Tells of Lusitania Horrors

Swam For Hours Around Spot Where Lusitania Disappeared and Was Finally Picked Up By a Torpedo Boat. Fires on Doomed Liner Made the Water Warm.

The fate of Elbert Hubbard and his wife, who perished when the Lusitania was sunk, was first made known by Robert C. Wright, a survivor. His version of the destruction of the big ship follows:

"I was standing on deck on the starboard side reading a novel when I heard a crash and an upheaval of water. Then an intense vibration shook the ship.

"Saying to myself, 'This isn't serious, but it is best to be prepared,' I started below to get a life belt. Then the thought came to me, 'This is serious and I became afraid to go. After than I had a resumption of confidence as the stewards went calmly about the deck shouting that there was no danger, but when the list continued until a boat nearby was not more than three feet from the water, though still fastened to the davits.

"People already had crowded the boat when suddenly the ship gave a tremendous lurch, and I was thrown into the boat. A woman in the water cried, 'Help me!' I reached out my hands to help her, and it suddenly seemed as if the end of the world had come. There was a crash, followed by an upheaval. My ears rang with the concussion. Then, after a seeming eternity, the boiling waters calmed, and the boat and all those in it had disappeared, and I was alone, swimming.

"My thoughts at that moment were: 'This is fine. I loved swimming as a boy, and the water is warm. I am enjoying myself.'

"I soon changed my mind. I wasn't enjoying myself. The water became cold, and I was afraid, but I swam to an overturned boat that I saw at a distance and clung to it for two hours. In the distance was a fishing boat. She tacked and tacked, but never came nearer. I knew that this was on account of the wind, but I was annoyed. Then a torpedo boat picked me up.

"There was no panic on the Lusitania, but a woeful lack of efficiency. The boats were not lowered properly. Some snapped the ropes and fell, overturned.

"I know that Elbert Hubbard was drowned. He was a conspicuous person on account of his long hair. I saw him and his wife start below, apparently for life belts, and never saw them again."

DENTAL NOTICE

I will locate permanently in Emmitsburg, Monday, May 31, for the purpose of practicing my profession. Very particular attention given to all branches of Dentistry. All the latest methods and appliances. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Dr. H. D. Orr

Moving Pictures To-Night

To-night at 8 o'clock there will be moving pictures in St. Euphemia's Hall.

The programme which promises to be very interesting will be as follows: "Cinderella" in three parts has most highly been praised by those who have seen it at the "Big" movie theatre's.

All music lover's love "Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata". Some may not know how it originated. This film gives the interesting explanation. The other two reels to be given will be the "Culture of Tea and Coffee."

As announced in these columns last week admission will be charged for this performance only. This is rendered necessary in order to make up a deficit occasioned, not by lack of patronage, but by lack of general contributions.

As this week marks the first anniversary of the present ownership of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, the owners and staff present this 1915 front page of The Weekly Chronicle to our faithful readers and advertisers.

Germans Buy U.S. Horses

HOW THEY SEND THEM HOME IS A DEEP MYSTERY TO DEALERS.

Lincoln, Neb.—Representatives of all the principal nations at war in Europe are combing the est for horses for the armies. Several of the horse buyers bear titles; the majority of them are men who have been at the head of great establishments in Belgium and France, which formerly supplied America with draft horse stallions. One who was recently in Lincoln was paid $2 a day and expenses for his work. Before the war he drew $10,000 a year as manager of a great breeding stable in Normandy.

How the few German buyers get their purchases through is a mystery, and they refuse to elucidate. They make it plain that that is their own business, and they keep on buying. Some of the largest dealers in this section have been asked to bid on a 25,000 head shipment for the German government payable by drafts on New York.

In the beginning speculators and business men jumped into their game, taking large contracts or subcontracts. The ruling prices for the grades desired were $150 and $175, subject to inspection, which was very rigid, and a large portion of each shipment was rejected. Rather than carry these back to the west the dealers sold them at the points of shipment for what they could get.

That there are horse traders in Europe and dealers with sharp eyes teeth was proved by the fact that a number of these rejected animals were shipped to Europe, the purchasers being government agents, who took this means of showing American dealers some tricks in horse buying, purchasing in the guise of contractors who desired the animals for the northwest.

The fact that the greater part of the supply in the west has already been purchased or is in the hands of speculators, holding for the raise they feel certain will come with a continuance of the war, has led to a letting down of the inspection bars. Hundreds of animals that formerly would have not received a second look are now going through. The stable boys say that the fat ones are given the preference.

White and gray horses are taboo because they are shining marks on the battlefield. The one thing the buyers are particular about is the wind. They require swift galloping for a block or two before the inspector decides.

Edison Receives Medal

Forum Decorates Him as American Who Has Done Most For Mankind.

New York.—Thomas A. Edison has been voted the American who has done most to benefit mankind and has received the Civic Forum medal of honor for distinguished public service.

This medal, established to give recognition on the part of the rank and file of the American people to that one of their countrymen who in ways of peace performs some signal public service, was awarded last year for the first time to Colonel George W. Goethals for his work at Panama.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, presided at the reception, and the speakers included Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph; Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company; Dr. Richard C. Maclaurin, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Charles A. Coffin, chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric Company. Percy Mackage read a poem written for the occasion.

WEAVER—GRUMBINE

Miss Byrdie M. Grumbine, daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Grumbine, of Frederick, and Mr. Ernest A. Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Weaver, formerly of Emmitsburg, were quietly married Sunday evening at the rectory of St. John's Catholic church, Frederick, by Rev. Fr. John Leo Collins. The bride is popular and attractive and the groom is a telephone inspector for the C. and P. Telephone Company, Frederick.

Blue Ridge League Opens

The opening of the newly formed Blue Ridge league took place on Thursday. In the three twons in which the opening games were played large crowds turned out. At Frederick, the locals beat Martinsburg 14 to 3; at Chambersburg, Hagerstown won, 3 to 1; and at Hanover, Gettysburg shut out their opponents, 5 to 0.

Finds Wife

Worcester (Mass.) Scientist Declares Unhappy Marriages Need Not Exist. Boston.—Incompatibility in marriage is soon to be a thing of the past, according to Dr. Max Baff, the Worcester scientist and former fellow in psychology at Clark university, who announces that he has discovered how to measure temperament.

