memory department. Last night's tiff — when certain wounding remarks were shouted on both sides — is somehow, for these mates, almost impossible to recall even the next morning! And a really first-rate mate might suggest a weekend trip away from home that can say "Even if I don't remember, I'm sorry." "Let's make up" and "I love you," rolled into one. Staying at a Holiday Inn for a few days is a beautiful way to erase arguments and create a second honeymoon atmosphere to carry a marriage triumphantly through a potential crisis. All the comforts of life are there; you bring the things of the heart with you.

2. Are you (a) "well-adjusted" (b) are you still fighting the great battle to get ahead, realize your talents, and make the most of your opportunities?

Answers: (b) If you and your mate are working in harmony to get the things you want out of life, your marriage is not in danger of surrendering to the boredom of the "well-adjusted couple" — too often simply another name for the couple which has fallen into a rut.

3. Are you (a) very consistent in your habits, appearance, likes and dislikes (b) full of surprises and an occasional contradiction?

Answer: (b) If you suspect your mate can tell what you're going to say before you say it, what you'll serve or who you'll bring home for dinner, then you should develop a new enthusiasm, meet new friends, learn new recipes. If your husband makes you feel "invisible" — a complaint often heard by marriage counselors — he may need not a new viewpoint but a new view.

4. Are you (a) completely objective (b) are you inclined to brag a little in public about your husband or your wife?

Answer: (b) Marriage is not the witness stand. When you tell anecdotes to others, make sure it's you — not your mate — who is the butt of the joke. When your spouse looks especially nice on a gala evening, tell him or her so in front of your friends.

5. Are you (a) a perfectionist (b) are you sometimes ridiculously easy to please?

Answer: (b) Perhaps the most neglected, overlooked, or misunderstood miracle in early married life is your mate's intense desire to please you. A private language expressed in gestures of affection (such as favorite dishes, certain kinds of flowers, coffee in bed) naturally wants to grow. But you shouldn't insist that this "private language" be too complicated to learn or too easy to be misunderstood because of your overly high expectations. What if the coffee served in bed is a little weak? This is no time for a lecture on how to make good coffee.

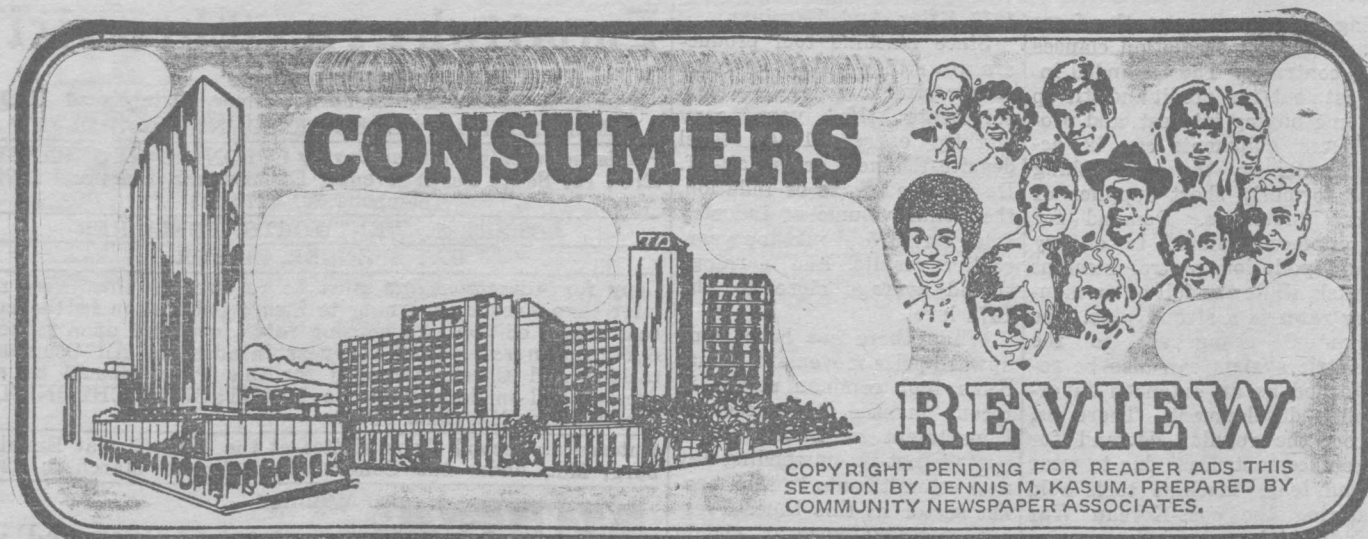

6. Are you (a) emotionally mature (b) still romantically minded about your mate?

Answer: (b) You can be a stable individual — holding your job, paying your bills, bringing up the children, and contributing to the community — and still preserve many romantic gestures in your marriage. For couples who work to keep romance alive, something of youth will always remain in their marriages, even through their golden wedding anniversary.

