I've gotten wind of a few rumors about the old hotel on the square. It seems that there are two factions involved in a controversy over the building. There are those wanting to tear it down to rid the community of an eyesore and there are those pushing for preservation of the hotel as part of Emmitsburg's historical heritage.

Before anyone can make a sound decision on the matter of the hotel—to be razed or to be saved—all the facts have to be put out in the open. Everyone should get a chance to hear the pros and cons on the issue before a decision is to be made. I hope that the appropriate groups and committees are trying to do this. Let's try to avoid any misunderstandings and work together on this, all keeping the welfare of the community in mind.

I was sorry to find out that the citizen's committee lost three of its members at its meeting last Thursday evening. What makes matters worse is that it still seems that things aren't "settled".

They do seem to have some good ideas come from members of the committee. Also, I hear they've picked up a few new members—I'm always glad to see more people getting involved in community projects.

A citizen's committee can be a valuable asset to a community like ours. I hope this one proves to be so.

There was a meeting just Tuesday evening of the committee that is making plans for the Seton Canonization on September 14th. Plans are progressing very well.

There are still three spots available for food concessions. These are Boyle's Field on North Seton Avenue, Civic Field on Rt. 97 East of Emmitsburg, and the field behind St. Joseph's High School on DePaul Street. If you are interested in opening a concession on any of these spots call George Danner (447-6293) or Robert Rosensteel (447-6272) not later than Monday, August 25, at 9:00 p.m.

The committee is also considering making a coded map available to visitors. The map would pin-point parking lots and show restaurants and concession stands.

Also, the Burgess and Commissioners are going to request that residents move their cars off the streets for September 14. If the cars were moved to the back of residents' properties, it would make the main streets available for visitors.

I've just noticed the new tables at the VFW Memorial Pool. They certainly do look nice. I'm surprised at the number of people I've talked to who haven't been down to take a swim. Summer is almost over! Try it this weekend—the water is fine!

It won't be long now until school starts again. I really think that as I get older the summers get shorter and shorter, and they seemed short enough when I was a little girl!

The Chronicle has been publishing class lists and home-coming assignments and the first day of school is just around the corner. Good luck to all you scholars!

Local Softball Team Wins Tournament

Myer's Radio & TV Softball Team was the undefeated champion at the Fort Ritchie Invitational Softball Tournament this past weekend. The tournament, which extended through Friday, Saturday and Sunday, was played by teams from Greenastle, Waynesboro, Fort Ritchie, Emmitsburg, Thurmont, and Hagerstown. Sixteen teams participated in all.

Letter To The Editor

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: Although I have been in the Emmitsburg area for only ten years, I have been a customer of many of the town merchants and have had an opportunity to enjoy the town and its people. Every single person I have come in contact with has been exceedingly friendly and pleasant with no exceptions!

Therefore, I hope the people of the town might take it as a compliment if a "newcomer" makes some observations on a current situation.

Emmitsburg is unique in that many of its early structures have survived relatively unchanged. This makes for a charm and serenity desirable to both residents and visitors to the town. Mr. Ernest Shriver has put together an excellent slide presentation of the town architecture, that points this out. I hope everyone has had an opportunity to see it.

If it is true that the bank intends to buy the old hotel on the square and lease it to the town in return for the cost of demolition, in order to make a parking lot, it would seem the town is being "short-changed". Does the town need a parking lot? Is it good business to spend money on someone else's property?

The building is there, it is sound and though fallen from its former glory, with paint and pointing, it could be an attractive addition to the square.

If Mrs. Myers is willing to sell the building and the bank is willing to finance, might it not provide the "motel" people discuss as being an urgent need of the town?

Mount St. Mary's has mentioned the great need for restaurant facilities as have the Sisters of St. Joseph's. Four or five bus-loads of tourists a week might pay the mortgage and create jobs in town. People look for just such accommodations as witnessed by the Fairfield Inn, the Wayside Inn in Middletown, Va., and others. Re-use of old structures has proven again and again a sound and feasible business practice all over the country.

The house on the Nestor property is gone—replaced by a supermarket that will be in competition with the locally owned businesses. Is the hotel next?