With nothing more than a tape measure, he says it is possible to find one's affinity and be positively sure that one is marrying the right man or woman.

Dr. Baff has had under observation Massachusetts' best known bachelor, Governor David I. Walsh. He recently announced the kind of a wife the governor should find in order to be assured of perfect happiness. Here are the specifications, the result of scientific observance:

She must be from five feet three inches to five feet six inches tall. She must weigh from 141 to 146 pounds.

She must be tactful.

She must be cheerful at all times, especially before breakfast.

She must be sympathetic.

She must be ambitious.

She must be able to sing.

It is essential that she have a mezzo-soprano voice.

Name Not Newlywed

However, He Wouldn't Fire at Burglar Lest Baby Be Waked.

Scottsdale, Pa.—Rather than waken the baby by firing his revolver, Frank Weiss, a tailor, sat on stairway in his home and watched a burglar ransack the dining room. The intruder's movements were plainly visible through a transom.

When the gurglar found a pocketbook in a drawer and transferred its contents to his pockets Weiss' grip on the revolver tightened, but his wife tugged at his sleeve and whispered to him not to shoot.

Mrs. Weiss, after four hours' ordeal with a fretful baby, had succeeded in getting it to sleep when the gurglar came.

Can Now Eat

Drank Lye When a Baby— Unable to Eat For Sixteen Years.

Miss Katherine Besse, eighteen years old, ate the first breakfast, luncheon and dinner she ever ate in her life a few days ago. For sixteen years she had not tasted completely food of any description. The channel of her throat, the esophagus, was in position, but was entirely useless until Dr. Francis W. Kirsch performed an operation known as gastrostomy and brought her back to normal.

When she was two years old Miss Besse, who is the daughter of the widow of a grocer, drank a solution of lye while her mother was busy at her housework.

The lye burned away the membranes of the child's mouth and the lining of her esophagus and caused this channel from her mouth to her stomach to become strictured and to close tightly.

A physician who was called to attend her said she would die unless her esophagus was cut loose from her stomach and a new one made from parts of the stomach fashioned into a tube and sewed to the surface of her breast.

Her parents refused to permit the physician to cut away the deadened esophagus but granted him permission to bring the lining of the stomach to the surface of her body and make an opening near the solar plexus, through which liquid food might be given her.

Dr. Kirsch became interested in the case. He began a gentle probing with a slender pliable steel rod, which he forced down her esophagus. One after another the closed places in the old tissue were forced open and broken apart. As they were broken they were left attached to the inside of the new tissue that gradually had grown around the unused tube.

Nature then began its process of absorption until the new throat was clear of any stricture. Then the surgeon placed the patient under an anaesthetic and swiftly cut away the stitches that held the lining of the stomach to the old opening in the breast, sewed this together and dropped it in place, sewed together the muscles that had been severed sixteen years ago, cut away the abnormal tissues that had grown around the wound, stitched the severed skin together and when Miss Besse awoke from the ether told her she had become normal again.

Lost Memory and Enlisted

Fracture of Jaw in Ball Game Brought Bailey to Himself.

Toronto, Ont.—Purley Douglas Bailey, son of Professor George Bailey of Cazenovia, N.Y., who while suffering from lapse of memory enlisted in the Royal Canadian dragoons here on March 11 last under another name, has recovered his memory. He walked into police headquarters and was so affected by what he heard of the efforts made to find him that he had to be sent to the hospital barracks.

Bailey, who is a graduate of Syracuse university, received a shock from lightning and fell forty feet while engaged in tree surgery in Denver. He disappeared while on his way to see a Syracuse physician. Partial recovery of his memory is believed to have resulted from the shock of a fractured jaw received in a baseball game at the barracks several weeks ago. He has no recollection of having enlisted and it is said will be discharged.

Caught Violating Dry Law

The first arrests since Carroll County went dry were made on Sunday, when Stat's Attorney Weant, accompanied by three officers and a justice of the peace, stopped the Westminster and Reisterstown bus on the outskirts of the city and captured four men and several suit cases full of beer and whiskey that had been purchased at Reisterstown.

They were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Brown on Monday and each fined $50 and costs. Three paid their fines and the fourth went to jail for 60 days.

Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Well, folks, look what's taking the place of the regular front page!

Everyone figured what with this edition of the Emmitsburg Chronicle having its first birthday under the new owners, it would be sorta fun to do some items from a 1915 Weekly Chronicle. The more we thought about it, the more we wanted to do...so here we are. We did an entire front page complete with news from that era. If you notice, the back page has advertisements from that period.

When we read this sort of news now, it seems pretty funny, but I can assure you that it was not funny at the time. (You realize that I was not even born yet) People took their small town newspaper quite seriously. The personals were included simply because the staff thought you would like to read about your relatives, and see what they were doing at that time.

This is a birthday gift from us, to you, all our faithful readers.

And I want to add my congratulations to the owners of the Chronicle, who have worked so hard to make this possible for us to enjoy.

There sure has been some frost on the old pumpkin lately. This has been the coldest winter in recorded times, and if you stick your nose out the door, you can sure believe that!

I noticed that several water pipes have broken around town, and that the town crew has been kept pretty busy making repairs.

Drifting snow hasn't helped the situation much. I keep remembering way back in the late 50's, we had such high drifts. I have enough trouble getting my old Model 'T' started, let alone fight the drifting snow. I just stay around town. I think that's the safest thing for me to do.

Don't you forget to take care of your cars. Car's get cold too, you know. I remember way back when, when the family car was put up on blocks. Stayed that way till spring thaw.

Don't forget to bring in all your pets. Too cold for them outside!

Noticed an item in last Sunday's Baltimore Sun: Of all the inaugural balls, the most elaborate was that of Martin Van Buren, who succeeded Jackson.

To obtain the best music available "the excellent Baltimore Band" was secured, and special music for the occasion was composed by Professor Henry Dielman of Mount Saint Mary's College; one of the most eminent American musicians of his time.

FCU Reviews

Frederick Congregations United Executive Committee met recently to review accomplishments in 1975 and make plans for the coming year. Officers elected were, The Rev. Richard Batzler, President; Darl Hinkle, Vice President; Lynn Campopiano, Secretary; and the Rev. Barbara Mehl, Secretary.