TRAVEL TIPS AND TRICKS

TRAVELING WOMEN

When you're touring a foreign country with your Women's Club and you feel like playing the solitary observer one evening, welcome the opportunity! You're giving yourself a wonderful chance to observe the rich flow of life around you. Here are a few tips to handle the situation smoothly.

The old proverb that "a good book is the best of friends" is never more true than when you and the book are together at the dinner table.

Dine early. If you feel self-conscious about walking into a restaurant alone, slip in ahead of the crowd. In a country like Spain, where the height of the dinner hour is 10:30 or 11 in the evening, get to the restaurant about 9 or 9:30.

Start off by dining somewhere that reminds you of home. You can find 1,700 familiar faces around the world in the form of Holiday Inns which offer you American style food (in addition to local and American standards of comfort and quality).

If you have any doubts or questions about suitable restaurants, ask your concierge for advice, and, where possible, have him make the booking.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Order Backlogs Keep Machine Tool Industry Alive

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 14, 1975—In spite of the current temporary lull in new machine tool orders, the longer term outlook for companies within the industry is favorable. Stock market issues in the field have, therefore, participated in the upsurge in prices enjoyed during the first half of 1975. However, most machine tool issues are still well below their historical highs and this is understandable in view of the fact that the near-term financial results of most companies will be unimpressive, at best. But looking beyond immediate problems, industry participants expect a rebound in sales and earnings of sufficient scope to support some further recovery in prices of machine tool stocks.

Several large and well-known firms occupy leading positions in this competitive industry, with a lion's share of their sales deriving directly from machine tools. These machines are either semi-automatic or fully automatic, or numerically controlled. Usually they form or cut material, or perform a combination of various functions such as milling, planing, turning, grinding, boring, or drilling.

Highly Cyclical Industry The highly cyclical nature of the machine tool industry can readily be seen in the erratic swings of both sales and earnings. The fortunes of the field are closely aligned with the tides of industrial production. At this time, with the negative influence of a worldwide recession adversely affecting new business inflow, order backlogs are being thinned out. With many major industries now operating well below capacity, the immediate outlook for machine tool makers is certainly far from optimistic.

Nevertheless, the longer-term prospects are much more heartening. Through the use of newer and technologically advanced machinery, end-users can step up their productivity levels. And a changing product mix, such as the shift from large to small cars, is conducive to additional sales of machine tools. While some time may elapse before a turnaround in the economy is translated into machine tool orders, an eventual rebound in demand will be seen. Often, however, this recovery is obscured by the doom-gloom psychology that is likely to prevail during the lowest part of a recession.

Other Favorable Aspects

The need for productivity gains during this period of cost inflation brightens the prospects for increased machine tool sales, and there are other factors that should have a bolstering effect on near-to-intermediate-term operating results. Producers in 1975 have the benefit of higher selling prices, some partly from built-in cost escalation clauses in contracts. The expanded investment tax credit and stir up some buying interest, and producers' shipments can be accelerated by the replenishing of formerly short supplies of raw materials. Demand for equipment related to energy and pollution control remains brisk, while the fall-off in money rates is a strong plus. The gradual changeover to the metric system can also be regarded as an extended favorable development. There is, too, the regular demand for replacement needs due to wear and tear; machine tools sold during the post-Korean War industrial expansion are ripe for replacement.

1975 Sales And Earnings

Since machine tool producers are still working off some rather sizable order backlogs, shipments this year may slightly exceed 1974's level despite the new order fall-off. Due to the effects of inflation, the dollar volume of industry sales for 1975 should top year-earlier results, and earnings should average close to the 1974 level.

While there has been some upward price movement in machine tool common stocks in recent months, the Research Department of Babson's Reports is not recommending any new commitments in this market sector at this time. Present holdings, however, should be maintained.