Accident Victim In Serious Condition

A 21-year-old Emmitsburg woman is in serious condition in the York hospital suffering from serious head injuries and trauma as a result of an auto accident on Md. Route 97 near Emmitsburg early Sunday morning.

Maryland Trooper Stephen W. Jesse said Martha J. Shorb of Westend Apts., Emmitsburg, suffered the injuries when she was operating her vehicle west on Md. 97 and lost control of the auto. He said the car spun around backwards and collided with an eastbound vehicle operated by James L. Crabbs, Westminster. Ms. Shorb's vehicle then veered off the left side of the roadway and caught fire, according to the investigating officer.

Ms. Shorb was transported by the Thurmont ambulance to Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, and later was moved to the surgical intensive care unit of York Hospital.

Crabbs and Mrs. Alice M. Crabbs, 45, were treated for minor injuries at Warner Hospital and released.

Driver error and speed too great for existing conditions were listed as factors contributing to the 12:35 a.m. accident, according to Tfc. Jesse. Charges in the accident are pending.

Four Police Units Case Motorcycle

Several motor violations are pending against Michael H. Pierce, 23, 135 Chambersburg St., Gettysburg, as a result of a high speed chase involving Pierce, his motorcycle and four police departments between Emmitsburg, Gettysburg, Bonneauville and Two Taverns at 1 o'clock Monday morning.

Pennsylvania State Police have issued citations against Pierce charging him with reckless driving and failure to stop at the direction of a police officer. However, they noted that several other charges are pending against Pierce by the Emmitsburg, Gettysburg borough, and Liberty township police departments which also took part in the chase.

According to the report, Emmitsburg Police Chief W. H. Filler began pursuit of the motorcyclist in Emmitsburg in connection with a motor vehicle violation.

Gettysburg State Police and Liberty Twp. police joined in the chase when Pierce headed northward on his motorcycle from U. S. Route 15 to business Rt. 15 and on into Gettysburg.

The Gettysburg police became involved in the chase on N. Washington St. and Pierce was pursued to Chambersburg St., where he headed east around the Square and then onto Hanover St. on Route 116.

At Bonneauville, police said Pierce turned on to the Two Taverns Road. They were able to bring his cycle to a halt on the same road a mile south of Two Taverns near the Hoffman Home.

Guests at the meeting were Steve and Sharon Deitz from Long Island, New York. Jimmy Valentine led a very interesting game for recreation. Mrs. Bassler served refreshments.

Susan Lind Wds Joseph A. Ritz

The marriage of Susan Virginia Lind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lind, Jr., of Thurmont, to Mr. Joseph A. Ritz, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Ritz, Sr., of Owings Mills, took place June 23 at St. Anthony's Church, Emmitsburg. Rev. Msgr. Robert R. Kline officiated at the Nuptial Mass and double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire gown of silk organza, the bodice lavished with bib overlay of delicate Chantilly lace that scalloped the high Victorian collar and ruffled the wrists of the long lace sleeves. Extending in a center applique on the flaring skirt, the beautiful lace appeared again as a wide scalloped hemline border that sloped to encompass the gossamer chapel train. Complimenting this perfectly was her long manilla of sheer illusion, edged in a scalloped repeat of the Chantilly lace that flowed to the tip of her train. The bride carried a cascade of yellow rosebuds and miniature white carnations.

She was attended by Mrs. James Topper as matron of honor and Mrs. Richard Wivell, both cousins of the bride.

They wore floor length gowns of gold printed organza, each with a high ruffled neckline, yoke edged with a ruffle, and long tapered sleeves with ruffled cuffs. Their full skirts fell with deep flounce from modified waistlines trimmed with velvet ribbon. Their gowns were complemented by picture hats with matching print fabric on the brim. Each carried a nosegay of miniature yellow carnations.

Mr. Michael Lind, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Fred Ritz, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Daniel Lind, III, brother of the bride. The organist was Mrs. Ernest Seltzer, great-aunt of the bride. Mrs. Bernard Frazier, cousin of the bride, was the soloist.