It was announced the Rev. Jack Clough had resigned as Executive Director of FCU but that the office would still be maintained at 4 E. Church Street. Twenty-two Congregations are members of FCU. An effort will be made to get other congregations to join FCU in its ecumenical witness. Church members will be urged to encourage

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Danner, Jr., 122 East Main St., Emmitsburg, Md. announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Ann to Thomas L. Topper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Topper, 320 East Main St., Emmitsburg.

Miss Danner is a 1973 graduate of St. Joseph's High School, and will be a 1977 graduate of Mt. St. Mary's college.

Her fiancé is a 1970 graduate of St. Joseph's High School and a 1974 graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College. He owns and operates Topper Insurance Agency in Emmitsburg.

A fall wedding is planned.

Mt. St. Mary's News

Mount Saint Mary's College is keeping an eye out for the consumer.

A course entitled, "Consumer Law," practical guide to matters of direct concern to all consumers — the purchase of a home, buying real estate, settling an estate, drawing up a will, translating the "fine print" — is but one of ten course offerings available through the Mount's 1977 Evening Division, scheduled to begin January 31.

In addition to the consumer course, the evening curriculum includes selections in English, logic, Philosophy, political science, sociology, theology and two courses in communications arts.

In communications arts, participants in one area will be instructed to effectively critique news presentations of television, radio, newspapers and magazines. The second course will deal with a film study of cinematic comedy.

ning selections carry three hours of academic credit and will be offered from 6:30 p.m. — 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, from January 31 through May 6. Tuition is $50 per credit hour.

Registrations are being taken anytime during the college's day hours. Additional information and registration materials can be obtained by calling Mount Saint Mary's at 447-6122, ext. 215.

their congregations to join with other churches in the county in our common mission.

The Emergency Fuel Fund and Flood Relief were two of the major accomplishments of the member churches during 1976. In 1977 there will be a constitutional revision so that all congregations will feel welcome. Some churches have witheld membership because of theological differences. The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity will be observed Jan. 18-25. The Rev. Fred Stiegemeier is chairman for this observance. FCU looks forward to a year of growth and service by the congregations united to serve the county.

Upstairs at the White House
by J.B. West

Reviewed by Shirley F. Topper

J.B. West, Chief Usher of the White House (1941-1969), reveals a strong sense of history in his fascinating account of life with the six First Ladies he served. Never stooping to the "backstairs" level of trivial gossip, his candid portraits are preented with fairness, dignity, humor and warmth. From his uniquely privileged vantage point, he brings into view a significant insight and understanding of life in the White House.

Mr. West was reported to be a man of remarkable dimensions, obviously one in the right job at the right time in the right place. Each occupant of the White House became indebted to him for many and varied reasons. All of them must have come to feel toward him as Jacqueline Kennedy did when she asked him, shortly before her departure, "Mr. West, will you be my friend for life?"

His last appearance at the White House was when he returned as a guest of the Nixons. As he went through the receiving line, President Nixon said to him, "Mr. West, after all you've done for this house, you're welcome here any time." — Topping off his years of service, he has now brought that house more vividly and clearly into focus for his fellow Americans.

Catoctin Mountain Park is sponsoring an amateur Photo Contest, beginning immediately, with the final entries accepted on October 30, 1977. Photographs will be judged in five categories with the entrant selecting his own category. The categories are: Scenic, Plant Life, Animal Life, People, and Structures. A special children's photography category for entrants age 12 and under will also be judged with a prize awarded to the best entry, regardless of subject and medium. The contest is being held to promote interest in Catoctin Mountain Park and the surrounding areas. As a result, entries should be of subjects found within a six-mile radius of the Visitor Center of Catoctin Mountain Park, and should reflect the life styles and environments of the mountain. Color or black and white prints of a minimum 5"x7/4, suitably mounted on matte board will be accepted as well as 2"x2" mounted color slides. Each entry must be accompanied by a 3"x5" index card listing the entrant's name, address and phone number; the subject, category and location of the photo; and the camera, film, lens, and settings (if known) used to take the photograph. No more than three entries will be accepted in any category from the same entrant. Please do not submit material which has been published or submitted elsewhere for consideration. Entries may be mailed to: Catoctin Mountain Park, Thurmont, Maryland 21788; or delivered in person to the Visitor Center on Route 77 just west of Thurmont, during business hours. Entries will not be accepted after October 31, 1977.

A detailed list of the contest rules is available at the Visitor Center of Catoctin Mountain Park or by addressing a postcard to Catoctin Mountain Park, Thurmont, Maryland 21788.

Beck Reports

Delegate Raymond E. Beck (R. Carroll-Frederick Counties) today said he was greatly pleased that the General Assembly overrode the Governor's veto of his bill (HB 764) to require the construction of truck weighing stations on Maryland's major arteries. Beck said that "as it stands now, Maryland has no weighing stations on major roads. Therefore, overloaded trucks are able to travel through Maryland on interstate highways without paying fines. The only risk these trucking violators run is the small one of getting caught by one of the state's portable weighing stations." He pointed out that if the General Assembly had upheld the Governor's veto, Maryland would stand to lose $3 million in annual revenue from fines collected by weighing stations on just two major interstate roads, I-70 and I-95. He also noted that federal funds are available for the construction of these stations. Delegrte Beck explained that the Governor's veto was based on a study compiled by the State Department of Transportation which indicated that arrests per vehicle at fixed stations have fallen off and are, in fact, considerably less than those made per vehicle checked on interstate roads by portable weighing stations.

Challenges Chamber Of Commerce

Norman Graham, President of Carroll County Commissioners challenged the Taneytown Chamber of Commerce to be part of the decision-making process of the county's Master Growth Plan. Because of Carroll County's rapid growth, the present growth plans are obsolete. It is imperative that these growth plans be revised and updated within the next six months to meet the county's growth pattern. The ideas and desires of the Taneytown Chamber of Commerce are invited to be submitted to the commissioners for consideration.