Payroll Savings. Security on the installment plan.

You make time payments on practically everything. So why not make a few on your hopes and your dreams?

All you have to do is sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Then an amount you specify is set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You won't miss the money. And you'll get a little richer every payday.

So donate part of your paycheck to the most deserving cause in the world: your future.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. When I bought my life insurance a few years ago I stipulated that half the policy be made payable to my wife and the other half be divided between my two children. That's okay, isn't it? After all these are the people I want to have the money.

A. You may have made a mistake with this type of beneficiary arrangement. While it seemed plausible to you at the time you made it—after all the money would be used to raise the children—the result in the event of your death would be that your wife would not be able to touch a penny of your children's shares until she had gone to court and received an appointment as their guardian. As guardian, she would then have to render strict accounts to the court for every cent she spends from the funds and submit a final accounting when your children reach the age of 21.

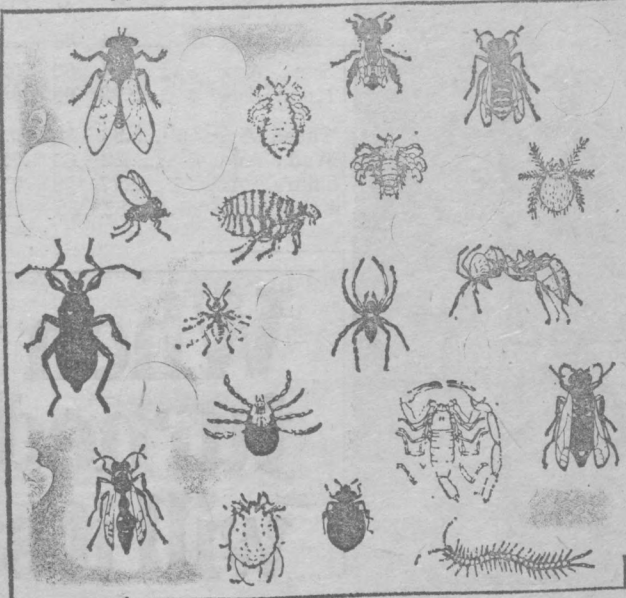

She also would be—technically at least—liable for any mistake or misjudgment in handling the money. And each child's share could only be used in behalf of that particular child. Furthermore, none of your children's money could be for your wife's support.

The point is, beneficiary arrangements should be updated from time to time as your family and fortunes change. A daughter marries and no longer needs as much help as her sister. Grandchildren are born. The value of your estate increases or shrinks. It is events just such as these that may require a change in your beneficiary.

TIPS TO HELP PROTECT YOUR HEALTH
AVOIDING INSECT STINGS

To most people, an insect sting is a painful experience, but one that's forgotten overnight. But for one person in a hundred the sting of an insect may be fatal. Here are a few tips on how to avoid and treat insect stings, provided by CIBA-GEIGY Corporation as a public service, in their booklet Insects That Sting.

1. Keep lawns free of clover and dandelions, which attract honeybees to the yard.
2. Avoid close contact with flowering trees and shrubs when bees and wasps are collecting nectar.
3. Honeybees are generally most aggressive on dark, overcast days, and in the early spring. Avoid working with flowering plants at these times if bees are present.
4. If a stinging insect lands on your body brush it away—don't slap it against you. Slapping the insect will trap it and cause it to sting.

In most cases, if you stand still and stay quiet, the insect will fly away.

5. If you spot an insect nest, you may want to use a high-pressure aerosol spray against it. The aerosol should contain pyrethrin, an instant knockdown insecticide, and should shoot a high volume spray 10 to 15 feet.

6. Vines may conceal nests and should be removed from the house. CIBA-GEIGY, a leading U.S. chemical company, creates and manufactures a wide variety of products that make life healthier and more pleasant, including pharmaceuticals, agricultural products, dyes, pigments, plastics and additives and consumer products.

If you would like to obtain the booklet Insects That Sting, write to CIBA-GEIGY Corporation, c/o Corporate Relations Dept., Ardsley, N.Y. 10502.

Space-Swapping

Like a lot of us, you may need some extra elbow room in your cramped kitchen. If there's not enough space for a casual eating area, or just no place to do justice to preparation of a gourmet meal, then you should consider annexing an adjacent area.