A reception was held at the Cozy Restaurant, Thurmont. The guest book was attended by Miss Kathy Crouse, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's High School in Emmitsburg. The bridegroom is a graduate of Franklin Senior High School in Reisterstown, and attended the University of Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritz are living in Fairfield, Pa., after a wedding trip to Niagara Falls.

Fire damage was minimal but with smoke and water damage the loss to the property was estimated at about $10,000. The fire company was called to an auto accident Friday evening and two on Saturday. Firemen also responded to a fire in a hay truck on Sunday and another car fire on Monday.

Committee Meets To Discuss Role In Community Affairs

The Citizen's Committee held a meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening, August 14. The committee got off to a fresh start after settling a controversy among the committee members about Mrs. Harris' role at the August town council meeting.

A letter to the editor had appeared in the August 14 edition of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, signed by seven members of the Citizens Committee, reprimanding Mrs. Harris for speaking on behalf of the citizen's committee when they had not authorized her to do so. Mrs. Harris responded to this accusation at the meeting saying that only one person who signed the letter was in attendance at the town council meeting. "An effective committee cannot work when people do not communicate with each other and apparently, this is the problem," Mrs. Harris claimed that she was not representing the committee at the town council meeting but was presenting the complaints if individual citizens who had spoken to her.

Several members felt that any complaints presented to the council should first be discussed at a meeting of the citizen's committee and with a majority of the committee then agreeing, the complaints brought to the town council. Mrs. Harris agreed saying, "I think that basically you're probably right but there are exceptions—as in any rule there are exceptions."

Rev. Ronald Fearer said that the lesson to be learned from the committee's difficulties was that they must act in concert. In attempting a reconciliation Rev. Fearer said that by talking over matters to be presented to council and by agreeing by simple majority, the committee can get under way and start addressing itself to the problems that desperately need their attention.

When the roll was called, three members resigned from the committee, one commenting that she did not feel she could offer anything constructive to the committee.

Also, the committee gained several new members.

A letter to the appropriate officials requesting that a District Court Commissioner be located in Emmitsburg, was submitted to the committee by Chairperson Gail Harris and approved with a correction. The letter is to be reviewed by Mayor Sprinkle before it is sent.

The objectives of the committee were reviewed and plans were made to follow-up on these projects: 1) letters to congressmen in reference to a district court commissioner; letters to judges in reference to court leniency; 2) keeping abreast of convictions and arrests within the community; 3) looking into drug abuse in the community and what can be done to deter it; 4) checking into the "County Beautification Program".

Emmitsburg Plans For Seton Visitors

In an effort to deal with an expected onslaught of possibly 50,000 visitors to the commemorative Masses for Mother Seton on Sept. 14 weekend, a mixed official and business group Monday night agreed to have George Danner coordinate the town's efforts.

Danner, a former member of the town planning commission, and a leader in the Knights of Columbus, was proposed as an able coordinator by Mayor Richard Sprinkle and readily accepted by the 40 persons present at the meeting.

Those attending the meeting at St. Joseph's High School represented the town council, the town Planning Commission, various food establishments, the Provincial House, the ambulance company, the fire company, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies of Brute, St. Anthony's Church, Boy Scouts, United Church of Christ, the Senior Baseball League and the majorettes.

In general, the group sought a way to develop a coordinated effort which will match the already advanced plans of the Provincial House in dealing with the expected problems of parking, transportation, food services, rest room facilities, traffic directions, and security in the area for the movement of fire, police and ambulance vehicles.

While the 50,000 visitor estimation was called by Valli Ryan, director of publicity of the Provincial House, only a "number" and a projection without confirmation, she said she was still reluctant to play up the 50,000 figure for fear it would keep people away.

"It could be much less," she said.

She said the plans for parking at the Provincial House call for 2,200 cars and 190 buses. She said this would mean about 10,000 people.

The Provincial House would have a food concession planned to serve 10,000 in Sunday, but there will be no food served there on Friday or Saturday, Sept. 12 and 13.

Places that announced they would have food sales were: Emmitt House, VFW, Palms, Ott Rouse, the fire company, Crouse's Drug Store, American Legion, Senior Baseball League, and nearby St. Anthony's Shrine.