Commissioner John Joy is upset with the growth of Carroll County's government. County government must expand to meet the demands of its citizens. In 1960, there were 73 county employees serving a population of 53,000; by 1975, that population had increased to 80,000 but it took 210 county employees to provide services. The county commissioners recently moved into their new facilities built to accommodate the county's needs for the coming 10 years, but this new county office complex is already overcrowded with a sizeable addition being planned for the old county office building.

Commissioner Roger Mann's concern lies with the landfills which urgently need to be enlarged, and the county's dog population. The county has transferred its dog department to the Humane Society with the hopes that the Society operate it more efficiently than the county was able to. The Humane Society's budget for this operation is $60,000 annually to handle 25,000 dogs. Commissioner Mann therefore, urged everyone to please buy your dogs tags.

Commissioner Graham remarked that the county is in its fourth year of the Resident Trooper Program. This program, in Graham's opinion, has afforded Carroll County the best police protection in the state for the dollars spent. The program consists of 45 regular troopers, 21 resident troopers, and 21 sheriff's policemen, with a private investigator and K-9 troopers being added in the near future to the staff on a county level.

expressed his dismay concerning an elected school board in lieu of an appointed school board, because of the power an elected school board exerts over county funds.

The January dinner meeting of the Taneytown Chamber of Commerce was held at Leonard's Restaurant on Monday, the 17th, with 35 members present. Newly-elected President, Eric E. Glass, conducted the meeting. The invocation was offered by Merwyn Fuss; Frank Dunham introduced the county commissioners. After the commissioner's remarks, an extensive question and answer discussion took place. Mayor Neal Powell commented that this has been the most cooperative group of county commissioners to work with individual municipalities in the history of Carroll County.

GI Bill Training Deadlines

GI Bill training will decline slightly during fiscal year 1977, the Veterans Administration forecasts, but enrollment is expected to remain above the two million mark for the fourth consecutive year.

According to VA Regional Director Mr. John W. Rue, 1.2 million students were using their GI Bill entitlement during October on a nationwide basis down slightly from the last year at the same time, but cumulative enrollment for the year is expected to again exceed two million.

The decline in October is attributed, primarily, to the expiration of entitlement for those veterans who were discharged from service more than 10 years ago, Mr. Rue explained. Another factor, he said, is that millions of veterans have used their full educational entitlement under the law or they have completed their educational objective.

More than 6.7 million persons have trained under the current GI Bill since it became available in 1966. Enrollment peaked last year with a record 2.8 million trainees, up 4.8 percent from fiscal year 1975.

Still eligible for educational assistance are veterans with other than dishonorable discharges who have been separated less than 10 years and persons who remain on active duty.

Legislation enacted in October denies entitlement under the current law to those who enter military service after Dec. 31, 1976, and sets Dec. 31, 1989, as the date by which all GI bill training will terminate. For thousands of GI Bill students many of whom have already earned college degrees, the new law provides an additional nine months training entitlement. For those veterans who have not passed the 10-year delimiting date, the law extends entitlement from 36 to 45 months.

Those entering service after Dec. 31, 1976, will be encouraged to enroll in a voluntary contributory educational assistance program administered jointly by the Department of Defense and the Veterans Administration.

The program offers 36 months educational assistance entitlement with a 10-year time limit. Participants may allocate $50 to $75 monthly from their salaries in 12-month segments, up to a maximum of $2,700.

When the participant leaves service the contributions will be matched by the VA at the rate of $2 for every $1 allocated. Payments will be limited to the number of months the member contributed or 36 months, whichever is less.

Courses Offered

"The growing number of community service agencies provide help to all age groups, but generally people are fearful of asking for help," says Dr. Franklin Ashburn, associate professor of sociology at Western Maryland College.

Ashburn's course, "Sociology of the Community," is one of several graduate classes which begin on Wednesday, February 9 at Frederick High School.

"People are afraid of the costs of these services, the amount of 'red tape' they may run into when they apply, or that the services offered are a part of a welfare program," says Ashburn. "There is a real problem in identifying community agencies and what services they perform. This course will familiarize students with the helping capabilities of such agencies as the local county health department, the youth services bureau, and others."

Also offered at Western Maryland College's Graduate Center in Frederick are "Introduction to Language and Communication," "Group Dynamics," and "Psychology of Personality." The courses are open to M.L.A. and M.Ed. degree candidates.

Western Maryland's M.L.A. program involves graduate students in a variety of academic disciplines. Courses for the required 30 semester hours are divided in the areas of cultural heritage, contemporary society, and creative process.

The M.Ed. degree is earned in one of nine specialized areas: administration, education of the deaf, guidance, mathematics, media, physical education, reading, secondary education, and special education.

Information on the two degree programs and the courses being offered is available from the Director of the Graduate Program, 848-7000, ext. 233 or 307.

Urge Personnel to Stop Smoking

A growing number of the country's corporations have become convinced that it's good business if their employees stop smoking cigarettes.

But it must be done on a voluntary basis, notes Mr. Don Brown, Director of SmokEnders Baltimore Chapter.

Industrial giants like AT&T, Allied Chemical, American Can, General Electric and General Motors have found that smoking affects absenteeism, productivity, employee turnover and operating costs. Encouraging employees to attend SmokEnders smoking-cessation programs in company buildings is now a widespread business practice because it generally leads to bigger profits, according to Mr. Brown.

Official statistics reveal that heavy smokers annually spend 33 percent less time at their jobs than non-smokers, and are hospitalized 1 1/2 times more often. The mortality rate for men aged 45 to 54 is three times higher than among non-smokers of the same age group, and two times higher among women.

SmokEnders, which will conduct a series of nine-week seminars in the Westminster area, starting in mid-January, pioneered in mass smoke-cessation education.

A recent scientific evaluation of its effectiveness disclosed that 70 percent of men and women addicted to cigarettes successfully stopped smoking after participating in the program. Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, whose study is published in the Journal of Clinical Psychology (vol. 3, 1976), commented: "The SmokEnders program obviously does a lot of good for those who join."

Mr. Brown explained the success of SmokEnders as due to its structured program stressing a smoker's dignity and comfort. The "cold turkey" method of quitting is avoided, as are drugs, hypnosis and health fears.

"What distinguishes our technique," he said, "is that it is a learning experience. Through behavior modification, smokers are taught a personal technology that makes it possible to stop smoking gradually and easily, and in the process to get rid of guilt feelings and acquire a healthy sense of achievement.