Swap Creates New Alcove.
Chances are a side porch or even an awkward small alcove already backs up into your kitchen. A simple matter of knocking down a non-load-bearing wall or two will create the needed space. Your new, enlarged kitchen will quickly become the hub of the family, a happy environment for chefs and diners alike.

Install Own Floor
One way to tie together all this new space available to you is via "no-wax" cushioned sheet vinyl. Most Gafstar® vinyl floors come up to 12' wide and may be self-installed, "loose-lay" fashion, without cements. Simply cut the flooring slightly oversize, install over a smooth, dry subsurface (even over old linoleum or tiles), and then trim to fit your room. If your working area is wider than 12', you'll need to cement a seam. The job will look even more professional once you've nailed quarter round wooden moldings or installed vinyl or rubber cove base around the room's edges.

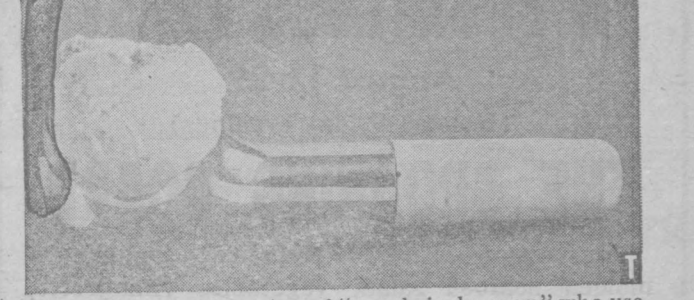

Extra-Added Attractions
What, you may pause to wonder, should you do with extra sheet vinyl once you've finished your floor installation? One idea for an eating area that will result in a designer look is to cement additional flooring onto walls. As practical as it is pretty, walls will wipe clean with a damp sponge.

Decoratively, your breakfast alcove now ties together with your entire working space, so that you'll enjoy a complete floor-to-ceiling environment of care-free, bright colors.

Put it all together and what do you have? ... a feeling of lots more, at very little expense.

WHAT'S THE SCOOP?

There's a growing army of "armchair shoppers" who use a credit card to send for everything from a bar of soap to a sable coat from mail order catalogs. One of the most popular catalogs is the Horchow Collection, used by energy conservers who don't like using their time or cars except when necessary; by celebrities (who like to shop in privacy); by busy people in a hurry; and by those of us who like the comfort of shopping at home day or night (by toll free telephone or letter).

One of the popular Horchow summer items is this efficient ice cream scoop, with safe, non-toxic antifreeze sealed inside it, to make serving even the hardest of ice creams a breeze of an operation, like spreading butter. For more cold facts on this one ($15.00 plus $1.25 postage and handling) write to The Horchow Collection, P.O. Box 34257, Dallas, Texas 75234, or call toll-free 800-527-4635. Lewis Bros. Circus Coming To Gettysburg

Final arrangements have been completed between representatives of the Miami based Lewis Bros. Circus, and the Gettysburg Sertoma Club to bring a traditional type American Circus under the big top to International Village on Monday, August 18.

The circus, whether it is magic, illusion or real, is as much American as apple pie. And to help celebrate our nation's birthday, the Lewis Bros. Circus for 1975 will put its big top at the lot next to the International Village on Business Route 15, south of Gettysburg.

Lewis Bros. Circus has the policy of bringing a new performance to the 180 cities they play each year, and 1975 is no exception. Some of the top acts in the circus business from America and abroad will be seen with the circus this year. The Rucker's uncaged leopard act, Radon's chimps and dog acts, Miss Felicia

Tara, the ten year old girl, with her mixed educated performing animals, are just a few of the center ring attractions. And don't forget Myrtle, America's largest performing elephant, and her room mate, Miss Betty, a five year old baby elephant.

Miss Patti does foot juggling; Hines sword balancing; Antoninette Cristiani and her beautiful horses; plus thrilling acrobatic acts high in the big top; and those crazy clowns on the ground laughing all of the time.

The sponsor of the circus is selling advance circus tickets at a budget price in order to raise funds for their community projects. Children tickets to age 13 are $1.50 and adults are $2.00.

The midway and side show open one hour before the big top performances, which are presented at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. daily.

When you're turned out to pasture, will it still be green?

Maybe your life's pretty good right now. But if you want to keep it that way, you've got to plan for it. And one way you can do just that is by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Then, when you're ready to stop working, you'll still be able to keep on living.