No hawkers or vendors will be allowed on the streets, Mayor Sprinkle said. He said that town residents were being asked not to park on Main Street so that the principal town street would be available for visitors. Private property is being made available for parking on the outskirts of town, but the mayor said he did not know what charges would be made for such parking as it was up to the owners of the property. He said such property should have temporary toilet facilities and trash cans.

Town Commissioner Ernest Rosensteel was appointed to search for a method of bus shuttle service from such areas.

Parking at the Provincial House will be free.

Sister Ethelreda, principal of St. Joseph's High School, who is helping with the coordination, said that plans were well-advanced for help from the Pennsylvania and Maryland State Police, the Frederick County Sheriff's Department, and the Adams County, Pa., and Frederick County Fire Police.

Michael Boyle said that 3 ambulances will be stationed at strategic points in the area and that communication coordination was being augmented by the CBers.

To assist Donner on the committee are Robert Rosensteel, Daniel Martinez, Terry Myers, Pat Ott and Jim Kittinger.

One development that may assist the coordination effort is a plan for an area map that will show food, parking, and emergency areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene S. Foster, Towson, visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Scott on Monday. The Fosters also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Boyle and family.

Bridge Built Out Of Spite

Perhaps it's only in Scotland that you'll find a bridge over a river which was built out of spite. It crosses the River Teith near the old town of Doune, famous for making the best pistols in the country.

In the days of King James IV of Scotland there lived a tailor in Doune named Robert Spittal. He became a tailor to King James' Queen and was very proud of this honour.

One day he wanted to cross the River Teith by the only way which then existed, the ferry boat. But he found that he had left his purse at his home in Doune, some distance away, and had no money. The ferryman, a true Scot, refused to take him across the river unless he paid up on the spot.

The tailor was most incensed and vowed vengeance on the ferryman. So what he did was engage builders to make a bridge across the River Teith in the year 1535.

Teacher's Scotch Information Centre cannot discover how much Robert Spittal paid to have this bridge built, but presumably he thought it was worth it because the bridge put the ferryman out of business.

There are not many cross-river ferries left in Scotland now, but you can be assured that no ferryman who knows of the Bridge of Teith will refuse to take you over just because you've left your purse at home.

The International Women's Year Commemorative Stamp will go on sale at our office, Wednesday, August 27, 1975.

The design of this ten-cent commemorative stamp honoring Women, was unveiled on June 20 in Mexico City during the International Women's Year Conference sponsored by the United Nations. The first day of issue ceremony for the stamp will be held at Eisenhower College, in Seneca Falls, New York, on August 26. Seneca Falls was the site of the first Women's Rights Convention in the United States in 1848 and was also the first day of issue city for the 1948 Progress of Women stamp.

The primary design feature of the stamp is a white dove emerging from the top of the symbol representing women. In the upper right corner is an equal sign representing the equality of women. In the background, in blue and white, is an artistic representation of a pattern which globe makers might use in making a globe. This emphasizes the international significance of International Women's Year. George E. Rosensteel, PM.

Smoke Signal Season Brings On Burgers

Next time you're picnicking at the park or in your yard, cook up a tasty variation on the burger theme — Barbecued Cheeseburgers. Just brush patties generously with bottled barbecue sauce, top with cheese and a barbecued onion slice. Delicious! It's an idea from The Kraft Kitchens developed for use with their unique barbecue sauce which penetrates its flavor deep into the meat.

For additional flavor, add barbecue sauce to the ground beef before shaping into patties. You can choose your sauce to suit the tastes of family and friends. There are a variety of flavors available in bottled barbecue sauce today; besides regular, there's hot, garlic, onion bits and hickory smoke flavored, to name a few.

So that your burgers are perfect at serving time, start the fire 20 to 40 minutes before you plan to begin cooking. Barbecued Cheeseburgers are best cooked over medium coals. A simple formula for determining the charcoal temperature is by appearance. Flames are occasionally visible around hot coals, which are always glowing. Medium coals have a slight glow, and low coals are ash gray in color.

If the weather doesn't permit barbecuing outdoors, or if you're just not an outdoor cooking buff, try Barbecued Cheeseburgers cooked indoors under the broiler. Inside or out, you'll find them a welcome change of taste. For more all-season barbecuing recipes, write Kraft Barbecue Sauce Recipes, P. O. Box 6768, Chicago, Illinois 60680.