"There is no preaching, moralizing, shouting, nor any attempt to frighten by showing films of diseased lungs. Instead of pain, the program offers encouragement, instruction and positive reinforcement," Mr. Brown said.

Approximately 100,000 persons of all ages have joined the program in the eight years since its inception. It was conceived by Dr. Jon and Jacquelyn Rogers, who are regarded today as the foremost authorities in the field.

Smoking is not only permitted but encouraged during the first four weeks of the nine-week course. The cut-off date for smoking is the fifth week, although participants are required to attend the final four weeks for "supportive" purposes.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:

I am very concerned about the letter from the Emmitsburg Senior League in last week's paper.

As you know, our paper is staffed by two people who work very hard in editing our paper each week. Unfortunately time and economics does not allow us to have roving reporters.

ALL articles submitted to the Emmitsburg Chronicle are published.

Mr. Harris is one of many unpaid news contributors to the Chronicle. These hard working people are determined to make this paper successful and serve the community as it should.

We must have input from our local organizations so we may keep our community informed. The paper needs your support to continue!

If you do not contribute -- do not criticize!

Very truly yours,
Eric E. Glass

1952. During this same period, he also maintained a private law practice and from 1952 until 1966, he served as an attorney-advisor for the Real Estate Division of the U S Army Corps of Engineers, Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, D.C. He served in other offices including Wichita, Kansas and Baltimore, Md.

Mr. McGucken was a member of the American Legion and an active member of St. Michael's Catholic Church in Annandale where a Requiem Mass was offered on January 13 at 10 a.m. Interment was in Emmitsburg, Md.

Surviving are his wife, Josephine McGucken, three sons; John Thomas, Kensington, Md., William and Joseph at home in Alexandria, five daughters; Mary, at home, Mrs. Cecelia Sullivan, Trenton, N.J., Mrs. Patricia Herbersburger, Harrisburg, Penna., Mrs. Theresa Barchok, Clinton, Md., and Mrs. Brigid McGucken deFernandez, Valencia, Spain. He is also survived by three brothers, three sisters, and seven grandchildren.

Editor:

I just read the letter to the Chronicle from the Emmitsburg Senior League. I cannot understand this letter. They say, "We were informed that should we wish the Chronicle to print any news concerning our teams activities, that we must deliver our articles in person."

If this is so, were the articles delivered and if so, were the articles printed?

I think Mr. Harris' sports spot deserves alot of credit. He has taken alot of his time to write alot of articles that his kids were involved. It seems to me out of 48 boys and 96 parents at least one person would have been p roud enough to write articles about the League.

I get tired of hearing people like you complain about the Chronicle. I have been called several times by the editor pleading for news articles, and everytime we submitted articles they were printed in full. We couldn't ask for anything more.

I have had nothing but cooperation from the Chronicle people, and I feel the complaints from the Emmitsburg Senior League were very unjust.

Name Withheld by request

Dear Editor,

Once upon a time there was a newspaper called "The Emmitsburg Chronicle." It began in 1879 and lived a good life bringing all the local news to the people, until at the age of 96 in September of 1975 it gasped and lost it's heartbeat for 3 long months. It was missed terribly. Everyone gave it up for dead.

Everyone except a small group of very concerned citizens. They wanted the town of Emmitsburg to have its newspaper, so they gallantly applied themselves to the task of bringing the Chronicle back to a vigorous life. They succeeded. The townspeople were delighted. People gathered on the street at 19 E. Main that Jan 16, 1976 anxiously awaiting the arrival of the "new" Emmitsburg Chronicle from the printer's.

It was a beautiful paper. Congratulations came pouring in for the new editor. Marvelous, everyone cried!

And then they all went home. Each week thereafter the editor searched out the news, dreamed up feature articles of local interest, edited, typed, proofread, did the paste-up, took pictures, answered the phone, talked to people dropping by the office, covered town meetings, took care of all subscription carding, handled the post office red tape, ran to and from the printer's, ordered all supplies, took care of the newstands in 9 stores - all with only one part-time helper.

Meanwhile as weeks and months went by, there was a low mumbling from the people, then it became a loud grumble. "The paper doesn't have enough local news". They complained, "Where is the local sports news? What's happening in the schools these days? How come we don't know what all the different organizations are doing for this or that? Why so few features on local personalities? Who went where and did what? Did anything exciting happen in town this week? Why isn't it in the Chronicle?"

Poor editor, she worked so hard. She has such enthusiasm. She wanted the Emmitsburg Chronicle to be the best paper in Frederick and Adams County. She put her heart and soul into it.

But it needed more than that. It needed the people of Emmitsburg. All of them - individuals, organizations and businesses! Why?

Because the people are the life blood of a small town paper. Without this life blood (called personal interest), the paper would die. It had almost happened before. It could possible happen again.

You see, it's impossible for the editor and her one part-time helper to be everywhere and know everything. They depend on the people to bring in the news to print for everyone to read. The Chronicle must have a steady diet of news and features of local interest or it will die of malnutrition.

As I said, the source of this life blood is you the people. So please, let's all work together to keep the Chronicle well fed, so it may live happily everafter.

Sincerely,

Mary Agnes Walter

P.S. Congratulations to the editor and that "small group of very concerned citizens" for one full year of good work.

Northeast Farm Prices Mixed

Northeast farm market prices continued to follow mixed trends for the week of January 7, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Livestock and meat prices were both up and down on various items. Poultry and produce were generally higher, while egg prices were down sharply. Milk production continued to show slight increases in the Southern portions of the region, while holding relatively steady in the North.

Eastern milk production levels were up slightly in most quarters with the more Northern areas relatively unchanged. Fluid supplies ranged from excessive to burdensome for a slightly improved Class I demand. Surplus diversions to manufacturing operations were generally excessive and mechanical breakdowns forced additional transfers of Class II milk. Some excess loads were cleared to Midwestern plants. Interest in spot sales of Class I milk continued light despite the increased call for bottled milk for school milk programs.

Condensed skim sales were occasionally improved to good levels.

Cottage cheese and yogurt movement was seasonally fair to good.