Now 12 Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. ROSH HASHANAH—AN INTERNATIONAL JEWISH HOLIDAY

Jewish cuisine is truly international in origin and new dishes are readily joined with ancient traditions. Jews of Greek and Turkish origin serve green spinach and yellow pumpkin for Rosh Hashanah as symbols of the color variety of the first fruits of the fall season. Frequently these vegetables are put into pestelles or turnovers and are fried in peanut oil or baked. These pestelles are eaten hot or cold, at meals or in between.

Shown here are Squash and Apple Pestelles, flaky pastry crescents filled with a sweetened mixture of baby squash and green apples that has been laced with cinnamon and nutmeg. The turnovers are then fried in deep hot Planters Peanut Oil until golden brown.

Planters Peanut Oil, a kosher product, is the favorite choice for frying. Jewish cooks prefer peanut oil for all cooking because of its light, delicate flavor.

In fact, peanut oil actually brings out the best in other recipe ingredients. And because it has a high smoke point, peanut oil offers special advantages for frying. That means that it can be heated to relatively high temperatures without burning or smoking.

SQUASH AND APPLE PESTELLES

- 3 jars (4 1/2-ounces each) baby squash
- 2/3 cups finely chopped pared green apples
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 2 packages (10-ounces each) pastry mix
- Planters Peanut Oil

Combine baby squash, apples, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Set aside.

Prepare both packages of pastry mix according to directions. Divide into three equal parts. On lightly floured board roll one part of dough into a large circle 1/16-inch thick. Cut dough into rounds, 4 1/2-inches in diameter. Reserve scraps of dough. Place a level tablespoon of squash mixture in center of each round. Fold dough in half over filling forming half-moon shape. Press edge with tines of fork. Repeat with remaining pastry dough, scraps and filling.

Fry in deep hot (375°F.) Planters Peanut Oil until golden brown, about 5 minutes. Drain on paper towels. Serve warm. Makes about 30 turnovers.

SQUASH AND RAISIN PESTELLES: Same as above except substitute 2/3 cup raisins for apples.

Flourish Into Off-Camera Flash

From a group of little girls loose with a batch of grown-up clothes and the results are sure to be delightful. And so are the pictures you take of them. Indoor shots do require flash sometimes, of course, but this can be very simple, particularly when you're using one of the new Kodak Trimlite Instamatic cameras with flipflash.

You still have to remember that flash is most effective from four to ten feet and, to avoid harsh shadows, you should keep your subjects away from the wall. And for even lighting in a group picture, try to have each person reasonably equidistant from the camera.

When the dress-up hat suddenly comes down to cover the wearers' faces completely, you have to be alert to catch the instant when your camera. When you use flipflash on your camera, you're ready for light in a row.

With the flipflash, you have a choice of a series of light flashes on or off the camera, with a single flip after the first four. For off-camera flash you need a Kodak flipflash extender, which connects the flash and camera by means of an 18-inch cord.

While you're taking pictures, and the kids are in a relaxed and happy mood, why not do a shot with enlargement-for-the-grandparents in mind? For the best effect, shoot at the kids' level.

This arrangement gives you the freedom to direct the light at your subject from the side, or above, or as needed. You can even bounce the light from a white ceiling if you wish.

The Trimlite Instamatic cameras retain all the advantages of the popular pocket cameras. They are small, light, easy to operate, and use film in the same tiny 110 cartridges.

Moving your picture-taking indoors does not change the basic rules for good pictures. You still need to hold your camera steady and level.

Watch the background as you shoot, to avoid distracting clutter. Shoot from your subjects' level and, to keep them relaxed, give them something to do. The dress-up situation mentioned above has great potential because the clothes serve as props as well as an inspiration for funny, elaborate posing.

The final, and perhaps most important, piece of advice is to stay alert and ready. Expressions and poses are fleeting, at best; and to save them, you have to be equally fast with your shutter finger.

- 1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 8 ounces spaghetti
- grated Parmesan cheese

Cook frankfurters, onion, and green pepper in butter until vegetables are tender. Stir in tomato sauce, chili powder, and cumin. Simmer, covered, 20 minutes; stir occasionally. Add olives; heat. Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. (One tablespoon oil may be added.) Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, 9 to 14 minutes until desired tenderness. Drain in colander. Serve frankfurter sauce over spaghetti; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Yield, 4 to 6 servings.