Barbecued Cheeseburgers

Eating On The Run

Do you anticipate a good deal of "eating on the run" for your family this summer?

Here is a series of tips from the Tupperware Family Foods Council that could help make vacation mealtime more fun, and more nutritious, too —

Before You Start

1. Consult your state maps for the location of roadside rest areas, and for state or even national parks along the general direction of your route. A few minutes of checking the maps could assure you of a cool and inviting roadside haven for your picnic lunch or dinner.

2. Consider other routes than interstate and super highways. With a national speed limit of 55 you'll not lose much time, and some of the less traveled routes can turn up some welcome surprises in scenic vistas, interesting landmarks, and some unusual opportunities for good eating. Remember, at least a sub-theme of the trip is probably to "relax and see the country."

3. Plan ahead for food breaks. Besides complete meals this would include the all-too-frequent snacks that mark vacation-time automotive travel. Don't permit the trip to become an opportunity for family members to load up on non-nutritive foods which curb the appetite at the expense of furnishing a caloric overload.

Fruits, for instance, curb the cravings for sweets. Hard boiled eggs furnish protein and occupy little space for the traveling family. Carrot sticks, an excellent source of Vitamin A, are a lot less expensive than candy sticks.

4. Plan for food storage. A portable cooler can be a great idea, and it doesn't occupy much space, but all-too-often it becomes the repository for canned drinks only. Be sure to insist it also carry some fruits and milk to provide some balance to the inevitable snacking.

For easy handling of items not requiring refrigeration — such as sugar, bread, flour for pancakes, and cereal — take some sealable plastic containers. They can be fitted into a car's nooks and crannies, and they'll help keep the foods fresh over the trip. They are ideal for pre-mixed fruit and other drinks, too, because they can be washed quickly and returned to their place in the car so easily.

On The Road

1. "Eating off the land" was routine to travelers just a generation or two ago. Stopping at a farmhouse for tomatoes, corn, or even a frying chicken was routine. People didn't travel as fast, partly because that super fresh food was so delicious.

But consider this route to some exceptional eating experiences as well as an opportunity for your family to observe the farming lifestyle. Biting into a warm, vine-ripened tomato could prove a rewarding experience for a youngster and possibly have a worthwhile effect on his nutritional future.

2. While "eating on the run" is a familiar routine for Americans who want to cover as many miles as possible on a given day, try to ease the tension for your family with at least one combined meal and rest stop. The old cliché that the food will digest better is true enough, and if the food is prepared by you, chances are it will be better for your family, too.

3. There's a tendency to eat all the time while driving, but the Family Foods Council suggests that homemaker vacationers not worry about it — particularly if the snacking can be limited to food groups that are relatively low in calories and high in nutritive content. Fruits, fresh or dried, nuts, cheeses, cold chicken — even pretzels — will probably take the edge off appetites, particularly for the youngsters, but because this type of snack food is in itself nutritious the eater has not been deprived of worthwhile food.

YOUR GARDEN Tips To Help You

Grow Better Vegetables

More and more home gardeners are planting vegetable seeds these days in order to put delicious, home-grown produce on the family table while saving money at the checkout counter.

If you're planning a vegetable garden, here are some things to remember:

Don't let your vegetables get too crowded. Most should be thinned while they're still seedlings to allow room for the rest to grow best. Then thin others like radishes, lettuce and other leaf or root crops again when they're not quite their full height but are just good enough to eat. Beans should be thinned to about 3 inches apart when plants are 2 inches high. Pea plants grow only from seeds planted directly in the bed where they're going to remain, and they should be planted two inches apart, to grow either as bushes or vines.

Check your plants regularly for insects or plant damage. Spray at first sign of infestation to prevent rapid bug buildup. One pesticide recommended by many experts is Spectracide, an all-purpose non-persistent pesticide by Ciba-Geigy. You may have any one of the 120 insects it controls, so read the label carefully for specific instructions. Spectracide is available in easy-to-use forms: liquid concentrate, aerosol spray and Garden Insect Dust.