Fluid cream supplies were excessive of a slow buying interest.

Clearances of excess cream to the churns were very heavy in most instances.

The call from the ice cream trade was slow to slightly improved as many plants were on normal production schedules after the holiday period.

Northeastern area fruit and vegetable trading ranged from moderate to fairly active during the week ending Jan. 7.

The demand for potatoes was good and prices were higher. New York Onions were in moderate demand at higher prices. Cabbage from Upstate New York met with very good demand and prices were higher. New York apples were in moderate demand at unchanged prices.

The egg demand was only fair early in the period and buyers were cautious. Local shortages occurred later in the week especially on carton eggs. Retail promotions on large stimulated demand in some quarters and for a period, closed steadier with an improved demand.

New York broiler-fryer tracklot trading was active as retail features at 35 to 39 cents stimulated demand. Offerings were short with the weather compounding delivery problems at the end of the week. The undertone was firm.

On the Delmarva Peninsula, broiler-fryer movement was very good with orders going unfilled in any instances. Slaughter schedules were heavy as plants attempted to catch up for loss production earlier in the week. Heavy snow was affecting delivery from most plants. Live supplies were ample at mostly heavy weights.

Northeastern livestock and meat prices were generally mixed this past week. At Lancaster, Vintage and New Holland, Pa. auctions and fifteen upstate New York auctions, slaughter steers old steady to 50 cents higher, utility cows were 50 cents to $1.50 lower, choice vealers ranged from $1 to $3 higher in Pennsylvania and $2 to $3.50 lower in New York State, and High Standard to Good Grade vealers were $1 to $3 higher. Slaughter barrows and gilts sold $1 to $1.75 higher in Pennsylvania. At Omaha, slaughter steers closed steady to $1 higher, with barrows and gilts ranging from 25 to 50 cents higher.

Grain Inspecting/Weighing Fee's Rise

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced fees for federal grain inspection and weighing services and for federal supervision of non-federal agencies authorized to officially inspect or weigh U.S. grain.

The fees are mandated by the U.S. Grain Standards Act of 1976, which went into effect Nov. 20. The legislation requires USDA's Federal Grain Inspection Service to recover through fees all inspection, weighing, and supervisory costs incurred by the Service outside Washington, D.C. Officials estimate fees will account for roughly 80 percent of the Inspection Service's projected first year operating budget of $54 million. Of that amount, $49.8 million is for direct inspection and weighing, while the remainder is for supervision of non-federal agencies.

To recover the cost of providing federal inspection and weighing, Inspection Service officials announced that:

On Jan. 1, 1977, fees will be established for original inspection, re-inspection, original weighing, and appeal weighing by Inspection Service personnel at 33 field offices around the nation.

16, current fees for federal appeal inspections both in the field and at the Inspection

Service's Board of Appeals and Review in Washington, D.C. will be revised to reflect the cost of providing service.

On the same day, new fees will be set for official inspection and weighing by Inspection Service representatives at Canadian export elevators from which U.S. grain is transshipped overseas.

In all, about 250 individual charges are being established for the various federal inspection and weighing services. Each individual charge was derived from a basic fee of $16 an hour regular time and $20 an hour overtime. If a firm or individual agrees to contract for federal inspection or weighing services on a continuous basis, the basic fee is reduced to $14 an hour regular time and $18 an hour overtime.

Wheat Harvest Down

Maryland farmers planted a total of 140 thousand acres of winter wheat in the fall of 1976 for harvest in 1977, 7 percent less than last year. Farmers in the state planted 170 thousand acres of winter wheat in 1975.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's December Winter Wheat Seeding Report, Maryland's winter wheat production for this year is forecast at 4,200 thousand bushels, Francis E. Lookingbill said. This compares with 5,244 thousand bushels in 1976 and 5,304 thousand bushels in 1975.

The Nation's winter wheat seedings for 1977 totaled 55.8 million acres, 3 percent less than last year, and 1 percent less than in 1975. Based on crop conditions in December, production of the U.S. winter wheat crop for this year is forecast at 1,438 million bushels, 8 percent below the 1976 crop.

According to the USDA report, seedbed preparation for the crop was slowed over much of the United States as farmers waited for rains to provide needed soil moisture. Some farmers began seeding in late August hoping the needed rains would come. "Nationwide, the winter wheat crop was in only fair condition during early December," the report said.

Begins Serving Term

James Austin Fraley Jr., president of Fraley Packing Co., Thurmont, will begin serving an eight-month federal penitentiary term Jan. 19 for selling unwholesome meat, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced.

Mr. Fraley who previously operated two retail meat outlets here, was originally convicted Dec. 2, 1975 on 44 charges of illegal transportation of meat across state lines, selling decomposed meats that had been washed and reconditioned and operating an unsanitary plant after it had been suspended. He was sentenced to two to six years in jail, but the sentence was reduced during the appeals procedure.

Prices Unchanged

The incentive price of 72 cents a pound for marketings of shorn wool and a support of 80.2 cents a pound for mohair will continue unchanged from 1975 and 1976 levels, Francis E. Lookingbill, State Executive Director, of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said.

Lookingbill said he received word from Washington, D.C., that these prices are in accordance with the National Wool Act, as amended, by the Agricultural Act of 1970 and the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973. The amended National Wool Act requires that support shall be at the above levels for each of the marketing years beginning Jan. 1, 1971 and ending Dec. 31, 1977.

"Pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the incentive price for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs," Lookingbill said.

He said that as in past years, shorn wool payments will be based on a percentage of each producer's returns from sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the National average price received by all producers from shorn wool up to the announced incentive price of 72 cents a pound.

Mohair payments will be calculated in a manner similar to wool.

Present market conditions indicate that payments may be required on 1976 marketings of shorn wool. Mohair prices, however, will likely remain above the support level.

Applicants for all ASCS programs will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

We are all aware of the tremendous success and popularity female jockeys are enjoying throughout the nation. Here at the Charles Town Races we can boast about one of our own area girls.

At the end of 1976, after only two short years of racing experience, eighteen year old Jenny Lynn Hykes of nearby Leitersburg, Maryland earned the title of the nation's leading female rider as tabulated by the Daily Racing Form.

Last year Jenny was at the reins of 148 winners out of 1,364 mounts, an impressive record. Jenny, who started riding when she was sixteen, ranked 9th among the nation's apprentice riders last year. She posted 141 of her victories here at the Charles Town Races.

No-Fault Divorce: A Myth

A plethora of current book titles and popular magazine articles on the virtues of a liberating and creative marital dissolution could lead one to believe that divorce is a relatively easy route to freedom, fun, opportunities and, yes, even romance. Not so, according to psychologist E. Mavis Hetherington and her colleagues, Martha Cox and Roger Cox, of the University of Virginia. During a two-year, longitudinal study of the impact of divorce on family (including the often ignored husband-father) functioning and interactions, Hetherington's research team did not find one victimless divorce. In a paper presented at the annual convention of the American Psychological Association, the researchers reported that in the 48 afflicted families studied, they found that "at least one family member reported distress or exhibited disrupted behavior, particularly during the first year following divorce."

Hetherington's research project on divorce is somewhat unique in that the entire family system was examined using a "multimethod, multimeasure approach to the investigation of family interaction." To date, most research on divorce has focused on divorced mothers and children and has employed a descriptive approach by comparing the characteristics of divorcees and their children to those of mothers and children in intact homes. Dr. Hetherington's findings explode the myth that divorce readily leads to the joys and delights of self discovery and singlehood. Instead, the psychologist found that the rehabilitation process for all family members is long, stressful, and traumatic. The divorced parents experienced their first stresses in areas related to financial and occupational problems in addition to vexations in running a household. Divorced fathers and mothers were found to be more disorganized than married individuals. In separated households, meals and bedtimes are more erratic. Divorced men and women reported "feeling immobilized by emotional problems and unable to work effectively." While more than a fourth of the divorced men and women reported an ebullient sense of freedom immediately after the divorce, at the end of one year this enthusiasm had been replaced by depression, anxiety, and feelings of incompetency in social situations and heterosexual relations. Hetherington's adult subjects emphasized their loneliness and expressed a need for intimate, not casual, relationships.

The children of divorce exhibit more negative behavior than do children of intact families, which the University of Virginia researchers do not solely attribute to the deteriorated parenting practices of the distraught parents. Although custody of all the children studied had been awarded to the mother, the researchers found that both parents made "fewer maturity demands of their children, communicated less well, tended to be less affectionate, and showed marked inconsistency in discipline and lack of control over their children in comparison to parents in intact families."

Divorced mothers are more restrictive and negative, particularly with their sons. This curious finding may help explain why the adverse effects of divorce are more severe and long lasting for boys than for girls. Divorced fathers, who do not have custody of the children, are initially extremely permissive and indulgent—exhibiting the well-known "Christmas Every Day" behavior. With time, these fathers become less nurturant and more negative and detached from their children. Children of divorce tend to disobey or largely ignore their mothers during the first year after divorce. The aggression of boys with divorced mothers peaks at one year but, even at two years, remains higher than that of boys in intact families.

The investigators found that the second year after divorce is a time of marked recovery for parents and children in almost all areas. Unfortunately, most couples, when initiating a divorce, are not prepared for the long and extremely painful course to recovery and family rehabilitation.

Hetherington emphasizes that although in some cases

Booklet Available

A recent graduate of the U.S. Department of Archives Institute for Genealogical Research, has put together a Family History "Starter Kit" for persons interested in delving into their own family's history. Phaon Sundiata of Annapolis, Maryland who put together this Kit originally for Afro-Americans found, as a result of appearing on several TV programs, that the response from European-Americans (or white Americans) was as great as that from black Americans. Because of this turn of events, Mr. Sundiata developed a "Starter Kit" for European-Americans also. It was necessary to compose two different Kits because of the difference in research techniques that must be used when searching for family documents recorded on a governmental level prior to the year 1865.

Mr. Sundiata who, himself, is researching the "Barksdale" line of his family's ancestry has found that the original Barksdales who settled in Virginia were from England and that in addition to being a prominent land and slave-owning clan they also enjoyed a reputation as being a charitable and energetic folk. "...worthy of the trust of the people." Sundiata's great-grandfather worked on the plantation of William Peter Barksdale of Halifax County, Va., and it is this family's records that must be sought next.

Any Americans interested in tracing their family's history may receive some helpful hints by writing Mr. Sundiata at Eastport P.O. Box 3063, Annapolis, Md. 21403.

Older home know-how

More people today are looking for an older home when they buy a house. Not only have building costs soared but older homes often have more charm, are better built, and are in established neighborhoods with services and facilities.

However, buying an older home can be risky if you don't know what you're doing.

There is a book called Finding and Fixing the Older Home which can help you avoid the pitfalls in buying an older home. It describes how to judge house values, appraise house construction, and spot trouble areas that might need expensive repairs — it even tells you how to deal with financing.

There are complete details on repairs and remodeling once the purchase is made. All instructions are so basic and specific that you can tell whether you can tackle the job personally or will need a contractor.

All areas of the home are covered with particular attention to remodeling kitchens and bathrooms and installing appliances. Recommendations on the best materials for each job are given and there is a list of manufacturers to help locate what is needed.

Finding and Fixing the Older Home could save a lot of time, money, and headaches if you're in the market for an older home.

Centuries ago ancient Polynesians sailed thousands of miles across the Pacific in huge double-hulled sailing canoes. Theirs were incredible feats of navigation, for these early navigators sailed, not by instruments, but by the stars, ocean swells, and currents. Aboard they carried dried food, live plants, and animals. One by one they settled the far-flung islands of the Pacific and finally,

Hawaii.

Now adventurous Hawaiians have created a dramatic reproduction of the boyaging canoe of their ancestors and have sailed her 3000 miles across open ocean from Hawaii to Tahiti. She is called Hokule'a. ## Mount Defeats Mason

Mount St. Mary's dominated the boards in the second half to overcome a 36-29 halftime deficit and defeat George Mason 72-55 Thursday night.

The win boosts the Mounties' record to 5-6 overall.

Mt. St. Mary's utilizes excellent board play in the second half to chop away at the George Mason lead. With 15 minutes to go in the game, Mark Dwight dunked the ball through the hoop to give the Mt. a lead they would never relinquish.