Consider succession planting to get the most from your space. For example, you can plant a second crop, such as lettuce, where you have just harvested early peas.

So if you watch your peas and Q's — and keep the bugs under control — your garden can produce tasty vegetables for your dining pleasure. And you've done it all yourself!

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Comeback Trail For Utilities
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 21, 1975—After years of accumulating difficulties there are signs that the beleaguered electric utility companies may be about to enjoy better times. Confirming this is the action of the Dow Jones Utility Index which in June, after months of inactivity, advanced to the best level in some time. Although the average has pulled back some since then, the primary trend would still appear to be upward.

Runaway inflation really began to plague the power companies in 1974. As building costs skyrocketed, it became steadily more difficult to justify large new generating facilities. Hence, many such projects were either cut way back or canceled outright. Planners were especially prone to eliminate construction of nuclear plants because of their heavy cost and long lead time. And any borrowing that did take place for erecting new plants was negotiated at rates that were close to the prohibitive level.

Other Pressures
Along with the woes connected with financing, utilities were hit with steadily rising fuel costs. Prices for fuel were actually about tripled and in most cases there was no way the utilities could immediately pass these added costs through to their customers.

There emerged a tremendous hue and cry for energy conservation to cut back on the need to import foreign crude. This was largely successful since users of power did reduce their consumption and the oncoming recession lessened industrial power demand. After years of upsurging markets for kilowatts, usage actually declined. This, of course, had the effect of reducing utility revenue growth and earnings.

A Low Point

With revenues and earnings down and costs zooming, utility rate increase requests proliferated, to the consternation of the consumer. The bottom of this gloomy situation came when the largest investor-owned utility omitted a dividend payment, unheard of in the industry. Investor confidence and interest in utilities sagged, and bond and equity financing became even more difficult and expensive.

For the most part, utility rates are passed upon by state regulatory agencies. Some of these have seemed to be political in nature, leaning toward public interest rather than utility company interests. Agencies have been notoriously slow in approving rate applications. So in times of rampant inflation, the grant of a rate hike 18 months after application can be swallowed up by cost increases meanwhile.

More Optimism

But several facets of the utility industry have improved, bringing stock prices up and renewing investor interest in both the stocks and the bonds. Powerful industry criticism & federal pressure have finally caused state regulatory agencies to develop a more reasonable attitude toward rate setting. The result has been faster and more generous authorizations for higher rates.

Another plus in the utility scene is the apparent return to a positive growth pattern in electricity usage. While kilowatt output in the first four months of this year was only about 3% over the 1974 period, it is an encouraging signal of a move back toward the normal annual growth rate of about 7%. As a matter of fact, this should develop as the situation improves.

Upward Momentum

It would appear that the utility group may be getting some of its problems under control, especially rates. The utility regulatory commissions' more realistic view in dealing with rate hike requests means more reasonable returns for the utilities, plus the capability of providing adequate power—albeit at the expense of the consumer. We look for continued improvement in kilowatt output, revenues and earnings, as the economy shakes loose from the recessionary environment.

VACATION TIP

Will your vacation go to the dogs? Your vacation can be a lot less enjoyable if your dog goes into heat. Fortunately, you can prevent those dog days with a new heat control pill developed especially for dogs. It can make your dog more fun to take on vacation, and less trouble to leave behind. It's convenient, palatable, and easily administered either intact or crushed and mixed with dog food. These pills have been tested thoroughly in clinical research on thousands of dogs of various ages, weights and breeds, and shown to be both safe and effective.

Only available through your veterinarian, it's made by the Animal Health Division of Schering Corporation and called Ovaban.

It will enable your dog to take a vacation from heat, and so allow you to take a better vacation.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

I recently read that you sponsored legislation to lower Federal estate tax assessments on farm lands. What happens to this lower tax assessment after an heir dies?

The new family heirs or new owners can apply for the lower assessment as long as the property continued to be substantially devoted to farming.

woodland or scenic open spaces.

I understand that Maryland residents on military leave may hunt game without a license. Is this true?

Yes, you may hunt in Maryland during your leave without a license, provided that a copy of your official leave order is in your possession while hunting.

What reduced fee is charged senior citizens entering Maryland State Parks?

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources announce-

Decorated Eggs
Decorated eggs are fast becoming collectors' items and these dazzling eggs are no exception. Locate pictures of favorite flowers, butterflies, birds, enchanting little girls, and cut them out as you would for decoupage. Use cuticle scissors to carefully cut out each design.

You can find delightful subjects on gift wrap paper, cards or paper napkins. Glue the cutouts to a Styrofoam plastic egg. Then, spray the egg with glitter glue (formulated for plastic foam) and sprinkle with "diamond dust."

Decorate the top and bottom with pearls and pearl headed pins, and a bow of gold chatelaine cord. Small metal bases may be purchased to display your treasured egg collection.

Wedding Remembrance
Preserve a wedding announcement or invitation in this unique manner. Make a gift of the diamond dusted decoupage announcement to the bride.

When you receive the invitation, glue it onto a 9" x 12" book cut from plastic foam. Cut out pieces of trims, flowers, bells, ribbons, etc. — as you would for decoupage. These can be glued onto the book as decoration. Gift wrap wedding paper will give you an excellent choice of cutouts.

After gluing cutouts to book, spray glitter glue over entire book and sprinkle lightly with "diamond dust."

Projects such as these are found in a new book, "Foamcrafting with Styrofoam," at most craft and hobby stores.

ed earlier this year that citizens 65 and older will be eligible for free admittance to day-use facilities in the State Park system. Currently, 12 of our 35 State Parks charge a $1.50 admission fee including Cunningham Falls, Deep Creek Lake, Gunpowder, Herrington Manor, New Germany and Rocky Gap. Applications for a "Golden Age Pass" are available from the Department of Natural Resources, Taves Building, Annapolis or the Regional Service Center at Highfield Estates, Naves Crossroads, Cumberland.

I read with interest your proposal to establish nationwide physical fitness facilities for adults. By what standard would these facilities be built?

A non-profit Athletic Foundation would oversee all such questions and recommendations. It would, for instance, encourage such projects as the construction of athletic facilities built in accordance with Olympic standards.

What can be done to control our mushrooming Federal budget?

I believe the concept of fiscal discipline must regain a central position in the budget policy and the key to regaining this sense of discipline is in the Congress. Effective budget-making requires a policy for deciding not only whether each proposed outlay is worthwhile but whether it is worthwhile enough to be included within some predetermined spending limit. Congress must decide what total outlays will be and also accept responsibility for the individual expenditures which are the result of their individual program decisions. This is the non-existent element in our current process and as a result Congress tends to lean toward larger spending than the public really want or can afford.

BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Direct Deposit—New Social Security Bonus

By Willis W. Alexander
Executive Vice President
American Bankers Association

Help is on the way to some 30 million recipients of Social Security benefits.

Many recipients are plagued each month by thievery, extra trips to the bank, missed vacations and dependency on relatives or friends—all because their Social Security checks are mailed to their homes.

Beginning in August on the West Coast and spreading to the East Coast by October, recipients will have the option of having their benefit checks deposited directly in a savings or checking account at the financial institution of their choice. At first, the U.S. Treasury will simply mail the check directly to the designated account; but by the end of 1976, deposits will be transferred instantaneously via computerized tape messages through a national electronic network.

And the benefits will be many. The Treasury will save some $1 million each month in postage alone, banks will cut down on crowds in lobbies and demands on tellers' time, and for Social Security beneficiaries, there will be:

- Safety—no need to worry about lost, stolen or forged checks, because none will be written.
- Simplicity—no need to delay a trip or worry during illness. You won't have to be at home to receive your check each month because it will be automatically credited to your account.

- Convenience—no need to wait for possible delays in the mail when automatic electronic transfers begin. Your money will be deposited instantaneously, and you will have immediate access to it in your checking account.

To sign up for this voluntary free program, look for the availability announcement from the Social Security Administration which will be mailed with your check. Then go to your bank and pick up Government Form SF1199. Fill in the top half of the form with information from your monthly benefit check or initial awards letter from Social Security, and bank information from one of your personalized pre-printed checks or deposit slips. The bank will complete the bottom half and send one copy of the form to you and one to the Social Security Administration.