Seton Shrine to Close

The Shrine of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton will close for two weeks from January 17 through the 31st and be reopened to the public Tuesday, February 1. The daily mass at 1:30 p.m. in the Chapel of St. Elizabeth Ann and weekend novena services are also suspended during the two-week vacation period.

Staffed and operated by the Daughters of Charity of the Emmitsburg Province, the Seton Shrine includes the Chapel of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton, the historic buildings associated with the life of Elizabeth Seton and her founding band of Sisters, and the Shrine Center. Since the canonization, the Shrine has been visited by over 200,000 visitors and tourists from all parts of the world.

Mt. St. Mary's continued to build its lead throughout the remainder of the second half, but tempers began to flare during the closing minutes of the game.

Finally, with 37 seconds to go in the game, tempers could be held no longer. A fight erupted between some of the players on the floor and both benches emptied.

The officials decided to terminate the game since it was obvious Mt. St. Mary's was going to win.

Dwight led all scorers with 19 points while Perry Wentzel had 16. Chris Sheridan and Jay Gallagher each had 10 points to round out the double figure men for the Mount.

Kenny Kellstrom had 18 points to lead George Mason while Mike Warren bagged 12 and Gary Reedy 10.

The Mount shot 56 per cent from the floor and had 45 rebounds. Mike Pearson had 13 caroms for Mount St. Mary's.

By Dave Harris

For you faint-hearted SJHS basketball fans who are disconsolate over the Trojan's losing ways, consider the Mifflinburg, Pa. high school basketball team. They lost 88 straight games going back to 1972 before finally winning a game last week, and guess what? 400 fans were there rooting for them when they won. Stick with your team, kids — they need your support.

In response to the Letter to the Editor from the Emmitsburg Senior League, consider the following:

1. I am not the Sports Editor of the Chronicle. I simply contribute a sports article on a fairly regular basis.

2. If the officers of the Babe Ruth League would refer back to the Chronicle issue of July 8, 1976, they'd read the following from my column: "Haven't made it to any Babe Ruth League games yet, but if anyone would like to keep me up-to-date on what's happening, I'd be glad to cover the action in this column."

3. I have repeatedly implored the various leagues and schools to submit sports reports directly to the Chronicle (or to me if they wish to have coverage in Sports Spot). Please also remember that the Chronicle is not the Washington Post. They simply can't afford a paid sports staff. You people out there participating in the various sports programs be it to the players to report the results, standings, etc.

4. Lastly, I'm convinced that the crux of the problem is a misunderstanding about the Chronicle sports department. There isn't any, nor is there a Sports Editor. I'm certain, however, that they'd welcome a Sports Editor who wished to contribute his or her energies on a gratis basis.

Boo of the weed! MSM's Public Relations staff for not providing their sports releases to their hometown paper, the Chronicle.

Sports Quiz Answer — The MSM track star who won the 1975 College Division Decathlon was Barry Stebbins.

Mount Wins 108-88

Mount Saint Mary's College ended a four game losing streak with a 108-88 win over a strong Glassboro State team. The win gave the Mounties a split and the third place trophy in the Widener tournament.

The Profs entered the tourney with a 6-1 record; the lone loss being a one pointer at Drexel. In the opening round the Mount suffered a convincing defeat (42-59) at the hands of the highly rated host school, Widner College;

Glassboro State lost a hard fought battle to the Cheyney State wolves. Cheyney rallied from a 5 point deficit in the second half to gain a 90-80 victory.

The Mountie-Glassboro game was a nip and tuck affair for the first half with

St. Joe's Defeated

St. James brook away from St. Joe's with five straight points in the final two minutes of the first period and went on to rout the Trojans 69-41, here Wednesday afternoon.

Playing deliverately for the first six minutes of the game, St. Joe's was able to stay tied with the Blue Ridge league leaders at 6-6. But the visitors scored the final five points of the first quarter and outscored the Trojans 19-6 in the second frame to establish a comfortable 30-12 margin by halftime.

St. James increased the lead to 51-17 after three quarters before the second unit played much of the final quarter when St. Joe's outscored the Hagerstown area team 24-18.

Mark Ewing led the winners with 13 points while Don Anderson added 12.

Greg Adelsberger paced St. Joe's with 20 points, ten coming in the final quarter against the Saints' second unit.

The loss dropped the Trojans to 3-9 overall and 2-2 in the Blue Ridge league while St. James stays unbeaten at 4-0 in conference play.

St. James outrebounded the home team, 50-17 and shot 50 per cent from the floor to 30 per cent for St. Joe's.

St. James also won the junior varsity game, 36-21.

Mark Dwight's 21 points leading the Mount to a 45-42 half time lead. In the second half everyone caught fire. The team scored a near record 63 points to pull away to an easy victory. Captain Perry Wentzel hit a career high of 26 points, (ss in the 2nd half) as did Mike Pearson with 22. Chris Sheridan dominated the boards and Jay Gallagher chipped in with 12 points and some excellent ball handling against the Glassboro press. These outstanding efforts supported a "truly magnificent" effort by sophomore Mark Dwight. Mark put on the finest performance of the tournament with a 32 point, 12 rebound game.

Rheumatism!

How is rheumatism recognized? Some have said—

Rheumatism is a dull pain.

Rheumatism is a sharp pain.

Rheumatism is sore muscles.

Rheumatism is stiff joints.

Rheumatism is a shifting pain.

All have declared—Rheumatism is pain.

Yes, I Stopped Over At Marville

The dearest burg I struck in my territory. Been dry for a couple of years. And the hotel!—the worst I ever came across. A glass of beer with your meals? Holy horrors!—the natives don't know what a glass of beer is.

"Can't I get a drink in this village?" I asked the hotel clerk. "Front!" A bellhop came up. "Put this gentleman's hat in the cloak room." The boy grinned. I followed him. He winked at the check boy, who opened up a suit-case labeled "A. Jones." From this he took a bottle of fusel oil. I plunked down a dollar, sipped the drink and shuddered, and pocketed my half dollar change.

That's the dry town's notion of temperance and abiding by the law. That's how prohibition prohibits. How different the next town where you can get beer at a well-run beer saloon, and the natives, knowing moderation means temperance, are sober and industrious.