It's that simple. If you are a Social Security recipient, why not join the 107,000 direct deposit participants in Georgia and Florida (where pilot programs were conducted last spring) and make your life a little easier?

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT PLASTICS

HOW THEY HELP US • ENTERTAINING ODDITIES • A LOOK AHEAD

During the 30 years since World War II, plastics, and indeed all other synthetics derived from petrochemicals, have become tightly enmeshed in the life-style and the basic economy of our nation.

Through the years plastics, in many applications, have become increasingly important as the preferred material or at least as an attractive alternative to many traditional materials whose growing costs are a reflection of both their scarcity and, in many cases, their high energy consumption.

In fact, it is realistic to say that plastics are proving to be one of the scientists' best answers to the growing materials and energy shortages we face. With traditional resources dwindling, the role of plastics is bound to grow in importance.

As is the case with many basic materials in our economy, plastics have felt the squeeze of the resource and energy crunch. But unlike many other materials, plastics can be dealt a double blow by any tightening in the nation's energy supplies.

The availability of plastics is linked directly to the availability of petroleum and natural gas, from which the basic plastic feedstocks are derived.

Until government resource planners come to understand that the best resource value of petroleum is as a non-fuel resource, the future ability of the plastics industry to produce the growing volume of materials necessary to fill the nation's needs will remain in doubt.

Our Safety, Jobs, Prices
This doubt can affect our safety, jobs and the prices we must pay because it would be difficult to find a production facility, a machine, an appliance, an office building or a household that does not depend in some way on the use of plastics.

The efforts of the plastics industry provide us with sanitary food containers, piping, building materials, upholstery, furniture, electrical insulation, hundreds of different machine parts, and thousands of other essential and useful products.

For the military, plastics provide essential parts in high-speed aircraft and atomic submarines that defend us.

Plastics have made possible tremendous strides in medicine through the development of artificial heart valves and arteries, bone replacements, soft contact lenses, dentures and the protective enclosures for pacemakers. Scores of sick room disposables such as hypodermic syringes, blood and plasma bags, depend on plastic. Even the doctor's symbolic bag is likely to be made of plastic these days.

Plastic packaging has contributed to enhancing our food supply.

If plastics were to disappear overnight the effects on us would be staggering.

Even a 15 percent cutback in the supply of petrochemical feedstocks to the plastics industry would bring a layoff of 562,000 workers. And the changes in our way of life would be beyond conception.

Saving Our Energy
Plastics are relatively low energy consumers in production. Plastics' high utility to weight results in savings of time, money and energy in transportation. And plastics have proved to be inexpensive substitutes for many materials.

In many instances it takes far less processing energy to produce a plastic material than to recover an equivalent poundage of metal from ore. For example, it takes 3.44 kilowatt-hours to produce a pound of high density polyethylene as compared with a range of from 3.89 to 21.30 for other materials. And because of differences in density that pound of polyethylene can replace, for example, between two and five pounds of metal.

The ability of plastics to give us what we need at low cost brings us to the questions of energy and minerals policy and the need to decide on the proper use of our resources.

We need allocations providing a firm assurance of the petroleum supply that is necessary to meet our requirements for quality products at reasonable prices.

Allocations are not the final answer to the industry.

What we need is a priority status based on the national need for the products they produce. Without a priority status the nation's ability to make plans for future expansion is hamstrung.

There must be a realization soon that petroleum is most valuable as a non-fuel resource.

The Shah of Iran put it neatly when he noted that oil is too valuable to burn.

It was announced that Dave Simpson will call the members later in the month so they can help burn the junk piles behind the Ag Shop.

There are 16 beef, 3 sheep and 2 hogs to be sold at the Emmitsburg and Thurmont Community Show. Dave Simpson moved to buy a banner for the champion. It was seconded and passed.

The next meeting will be September 4 due to the Community Show. Since there was no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

When you're turned out to pasture, will it still be green?

Maybe your life's pretty good right now. But if you want to keep it that way, you've got to plan for it. And one way you can do just that is by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Then, when you're ready to stop working, you'll still be able to keep on living.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year).

Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
